

Feel the Way You Feel, My Love

Chapter 539

Shane was wondering why David left a will that would effectively bring Sean down. But after making the will, David asked his assistant to leave a message for Shane. He asked Shane not to look for the will if Sean didn't endanger the Thompson family and Thompson Group, hoping that Shane would give Sean a chance if at all possible.

Previously, Shane was still considering whether he ought to heed David's advice. In fact, he was ready to let Sean off the hook because the latter hadn't done anything detrimental to the Thompson family and Thompson Group. However, since he found out that Sam nearly made him barren, he decided against letting them go.

He was determined to get rid of anyone who was related to Sean once he obtained the will.

As Shane squinted, a menacing glint flashed across his eyes.

Following that, he stood up to leave the study and walked toward the bedroom.

He saw Natalie sitting on the bed with a blanket draped over her, and she was drawing something on a sketchpad with a pencil.

The moment she heard the door creak open, Natalie stopped drawing. When she turned around and saw Shane, she said smilingly, "You're back."

It was a simple greeting, yet Shane felt a lot better upon hearing it.

He murmured a response, looking more relaxed. Then, he came up to her and asked, "Why haven't you slept?"

"I was waiting for you." Natalie closed the sketchpad and continued, "Have you finished your discussion with Dr. Baker?"

"Yes!" Shane lifted his hand and was ready to take off his necktie.

Right then, Natalie put down her sketchpad and lifted the blanket. She then went up to him and suggested, "Allow me."

Gently, she pulled his hand away from the necktie.

As Natalie kneeled before him, Shane lowered his head to gaze at her but didn't utter a word. Suddenly, a cunning thought seemed to flash through his mind.

Meanwhile, Natalie said when she was focusing on taking off the necktie, "The way you yanked the necktie just now was an insult to costume designers. For us, every product is like our child. So, we can't stand it when our customers handle their clothes so roughly. Alright, it's done."

After putting the necktie on the bed, she clapped her hands and wanted to tuck herself in bed.

All of a sudden, Shane grabbed her hand. His Adam's apple bobbed as he said in a slightly croaky voice, "It's not done yet. Go on."

"Go on?" Natalie looked at him bewilderedly. "It's What do you mean? I've already taken off your necktie."

"You have to take off my clothes too." Shane stared into her eyes.

The moment Natalie understood it, her eyes widened while her face flushed. "Why must I take those off for you?"

"I want to change into my pajamas. Taking off the necktie alone is not enough, right?" Shane asked with a grin on his face.

Upon hearing it, her face reddened even more. "Take them off yourself!"

"Since you took on this job of your own accord, you've to finish it." Shane's lips quirked playfully.

"I..." Natalie was rendered speechless.

Well, he's not entirely wrong. After all, I was the one who took the initiative to take off his necktie for him.

However, I didn't expect him to trick me!

Natalie covered her face helplessly. Then, as though she submitted to fate, she placed her hands on his shirt and began to undress him.

When her fingers inevitably touched his chest, it felt a little itchy, as though a feather was stroking it. He couldn't help but think that she was seducing him, though that was not her intention at all.

The next moment, he squinted and pinned her onto the bed.

In a daze, Natalie stared at him. "What are you doing?"

However, Shane didn't reply but kissed her directly.

Natalie rolled her eyes, for she realized what he intended to do with her next. But in the end, she succumbed and wrapped her hands around his neck before she kissed him back.

As if he was encouraged, Shane began to kiss her even more passionately.