

Wife 22

Chapter 22

Justin heard that his grandmother was heading over. At first, he wanted to hang out in Yohan’s office and have some water, but that news prompted him to jump right up. He turned to his brother and said, “So Yohan, I’m just going to head out and work on my stuff now.”

“I should go back to my office to work as well.”

Chuck was just as eager to flee the area. He was terrified that Bonnie would see him there and try to get him to go on blind dates again.

He and Yohan were buddies for years. When Yohan turned 26, Bonnie began passive–aggressively trying to set Yohan up. She had set up blind dates for Yohan to meet with almost every socialite in the city.

Her efforts became even more aggressive when Yohan turned 30.

For years, Chuck witnessed how stubborn and scheming Bonnie could be when it came to getting her grandchildren to settle down. What he saw traumatized him.

That was why it was only natural that he tried to get as far away as possible when he heard about Bonnie’s arrival. www.NovEllaRm.Com

In a blink of an eye, both Justin and Chuck were gone.

Yohan was the only one left in the enormous office.

He didn’t respond to Adam’s report. He simply hung up the call solemnly. Www.NoëlORM.Com

Chuck and Justin ran into Bonnie at the elevator.

A receptionist from the front desk was there with Bonnie. Despite being healthy and well–maintained, someone always escorted her to ensure she wouldn’t have an accident in the elevator. After all, she was an elderly woman. Moreover, Bonnie was the treasure and the Morris family’s greatest weapon.

‘Grandma.’

‘Mrs. Morris Senior,’

The two men who wanted to avoid Bonnie happened to run right into her. Given the circumstances, they had no choice but to force a smile on their faces and greet Bonnie.

Bonnie nodded in response to their greetings.

*Justin, is Yohan in his office?”

Justin immediately replied, “Yes. We just had a meeting together. He’s inside his office now.”

When Adam heard Bonnie’s voice, he made his way over. Www.NoELWor@.Com

That prompted Bonnie to turn to the receptionist. “Go back to work on your tasks.”

“Understood.”

Although Bonnie was looking at the receptionist when she said that, three adults had replied to her.

The second the elevator door opened, Chuck, Justin, and the receptionist got into it.

Bonnie watched as the elevator door closed. She found that funny, so she turned to Adam and said, Chuck and Justin acted like mice that just saw a hungry cat. Guess I’m just that scary, huh?”

Adam wanted to hold Bonnie’s arm to help her, but the elderly lady turned him down. Hence, he stayed beside her and walked with her. As he walked, he chuckled and replied, “Mr. Morris and Mr. Potter are probably worried you’d nag them about getting married

Bonnie enjoyed matchmaking others. That was not a secret in Morris Corporations.

It was precisely why every slightly older manager in the company avoided Bonnie.

They thought that they’d just let her torture their CEO instead.

He was the grandson she raised all on her own, after all.

No one else was in a better position to be compelled to endure her nagging.

“I only nag them for their sake. They’re getting older but refuse to get into relationships or get married.

“I have seven grandsons and four granddaughters in total. My granddaughters are too young to date, and among my grandsons, only the youngest two aren’t at that age yet. The other five are all at the right age to get married.

“They are all wonderful bachelors, and many girls fall for them. Yet, they still won’t get married. How can I not worry? I want to meet my great–grandkids before I join my husband in the afterlife. He wasn’t blessed with a long life and couldn’t meet them, so I want to do so in his place. Ww.NoëlWoRM.cOM

“That way, I’ll be able to tell him how adorable his great–grandkids are when I see him again.”
