

G.H Hooked 917

Chapter 917

Ken wiped his face frantically.

"I'm fine.It doesn't hurt."

"Bring me a first aid kit.I'll put some medicine on it for you."

Ken did not deny Olivia's request.He went to the cabinet, took out the first aid kit, and brought it to her.novelebook Then, he sat by her bed.

"Where did they go?"

This time, Ken did not want to hide things from Olivia any longer.He was straightforward.

"To the ER to tend to their wounds.I didn't want you to overthink.It's all fine, everyone ironed out their differences."

Olivia was a little speechless.

"Two thirty- year-old men that are being so childish right now."

"What do you think about Xavier Hemsworth?" Olivia paused.She shook her head.

"I don't know, he saved me, and helped me, but I don't know what he wants to do." Then, she mocked herself and smiled.

"I still know my place.I wouldn't think that he would like me, a woman with children."

Lucas gave Olivia a glance and pursed his lips.

"Do you feel like he seems like he's constantly provoking the relationship between John and Zac?" Olivia paused for a while.

"He is?"

"Yes, he's constantly comparing John and Zac just now. I think you should be careful with him."

Olivia placed a bandaid on Lucas and nodded.

"Okay. I will."

Looking at how calm Olivia is, Lucas thought for a while and continued, "The reason Zac isn't here is that he didn't dare to meet you. He said that he can't bring himself to face you. Are you really not planning to forgive him?"

Olivia was silent for a while before she sighed.

"I don't know."

Then, she turned to look out the window.

"Ken, I think the person I'm loathing is myself, not him. He only did that four years ago to save me, right? But he shouldn't have hidden it from me. If not, Sam would not have had four years of pain and suffering."

Olivia felt guilty about Jess and her two children.

Ken tapped Olivia's shoulder and said, "Liv, you really love to give yourself additional emotional stress.no.vele.book You're no longer as carefree as before."

The past...

Olivia smiled and shook her head.

"Ken, we can never go back to the past, can we? Now that I have people to avenge, and now that I'm carrying so much hard work of so many people on my back, how can I ever live as if I don't care about anything?" Ken knew that what he said was in vain, so he sighed and changed the topic.

"Oh, right, I already handed the person that tried to kidnap you over to the police.Don't worry."

"Who is it?" Ken paused.

"It's Ms.Watson."

"Ms.Watson?"

Olivia frowned as she pondered, "Why did she want to kidnap me?"

"She thinks that you were the reason I fired her, so she hated you.Then, she bumped into Dorothy Ellis and got used by her."

Dorothy Ellis...Olivia was not even a tad bit surprised after hearing that name.

She scoffed coldly, "Hah, anything that has got to do with Dorothy Ellis I'd think it's reasonable."

"Liv, even though I handed her to the police, it would be hard to penalize Dorothy since this was all a one-sided story by Ms.Watson."

"That's expected. I brought evidence with me four years ago, but Dorothy Ellis could still be released safe and sound. Don't forget the person behind her."

That invincible person would definitely confirm Dorothy's safety, causing Ms.

Watson's testament to probably not have any effect caused.

Maybe, the most that she could do was to cause Dorothy to be called into the station to record a statement.

When she thought about this, Olivia's eyes darkened.

Legal, proper ways had no use if she desired revenge.

"John had not found out who invested in the Jamesons four years ago?"

"He did, but that was just a temporary company that was canceled after it did that investment. No clues were found."

"What about the witness?"

"Hah, our opponent is the kind that will plan ten steps ahead while our witness is a mere human with a clean background and had absolutely nothing to do with this."

After hearing this, Olivia smirked.

"Did John never look at his own enemies?"
