Chapter 1091 I Want Shares in the Renaissance Mall

Wesley still knelt on the ground and said in a trembling voice, "Mr. Larson, are you satisfied now?"

Matthew sneered and shook his head. "Not even one bit!"

When Wesley heard that, he was taken aback, and his expression changed all of a sudden. "Mr. Larson, I killed the man for you, and you're still not satisfied? Then what more do you want from me?"

Matthew glanced at him. "Go back and tell your Grandpa: I want 30% of the shares of Renaissance Mall!"

Wesley became furious. "Impossible! Renaissance Shopping Mall is the foundation of the Telk Family, and it will never be controlled by others! You wanting my shares in Renaissance is as though challenging my foundation in the Ten Greatest Families. I'll have you know that the Ten Greatest Families will not agree to this!"

Matthew replied, "Who knows? He might agree if you go back and ask him! Oh, by the way, help me ask your old man why he hasn't been to Blossoms in the past two days."

Wesley's complexion changed greatly, and he looked at Matthew in disbelief.

Matthew stood up and patted Wesley's shoulder with a chuckle. "I'll be waiting for your good news!"

After speaking, Matthew walked away.

Wesley was still frozen in place, and after a while, he got up in horror and rushed to Telk Residence.

Downstairs, Tiger drove the car and took Matthew away.

Chapter 1092 Make a Fortune

In the afternoon, Wesley personally visited Matthew and conveyed Philip's words.

Matthew was originally testing the Telk Family.

Now that the Telk Family had agreed to sell the shares, Matthew immediately knew that the Telk Family really was guilty about something.

He was not polite to them at all and unabashedly offered a very low price.

According to normal estimates, with the status of Renaissance Mall in Eastcliff, these 30% shares could be sold for at least 7 to 8 billion.

Also, they couldn't even buy the shares with money.

However, Matthew's final offer to the Telk Family was a price of merely 300 million.

Not only that, Matthew requested that all the people of the Telk Family withdraw from the Renaissance Mall because he wanted his own people to take over the mall.

When Wesley heard that, though he was trembling with anger, he still had to agree to Matthew's request in the end.

There was no way out—Matthew now had his clutches on the Telk Family's Achilles' heel!

Matthew immediately called Tiger and

Chapter 1093 Blossoms

Blossoms was the largest flower and bird market in Eastcliff.

The place closed after 8.00PM.

At 8.30PM, Matthew quietly sneaked into Blossoms alone.

The whole of Blossoms was eerily silent—one could hear a pin drop.

Matthew walked in the darkness and searched carefully.

In the end, Matthew stopped in a corner, where he smelled the scent of voodoo insects.

He walked and followed along the scent, made a few turns, and came to the last room.

The room was dimly lit.

Matthew leaned over and found three people sitting in the room.

Of the three, Matthew had seen two of them before—they were Crow's eldest and second apprentice.

Charmine was furious—she didn't expect that her two senior apprentices would accuse her this way.
She roared and cursed angrily, but the two guys insisted that she betrayed their master.
Left-Wing Guardian narrowed his eyes slightly, as if he was judging the words of the three to decide who was right and who was wrong.
Suddenly, he took action and patted Charmine's shoulder.
Charmine's body swayed as she felt that all the strength in her body seemed to be drained, and she fell to the ground involuntarily.
She couldn't help being stunned and said in shock, "Left-Wing Guardian, w-what are you doing?"
The two apprentices were also at a loss. Left-Wing Guardian directly subdued Charmine? What's happening?
He sneered. "Charmine, your story is full of holes, so how can I trust you?"
Charmine was anxious. "W-Which part of my story had holes? What I said is true—they killed my master..."
Left-Wing Guardian waved his hand impatiently. "Whether it is the truth or not, I will personally

Left-Wing Guardian's expression became extremely flustered, because he had already witnessed that his few cursed worms were not the opponents of Matthew's.

In this short period of time, almost half of his cursed worms were bitten to death.

As for the cursed worms on Matthew's side, they suffered no damage—the gap in skill was too huge!

After a moment of silence, Left-Wing Guardian suddenly turned around and ran away.

Matthew sneered. "Did you think you could escape?"

He took a stride, rushed in front of Left-Wing Guardian, and kicked him back with one kick.

Left-Wing Guardian fell to the ground, but he took the opportunity to pull out the silver needle from the second apprentice's head.

"Kill him!" he roared.

The second apprentice looked terrified and didn't dare to take action at all. Instead, he hurriedly

Chapter 1096 Lord Voodoo Is Coming

An unknown amount of time passed before Charmine finally began to wake up. When she saw the young man sitting next to her, she was a little puzzled, and she rubbed her eyes vigorously.

"M-Matthew!? Why are you here?" Charmine exclaimed.

Matthew glanced at her. "You finally woke up!"

Charmine looked around—it was the same room in Blossoms. She still remembered that she had been spiked by Left-Wing Guardian's medication. After that, she felt a tingling pain in her chest before she lost consciousness. With this in mind, she sat up abruptly and pulled off her clothes to take a look.

There was a small scar on her snow-white chest, indicating that what happened before was not a dream. Her face changed suddenly, and she asked in a trembling voice, "Y-You saved me?"

Matthew replied, "How else would you be alive?"

Charmine's expression changed several times in an instant, and finally, she smiled bitterly. "It seems that I owe you another life!"

Matthew walked over and greeted the two of them.

When Sasha saw Matthew, her face flushed with embarrassment even more.

"Mom, Dad, why don't you move in here? The house is big, and with just the few of us, the house feels empty," Matthew said with a smile. He extended an invitation.

When he saw that James and Helen's attitude toward him had changed, it meant that they had accepted him as family, which was why he would definitely take care of them.

It could be seen that both of them had some intentions to move in as well.

However, in the end, James waved his hand. "It's okay. We won't come over for the time being. As you all know, Crystal is too wilful. During this time, the two of them go to The Grand Garden every day. I don't even dare to let them know about Lakeside Garden; otherwise, they will definitely come here and not leave. This house belongs to the two of you. This time, you can't let them mess it up."

Sasha's heart was warm—she was glad that her parents had finally started thinking for her.

All of a sudden, Helen added, "By the way, Matthew, Sasha, we are here this time to discuss something with you."

Sasha asked curiously, "Mom, what's the matter?"

The three of them entered Renaissance Mall, and Sasha brought Natalie to pick out some clothes upstairs. Natalie was so delighted that even her footsteps were light as she bobbed around like an adorable little fairy. Behind them, Matthew watched the two people who were closest to him with a warm feeling in his chest.

After they were finished shopping for clothes, Natalie wanted to have some fast food, so Matthew brought them to the first floor. The fast-food restaurant was already crowded with people.

In the restaurant, Sasha found a spot and sat down with Natalie while Matthew went to queue up to buy the food.

Today, Natalie was very happy, and while she was chatting with Sasha, someone suddenly shoved her so hard that she would have knocked her head on the table if Sasha hadn't quickly held her.

Spinning around, Sasha saw a little fat boy with a few other kids standing behind; this fat boy was the one who bullied Natalie yesterday.

"What are you doing?" she asked angrily.

When everyone heard the name Zion Fowler, they broke out in a clamor.

"Goodness, she's Zion's wife?"

"Who's Zion Fowler?"

"Don't you know? He's a gangster boss in East City, also known as Master Zion. His elder brother is Zack Fowler, one of the top ten businessmen in Eastcliff!"

"So, she's from the Fowler Family. Back then, they used to be one of the members of the Ten Greatest Families!"

It didn't occur to Sasha that this woman had such a background, and she was stunned.

On the other hand, the woman was in glee, casting a look at her from the corners of her eyes. "B*tch, do you still want to sue me now?"

Instantly, a man next to them said, "Hey, here's a piece of advice for you: Apologize to Mrs. Fowler quickly; otherwise, Master Zion won't go easy on you once he gets here."

Then, everyone else followed suit with his saying.

Ignoring these people, Matthew took a seat grandly and even passed the burgers and soda in his hands to Sasha. At the same time, he had sent a text to Tiger so that he could make the arrangements for this issue.

Less than ten minutes later, five BMWs stopped at the door, and about twenty people got out of the cars. Looking very fierce, all of them were big and stout with fat faces.

The one leading the men was a well-built man, who was none other than Zion Fowler.

Seeing Zion, everyone started cheering in excitement; this man was a gangster boss in East City and a renowned bigshot in Eastcliff after all.

Cheering especially loudly were the people who were beaten up earlier, and they seemed very smug now. Using this opportunity, they might even get recognized and rewarded by Zion!

"Lad, Master Zion is here. You're dead meat! Go on your knees and bow down to Mrs. Fowler quickly. Maybe he might spare your worthless life!"

"Hmph! What are you thinking? Do you think he can still live after he walked all over Master Zion's wife and son? I have no idea where this idiot popped up from, but with that ignorance, it's just his dessert even if he dies!"
