

GOODNIGHT, MR. CEO!

Chapter 6: Heaven and Hell

Lei Xiao propped his hands on the door panel and held her fair wrist in his palm.

The disparity in strength between a man and woman was apparent at that moment.

Lin Hanxing harrumphed depressingly. Both of them were only one fist apart. She could even see his rolling Adam's apple as she raised her head.

"No." Lin Hanxing frowned when she heard that curt reply.

She understood with hindsight that he was responding to her question.

'Could that be why Mr. Lei used a sedative incense on me?'

"You can't possibly have fallen in love with me, right?" Lin Hanxing asked sarcastically. She was very aware that he was rubbing the veins on her wrist with the thin calluses of his fingertips.

They looked at each other in the eyes. His deep, hawk-like eyes glanced nonchalantly at her hair.

Lin Hanxing became alert as she noticed the man's gaze.

Alas, he was one step faster than her, and she could not even see his movements clearly.

Her ear-length wig fell on the ground, revealing her long, black curly hair like a waterfall.

Anger surged in her. Lin Hanxing lifted her knee without a second thought, intending to hit the man's crotch.

Lei Xiao caught her knee with one hand as his tall figure leaned over her, displaying his worm-like flexibility. That action...

.....

Her work uniform's pencil skirt was tight and the edges rolled up...

"Feeling uncomfortable?" His low magnetic voice rang in her ear.

'He's doing this on purpose!'

Fire seemed to surge from the depths of Lin Hanxing's clear eyes. He leaned into her ear on purpose just to say that.

Indeed, Lei Xiao's actions were deliberate. His thin lips cracked open as heat brushed past her ears.

His big, calloused palm caressed her smooth skin...

The rough and calloused hands gave her a strange shiver down her spine.

Lin Hanxing intuitively raised her head and avoided the man's breath.

She did not notice the whirlwind stirring in his eyes when he looked at her fair neck.

"Get out!" warned Lin Hanxing stiffly.

Lei Xiao responded with a sullen smirk and pressed his hand hard against her waist.

Her petite figure fell into the man's arm. His other hand had reached her other side the moment they hit each other.

"I can take you..." A joking tone could be detected from his low voice as he said the last three words with infinite charm.

Lin Hanxing's fair complexion blushed pink!

"Then I have no choice but to send you to hell, Mr. Lei!"

As Lin Hanxing said that, a sharp object was held up against Lei Xiao's neck carotid artery. She moved it across his neck lightly, drawing a line of blood.

At the same time, something was holding her down.

Lin Hanxing only realized what it was after some time!

"You..."

Before she could even finish her sentence, Lei Xiao lifted the corners of his lips into a charming smile.

With a loud bang, something seemed to have exploded outside in mid-air as red light illuminated the high seas!

Was it a flare?

Lin Hanxing was stunned. Her split second hesitation allowed the dagger in her hand to fall into the man's grip.

"Next time, don't lose focus when you're facing an enemy." His smile disappeared as he effortlessly twirled the dagger around at his fingertips and returned it to Lin Hanxing's palm.

So much had happened in front of Lin Hanxing within a few seconds...

The desperado who had yet to be exiled from the cruise...

The bodyguards who were asked to leave...

The flare outside that illuminated the sky...

Was this a game he had set up?

"You—"

Before she could even speak, a bullet pierced the air with a bang!

