Chapter 261 Everyone Is Here For Entertainment

If Elizabeth could get Abby to behave, she would not catch Michael's attention. Hence, he would not take his anger out on Abby even if he was enraged.

Abby nodded. "Lizzy, don't worry. I'll be very quiet.

Her forehead still had a small scar, though the gauze had been removed and replaced with a bandage. She still looked as pretty as a princess when her fringe fell and covered it.

Since they were heading to the Wade residence, Elizabeth had the triplets change into branded clothes. Even though it was not the latest wear, they looked good in whatever clothes they wore since they were all born pretty.

They could rock the old style of kids' wear into a new style effortlessly just by wearing them.

It was something Elizabeth had complete confidence in, as they might have inherited her genes, seeing they were all born attractively

Afterward, the family of four got inside the Wade family's car and headed to the Wade residence. The nearer the vehicle. drove toward the manor's gate, the more nervous Elizabeth felt.

She hoped that Michael's mood that day would be good and that he would not get angry when he saw Antony, Arthur, and Abby later.

Soon, the car stopped at the parking space of the Wade residence. The housekeeper and driver helped open the car door for them.

Elizabeth got out of the car, followed by the triplets. Abby wore a fluffy rabbit-ear jacket on top of a pink princess dress inside. Paired with a pair of white socks and red boots, she looked like a princess.

Meanwhile, Antony wore a tiny black suit, whereas Arthur wore a tiny white suit. One black and one white, indicating one's cool and one's warm.

Just then, the housekeepers, who had been cleaning the courtyard, were immediately captivated by the sight of the family of four when they appeared. They began to gossip among themselves.

"Wow! Are they Ms Wade's triplets? They are so adorable!"

"That's right! They look like child stars on the television!"

Elizabeth took Abby's hand as they walked toward the main hall, her expression somber.

Upon entering the living room in the main hall, she saw many people sitting on the couch.

She glanced around the room; the members of the Wade family were all present. However, when she saw Dominic was also there, her gaze wavered with disbelief.

Elizabeth was sure that she had never told him about her background. After leaving the Wade family, she never brought it up once

once

When Michael saw the four of them enter, he swept his gaze across the triplets

If it were the past, he would surely not have liked the triplets, especially for they had come out of nowhere without a father. On top of that, they had destroyed Elizabeth's life with their existence. It remained a thorn in his heart still.

However, the moment he saw them, Michael was stunned The determination in his heart melted into nothingness as a voice sounded "So, they are my great-grandchildren?"

They were all such adorable kids It was hard for others not to like them.

At that moment, Elizabeth could feel her heart rise to her throat. Since Michael was staring at the would not like them.

ets, she worried he

Besides, everyone was here to make fun of them. Thus, no one made a noise at that.

They were all waiting for Michael to lose his temper.

Hence, the Wade residence at that moment was dead silent. Everyone seemingly slowed their breathing, scared that they would steal the triplets' attention and become the target of Michael's fury instead.

Just then, Michael suddenly laughed. “Lizzy, I see you are all here! These three sweethearts, come over here!”

Abby, Antony, and Arthur went to his side obediently.

Then, the three greeted Michael in unison, “Nice to meet you, Great-grandpa!”

Everyone was shocked by the sight. The triplets are too cute!

Meanwhile, Elizabeth blinked her eyes. She was certain that she did not teach them that.

Then, she looked at Michael, who was laughing heartily as he acknowledged their greetings.

Abby rushed to his side and introduced herself, “My handsome great-grandpa, I am Abby. I kept this candy so that I could give it to you

With that said, she handed him a pink heart-shaped candy. Michael was taken aback by her gesture as if he had his heart shot by her.

He accepted the candy. After taking a look, he laughed throatily again.

“You’re so cute! Thank you. But can you eat this for me?”

Chapter 262 Dominic Took The Initiative

Abby took the candy, peeled off the wrapper, and fed Michael

“You eat it! It’s very sweet.”

Usually, Michael was an arrogant elderly. However, Abby had fully won over his heart at that moment.

As for Antony and Arthur, they soon got along with Michael as they chatted away.

Everyone who witnessed the scene was furious as they did not get to watch Michael taking his anger out on Elizabeth and the triplets.

They had all prepared peanuts as snacks, yet their desired scene never came.

The Wade family stared at the harmonious image again. They felt that the triplets would replace Elizabeth and become Michael's favorite in the future.

Afterward, Elizabeth sat next to Dominic. She turned around and glanced at him. "Why are you here?"

The Wade family was not that close with the Campbell family in the first place, nor did they usually have any contact with each other.

Why is he here? Is he here to visit Grandpa? It doesn't feel right. Maybe he has his eyes on one of the Wade family's members? No. He had just confessed his love to me recently. Dominic isn't a jerk. He won't treat me like this.

Dominic smiled as he took her hand.

"I am here to explain to Grandpa that I'm the triplets' father and that I have been taking care of you and them for all these years."

When he said that, happiness was evident in Dominic's eyes.

He felt he should have done so long ago. In the past, he had waited for Elizabeth to bring and introduce him to the Wade residence. However, now that Matthew had appeared, Dominic had to take the initiative.

After hearing those words, Michael looked toward Dominic and Elizabeth.

"Lizzy, if only you had told me that you were in love with Dominic back then, I wouldn't have stopped you. Now that he came to seek forgiveness, naturally, I forgave him. Since your ages are also similar, it's about time to talk about marriage," he uttered.

Upon hearing that, Elizabeth was dumbfounded. She had no idea how it had come to that.

She had just brought the triplets home to see Michael. She never expected he would urge her to marry so soon.

Dominic scooted nearer to Elizabeth and whispered, "Lizzy, this is the best solution. Furthermore, I love the triplets as if they are my own. Let me be their father. Then, Grandpa and the rest won't dare criticize the triplets' status ever again."

Elizabeth blinked her eyes. She thought his words made sense too.

However, she never thought of marrying Dominic. Besides, the Campbell family would never approve of this marriage.

Elizabeth pursed her lips.

Now that she had so many family members of the Wade surrounding her, she could not retort and could only stay silent.

Meanwhile, Celine smiled as she witnessed the scene.

“Lazy, you have such good taste in men. Mr. Campbell is a good guy. All in all, you made the Wade family proud,” she uttered through gritted teeth

If only Tiana were the one who had gotten married instead. However, the engagement fell through. At that, Michael was incensed as he berated Tiana and Celine for shaming the Wade family.

Nowadays, he would take his anger out on them whenever Michael saw Celine and Tiana, unlike Elizabeth. Not only did her triplets gain his favor, but she even had ties with the Campbell family.

It seemed that Elizabeth was on the way to the peak of her life, much to Celine’s frustration. The more she thought about it, the angrier she became.

Shortly after her statement, Celine stood up and left for the kitchen, saying she wanted to check up on things inside.

After entering the kitchen, she took out her phone and searched for her cousin's contact before dialing her number.

Diana Woods was the one who married the youngest son of the Campbell family, who was also Dominic's uncle—Adam Campbell. She should be very knowledgeable about the Campbell family's affairs.

Celine wanted to ask whether they knew the matter about Dominic and Elizabeth, as well as the fact that they had given birth to the triplets.

Even though Celine knew the triplets' background, she could not say it out loud.

Hence, she could only let the Campbell family know that Dominic had been taken advantage of by Elizabeth. Once they knew about it, they would not sit still, as no one would wish to assume a responsibility that was not theirs in the first place.

"Celine, what do you need again?" Diana asked on the phone.

She remembered the day at the socialite gathering when she had suffered humiliation. Moreover, she was reprimanded by her sister-in-law when she got back. Seeing Celine's number now, Diana could not help but feel her head throb.

"Ana, let me tell you something! Dominic is at our house now! He is claiming that Elizabeth's triplets are his. Does your family know about this?" Celine questioned.

Upon hearing that, Diana was amused.

“What did you say? You mean your husband’s daughter, the one who got pregnant before marriage?”

“That’s right! That’s her’ Dominic came to the house to claim the children He even said he would marry Elizabeth

Chapter 263 A Gift

Diana laughed and said, “Let me ask my sister–in–law I didn’t know about this

Celine understood clearly what Diana meant It looks like Ana is just waiting to watch a good show

She refused to believe that the Campbell family would still want Elizabeth as their daughter–in–law if they knew her truth.

After ending the call. Celine went back to the living room

Elizabeth was sitting next to Michael, who still loved the former as much as before

Now that her three children were around, it seemed like he had no grudge against her anymore.

Dominic was beside them too. He had gifted Michael a box of the ceramic coffee set, and the latter regarded it as treasure

He took it and kept looking at the coffee set while Dominic sat beside him to talk about it.

Seeing that the rest of the Wade family were left aside, Candance could not help but find it funny. Sure enough, as long as Elizabeth comes home, the rest of the Wade family would fall out of his favor.

“Dad, dinner is ready. Everyone can eat now.

Everyone walked into the dining hall. The dining hall in the Wade residence was huge.

Elizabeth, Dominic, and the three children ate at the main table with Michael

Besides them, the three men from the Wade family were also seated at the main table. On the other hand, the other female family members were at another small table, far away from Michael.

Michael was fond of Dominic. The latter was a young and promising man in Mistwood. Thus, the older generation had taken note of him

Michael and Dominic had a few drinks too. After dinner, the three children played with Michael for a while before leaving

Dominic walked beside Elizabeth His smile was warm and radiant, like the sun. It showed that he was in a good mood that night

The Wade family did not send Elizabeth and the rest out, but Dominic had already arranged for an MPV to pick them up.

The three children got into the MPV while Elizabeth and Dominic conversed beside the car.

“Thank you so much for today, Dominic!” she said gratefully.

If it were not for his presence, her children would still be considered illegitimate in the eyes of Michael and the rest of the Wade family.

Gift

The Wade family's relatives would even call them b*stards.

Since Dominic was with them, the Wade family kept their mouths shut, and Michael even approved of them.

Elizabeth was grateful to Dominic since everything went fine

He reached out and tucked her messy, long hair behind her ear You don't have to thank me I should have come earlier

to visit Grandpa

If Dominic had been more proactive, Elizabeth would have married him already. At that moment, he regretted that he did not go to the Wade residence to visit Michael sooner

Elizabeth furrowed her brows. It seemed like Dominic did not understand her feelings. "Dominic, you're not the children's father I'll clear your name soon

"It's cold out here, so get in the car. I'm willing to be their father. You have no doubts about that, right?"
His gaze

darkened when he heard what Elizabeth said.

Dominic had watched the children grow up before him. That was equivalent to him being involved in all of Elizabeth's pregnancy and labor journey.

Even if he was not their biological father, he was already considered half a father of theirs.

Of course, Elizabeth did not doubt his intentions. She bent down and got into the car while Dominic followed behind.

Right at that moment, Michael's servant, Ruben chased after them and called out, "Ms. Elizabeth, Old Mr. Wade said this is a gift for your three children."

Ruben passed three paper bags to Elizabeth from the car window.

I wonder what's inside. Regardless, it's a token of sincerity from Grandpa Thank Grandpa for me, Ruben," she said as she took over the paper bags.

Elizabeth held the paper bags in her arms Grandpa is happy tonight. He finally put an end to the resentment he harbored for years

Ruben waved at them and added, "Remember to come back often to visit Old Mr. Wade, Ms. Elizabeth He's always thinking about you”

“I will, Ruben Elizabeth waved back

As the car drove away from the Wade residence’s main gate, she looked at the paper bags and wondered what Michael had given her three precious children.

Out of curiosity, she opened one of the paper bags and took a peek inside.

Upon seeing the content, Elizabeth was so shocked that her eyes widened. It was a deed to one of the mansions in the Jupiter Mansion area!

She frantically opened the other two paper bags. They were all mansions! Michael had given each of her children a mansion of their own.

Moreover, all three mansions were connected. Elizabeth was so shocked that she could not even speak.

All this while, she had wanted to purchase a small house, and now she owned three mansions. This was an unbelievable.

Chapter 264 We Finally Have A House

Abby poked her head out as her tiny hands reached over to take the paper bag from Elizabeth. She then waved at Dominic. “Mr. Dominic, can you have a look at this? Because I think Lizzy is dumbfounded. I shook her a few times, but she didn't react.'

Dominic took it over, took a look, and laughed. "This is a gift from your great-grandpa. It's a big house!"

"Really? Does that mean we have our own house now?" Abby asked with her widened eyes.

Both Antony and Arthur saw it too. They appeared calm, neither excited nor sad. They acted like it was something normal.

Dominic looked at Elizabeth. He had a lovely voice, and there was a hint of warmth in his deep voice. "Lizzy, your grandpa must have spoiled you when you were young."

Just then, Elizabeth regained her senses. She kept the deeds and nodded slightly after hearing what Dominic said.

"People were envious because of how Grandpa spoiled me. And it..." Elizabeth did not finish her sentence.

She felt that it was unnecessary to tell someone about that..

Only she could understand the pain and hatred she felt.

At that moment, her phone rang. It was Shelby calling Elizabeth glanced at Dominic, but he was happily chatting with her three children.

Elizabeth had a hunch that Shelby would call her. Hence, she answered the phone. "Hello."

“Elizabeth Wade, what are you trying to convey by bringing Dom back home? Even if you’re a part of the Wade family, our family doesn’t care. Stay away from Dom in the future.”

Shelby’s shouting had nearly deafened Elizabeth. She could tell that the former was infuriated.

She frowned slightly and replied, “I didn’t bring him home. Don’t worry. We’re innocent. I have nothing to do with him.”

After hearing what Elizabeth said, Shelby let out a sneer. “It better be like what you said. Aren’t you riding on Matthew’s coattails? Don’t mess with our Dom anymore.”

With that, Shelby huffily ended the call. When Elizabeth heard that Shelby had hung up the phone, she heaved a sigh of relief.

She knew that Celine would not i ignore that Dominic went to the Wade residence. Just as she expected, Celine had Elizabeth kept her phone and took a look at Dominic, who was playing games with her three children.

He had a good relationship with Antony, Arthur, and Abby Fortunately for Elizabeth, Dominic had been helping her out all these years.

Even though his mother had called and scolded her, she was not mad because that was Dominic's mother.

"Who called?" Dominic shifted his gaze toward her.

He had overheard some parts of her conversation and felt that it was possibly his mother.

Elizabeth shook her head. "They called the wrong number."

"Lizzy, just ignore my mother. My sincerity is the most important thing here." Dominic did not buy her words.

Elizabeth chuckled after hearing what he said. "Dominic, a marriage without the family members' blessings won't last either."

As soon as they spoke about this, the two stopped talking.

Dominic gazed at Elizabeth profoundly and said, "Lizzy, leave these matters to me. You have to consider me. Don't just give up on me."

All of a sudden, he became miserable. So much so that Elizabeth felt sorry for him.

She did not answer him with harsh words, but instead, she leaned on the car seat and looked at the street scene outside the window.

The following morning, Elizabeth woke up. Her three children were already in the dining room.

When they saw her enter the dining room, Abby flashed a smile at her mother. "Lizzy, don't forget that we're going to view the house today after you're done with work."

They had decided to choose one of the mansions that they liked and move in while renting out the other two mansions.

This way, she could collect rentals every month, and together with her salary, their lives would be relatively easier.

Elizabeth sat down, picked up a glass of milk, and took a sip. "Sure. I'll come back earlier."

Abby took the three title deeds and opened them one by one as she looked through them. "Does that mean I can have my own princess room next time?"

Arthur replied, "When the time comes, you can choose the room you like first, Abby. We'll decorate it into a princess room for you.

Seeing her children's excitement, Elizabeth could not help but curl her lips into a smile. Grandpa is too generous.

Chapter 265 Pinned Against The Elevator Wall

Elizabeth was in a good mood. Even the coffee that she gave Matthew was the one that he liked, bitter, with no milk and sugar

After taking a sip, Matthew's eyes narrowed slightly.

He had gotten used to drinking the coffee she made, which was as sweet as syrup. Hence, to his surprise, he was somewhat unfamiliar with the taste of bitter coffee.

Matthew calmly glanced at Elizabeth. She was humming while placing a few documents before him. "Mr. Hilton, you'll need to sign these few documents by three today. You'll also need to look at this proposal as you'll be discussing it at tomorrow's meeting

After she spoke, she started humming again. Elizabeth turned around and walked back to her desk

"You're in a good mood today, aren't you, Elizabeth?"

Elizabeth stopped in her tracks before she answered, "No, I'm not."

Of course. I'm in a good mood. We're moving into our own house soon. We'll never have to be worried about being kicked out by the landlord anymore. But is it that obvious? Even Mr. Hilton could see it.

Matthew smirked. "Did you win the lottery?"

Elizabeth sat at her desk and saw that she had several WhatsApp messages. She then clicked it open to read one.

Tiffany wrote: Lizzy, you did an excellent job with the theme and design. Your designs will be shown during the autumn event. Come to school if you have time to finish the clothing sample.

When Elizabeth read the message, she could hardly contain her excitement and was about to jump up in joy.

The clothes that she designed will be on the show. That was her dream. She had hoped that one day, a model would wear her design and exhibit it during a fashion show.

Elizabeth is getting fuckier this year. She had a good job and now had her own house.

Moreover, even her dream came true. She found it hard to believe.

With trembling hands, she replied: All right, Tiffany. I'll work harder.

After replying to Tiffany, Elizabeth propped her chin and started to imagine the scene during Denzy Kenington's spring event. She then envisioned that the clothes she designed would be hung in major stores, and everyone was fighting to buy them

What a beautiful scene to visualize.

Matthew knocked on her desk as she was smiling to herself like a fool “Follow me to the site in the eastern district.”

him

Elizabeth stood up abruptly as Matthew disrupted her dream. She took her coat, put it on, and went into the elevator with

Only two of them were in the elevator. Matthew took one step closer to Elizabeth, so she could only lean against the wall.

She was terrified and pointed at the surveillance camera. “Mr. Hilton, there’s a surveillance camera there. Mind your image

As Elizabeth thought about yesterday’s kiss, she felt goosebumps. This man is good at kissing.

She could barely handle it. Thus, she feared Matthew would do something reckless in the elevator. She would be embarrassed if someone else saw it.

“What’s the matter? Do you want me to kiss you?” Matthew said with a smirk.

He was driving Elizabeth mad. She reached out and tugged at his shirt. "That's not what I meant, Mr. Hilton.

However, when the man saw her red lips, he could not control himself and wanted to have a taste of them.

I didn't get enough of them yesterday. With that, he stretched his long arms and pinned her against the elevator wall.

Elizabeth could only watch as his handsome face inched closer to her until her lips were in his mouth as he kissed her gently.

She grabbed onto his shirt tightly with both hands and quivered anxiously.

Matthew Hilton, not here. Please not here. Elizabeth kept screaming inwardly.

Nevertheless, Matthew had already kissed her. Furthermore, he was confident that no one in the surveillance room would dare to sneak a peek.

At the thought of that, he coldly glanced at the surveillance camera while kissing Elizabeth.

In the surveillance room, they were frightened when they saw him looking into the camera and quickly turned off the surveillance system in that particular elevator. Matthew flashed a triumphant smile.

Elizabeth had entirely lost her control. That was how it was with an amateur in a relationship like her. She did not know anything at all.

She wanted to let him bully her with all his might.

When the elevator stopped on the first floor, the doors slowly slid open, Standing before them was Esme. Noticing them, he hurriedly covered his eyes and pretended he did not see anything.

Chapter 266 His Gift To Her

With his sharp eyes, Matthew had already seen Esme. Good that he knows what to do.

He let go of Elizabeth's sweet lips and lightly patted her shoulder, "Lizzy, can you still walk?"

She had already melted in his embrace. At that moment, Elizabeth felt that she was like a puddle.

When she heard what Matthew asked, she instantly regained her senses.

Elizabeth reached out and touched her somewhat swollen lips. Her face was burning "I-I can walk."

Even her voice came out coquettishly. She wanted to bite her tongue as she did not know why she spoke like that.

Matthew laughed and kissed Elizabeth again on her neck. "Lizzy, come to my place tonight. I want to teach you more.

Elizabeth's eyes widened in disbelief. She quickly tidied her clothes and trotted out of the elevator.

At the entrance, Esme greeted her warmly. "Ms. Wade."

When Elizabeth saw him, she raised her hand and caressed her face. It was still burning. Thus, she ignored him and strode away.

Esme raised his eyebrows in a disinterested manner. It looks like Ms. Wade is not very happy. Why did she ignore me? But then again, it's normal for her to do that because of her relationship with Mr. Hilton. Furthermore, I always appear...when they are in the middle of something good. No one would feel happy to see me if I ruined their moment.

When Matthew strode out, he appeared elegant again.

He briefly glanced at Esme and said, "Didn't I ask you to wait in the car?"

With that, he began walking forward while Esme followed closely behind. "Mr. Hilton, I thought you guys were not down yet, so I wanted to go upstairs to remind you."

It seemed like Esme had done something unnecessary once more.

At the entrance, three cars were waiting. Elizabeth and Matthew got into the Bentley that was parked in the middle.

Esme had wanted to follow them. However, when he remembered that he had offended them earlier, he decided to get into the first car.

Two hours later, they arrived at the eastern district site.

Matthew had wanted to give Dominic this piece of land so that the latter would stay away from Elizabeth.

Given the circumstances, it seemed like he could not do it anymore.

The piece of land was still in the planning stage. Matthew had brought Elizabeth there to get her opinion. He wanted to know what was best to be built on the land

He had decided to give her the piece of land. It did not matter what they were building, be it houses or commercial centers. Everything would belong to Elizabeth.

This was her first time at a site. When the wind blew, there was so much dust everywhere. She felt like the dust was enough to cover her whole body.

Elizabeth was wearing a white cap. While Matthew and the others were talking business, she could only follow behind.

Suddenly, he turned his head and asked, "Elizabeth, what do you think is better to be built here?"

Upon hearing that, she was dumbstruck Everyone here is either an engineer or an architect. As a woman, what do I know?

"Don't be afraid. Just say anything" Matthew gave her an encouraging look.

Initially, Elizabeth was somewhat nervous. However, her boss had told her to speak up. She would be embarrassing him if she did not say a word.

With that, her big eyes turned around, glancing at the environment. "I'm quite familiar with this place. There are many residential areas here. There are commercial centers too. I think we can build a hotel since there are only a few hotels around."

Hearing that, Matthew laughed. She does have a brain.

He had done his survey and planned to build a seven-star hotel. It would become an iconic landmark of the eastern district. Moreover, it would be a good business.

Elizabeth felt a little nervous when she saw Matthew laughing. She added, "I'm just spouting nonsense. Mr. Hilton, you guys are the professionals here. You guys should decide. Don't listen to me.

Esme, who was walking beside her, was stunned too. He did not expect that Elizabeth would know a lot. Whatever she said.

was the information that he had found out

Matthew and the others had decided to build a seven-star hotel. There would be accommodation and entertainment in one.

building

In the future, the hotel would be the best place for people to talk business.

Chapter 267 She Is Really Rich

Matthew went forward again with the group of people behind him, inspecting all areas.

Once everything was done, he left, seemingly in a good mood.

He told Esme, who was standing next to him, "The blueprint is finished. Use the version I designed. Draw up the contract. and have her sign it.

Esme looked at the oblivious woman next to him.

She kept looking at her shoes as she carried her bag. Her shoes were covered with dust, which probably made her unhappy.

Ms. Wade, you'll soon become a secret tycoon in Mistwood. However, you don't seem to be aware of it. D'mn. Mr. Hilton is simply too good at doting on women. Not only did he give out the land, but he even assisted with the construction.

At that moment, Esme desperately wanted to be a woman. In particular, Matthew's woman.

After returning to the car, Elizabeth took a tissue and used it to clean her shoes. This pair of leather shoes is quite pricey.

What a pity! I shouldn't have worn them to the construction site. I don't think I'll be able to wear them tomorrow.

Just then, her phone rang. She answered right away when she saw that it was Abby's number.

"Sweetheart!"

"Lizzy, it's really late now. Why haven't you reached home yet? Aren't we going house-viewing?"

Abby had been waiting all day, hoping that six o'clock would come soon. Alas, she had waited at the door until six, but her beloved mother had yet to come home.

Elizabeth glanced at the time and saw that it was indeed already six thirty-five. She pursed her lips slightly.

"I'll be right back. Give me a minute."

After she hung up the phone, she looked at Matthew.

"Mr. Hilton, may I knock off now? I've something on today."

It means I don't want to go out to dinner or do anything else with him. I just want to get out of work. Hopefully, he'll understand.

Finally, Matthew put down the blueprint and glanced at the time.,

"Let's get together for dinner before you leave."

It's already this time of day; it doesn't matter if she leaves after we eat.

Elizabeth shook her head. "We're going house-viewing today. This is really important to me, and my three kids are waiting for me, so I can't go to dinner with you."

Then, she called out, "Larry, please let me off at the next intersection."

Matthew caught something in her words. "Where's the house?"

Has this woman seriously saved up enough money to buy a house? That's pretty quick.

She scratched her head. "Ha... Um, it's in Jupiter Mansion."

All of a sudden, she recalled that Matthew also lived there, which meant they would become neighbors in the future.

Matthew was a little surprised that she was rich enough to afford a house in Jupiter Mansion.

He touched the ring on his index finger with his long fingers lightly. "I happen to be free tonight, so let's view the house together. After that, you'll make me dinner. Don't forget that you still owe me money."

Now that the man mentioned it, Elizabeth could not turn him down anymore.

She contemplated for a while, then answered, "All right!"

With that, Matthew ordered Larry to drive straight to Snowy Barber to fetch her three kids."

go

As Larry was a skilled driver, and Elizabeth lived precisely in the eastern district, the car arrived in front of her house in only ten minutes or so.

She glimpsed at the man beside her. "Mr. Hilton, please drive ahead of me. My car will be right behind you."

Matthew gave her an indifferent glance. "I'll drive. You guys can just take my car."

Larry's seat was kicked hard, so he quickly piped up, "Mr. Hilton, it's time for me to knock off. I'll take my leave now."

After saying that, he swiftly opened the door, got out of the car, and left.

Elizabeth watched as Larry walked away until he vanished at the alley's entrance.

She blinked, feeling that Matthew was genuinely overbearing on a whole other level, so much so that everyone would obey command of his.

every

Well, I guess it's our honor that this big shot is willing to be our personal driver.

The three kids were already dressed when Elizabeth and Matthew got out of the vehicle. Cody also deliberately dolled up.

carrying her purse and following them with a look of glee.

Uh... There's no more space in the car.

Chapter 268 House Viewing

Cody would naturally have to go with the

to view the new house.

Upon seeing that scene, Elizabeth could hardly hold back her laughter.

“Mr. Hilton, let Ms. Elliott take your car, then I’ll drive with the other three kids and join you afterward.”

Cody had already approached them. When she heard their conversation, she smiled and said, “Sorry for the trouble, Mr.

Hilton

Next, she promptly opened the passenger seat door and got into the vehicle.

Matthew looked at that woman, who was smirking evilly. Her three kids got in her Volvo with her.

Raising a brow, the man pressed the autopilot button and set the destination. The car began driving by itself, even making a U–turn on its own

Cody was so terrified that she banged the car window, screaming, “Mr. Hilton, what’s going on? Why is the car driving on its own?”

Matthew ignored her and strode to Elizabeth’s car, pulling open the passenger door to get in.

All four people in the vehicle were taken aback when he got in, especially Elizabeth.

Mr. Hilton, Ms. Elliott doesn't know how to drive."

"Don't you know there's autopilot?" he asked coldly.

Abby leaned out the car window, looking at the car driving away. "How cool!" she murmured.

Antony and Arthur exchanged glances before the former hurriedly dialed Cody's phone number.

"Antony, help! T-The car's moving on its own!"

Cody's voice was so loud that it hurt the boy's eardrum. Feeling pain in his ear, he picked at it with one eye closed.

"Ms. Elliott, don't be afraid. Matthew activated the autopilot mode. See you later!"

Cody finally calmed down when she heard that.

"Oh, so it's autopilot! It scared the heck out of me. Okay, see you guys later."

Elizabeth chuckled secretly. Matthew is truly cunning. Not to mention Cody, I'd be scared to death too if it were me.

Arthur uttered coldly, "Mr. Hilton, we're going to see our new house. Why are you here for?"

Him and his brother would never forgive this man.

Matthew lived in mansion eight, so his car was parked right in front of his house. Cody was standing by the vehicle, scanning around the neighbor hood

She waved at them upon spotting Elizabeth's car

The latter parked her car next to Matthew's, and everyone alighted.

Cody looked delighted "Oh, my! I can't believe I'd get to witness new technology today. That car didn't only drive itself,

Elizabeth answered smilingly, "Yes, it's quite expensive."

Matthew slipped his hands into his pockets. "Which house is it?"

Elizabeth pointed to the three houses right by the side. "These three—mansions five, six, and seven.

The man narrowed his eyes slightly.

Did she win the lottery? Even if one strikes the jackpot, one wouldn't be able to afford these. All three mansions will cost.

hundreds of millions.

Elizabeth and Matthew walked side by side, with Cody and the three children in front of them.

“Who’s giving you them?” asked Matthew.

He had a bad feeling that Dominic had probably given her those mansions.

Elizabeth smiled at him, looking in high spirits.

“They’re my grandpa’s gifts for my children. He dotes on me a lot. When he met the kids for the first time, he instantly adored them, so he’s giving them these mansions.

Chapter 269 Become Neighbors

They first entered mansion seven. Even though this mansion was incomparable to Matthew’s, it was still considered big, with three floors and a front and back yard.

It was more than enough to accommodate Elizabeth’s family of four and Cody.

Cody examined the house and exclaimed, “Wow! This is too spacious. I can even grow some vegetables in the yard’s empty space”

Elizabeth nodded in approval. After all, eating home–grown vegetables was healthier.

The structure and area of the three houses were the same, for Michael was a fair man.

Matthew inspected the house. Initially, he assumed the place would require renovation and furnishings to be habitable. Unexpectedly, the house was fully furnished. Besides that, he could tell that the furniture was installed recently.

It was evident that Elizabeth's grandfather treated them very well, having planned out every single aspect for them.

Abby sat in front of the piano and began playing a piece. She had learned piano for more than a year. Alas, she only knew how to play simple tunes.

Nevertheless, she felt elated to finally have a piano of her own. Moreover, it was even in her favorite color—white.

Elizabeth was somewhat surprised, as she, too, presumed she would need to fork out money for renovation and so on.

In an excited tone, Cody said, "Lizzy, I think we can move in tonight. There's everything we need here."

When Abby heard that, she turned around and chimed in, "Lizzy, I'd like to sleep here tonight. I like this place!"

Elizabeth smiled. "Okay, then! We'll stay here tonight!"

Matthew even consciously checked the electricity, gas, water, and heater, only to find them all enabled.

It was indeed fine for them to move in right away.

Standing a short distance away, the man raised his hand and coughed lightly.

"Elizabeth, I'm hungry."

Hearing that, Elizabeth immediately became wary. She feared he would expose the fact that she owed him money.

Even though she had some savings now, she was reluctant to take out the money to settle the debt, as the IOU itself was unreasonable. Hence, she would rather pay him with her labor.

now

Rising to her feet, she said, "Mr. Hilton, please take a seat and rest for a bit. Ms. Elliott and I will go and prepare the food

Cody stood up as well. I can definitely make a table full of delicacies in such a spacious kitchen

"Where's the farmer's market? I'll go and get some groceries "

Elizabeth's brows furrowed slightly. There was no farmer's market nearby as people living in this area typically had servants who would prepare everything. It was unlike the ordinary residential area where a convenience store would be right around the corner.

She whipped out her phone and prepared to make a grocery delivery order.

Yet, Matthew stretched out a finger and hooked her over.

"There are food ingredients in my house. Come with me.

Cody smiled faintly upon hearing that. No matter from what perspective she looked at Matthew, she felt the man was pleasing to the eyes.

We'll become neighbors from now on. Lizzy doesn't have a man in her house, so we must be on good terms with Mr. Hilton. Even if he and Lizzy aren't a couple, he can help her when she needs help.

Being hooked toward him with his finger, Elizabeth felt slightly sweet deep down.

It surprised her to feel the sweet moments that only existed between couples. Although they had not established a relationship, they had kissed several times, and their relationship had undergone some changes

After leaving mansion seven, Matthew pulled her into his embrace and lowered his gaze to look at her.

"Mansion seven, it is. It's closest to me," he stated.

When I miss her at night, I'd be able to climb over to meet her. How convenient.

While the man thought of that, Elizabeth nodded at him.

"I also feel mansion seven's better. It's closer to you and receives enough sunlight."

Matthew reached out to caress her head, his eyes filling with adoration.

After entering his house, she went to the kitchen, opened the refrigerator, and began selecting the food ingredients she wanted.

Matthew took a bottle of water and opened the cap before delivering it to her. Elizabeth accepted it and took a sip. After that, he took it back and sipped on the same bottle of water she had just drunk out of

Her eyes slightly widened. "Matthew, I just drank that."

Chapter 270 Making A Choice

Matthew gulped down half of the water, then wiped away the liquid on the corner of his mouth.

"I've long tasted your saliva. Why would you still mind?"

Elizabeth blushed and dared not meet his eyes. Instead, she stretched a hand out to select the food ingredients from the later.

However, she did not know what to pick. She decided to take some of whatever entered her sight and let Cody decide

Matthew put the water aside and wrapped his arm around her waist from behind. Then, he pressed his lips on her neck as though he was vaguely kissing her.

Elizabeth was so nervous that her whole body stiffened.

Mr. Hilton, stop fooling around."

She moved and twisted her waist. However, the more she did, the more turned on Matthew became..

His Adam's apple bobbed up and down sexily, and he said in a husky voice, "Lizzy, I feel like kissing you again."

Instead of forcing her this time, he asked for her permission. When she heard that, her heart itched like a feather tickling her heart, and she could barely tolerate the sensation.

Seeing that there was no reaction from Elizabeth, the man turned her around and looked at her intently.

Her big eyes blinked, but she did not resist.

Entering her vision was the frigid yet handsome face of Matthew. He embraced her tightly, and his tall figure almost shrouded her entire body. She could smell a faint scent exuding from the man before her.

He merely stared at her face and never shifted his gaze away, not even for a second. Right now, his lips pursed tightly.

imbued with a sense of stubbornness and arrogance. His alluring look gave her the feeling that he was a good-looking prince who came out of a comic book.

He had a pair of dark eyes that looked just like black gems, while untamable black hair stuck to his cheeks that were as fair as frozen white porcelain.

His thick, furrowing brows could not help but infatuate her unconsciously.

She looked at Matthew in a daze as his lips slowly inched toward her face. When their lips finally came into contact, both of them seemed to be satisfied.

They hugged each other tightly while Elizabeth responded passionately to his kiss

This made Matthew completely lose control.

He pressed her against the refrigerator door and sucked her lips greedily while she hugged his neck tightly with both hands. At that moment, she did not know what to do.

However, it was undeniable that deep down, she yearned for this and did not want to let him go.

Matthew took off her coat with his large hand and lifted her onto the counter. That took Elizabeth by slight surprise, causing her mouth to fall slightly agape.

Following that, he sealed her lips with his again. The woman's body shuddered despite the room being at room temperature.

It was out of anxiety and fear.

She didn't know what would happen next, yet she was looking forward to it.

As the man's breathing grew increasingly heavier, he knew he could not hold back anymore. He loosened his tie and began undoing her buttons.

Elizabeth felt a coldness on her chest. Then, his large palm covered her mount, inciting a strange feeling within her that caused her to press her thighs together unconsciously..

Noticing that, he chuckled softly and nibbled her lips.

"Lizzy, you want it now, right?"

In the past, no matter how hard he tried to seduce her, she would not feel a thing, as though she did not understand his intention

At last, he noticed her arousal, which gave him a sense of accomplishment.

Elizabeth's cheeks became increasingly flushed. She leaned in his arms and raised her hand to smack him.

“Stop talking. Matthew Hilton.”

Matthew undressed her and gazed at her snow–white skin. His eyes became redder and redder.

Her entire skin was as white as snow and would turn red with just a brief touch. It would undoubtedly leave bruises on her

if he gripped her

Her skin was so flawless to the point that it was almost transparent. Such a woman deserved to be spoiled.

He buried his face in her neck, asking in a deep and hoarse voice, “Do you want to do it here or in the bedroom?”

After all, this was their first time going all the way. Truth be told, he liked it here very much. However, he feared that she wouldn’t be able to stand it.

He would love to experience it in a place like a kitchen, but that would have to wait.

Elizabeth clutched his neck and gave his earlobe a feather–light kiss.

“The bedroom.”
