

Wife 79

Chapter 79

Mandy glanced at Clara, then at Yohan before asking, "Isn't Clara the new help at your home?"

Yohan wouldn't have let her sit down if Clara were just a helper.

He might have even lost his temper when he saw her come in.

Yohan glanced at Clara and asked Mandy, "Did she tell you she's a help at my house?"

Mandy opened her mouth but was momentarily at a loss for words. Clara had never said that. Mandy had simply assumed she was a new hire. "Is she not?"

Mandy turned to Clara curiously. With a hint of amusement, she asked, "Clara, could you tell me about your relationship with Yohan?"

Unsure how to answer, Clara awkwardly laughed. She wasn't embarrassed about her identity. But Yohan had insisted they keep their marriage a secret until he gave the go-ahead.

Seeing that neither of them was speaking, Mandy took a sip from the coffee Clara had made, savoring it slowly.

Yohan's sudden announcement took everyone by surprise.

Clara was shocked.

Anyway, Yohan revealed it himself. She had nothing to do with it. Mandy spat out her coffee.

Clara shot Yohan an irritated look, thinking he must have timed his guy.

"How did you two end up married? My grandmother has been trying to set us up with each other. She even considered tricking us into sleeping together first. When I found out, I protested and warned them that if they dared to meddle with us, I'd show them how serious I was.

"Only then did they stop their antics. Why didn't you tell your grandmother that you have someone you like already? You should tell her about Clara. You know she's worried about your future. As long as the girl you bring home is from a decent family, it doesn't matter if she's from a rich family."
