

Feel the Way You Feel, My Love Chapter 1349

Natalie looked at it quizzically.

Indeed, the business card showed that Justin was the CEO of Sutter Group.

There was even a contact number printed on it.

“Sutter Group?” Natalie pursed her lips.

“I’ve never heard of it before.”

“It’s just a small company that had just gone public recently. Since the headquarters is in Avenport, I guess it’s only normal that you haven’t heard of it, Mrs. Thompson.” Justin smiled and added, “If you’re still doubting me, perhaps you should call Mr. Shane to verify it.”

Upon hearing that, Natalie stood up and said, “Since you’ve said so, then I-I shall give him a call. You don’t mind, right? After all, I have to be sure for Joyce’s sake.”

“Oh, no. Please go ahead.”

Justin gestured for her to make the call.

Natalie whipped out her phone to ring Shane.

At that moment, Shane was arranging his files in his office.

When he heard his phone ringing, he put his pen aside and glanced at his phone. He then softened his gaze when he saw Natalie calling him.

Upon picking up the phone, he uttered, “Hello!”

“Darling, I’d like to ask you something.” Shane raised his brows.

“Go ahead.”

“Do you know Justin Sutter?” Natalie asked while looking at the man before her.

Shane immediately frowned when he heard that.

“Justin Sutter?”

“Yes.” Natalie nodded.

Shane pursed his lips, and he seemed unhappy.

With a hint of jealousy in his voice, he asked, "Why are you asking about him? How would you know him?"

Although he knew Natalie wasn't one to mess around with other men, he was still rather uncomfortable with her asking him about another man. Natalie couldn't help but roll her eyes because she noticed the jealousy in his tone.

"Hey, don't get jealous over nothing, okay? I don't know him. It's just that he's now in Joyce's house. He said he was Joyce's childhood sweetheart, and he adores her. He also said he'd come to Baycoast to look for Joyce. I'm just worried if he's a bad guy, and he has ulterior motives. That's why I've called you to verify his identity. Is he the CEO of Sutter Group, which had just gone public in Avenport?"

"Oh, I see."

Shane nodded before replying, "He's indeed the CEO of Sutter Group in Avenport. Sutter Group is involved in light industries, and it has only gone public a few months ago. The company is currently dealing with one of the subsidiaries of Thompson Group. Recently, they've supplied the subsidiary company with machinery."

"Okay. Got it." Natalie nodded.

"Anything else?"

Natalie glanced at Justin before saying, "That's all. But I'd like to know if you find it weird that Justin has come to look for Joyce all of a sudden. Do you think he has any ulterior motives?"

Shane toyed with his pen and pondered for a while before replying, "I'm not sure. However, I don't think he needs to do so. Justin is an influential man himself, and his family is even more prominent than Joyce's. By right, he has nothing to gain by approaching Joyce. Of course, there's an exception to everything, right? I know you're worried about Joyce, so you want to make sure of everything. However, you can't always stay by her side and protect her, can you? Hence, regardless of whether he has ulterior motives, I don't think there's a way for you to find out. All you can do is remind Joyce to be vigilant."

Natalie nodded in agreement.

Shane added, "In any case, you're just Joyce's friend. You're not her mother. Instead of wanting to do everything for her, it's good enough of you to remind her of it. If it turns out Justin doesn't have ill intentions toward her, you'd end up souring their relationship. You'll surely be blamed by then. Hence, apart from reminding her to be careful, you ought to leave everything else to her. She's an adult, so I think she's more than capable of watching out for herself. What do you think?"

Natalie rubbed her nose.

"You're right, and I get it now. I'm just too worried about Joyce because she'd gone through so much in her relationship with Stanley. I want her to only be happy from now on, and I don't want her to get hurt again. That's why I'm being so cautious. I've forgotten that I might end up messing things up by overthinking."

"Yes, that's the mindset."

Shane nodded in delight before asking, "By the way, when are you coming back? Your son and daughter miss you."

"Oh?"

Natalie smiled contemptuously.

"Connor and Sharon are the only ones missing me, is it? Don't you miss me?"

"Of course, I do!" Shane raised his chin.

In response, Natalie smiled and uttered, "I thought you'd say otherwise. All right. I'll head back tomorrow."

"Okay. I'll fetch you from the airport tomorrow"

Shane was over the moon when he heard Natalie was heading back the next day. Natalie nodded.

"Okay. I'll give you a call before I board the plane tomorrow. I'll hang up now"

After hanging up, Natalie glanced at Justin.

"I'm sorry to have doubted your identity, Mr. Sutter. I've already asked my husband, and you're indeed the CEO of Sutter Group in Avenport"

"It's all right, Mrs. Thompson. It's good that the misunderstanding has been resolved. Do you trust me now when I say I don't have any ulterior motives for approaching Joyce?"

Justin placed his hands under his chin and smiled.

Natalie shook her head in response.

“No. I still don’t trust you, but I’ll try to believe that you’re truly fond of Joyce, and that’s why you’re after her instead of other motives. Hence, don’t disappoint me, Mr. Sutter. Also, don’t break Joyce’s heart. She’d been through enough.”

Upon hearing that, Justin stopped smiling and answered with a stern expression, “Don’t worry,

Mrs. Thompson. I won’t disappoint you.”

“That’s good, then.” Natalie smiled.

“If you’re really in love with Joyce, I’ll still look the other way, even if you have ulterior motives toward her. However, if I find out that you’re not in love with her, and you’re just taking advantage of her, I’ll certainly come for you.” Natalie narrowed her eyes and warned him.

Justin then smiled and nodded.

“Okay! You’d have to scrutinize me, Mrs. Thompson.”

Natalie scoffed and answered, “Don’t worry. I’ll do exactly that. Hence, don’t let me find dirt on you.”

Justin smiled and answered, “Of course.”

Right then, Joyce was walking out of the room after getting changed. She was puzzled when she sensed the awkward vibe between Natalie and Justin.

“Nat, Justin, what were you guys talking about?”

“It’s nothing. Mr. Sutter and I were just talking about work.” Natalie smiled and took a sip of water.

Justin nodded in agreement.

Joyce was not convinced.

She looked at Natalie and Justin before questioning, “You guys were talking about work? One of you is a designer, while the other is a CEO of a company involved in the light industry. What could you two possibly have in common? How were you guys talking about work?”

"Why not? Since Mr.Sutter is involved in the light industry, he can help us build new machines for our business!"

Natalie lowered her gaze to hide her guilt.

Justin smiled and chimed in, "That's right, Joyce."

Upon seeing how earnestly they were acting, Joyce shrugged and uttered, "Okay, then.So, Nat, are you going to collaborate with Justin?"

"Perhaps, Natalie blurted and tried to change the topic.

"Let's leave it at that, Joyce.Come here and sit."

She patted the seat next to herself.

Joyce sat down next to Justin.

Natalie then stood up and said, "Oh! Something has slipped my mind.Joyce, wait here, okay? I need to make a phone call.I'll come back and chat with you after that."

With that, Natalie walked toward the balcony with her phone.

Joyce couldn't help but tilt her head in bewilderment.

"That's weird.Why do I feel like Nat is acting strange? She's not acting like herself.I feel like she's avoiding something."
