

Game Over 391

Chapter 391 Finally Meeting Abby

Abby reached out to hold her mother's hand.

While they were walking out of the bedroom, she pouted and said to Elizabeth, "Arthur and Antony say they're not going with us. They have class today."

Clearly, she was upset.

"I remember they don't have any class today, though?" the latter asked.

"It's computer class."

Elizabeth nodded as she recalled that her sons had recently signed up for computer class. To that, she felt a little regretful.

The mother and daughter duo entered the boys' bedroom when they passed by it

The two of them were sitting in front of their respective desks. Sitting on their desks were laptops gifted to them by Elizabeth.

"Arthur, Antony, how about we take a leave today? Hector and Old Mrs Hilton missed you guys so much. Don't forget that they even sent you guys monetary gifts during New Year."

Abby nodded in agreement. "Yeah! We have to go and thank them face-to-face!"

However, Arthur glanced at Elizabeth nonchalantly and said, "Mommy, we can't skip the class. You guys go ahead."

Antony also crinkled his eyes in a smile and said, "Mommy, we only like the two elderly people from the Hilton family because they are nice to

1. However, we don't like Matthew, so you must keep a distance from him."

Elizabeth could not help but sigh at their words as she stared at her sons' handsome faces

Oh, Matthew! Do you see this? Now it's going to be harder for them to acknowledge you than it is to climb the tallest mountain in the world.

We'll see if you dare to get entangled with any woman again.

Abby pouted and continued to persuade her two brothers. "But I want you two to go with us"

The boys looked at her with adoration. "Have fun and enjoy your time there, Abby We're working hard so that we can buy you more Barbie dolls in the future."

At the sound of that, Abby recalled how the boys had always said they wanted to help their mother since they were very young. They did not want to see her work so hard and thus wanted to grow up faster.

"Oh! I will Keep up the good work, you two."

In the end, she left them with a reminder and tugged Elizabeth's hand.

"Mommy, let's go. I want to play with Old Mrs. Pretty. I missed them so much."

With that, the two left home. Elizabeth drove to the Hilton residence.

When the car drove slowly into the compound, Abby exclaimed, "Mr. Handsome's house really looks like a princess' castle. It's so big and beautiful"

Elizabeth cast her a sidelong glance and saw the envy of a little girl in Abby's eyes.

Then again, even an adult woman like herself would have the same thought upon seeing the Hilton residence. After all, the Hilton residence was indeed massive and picturesque.

The housekeepers were already waiting at the parking space when the two of them arrived. Thus, as soon as she parked the car, they came and opened the door for them.

"Ms. Wade, Ms. Abby," they greeted.

Abby got out of the car and smiled at the housekeepers.

"Where is Old Mrs. Pretty? Does she know I'm here?"

One of the housekeepers, Loretta, who served Chelsea, chuckled when she heard the little girl's words.

"Old Mrs. Hilton is right there. Look, Ms. Abby. We have a guest at the house today. They are all having tea in the yard," she replied and pointed to the yard.

Abby looked in the direction and saw three people sitting at the table in the yard. They were Chelsea, Hector, and another woman she had seen.

before.

However, she did not like that woman because her appearance always upset Elizabeth.

Similarly, Elizabeth also saw the guest Loretta mentioned. It turned out that the woman was Tiana, and she was chatting away excitedly with Chelsea and Hector.

Holding Abby's hand, she thought how unfortunate it was to stumble into Tiana at that place.

She hoped that Tiana would mind her words in front of her. Otherwise, she would not go easy on her.

Meanwhile, Chelsea noticed the mother and daughter duo coming in her direction. Inwardly, she could not help but agree with how similar they looked. They are like two peas in a pod!

“Abby, come here,” she cooed.

Abby ran into Chelsea’s arms excitedly and pecked her on the cheek.

“Old Mrs. Pretty, I’m here I missed you so much.”

Her mellow voice delighted Chelsea so much that she kept calling her “sweetheart” and “honey pie.” It was evident that she was very fond of Abby.

Hector watched on with envy.

However, Tiana sneered. “Elizabeth, have you found the children’s father? It’s unfortunate for kids to live without a father. It’s pitiful.”

Chapter 392 Sweet Talker

Tiana spoke so loudly that everyone at the scene heard her. The housekeepers turned their gaze in then direction as though they had just discovered a huge secret

In reality, she was aware that everyone in the Wade family knew the three children were Dominic’s

However, she and her mother were the only ones who knew that Elizabeth conceived them with an old man.

Yet, they could not expose her because Celine planned the whole thing back then.

If Michael were to find out about it and start digging into the matter, Tiana and her mother would get into deep water.

Besides, Hector chose her only because she was the eldest daughter of the Wade family. That was why she could not let the Lowens know that Elizabeth was also an Wade.

Upon hearing Tinna's words, Abby turned to her

"What are you saying? You meanie."

Similarly, Hector was livid at Tiana's words. The three children are clearly the descendants of the Hilton family and Matt's flesh and blood. How dare she slander them!

Beside himself with fury, he wanted to say something to jelort

However, the more anxious he was, the more difficult it was for him to speak. In the end, he only managed to utter incoherent sounds from his mouth

His behavior frightened the housekeeper and the nurse beside him. They all rushed over to soothe him. Hector, Hector, please calm down."

Still, he stared intently at Tiana with a steely gaze that could send a sliver down anyone's spine. Even Tiana was taken aback by his gaze. She had no idea why Hector would always look at her with such a terrifying look in his eyes,

It was as though he hated her, which was puzzling since she thought he liked her a lot.

At the same time, Chelsea also panicked, urging. "Get the medicine. Hurry up."

Seeing that scene, Abby walked over to Hector and placed her small, chubby hand on his big hand.

Old Mr. Handsome, don't be mad. I'll give you candy."

As soon as she said that, she peeled off the wrapper and put the candy in his mouth.

Immediately, Hector, who was overwrought, simmered down, and his gaze landed on the adorable little girl in front of him.

He was so envious of his wife just a moment ago for being able to be so close to Abby.

A swell of bliss swept over him when he realized she had just fed him candy. It was as though the sweetness of the candy seeped into his heart.

Then, Abby giggled and said, "Eating candy when you're upset will make you happy again."

Her earnest expression when she said those words was so adorable. As she blinked her big, round eyes, her long eyelashes fluttered accordingly.

Caressing Hector's hand with her little one, she cooed, "Don't be mad. Be nice, okay?"

Meanwhile, the family doctor, who had rushed over, was stunned to see Hector regaining his composure. In his opinion, even medication would not calm the latter down so soon.

Thus, he turned to Abby and said, "Kid, would you come here more often to keep him company?"

The doctor reckoned that Abby was so much more effective than medicine when he saw how Hector was quietly looking at the little girl in front of him with a smile on his face.

Thus, he felt that having Abby around would be great for Hector's recovery.

At that moment, Chelsea also went over to Hector and said, "Hector, isn't Abby cute and beautiful?"

Her husband nodded at her words. Even though he could not speak, his expression said it all.

ww

Elizabeth was also surprised by how much Hector liked Abby. With that, she decided to bring her daughter over more often to keep him company.

Abby was in the middle of unwrapping another candy when she heard the doctor's question.

Lifting her head, she looked up with sparkling, doe-like eyes and answered, "Sure! I like it here too. I like Old Mrs. Pretty and Old Mr.

Handsome."

Elizabeth laughed in amusement. Abby had always been a sweet talker, so everyone adored her.

No one could resist such sweet words.

Hector and Chelsea chuckled as well.

The elderly man even complimented Abby in his mind. Just look at her. Our family sure has good genes. She's such a bright and eloquent girl Oblivious to the three children's descent, Chelsea thought of how good it would be if the triplets were part of the Hilton family. After all, they were absolutely adorable.

In fact, she even felt like stealing all of them for herself.

Neglected on the side, Tiana was shocked. She could not help but be impressed by Elizabeth's daughter's eloquence.

She's such a sweet talker with that little mouth of hers.

Then, Tiana swiveled her eyes around and came up with a good idea.

Chapter 393 Forced Her To Go To Dominic

Since she wanted Hector to recover, Tiana believed the best and fastest way to achieve so was to get him to go to her friend's father's place for acupuncture

However, Hector refused to follow her, and Chelsen did not trust her.

The plan she had just devised was to lure Abby out, then have the little girl bring Hector to the hospital

With that thought in mind, she almost burst out laughing Her mood improved in an instant

With that, she watched as the others listened happily to Abby's words and enjoyed her dance.

The whole time, she did not say another word but sneaked a glance at Elizabeth.

She sure is smug. Does she really think she can marry into the Hilton family with three children? Please. She ought to look at herself in the mirror. I must trick Abby into coming out tomorrow so that Hector could get better soon. Matthew won't dare to marry Elizabeth with Hector behind my back, and I'll be able to marry into the Hilton family.

Imagining herself marrying into the Hilton family, Tiana was thrilled. No one will dare look down on me or criticize me when that happens. I'll crush them all under my feet!

Meanwhile, Elizabeth's smile widened when she saw how happy Hector and Chelsea looked. I sure brought Abby over at an opportune moment

Just then, her phone rang. Upon seeing that the caller was Dominic, she walked to the side to answer the call.

"Dominic, did you eat your meals and medicine?"

However, the person on the other end of the line was not Dominic but Shelby

"Elizabeth, where did you go? I paid you. How can you not be in the hospital?" she rebuked.

The anger in her voice was obvious.

Elizabeth pinched her lips together. No one would be happy to hear those words, and she was no exception.

"Mrs. Campbell, I have things to attend to today, and I've informed Dominic about it. I'll go over when I'm done."

“No. You must get here right now. Dom is making a fuss about getting discharged from the hospital because you’re not here,” Shelby said as she looked at her son, who was sitting coldly on the bed.

She thought her son looked handsome even in loosely fitted hospital clothing

Proud of her son, she did not want to see him remain visually impaired for the rest of his life.

Thus, she hoped that he could get better and knew he would cooperate with the treatments as long as Elizabeth was there.

Moreover, he was too young to have his life ruined.

With that, Shelby decided she would be the bad guy if she had to. No matter what, she must get Elizabeth to accompany Dominic.

She had even decided that she would agree to it if his son wanted to marry Elizabeth.

Even so, agreeing to it and liking her were still two different matters.

She was still of the opinion that a woman like Elizabeth was unworthy of her appreciation and that the latter was not in her league.

Elizabeth did find that Dominic had been a little emotionally unstable recently.

Therefore, she said, “Mrs. Campbell, pass him the phone. I’ll talk to him.”

Shelby held the phone before Dominic and pulled his hand.

“Dom, it’s Elizabeth.”

Dominic was not deaf, so he heard everything that his mother had said.

Even though he detested her words, he ignored them for the time being as long as they could make Elizabeth come and accompany him the whole time.

“Hello.”

At the sound of Dominic’s cold voice, Elizabeth could already imagine his current state.

In her mind, she could see him sitting coldly on the bed with dim eyes. Anyone’s heart would ache for him at the sight of his detached and despondent aura.

“Dominic, I have something to do right now. I’ll be coming to see you as soon as I’m done. Please don’t throw a tantrum, okay? You can’t get discharged from the hospital yet,” she crooned, pacifying him like he was a child.

Listening to her voice, Dominic realized he missed her a lot even though it had only been one night since they saw each other.

He smiled as he could imagine her face through her tone.

“Okay, I’ll do as you say.”

Elizabeth was relieved to hear that. “Be good. I’ll bring you something delicious later.”

What a willful guy. How can he think of getting discharged from the hospital when his eyes are in that state?

After hanging up her phone, she noticed that she had a couple of missed calls, which were all from Matthew. At once, she called him back.

The call went through almost immediately. "Ms. Wade, it's me, Esnie."

Chapter 394 Accident

Elizabeth was a little disappointed when it was not Matthew on the phone.

However, their intimacy the night before made her feel blissful whenever she thought of him.

"Where's Mr. Hilton? I saw some missed calls on my phone," she

Elizabeth thought Matthew must have called while st

the phone with Dominic. She recalled hearing something during that call but did not make much of it

Meanwhile, Esme looked at the handsome man, who was being interviewed by the media in front of the microphone. With an impassive countenance, the latter answered the reporters' questions beautifully each time.

That's Mr. Hilton indeed. He's always the calmest no matter what he faces.

“Ms. Wade, Mr. Hilton can’t make it to the phone because he’s being interviewed by the media right now. Do you have anything you would like me to pass on to him? I’ll relay your message to him or get him to call you back later.”

Elizabeth pondered over it and realized she did not have anything to say. I just wanted to ask how he’s doing. After all, he must have a lot on his plate due to that incident today.

Finally, she could not help but voice her concern. I don’t have anything to tell him. Mr. Mack. Uh, ist.

okay?”

Even though Matthew was powerful, and everyone thought of him as some superhero, Elizabeth still saw him as an ordinary human with a head and two arms and legs.

Ultimately, he did not have more limbs than an average person, and he was still a man of flesh and blood

Esme hesitated and replied, “Mr. Hilton is very strong, so you don’t have to worry about him. Ms. Wade, you should just spend more time with him if you can.”

Even so, Elizabeth began to worry after she hung up the phone.

Thus, she quickly pulled up the news on her phone. Immediately, an eye-catching headline popped up: Three Dead In The Construction Site At The Eastern District.

She clicked into the news nervously and saw the content was condemning Hilton Group about the lack of safety measures on the company’s side. The whole incident had also blown out of proportion.

Elizabeth dared not look at the comments under the news article and could only speak to herself inwardly. Hang in there, Matthew. Everyone, please don’t blame him. It’s not his fault.

She was no judge in the matter, and it did not matter to her who was right or wrong. It was no doubt that she was biased.

All she hoped was for the good of her man. She wished for him to be safe and hoped the others would not trouble him.

At that moment, Abby called her, "Mommy, we're going inside."

As it was time for Hector to get his medication and the sun was getting hotter, they all decided to move indoors.

"Okay. I'm coming," Elizabeth answered.

Holding Abby's hand, Chelsea led her inside with Hector and the others.

Elizabeth moved toward them. Tiana, who had been waiting for her, walked side by side with her.

*Lizzy, Grandpa has been talking about bringing you back and holding the wedding for you and Dominic as soon as possible."

Then, she sneered and continued, "I've heard that Dominic got into a car accident and is blind now. You sure are pitiful. Not only is the father of your children unknown, but the only one who stood up for you has gone blind. Should I say that you're unfortunate or that you bring bad luck to any man who's involved with you?"

At that instant, Elizabeth grabbed her hand and pulled her back, forcing her to stumble backward.

Tiana, don't be so complacent. I'll explain things to Grandpa. However, Matthew is mine. Don't ever think of getting your hands on him.

As of then. Elizabeth was sure that she loved Matthew, and she wanted to be with him.

Therefore, she was determined to stand by his side through thick and thin Incensed, Tiana clenched her fists. She wanted to retort Elizabeth and even had an urge to retaliate by hitting her.

This woman sure is violent. To think that she always resorts to violence. Barbarians like her are scary indeed.

In the end, she said, "Elizabeth, you might not know this, but Hector is fond of me and has chosen me as his granddaughter in law. I suggest you get it sorted with Grandpa first before telling me these things. If you want to anger him again and make him think you're a shameless b*tch, go ahead and tell him about your affairs with Matthew."

As soon as she finished her sentence, she strutted away.

Elizabeth drew a deep breath. What a despicable woman.

When she arrived inside the house, Abby was watching the television and choosing the channel with the remote control in her hand.

She happened to turn to the news channel, and it was playing the news about the accident in the eastern district.

Chapter 395 Asking For Help

That sight gave Elizabeth a fright as she was worried Hector would get anxious again if he saw it.

After all, he was already not in good condition. In fact, it was best to keep it from him and also Chelsea Elizabeth walked briskly to Abby's side and snatched the remote control from her.

“Abby, no more television.”

At that moment, Hector was taking his medicine, and Chelsea was by his side, coaxing him to swallow all of them.

It did not seem like they saw the news. However, Tiana saw it, and her eyes widened.

Following that, she turned and left.

It was after she took a few steps forward did she recall she had not bid the Lowens goodbye Old Mrs. Hilton. Hector, I’m taking my leave now.”

As soon as she finished her sentence, she strode out of the house in her heels. Her steps were hasty, betraying her anxiousness, Elizabeth’s eyes darkened when she noticed her behavior. Did she see the news? What is she going to do?

Meanwhile, Abby was pouting because she did not get to watch television.

“Mommy, I’m not the one who wants to watch the television! It’s Old Mr. Handsome. He wants to watch the news. I asked him, and he nodded.”

Instantly, Elizabeth was at a loss. Sweeping her gaze across the surroundings, she decided she had to cut the internet off in the Hilton residence that day

It'd be great if Arthur and Antony were around. They could cut off the internet connection here simply by moving their fingers. Without them,

I have to find the router myself to do so.

She then bent over and whispered to Abby's ear, "Abby, can you stop the two elderly people from watching television today? It's bad for their eyes."

After some contemplation, the little girl answered, "Okay! I won't let them watch television for the sake of their eyes."

As soon as Abby said that, she walked over to Hector, leaned against him, and stared at him with her pair of big eyes.

"Old Mr. Handsome, you must be good and eat your medicine! Only then can you get better. I always take my medicine when I'm sick You should do the same," she said in her mellow voice that could melt anyone's heart.

5

Hector, who refused to take his medicine at first, opened his mouth obediently after hearing her words.

He swallowed the medicine and opened his mouth so that Chelsea could check if he did.

Ah...

Chelses glanced at his mouth and smiled.

“As expected, you only listen to Abby.”

At the mention of the little girl, Hector darted a glance to Abby, then around the place. Then, he realized Arthur and Antony were nowhere to be found.

Those two boys looked like the spitting image of Matt when he was a kid. How can Chelsea not see it?

With that thought in mind, he let out a deep sigh.

The elderly man was a little disappointed. Why didn't the boys come? I missed them already. Don't they miss me?

Chelsea noticed his disappointment, so she said, “Arthur and Antony didn't come because they have class. Lizzy promised to bring them over next time.”

At her explanation, Hector's eyes lit up. So that's what happened? I was afraid they weren't here because they didn't like me. As long as that's not the case, I'm fine with it.

All of a sudden, he felt that he must not die. I can't die; I must stay alive and get better. In the future, I have to bring my three great grandchildren to meet those old geezers and show them that the Hilton family now has descendants. Moreover, they are all beautiful and bright children. I also want to teach them to read, write, and draw.

Thinking of those prospects, Hector wanted nothing more than to get better as soon as possible

Meanwhile, Elizabeth walked to the side and approached a housekeeper.

“Do you know where the router in the Hilton residence is located?”

That housekeeper was a young woman, and she smiled at Elizabeth.

*Ms. Wade, are you trying to connect to the internet? I'll give you the password”

“No, no. I want to know where it is.”

The housekeeper pondered for a moment and informed Elizabeth that the router was in the information room on the third floor.

That was where the main router was. Then, the living room, dining room, and every other room had a converter.

Elizabeth nodded and replied, “Okay, thanks!”

She walked up the staircase. Upon reaching the third floor, she headed to the room at the end of the hallway.

To her dismay, she realized the door was locked after she twisted the doorknob. What is inside here that's worth locking the room? Are they afraid that someone might come and steal something inside?

Frustrated, she hit the door angrily.

In the end, she had no choice but to phone Arthur, who answered the call very soon.

“Mommy.”

“Arthur, can you help me shut down the internet in the Hilton residence by hacking it?”

Chapter 396 Medicinal Herbs

Arthur exchanged glances with Antony when he heard the request as he had the call on speakers “Okay, Mommy,” he agreed.

At that point, Elizabeth was so nervous she felt as though she was about to pass out. I sure am unfit to sneak around.

After taking a deep breath, she said, “Arthur, do it fast. Tell me when you’re done.”

Then, she ended the call and tried to twist the doorknob again.

The Hilton family is pretty weird for hiding their router. I guess that’s how it is with the most influential family in Mistwood.

A few moments later, Elizabeth’s phone vibrated. It was a WhatsApp from Arthur that read: Mommy, it’s done.

Smiling, she replied: Thanks, Arthur!

With her mind at ease, she turned around and headed back downstairs.

She and Abby then had lunch with Hector and Chelsea. After the meal, it was time for him to nap.

Seeing that her daughter was also sleepy, Elizabeth got up and said, "Hector, Old Mrs. Hilton, we'll head back first then."

Abby almost fell asleep in Chelsea's arms. When she heard her mother's words, she let out a big yawn and slid down the couch.

"Okay. We're going back now. Good bye!" Abby said and walked to Elizabeth's side obediently.

She held onto her mother's hand and said, "Let's go. I'm sleepy, and I miss Arthur and Antony."

It was no surprise that Abby said that as she had always been with her brothers together since they were in Elizabeth's womb, not to mention how the three of them had always stayed together even after they were born.

Elizabeth smiled. "Okay! We're going back now."

Naturally, Hector was reluctant to see Abby go. His eyes were glued to the little girl as he tried to raise his hand. Despite his strong desire to speak, he could not utter a word no matter how hard he tried.

They are my granddaughter-in-law and great grandkid. Yet, no one knew about it, letting them wander outside for years. I tremble to think how much they must have suffered.

Likewise, Chelsea was reluctant to see them go. Even after she walked them to the car, she kept waving at them.

At the sight of that, Elizabeth thought Hector and Chelsen were pitiful. After all, there were not many people in the Hilton family. Matthew was their only grandson.

They must feel desolate, living in such a big manor on their own. I'm sure they were happy when they saw children because it added so much fe to the place. I should exhort Matthew to come back more often and spend more time with them.

Abby was so sleepy that she could barely keep her eyes open while sitting in the child seat

Hugging her Barbie doll closer, she said, "Mommy, we'll come and visit them again, okay?"

Elizabeth was aware that her daughter loved having fun and knew who was genuinely nice to her.

Cognizant of the fact that she adored the elderly couple, Elizabeth responded, "Sure. We'll bring Arthur and Antony along with us too."

Abby grumbled, "It's so big here and beautiful like a princess' castle. It's just a shame that we can't watch television."

She said that because she loved watching cartoons. Yet, the internet in the Hilton residence went out, so she did not get to watch any Elizabeth burst out in laughter when she heard her complaint.

"Yes. But it's bad for your eyes if you watch too much television."

Abby had fallen asleep by then, so she did not hear her at all.

A little over an hour later, Elizabeth parked the car in front of her house. Cody came out of the house and carried Abby out of the child seat.

Seeing how soundly she was sleeping, she remarked with a smile. "She must have had a lot of fun to be so tired."

While holding the car door open to make it convenient for Cody to get out of the car, Elizabeth stared at the little girl in her housekeeper's arms.

That was when she recalled how Abby seemed to be in better health recently as the latter did not fall sick as often anymore. Thanks to that, she did not need to worry as much

As they were about to reach the front door, Cody piped up suddenly, "Lizzy, could you tell Mr. Hilton that I've run out of the medicinal herbs he gave me previously?"

"Medicinal herbs? What medicinal herbs?"

It struck Cody then that Matthew had told her to keep it a secret. She could not help but blame herself for being so careless that day and letting it slip.

"Cody, tell me

H

Elizabeth had no idea there were other secrets between Cody and Matthew besides the fact that he was trying to get the older woman to work for him.

Cody grimaced and finally replied, "Lizzy, Abby is rather heavy. I'll head inside first. I don't think I can carry her much longer."

After making up an excuse, she tried to run away, but Elizabeth went over and helped her support Abby.

With a cold gaze, the young woman insisted, "Hurry up and tell me."

Chapter 397 The First Time

Realizing that she could no longer keep it a secret, Cody smiled.

"Lizzy, it's not a bad thing. Mr. Hilton noticed Abby had a weak constitution, so he sought a better professional practitioner to get some medicinal herbs. Usually, I'll put some of these herbs in the soup I make so that everyone can enjoy it together. At first, I didn't believe it would work, but Abby's health recently improved. Her appetite has also gotten better."

At that moment, Elizabeth finally realized what was going on. She had thought Abby did not get sick as often because the latter grew older.

As it turned out, it was all thanks to Matthew.

Not only did he treat her well, but he cared for her children too.

In the past, she had thought of getting married but was concerned that her other half might not treat her kids well and feared they would be abused.

Given the circumstances, she reckoned Matthew would definitely be a good father.

Delighted, she smiled sweetly.

“Lizzy, I think Mr. Hilton is pretty nice. He treats you and your children well. It’s rare to find such men, so you have to cherish him!” Cody could not resist the urge to comment

Elizabeth nodded. ‘I know. Cody, you can bring Abby in

As of then, she was a little moved. Nevertheless, she had also given herself to him last night. It was their first act of intimacy, which was a wonderful experience Elizabeth closed the front door and got into her car. After glancing at the time, she felt like giving Matthew a call again.

However, Esme previously told her that Matthew would return her call when he had the time. Since he still had not done so, she thought he must be swamped.

Thus, she decided against disturbing him and drove to the hospital instead.

When she walked into the ward, Dominic was on a drip. Upon noticing her arrival, he moved his head slightly.

1/2

“Lizy, is that you?”

Elizabeth answered, "Yes, I'm here. Did you take your meals and medicine?"

She was treating him like a child since he behaved like one.

Shelby was taking an afternoon nap on the couch. Their voices woke her up, and she raised her hands to cover her eyes.

"Ugh, you two are too noisy."

At her age, even the slightest movement could disturb her sleep.

Only then did Elizabeth glance at the couch. Then, she stuck out her tongue in embarrassment.

When Dominic saw her reaction, his lips quirked into a faint smile. Lizzy is so adorable.

With light footsteps, she walked to his side and placed the yogurt she had specially gone to buy on the table.

"I brought some yogurt for you. Have a taste."

Dominic liked that type of yogurt a lot. Elizabeth even added ten toppings, so it smelled delicious.

The young man was slightly surprised. "You still remember it?"

The first time he ate that yogurt was with her. Back then, she had just received her salary of one thousand and five hundred from her first job, so she wanted to treat him to a meal, though he was the one who paid for it in the end.

She had brought him to a small store located in an alley. Despite the secluded location, there were many customers there.

It was the first time he had ever eaten something so scrumptious. Elizabeth was pleased to see his satisfied expression. Even though the location was a little run down, she was happy as long as he liked the yogurt.

“Of course! It was what I treated you to after I received my first salary.”

Elizabeth scooped a spoonful of the yogurt and brought it to his mouth. Have a taste. I bought it at the same place.”

At that moment, Dominic had a warm smile on his face.

It was a memory that only belonged to both of them, so it was considered their first.

After tasting it, he nodded fervently.

“It still tastes the same! So sweet and delicious.”

Upon recollecting that day, she could not help but smile sweetly. Back then, she was not as sophisticated. Even though she was heavily stressed, she refused to accept his goodwill.

She had worked incredibly hard every day to provide for her three children.

Just then, her phone rang, which woke Shelby up. As soon as the older woman opened her eyes, she scolded, “Elizabeth, you’re too much! You have been so noisy since you entered the room. Do you have any manners?

“When Elizabeth saw it was a call from Matthew, she quickly walked out of the ward and was in no mood to care about others anymore.

Chapter 398 The Four Most Prominent Families

Seeing Elizabeth ignored her completely. Shelby was dissatisfied with her and felt slightly uncomfortable.

She sat upright and tidied her hair.

The housekeeper had already handed her shawl over, so she took it and wrapped it around herself.

“Dom, look at her. She doesn’t have any manners at all. I was talking to her, but she ignored me and walked off.”

Meanwhile, Dominic sat on his hospital bed expressionlessly. Earlier on, he saw the caller ID on Elizabeth’s phone. It was Matthew.

Whenever he called her, she would look like she had lost her soul.

Disgruntled, he glanced at the television on the wall.

It was talking about the deat

Hilton Group’s construction site. His lips curved into a faint smile. This would make Matthew busy for quite some time

Shelby also saw the news, so she hurriedly took the remote control to turn up the volume.

“Hilton Group is in trouble. It’s that piece of land at the eastern district”

Her face broke into a grin when she saw the news.

“Serves Matthew right. Back then, your grandfather wanted you to get that piece of land, and he scolded you when you couldn’t get it. It’s gratifying now that this had happened”

Dominic remained silent. Shelby knew he could not see but could still hear the news.

“Dom, did you hear the news from the television just

Dominic felt around for the pillow and slowly leaned back “Mom, this is Hilton Group’s matter. We can’t participate nor judge this.”

He was the type of person who took a clear stance on things.

“Shelby stood up and paced the room.

“This couch is not meant for sleeping. My legs are sore from bending for a long time, and it even feels uncomfortable when I walk.”

It was also because of that couch that Dominic could not bear for Elizabeth to stay overnight, as he was afraid she would not be able to get a good night’s rest

“Mom. Ly can take care of me now, so you don’t need to come to the hospital anymore.”

Shelby usually had a busy schedule and had several activities to attend since socialites loved to ask her out.

She was busy every day, so she must be bored from being stuck in the hospital.

Shelby sighed. Just the previous day, she went to a tea party, but the people there were all pitying her. They were all talking about what she should do in the future and how her other family members would take over Campbell Corporation

Then, they started to talk about her blind son and how she was very miserable since she would have to take care of him for the rest of her life.

As someone who had never been through such patronization, she felt an increasing urge to leave the tea party the more she heard them talk.

Ultimately, she walked off, ending on bad terms with them.

She finally saw their true colors. During the time her son was in a high position, they all ingratiate themselves with her. However, when all accident befell him, they hoped he would be blind forever.

She was in no mood to go to events, as she had a more important thing to do, which was to accompany her son.

“Mom, did you hear what I said?”

“Dom, I’m your mother. You can’t stop me from coming. You don’t let anyone from the family come here, not even your grandmother and father. They are all waiting for my news every day. I need to come here.”

Just then, Rosalie walked in. She was supporting Linda as they entered the ward.

At the sight of the elderly woman, Shelby immediately straightened her back. The Ferguson family was one of the four most prominent families in Mistwood. The Campbell family was second in position, followed by the Ferguson family and the Johnson family.

The four most prominent families maintained a decent relationship with one another, as they would usually meet during their socialite gatherings.

“Old Mrs. Ferguson, why are you here?”

Clad in a silver dress, Linda looked elegant.

She looked at the man on the hospital bed. “I came to the hospital for a checkup, and I heard from Nicolas that Dominic was staying in the hospital. Since our families have been friends for generations, I naturally have to come and pay Dominic a visit.”

Her housekeeper brought in some fruits and health supplements which the Campbell family’s housekeeper took over.

At that moment, Elizabeth had ended her call. That lively scene was what she witnessed upon walking toward the ward.

She stood by the doorway, pondering whether or not she should enter the room.

Rosalie called her, "Lizzy, you must be fired from taking care of Dominic! I also bought you some health supplements Remember to eat them!"

Chapter 399 A Deep One

Elizabeth was already feeling a little awkward. Since Rosalie had called her, she could only enter the ward.

"Ms. Ferguson, Old Mrs. Ferguson," she politely greeted them.

Linda was slightly surprised to see her.

"Ms. Wade, why are you here?"

Just as Shelby was about to say she was the caregiver they hired, Rosalie forestalled her and answered Linda's question.

"Lizzy and Dom are good friends, Grandma. They're extremely close, so she came to care for him round the clock since he fell ill."

When Linda heard Rosalie's words, her expression changed.

She and Chelsen were best friends. Even after so many years, they still had a close relationship.

Regarding Matthew as her own grandchild, she also paid close attention to the woman he was going to marry.

Needless to say, she was not expecting to see Elizabeth there, let alone find out that the latter was taking care of Dominic round the clock.

Dominic lost his vision, so the person taking care of him had to help him do many things. For instance, they would have to help him go to the bathroom and wipe his body.

Those things should be his girlfriend's responsibility, yet Elizabeth was doing them.

In an instant, Landa figured out what was going on. Nowadays, all girls are like this. She's after another man when she already has Matthew. As expected. Elizabeth is not a simple woman as she appears to be on the surface! Although she's beautiful, and few in the world are as beautiful as she is, it's useless. One should marry a competent and virtuous wife, especially in prominent families like ours. It's essential to get a partner of equal status.

In the past, she used to not care about it and thought it was fine as long as the two people liked each other.

Upon seeing Elizabeth's behavior, she suddenly felt it was better to find a person of equal status as she would know them well. Also, they would be well educated

Rosalie grew up by Linda's side, so she knew her the best.

Today's matter would lead Grandma to realize there's a problem with Elizabeth. Since Grandma is very fond of Matt, she would definitely want hun to marry a good person.

The young woman knew she got her chance.

Standing at the side, Elizabeth did not explain herself since Rosalie did not say anything wrong She was indeed good friends with Dominic.

Shelby glanced at Rosalie. I've heard that this young woman likes Matthew and is adamant about marrying into the Hilton family. It seems that it's true. However, she's much brighter than Elizabeth. With just a few sentences, she managed to cause Old Mrs. Ferguson's expression to change. The elderly's attitude toward Elizabeth changed as well.

Wt that thought, she shook her head. I'm not satisfied with Elizabeth, too, but there's nothing I can do currently. Well, this is good as well.

With Rosalie's intervention, Elizabeth can then forget about Matthew and focus on being by Dom's side.

Everyone inside the ward was engrossed in their own thoughts except Elizabeth.

She stood at the side, paying no attention to anyone else.

Shelby and Linda were chatting. After a while, the former called Elizabeth.

"Elizabeth, go and wash some fruits for the visitors."

Elizabeth replied, "Okay"

She turned around to leave, but Dominic grabbed her hand.

“There’s no need for you to do this Take a break We have the help here”

He was displeased with how his mother ordered his beloved woman around, especially when outsiders were present.

Elizabeth wanted to withdraw her hand, but his grip was strong

“Just sit on the side of my bed and chat with me

Linda glanced at Elizabeth’s wrist, which was grabbed tightly by Dominic. It was apparent that they had a close relationship with each other.

Her expression changed for a second, but she soon composed herself and continued the conversation with Shelby.

Rosalie also smiled and stood up.

“Wow! Dom, you and Lizzy are really close” she commented.

Elizabeth retracted her hand. Ms. Ferguson, it’s not what you think. We’re just friends. ”

When Landa saw how Elizabeth hastened to explain herself, she shook her head. She really is a greedy one. Although she has Matt, who’s such a good boyfriend, she’s still unsatisfied. Now, she’s even afraid that we would expose her.

Chapter 400 She Paneked Because She Cared About Hum

Dommie did not say anything as he knew Elizabeth had Matthew in her heart.

However, he believed that she would forget about Matthew in the future. Then, he would make sure she would fall deeply in love with him.

He held her hand firmly, never letting go of her, no matter how much she struggled to withdraw her hand.

Rosalie glanced at the time. "Grandma, your medical report should be out Nicolas said we needed to go over in half an hour."

Hearing that, Linda stood up. "Dam, remember to get proper rest. You will recover."

Shelby saw them out. While Rosalie supported Linda out of the ward, she walked beside them, smiling ear to ear

The ward became silent after the three of them left Elizabeth withdrew her hand. "Dominic, you know that I'm only taking care of you because we're friends. I hope you can explain to them for me next time."

Dominic could sense the anger in her tone, so he let go of her hand too

"Lizzy, you know that I like you. I feel that God is kind to me for letting me meet you, and I've always been grateful for that. Now that I'm blind,

I feel like I'm becoming increasingly dependent on you. However, I won't force you I'm not worthy of you since I have now become someone with a disability."

He then lowered his head, giving off a sorrowful and lonely appearance.

Elizabeth felt bad for him. "Dominic, I don't mean it like that. Even if you can't see, you're still an outstanding person. Don't look down on yourself. You are the best and most good looking person."

At that point, she was out of sorts. It probably began when she saw Rosalie. The latter was so pretty and elegant, not to mention she came from a prestigious family.

On the other hand, Elizabeth seemed to be good at nothing. She was beginning to lose confidence.

At the thought of how Rosalie and Matthew were a perfect match for each other in terms of family backgrounds, she became anxious.

That sense of panic and fear was something she had never felt before, causing her to be racked with nervousness.

She was apprehensive that Rosalie would say something to Matthew.

Dominic leaned back into his pillow and said calmly, "You should go, Lizzy! I don't want to hold you back.

*

With that, he tilted his head to the side as though he was unwilling to look in her direction.

Elizabeth pursed her lips. "Dominic, don't get angry. I swear I'm not looking down on you. In my heart, you're the nicest man in the world."

my

Five years ago, he didn't run away from me in fright when I was in that state. Instead, he sent me to the hospital and even paid for medical bills. Since then, he has always helped me. He's a very kind man. Dominic's too benevolent, and God shouldn't have been so unjust to him. He ought to be in good health his whole life.

At that moment, Shelby returned to the ward. Upon noticing the tense atmosphere between them, she knew they must have had an argument.

Well, how could they not argue after Elizabeth's behavior just now? Even I'm livid. My son is such a remarkable man. If it weren't because he is currently visually impaired, Elizabeth wouldn't have been able to come to his side, and I wouldn't have compromised.

Her anger intensified the more she thought about it.

Crossing her arms, she said. "Elizabeth, since your heart isn't here, you don't need to come and disturb Dom anymore. He needs rest. You should go."

At the end of the day, Shelby still did not think well of Elizabeth, who did not come from a prestigious family and even had three children.

Such a woman is of no help to Dom. If he were to marry her, he would have to take care of her three children too. Thus, Elizabeth isn't worthy of my son.

Elizabeth cast a glance at Dominic. Judging from his frosty and sorrowful countenance, she knew he refused to talk to her.

“Dominic, remember to take your meals and medicine. I’ll come back tomorrow.”

Considering his mood, she would only feel awkward if she stayed there.

Afterward, she remained there for a little while. When Dominic still ignored her, she took her bag and walked out of the ward.

Seeing that Elizabeth had finally left, Shelby walked to the side of the hospital bed.

“Dom, did you see that? Elizabeth’s character is objectionable. She’s ambitious and wants to marry Matthew. I bet she has eyes on the Hilton family’s current standing in Mistwood,”

As she spoke, she became incensed. “Dom, you don’t have to worry. Your father has gone overseas to find you a doctor, and he’ll surely hire the best one for you. You will recover.”