

Feel the Way You Feel, My Love Chapter 1394

I still love him but not as willful or as adamant as I used to be.

A thought crossed Joyce's mind as she watched Shane and his two kids pick up Natalie.

Maybe having a man that loves me isn't all that bad.

Maybe I can try dating Justin and try to fall in love with him. Will we be as happy as Nat and Shane? Joyce rubbed her belly absentmindedly at her thoughts.

Meanwhile, Shane drove Natalie to a private hospital. Shane was the investor in the hospital.

He did invest in medical institutions before, but they were all under the name of the Baker family.

Jackson was his friend, so he never invested in other medical institutions other than the ones owned by the Baker family.

However, ever since his fallout with Jackson.

Shane began to survey other medical institutions.

The private hospital they arrived at was one of the medical institutions he invested in after the fallout with the Baker family.

To give his wife and kids the best treatment available, he became the largest shareholder of the private hospital. His youngest son, Anders was inside.

After parking the car at the hospital's parking lot, Natalie realized something.

As soon as she got out of the car, her gaze was glued to the hospital's sign.

After a long while, she finally grabbed Shane's arm and asked, "Darling, is Anders inside?"

Her heart was pounding, and her voice was shaky with nervousness.

Shane muttered, "Yeah."

Tears began streaming down her face from the overwhelming feelings she felt.

“Anders is back!”

“Yes, Anders is back, Shane parroted.

In actuality, Anders could've been transferred earlier but was delayed as Shane and Natalie had to rush to Baycoast for Joyce.

Shane and Natalie didn't want Anders to return without being able to see his daddy and mommy and with no one to welcome him.

Even though Anders might be oblivious to everything that happened, they as parents couldn't just ignore it.

That was why Anders' return was delayed.

Natalie and Shane didn't discuss how long the delay was. She didn't expect Shane to surprise her and arranged for Anders to be sent home.

At that thought, Natalie's fingers tightened on the procedure paper and turned to Shane with overwhelming agitation.

“Darling, when did you...”

Knowing what she wanted to ask, Shane wrapped his arms lightly around her and answered, “Yesterday. I arranged for Anders' transfer yesterday morning, and he arrived at four in the evening today.

Once he arrived, he was immediately brought here. He can't leave the incubator at the moment.”

“I see.” Natalie nodded.

He arranged for Anders to be sent back yesterday, and Anders arrived today. He hid it well from me.

Catching the look in her eyes, Shane gently wiped away her tears and explained, “I'm sorry. I wanted to give you a surprise.”

“It's indeed a surprise.”

Natalie laughed with tears on her lashes.

“Anders coming home is the happiest moment in my entire life. Thank you,

Darling”

She buried her face in his chest and circled her arms tightly around his waist. Shane returned the embrace and stroked her hair gently, comforting her.

“You don’t have to thank me. Anders is also my child. I’m doing what a parent should do”

Sharon and Connor heard their conversation and understood everything.

Sharon whispered, “Connor, did Daddy and Mommy say Anders is back?” Connor nodded with a wide smile.

“Yes, Anders is back. He’s inside.”

Shane told them he wanted to bring them somewhere to give them and Natalie a surprise when he picked them up from the kickboxing gym.

Connor had guessed it was related to Anders then. The only thing that can surprise Mommy is Anders.

Feel the Way You Feel, My Love Chapter 1395

“That’s great!”

Sharon clapped her hand and jumped with joy at Connor’s answer.

“Anders is back! I can finally see him.”

“Yeah” Connor replied.

Shane and Natalie released each other after hearing the kids’ exchange.

Natalie lifted her head from Shane’s chest and looked up at him.

“Darling, let’s go in. I want to see Anders too.”

From the moment Anders was born till now, she had only seen him once. She had to hurry back to the country to search for Shane after that and didn’t get to see Anders face-to-face anymore. She could only watch video clips of him.

However, seeing Anders on video clips was different as seeing him face-to-face. I just want to see Anders as soon as possible. He's my youngest son I feel bad for.

"Let's go."

Shane reached for her hand and nodded, leading her toward the hospital doors.

Sharon and Connor trailed after them hand-in-hand.

Soon, the quartet saw a doctor approaching them.

Natalie had seen the doctor before and was familiar with him. He was the gynecology doctor in charge of the prenatal checkups that Shane arranged for her.

After she delivered Anders, the doctor became Anders' attending doctor and continued to care for Anders.

The good doctor was also the one who sent all the video clips of Anders to them previously.

The doctor bowed at Natalie and Shane and greeted the two, "Mr. and Mrs. Thompson."

"Dr. Holden, where's my son? Where is he?"

Natalie immediately released Shane's hand and grabbed the doctor's arm.

Shane went up to them.

"Please bring us to Anders first"

"Will do."

Dr. Holden nodded.

Natalie released her grip from his arm. He turned on his heel and led the way.

Shane reached for Natalie's hand again.

"Calm down. We'll see Anders soon. Come on"

Natalie pursed her lips and muttered, "Okay."

How can I calm down? That is my son we're speaking of.

The quartet followed Dr. Holden down a few corridors, turned a few corners, and finally arrived in front of a nursery.

The nursery was new.

Shane specifically built it for Anders, so Anders was the only baby in it.

In the middle of the nursery lay an incubator with a baby. He was none other than Anders.

Over seven months old, Anders no longer looked as tiny and red as a bald kitten when he was newly born.

The redness was gone from him now.

Other than the slight greenish tint on his skin, he looked no different from other babies.

His frame was much bigger than when he was a newborn.

However, he was still smaller than a full-term baby.

However, Anders was only seven months old, so he still had room to grow. He would grow even bigger two months later.

Maybe not as big as an average healthy baby, but he wouldn't be too far off either.

"Anders."

The second Natalie saw the baby, she had her fists pressed against the glass and her gaze trained on the baby in the incubator, unwilling to miss even a second.

That is my son. My youngest baby.

Perhaps it was the blood tie between mother and son, Natalie was certain the baby in the incubator was Anders.

"Anders."

Sharon pressed onto the glass like Natalie and stared at the baby in the incubator. Her adorable face lighted up with joy.

"Connor, look. It's Anders."

Similar to Natalie, even though it was Sharon's first time seeing Anders after the separation, she was sure the baby was her brother, the beloved baby of the house.

Connor nodded his head fervently as he looked at the baby.

"I know that's Anders, our baby brother. He grew so much."

“Connor, why is Anders still sleeping in the box? When will he come out?”

Sharon turned to look at Connor.

“I want to touch him”

“Um...”

The usually smart Connor didn’t have an answer.

Shane shifted his gaze from Anders to Dr.Holden and asked the question not only the kids were wondering, but the question Natalie desperately wanted to know the answer to.

“When will my son get to come out of the incubator?”

Dr.Holden adjusted his glasses and answered, “Anders is only seven months old.Even though his condition can’t be compared to the average newborn, proper treatment has strengthened his immune system.He will be incubator-free when he’s nine months old”

“Nine-month-old...”

Shane pressed his lips into a line.

“Yes.” Dr.Holden nodded.

Sharon started counting on her fingers but couldn’t get the number of days in a month.

Feeling frustrated, she asked, “Connor, how long is a month that Daddy said?”

“Around thirty to forty days” Connor responded.

Sharon puckered her lips.

“That’s so long.”

“We don’t have a choice.Anders’ body is not well, so he has to stay that long”

Connor said as he glanced at the baby in the incubator with worry and heartache in his eyes.

Shane bent down and ruffled the kids' heads.

"Connor, Sharon, you are aware Anders' body is weaker because he came to this world when it wasn't time yet. Anders will have a relatively weaker body for the rest of his life, so you need to take good care of him."

"Okay," Sharon nodded.

"I will, Daddy. I have a healthy body, so I'll protect Anders and won't let any harm get to him, just like how Connor protects me"

She clenched her little balls of fists with fierce determination.

Connor patted his chest and promised, "Don't worry, Daddy. I'm the older brother. I will take care of both Anders and Sharon."

He was smart and had already started tertiary education. I know Anders won't be able to play like other kids his entire life. He might not be able to play the sports he loves.

All he can do is take good care of himself.

Otherwise, he'll get sick and leave us. That means Anders won't be able to work.

So he had lost his right to succeed the Thompson Group from the start. He's fated to live his life on medication and be a carefree man.

So as his older brother, I have to treat him better to make up for what he had lost.

"You're both so good."

Shane ruffled their heads as gratification filled him.

Shane straightened himself and looked at Natalie with gentleness in his eyes.

Seeing she was still looking through the glass window at Anders, he approached her.

"Do you want to go in?"

"Can I?"

Natalie's eyes brightened at the offer.

Shane cast a glance at Dr.Holden.

Dr.Holden nodded.

“You can.Anders isn’t as weak as his newly-born state.If Mr.and Mrs.Thompson like to see him up close, you may enter, but limit it to five minutes.After all, his immune system is still too weak,”

“It’s fine.Five minutes is more than I can ever wish for.”

Natalie sucked in a breath and said gladly.Five minutes is better than nothing.I have to be grateful for the chance.I can look at him up close for as long as I like after he leaves the hospital.

“Please come this way to change into sterile suits.”

Dr.Holden gestured for them to follow him and proceeded to lead the way.

Shane and Natalie held the children’s hands and trailed after the doctor.

After a bout of disinfection and changing into sterile suits, they made their way into the nursery.

Seeing Anders so close to her, Natalie let go of Shane’s grip and rushed over to the incubator, finally getting a closer look at Anders sleeping in the incubator.

She said with a trembling voice, “Anders, it’s Mommy...”

Anders’ eyes were closed, and his tiny fists were relaxed and placed on the sides of his head.His tiny legs were curved, forming a loop at the tip of his toes.He looked extremely adorable, and Natalie’s heart melted instantly.

Shane stood by Natalie’s side and looked down at his youngest son.

A gentle smile tugged at the corners of his lips.
