Chapter 581

Genevieve raised her brows and said, "Oh, we can't tell you."

Cooper could not help but laugh.

Since they wanted to have barbecue for lunch, Cooper drove them to the incgamall. After lunch. they could go shopping

Once they arrived at the barbecue restaurant, Genevieve said she wanted to go to the restroom.

She only returned when the barbecue was ready. In her hands, there was a gift bag.

Genevieve handed the bag to Jane. "This is for both of you."

Jane took out the exquisite gift box and saw a pair of couple watches in the velvet-lined box. The design of the dial plate was very ingenious. Whatever was missing in the male watch was all found in the female version.

When they placed the two watches side by side, the pointers made sounds that sounded like heartbeats.

Jane was astonished as she exclaimed, "They're so pretty!"

"I sent someone to look for the watches for a very long time before I managed to purchase them." said Genevieve. She pointed at the couple watches and continued. "Both the watches and the cost are astonishing."

Resting her chin in her hand, she asked, "Why? Do you want me to put the watches on for you?"

Cooper smiled and removed the watch that he had been wearing. Jane picked up the new watch and put it on his wrist.

James would be taking care of the production company, so Genevieve decided to rest at home for a couple of days.

She got to know from Timothy that Charlotte was having a party on a luxurious cruise ship given by her dad. She had invited a number of socialites, and that included Sylvie.

Charlotte was the youngest daughter of Benson Corporation's boss, the largest real estate tycoon in the country. She had older siblings who were very capable, so many people might not know about her.

However, projects such as Regality Gardens, Azalea Court, and Swallow Garden completed by Benson Corporation were well-known.

Charlotte was the typical high society lady from a wealthy family.

Timothy's father had a pretty good relationship with Charlotte's father, Jiminy Benson, and both Timothy and Charlotte were in the same circle as well. Their families had initially tried to matchmake the two young people, but there was no spark between them.

Since Charlotte was Jiminy's youngest daughter, he gave her everything she ever wanted.

Timothy and Charlotte had a cordial relationship because he had lent her a helping hand in the past. Furthermore, their families were in the same social circle.

Genevieve was well aware of what Sylvie was up to.

It was not easy for Sylvie to become Herbert's granddaughter and attain a certain status. A wealthy socialite like Charlotte as her best friend was exactly what Sylvie needed.

Coco was so infuriated by Genevieve's confidence that she grilled her teeth in anger.

The rest of the ladies know who Genevieve was. She used to be Armand's wife. Now, she married the owner of Helt Corporation. There was no way they would dare to offend Genevieve.

Furthermore, Genevieve was close to Paula (from Exuberance Group).

Therefore, they did not join Coco in her sarcastic remarks. Instead, they started chatting about other things.

After a while, one of them asked Coco if it was true that she was dating Milcs.

That excited Coco. She swirled her champagne flute and said proudly, "We are just friends and have gone out for meals a couple of times. That's all."

"Friends hold hands when they go out for meals?" one of the socialites asked with a cheeky smile.  It looks as if you are about to become Sylvie's sister-in-law.

As Genevieve listened to the conversation, she began to understand the situation.

Chapter 584

Soon, a few more people boarded the cruise ship.

With the retro look Jane did for her and her custom-made pink fishtail dress, Charlotte was the most eye-catching woman on the entire cruise.

Once Charlotte showed up, the other socialites all rushed over to lavish praises on her. They all wanted a photo with her to brag on their Instagram.

After all, those that could attend Charlotte's party were considered Charlotte's friends.

Coco was determined to be acquainted with Miles. Since Sylvie was Miles' cousin, Coco had been doing her best to appease Sylvie ever since Sylvie arrived.

Even though they were both in the entertainment industry, Sylvie began looking down on Coco after becoming the Zeigler family's granddaughter. However, she didn't show her contempt and merely chatted with Coco happily.

Meanwhile, Genevieve remained on the sidelines, silently watching the women's battle.

Sylvie wants to get an international award so badly that I wonder if she'll fight Coco for it. That'll be fun to patch.

Aboard the cruise ship, the mega-rich, young socialites, and heirs from wealthy and powerful families partied wildly.

Bottles of red wine amounting to one hundred thousand were opened one after the other. Some even cost hundreds of thousands. As everyone chatted, they enjoyed the wine and savored the scrumptious, fancy dishes.

“The loser has to take off one piece of clothing.” Sylvie’s finger caressed the top of the deck mindlessly as she chuckled. “Wien tlic loser is in her underwcar, she’ll have to put on a sexy performance at the nightclub. Isn’t that exhilarating?”

With a frowni, Genevieve rubbed hier chin. “Isn’t the bct a bit too much?”

“I don’t think so. We’ve always been playing it this way.” Coco added, “You can ask anyone here.”

The other socialites knew Sylvie and Coco were planning to prank Genevieve.

Since a few of the girls were also part of the entertainment industry, they nodded in agreement so they wouldn’t displeas Sylvie,

Coco caught the hesitant look on Genevieve’s face and did her best to persuade the latter. She kept assuring Genevieve that she wouldn’t lose with her beginner’s luck. To gain Genevieve’s trust, she even lost the first round on purpose

With Coco being a celebrity and her frequent visits to beauty salons, her figure was much better than other socialites. Many men triccc rubbing themselves against her as she danced.

The atmosphere was heated in the nightclub when the large screen on the wall suddenly lit up.

Soon, an R-rated video began playing on the screen. Even though the crucial parts had been blurred out, the intense lovemaking scene accompanied by the woman's moan shocked everyone in the nightclub.

The video even gained more attention than Coco's sexy dance.

"Hey, isn't that Sylvie?" someone in the crowd muttered.

That question led everyone to pay attention to the woman's features. When they realized Sylvie was the woman in the video, they turned to look at her.

Sylvie clenched her fists, her nails digging deep into her palms. However, she still tried to remain calm.

The bad feeling in Genevieve's gut intensified when she heard Charlotte's answer. "Jane's still isn't back yet. Please ask the attendants to help me search for her."

After hanging up the call, Genevieve dashed to the control room.

No surveillance cameras were installed in the rooms' hallway, nightclubs, and pubs to protect the guests' privacy. Yet, there was no sign of Jane in the other surveillance cameras.

The attendants started their search on the first and third floors while Genevieve was anxiously searching the hallway on the second floor.

Just when she was about to take the stairs, she caught a faint sound coming from the utility room beneath the stairway. Without a second thought, she dashed to the room.

The door wasn't locked, so with a twist of the knob, she got the door open.

Genevieve saw a drunk young man pinning Jane down on the floor.

The man was tearing her clothes from her and kept mumbling something along the lines of being able to pay her for her service.

Genevieve had been weak and sickly, so her feeble struggles were

Though Faulkner Group had changed hands, many Faulkners continued to serve in upper management. News about the Faulkner family's fiasco had yet to make the rounds in Xedells.

Most people continued to fear the Faulkner family, so no one would have dared to harm Janc,

Genevieve looked at Charlotte and said carefully, "Janc has a heart condition. Someone stole her medication."

Charlotte momentarily froze in shock, though she quickly understood Genevieve's meaning. She commented. "But Javier was knocked out cold. Even if he wakes up tomorrow, I doubt he'll remember anything he did after drinking himself into oblivion."

"We don't need to wait until tomorrow." Genevieve narrowed her eyes shrewdly and smiled, adding, "Ms. Benson, could I trouble you to invite all the servers and guests to the ballroom. Exclude the staff who were in the captain's cabin."

About ten minutes later, almost every server aboard the cruise ship arrived at the ballroom, joining the socialites in attendance at the party.

The ballroom was crowded.

Someone asked Charlotte curiously, "What's going on, Lottie?"

Genevieve announced, "Someone stole my friend's medication from her purse." Her piercing gaze swept across everyone present in the crowd began gossiping about Genevieve's revelation. "Who the heck stole your friend's medication?"

Genevieve spoke not as though it's a longevity

Undeterred by Coco's refusal, Sylvie whispered, "Think carefully, Coco, My granddad is Old Mr. Zeigler. Even if Genevieve traces the theft to me, all I need to do is apologize. She can't do anything to me. You, on the other hand, are different, Granddad only allows me to work in the entertainment industry because he loves it. That doesn't mean he approves of any grandchildren-in-law running in these circles. After all, the Zeiglers have a military legacy."

Sylvie's tone was gentle, yet it did little to mask the threat in her words. "Once I say a few words to Granddad, you can kiss your dream of marrying into the Zeigler family goodbye."

Coco gritted her teeth in anger and glared at Sylvie.

The final nail in the coffin was when Sylvie tidied Coco's hair and added, "You're out of options, Coco. If you refuse to help me, you can kiss your entertainment career goodbye too; I swear to that."

Alas, to preserve her dreams of marrying into the Zeigler family and her entertainment career, Coco relented. "You better remember your promise!"

A relieved smile appeared on Sylvie's face, "Of course."

The cruise ship had three floors, so where they were located was terrifyingly high.

Coco was against the deck railing, and her body was lifted in the air. Although the cruise ship was going at an extremely slow speed, the raging waves are enough to make her shiver all over "Genevieve, let me down! I'll talk! I'll talk!" Coco cried.

Soon, Charlotte and the others arrived at the deck as well.

That was when Sylvic saw Coco crying in fear and about to admit to everything. Irincdiately. she yelled, "What do you think you're doing. Genevieve? Are you trying to kill someone? Coco is going to be a member of my family. If you bully her, I won't let you off."

Coco was still crying, but when she heard what Sylvic said, she suppressed the urge to spill the truth

Naturally, Genevieve noticed it and knew there was no way she could get an answer out of Coco, She ended up letting go of Coco all of a sudden.
