Chapter 1121 Now, It's Your Turn to Kneel

Sensing that the situation wasn't right, Eric silently waved his hand, preparing to get the Cunninghams to leave.

Matthew stood up and called out loudly, "Grandpa, since everyone's here, let's have a simple meal together."

Eric couldn't help but shudder. He knew that if Matthew asked them to stay, it didn't mean anything good.

"Uh, I... I'm getting old, so I can't stay up too late. You guys go ahead and eat. Jason, take me home!" Eric replied.

Jason eagerly wanted to help him leave the place.

However, Desmond waved his hand, and the security guards at the door stopped them.

"It's only a little past 7.00PM. How does this count as staying up late? President Whittemore, make arrangements for everyone to be seated." Matthew chuckled.

Desmond smiled and nodded, then immediately asked someone to replace the food on the table.

Chapter 1122 Extreme Regret

Felicia's daughter was trembling with fright. After all, when had she ever seen such a scene?

At this moment, Tiger came in with a baseball bat and gestured at Felicia's daughter's legs a few times.

Upon seeing that, Felicia knew that if she didn't kneel, her daughter wouldn't be able to keep her legs.

Felicia screamed and struggled desperately, but someone pressed her to the ground, and no one paid attention to her.

James couldn't quite bear it. He wanted to speak up several times, but Helen stopped him.

During the years after they got married, Helen had been bullied by Felicia a lot.

She didn't have any capabilities before, so all she could do was silently endure it.

Now, she was undoubtedly happy that her son-in-law wanted to avenge her!

Moreover, Helen knew that for people like Felicia, there was no telling how many more things would happen in the future if no one taught them a lesson!

In the end, Felicia compromised and kneeled before Eric.

Chapter 1123 Exploring Cadmus Lake at Night

On the way home, James and Helen excitedly asked Matthew how he bought shares of the Renaissance.

Matthew didn't tell them the specifics of the situation. Instead, he just said that this was the compensation from the Ten Greatest Families for framing him for Donovan's death.

Shocked, James exclaimed, "That's a hefty compensation!"

Helen was full of excitement. "Matthew, then... can I really go to Renaissance Mall and choose a store?"

Smiling, Matthew replied, "Mom, you can choose whatever you want. It's fine as long as you like it!"

Helen was overjoyed.

She wanted to open a flagship store for the pharmacy, and she planned to leave her younger sister, Heidi, in charge of it.

When the pharmacy was opened for business, not only would she be proud, but even Heidi could make some money!

"Matthew, you're still the most reliable one!" James exclaimed with heartfelt emotion.

Sasha was holding Matthew's arm, and she was also in a joyous mood.

Chapter 1124 Sneak Attack

Matthew had rescued a person who was attacked by venomous creatures while fishing at Cadmus Lake.

This was also how Matthew found Cadmus Lake.

Matthew frowned. "You know about that angler?"

The man let out a bitter laugh. "Of course I do. I'm violating the rules by breeding creatures here. If someone gets attacked, then I would be committing an unforgivable sin. So, I will count the number of creatures every day to see if any of them are missing. If there's a missing creature, then I must immediately find the people who entered this area and look for the person who was attacked and treat them! When I found the angler, his body had recovered. At first, I couldn't figure out who cured him, but now, I finally know!"

Matthew couldn't help being surprised. Initially, he thought that this man was similar to Sanchez and the others, who had no regard for human life.

To his surprise, he even thought about healing people who were attacked by the creatures, which was beyond Matthew's expectation.

After thinking for a moment, Matthew said, "No matter what, breeding creatures in the city is crossing the line!"

The man sighed. "I know. According to the rules, I should cut off my hands, return to Orleans, and never set foot outside Orleans. But, I have important things to do, so I can't leave. Sir, I wonder if you will be so kind as to punish me after I've settled my business!"

Matthew was unmoved. "What's so important that you're willing to throw your life away for it?"

Matthew was calm. "Kill me? Heh..."

Before he finished speaking, he had already rushed into the woods.

The man's expression changed sharply. "Don't go over there. The closer you get to him, the more poisonous creatures—"

However, before he finished speaking, Matthew had already disappeared into the woods.

Less than a minute later, there was a roar from the woods, followed by a muffled grunt.

The man was astonished, as he didn't know what was going on in the woods.

A moment later, a person suddenly flew out of the woods and landed in front of him.

After taking a closer look, the man's expression changed drastically.

Chapter 1126 The Goal of the Voodoo Clan

The man was stunned, and he remained in that state for a long time.

The wounded man on the ground also widened his eyes and asked in a shaky voice, "H-How do you know that?"

Immediately afterward, he seemed to remember something as he suddenly exclaimed, "No, you're one of Lord Voodoo's men. You're helping him."

His expression changed sharply, and he spoke to the man in Orleans, motioning for the man to leave him and run.

The man looked uncertain as he stared straight at Matthew, hesitating whether to use his soulbound curse to fight Matthew.

Matthew captured a key word from the person's statement—Lord Voodoo!

Previously, Charmine and Left-Wing Guardian had also mentioned Lord Voodoo. Moreover, they worked for Lord Voodoo. Now, listening to the tone of these two people, he figured that they were Lord Voodoo's enemies. But, who is Lord Voodoo?

Chapter 1127 The Powerful Lord Voodoo

Matthew was surprised. "Is that so? Is Lord Voodoo that powerful? Even if he really is that powerful, he has ruled Orleans for 53 years. How long can he live? In order to defeat Lord Voodoo, is it worth losing all your venomous creatures?"

Sanyul frowned and looked puzzled, as if feeling Matthew shouldn't be asking this question.

Sanhol snapped angrily, "What are you pretending for? You're Lord Voodoo's b*tch. Don't you know about Lord Voodoo's soulbound curse? That old thing definitely lives longer than anyone else!"

Matthew was surprised, but he remained unperturbed as he said, "Of course I know that. But, is that a problem?"

Sanhol yelled in fury, "What do you think! His soulbound curse is the Immortal Charm! Lord Voodoo is only 97 years old now. With the power of the Immortal Charm, he can live for at least another 30 years. If he lives for another 30 years more, how many people of the 72 voodoo clans of Orleans will be able to survive?"

Matthew was secretly shocked. He didn't expect that this was the kind of charm Lord Voodoo cultivated.

The Immortal Charm was also recorded in the inheritance of the jade pendant.

This was a charm that could greatly improve longevity, and it was extremely difficult to cultivate.

It was common for cultivators of this charm to enhance their longevity and live for more than a hundred years.

Chapter 1128 Invincible in His Time

Sanhol wondered. "Who has he met?"

Sanyul glared at him. "Idiot, look closely! Before the Orleans' Golden Cocoon Charm is born, it would nourish ten thousand different venomous creatures along with it. The poisonous worms that follow the Golden Cocoon will have their poisons greatly enhanced. This poisonous centipede must have been cultivated by her!"

Sanhol's expression changed suddenly, and he immediately stared at Matthew.

Matthew chuckled. "Now, can you finally answer my questions?"

Sanyul's expression became solemn, and he said with a low voice, "If she can help us kill Lord Voodoo, then we will forever be grateful for her. We, the Orleans, will respect her for generations to come!"

Matthew nodded slowly.

Although he had just met this Sanyul, Matthew felt that this person was still a worthy man.

He was responsible and courageous; he was much better than the other people from the voodoo clans he had met before!

With Sanyul's words, Matthew felt a lot more at ease.

Matthew had never dared to say anything about Jinny because he didn't know how these people would deal with her.

Chapter 1129 Clues to His Family Tragedy

Matthew drove the car while he pretended to be curious and asked about his father's past.

He could see that Sanyul and Sanhol respected Shane very much.

When they were speaking of Shane, both of their eyes were full of admiration.

At the end, Sanyul suddenly sighed. "Sigh. It's a pity that good people don't live long. Shane was his generation's hero—it's such a shame that he had to die in such a mysterious manner."

Hearing that, Matthew also became gloomy.

All of sudden, Sanhol said, "I doubt the reason for his death is unknown! Anyway, I feel that this must have had something to do with Lord Voodoo!"

As soon as these words came out, Matthew became vigilant, and his expression changed. Then, he hurriedly asked, "Lord Voodoo? You mean, Lord Voodoo was involved in this matter? What the hell did he do? Did he kill Shane Larson?"

Both Sanyul and Sanhol looked at Matthew in surprise. His reaction was too intense, leaving them both a little surprised.

Matthew immediately noticed that he had overreacted, and said quickly, "Oh, I-I'm just curious. That's all. Didn't you say that Lord Voodoo was no match for Shane? How could he kill him?"

Sanhol simply replied in disdain, "Hmph, the Orleans' use of poison is unparalleled in the world. He may not have been able to kill Shane, but he could have cooperated with others to poison Shane."

Sanyul frowned. "Sanhol, don't talk nonsense."

Chapter 1130 Orlean's King of Charms

Sanyul replied with a deep voice, "It is rumored that the Golden Cocoon Charm is born with its carrier. After birth, the golden cocoon eggs are deposited on the surface of the skin, and they do look like abscesses. However, as the Golden Cocoon Charm takes its shape, it will leave the skin surface and restore the skin to its original state."

Sanhol immediately understood after hearing what his brother said. "Then, is she really the person we've been looking for?"

Sanyul thought for a while, then whispered, "Sir, can I do something to double confirm?"

Matthew waved his hand. "By all means."

Sanyul respectfully said to Jinny, "I apologize in advance if I end up offending you!"

After saying that, he took a deep breath, and his face flushed red in an instant.

Sanhol exclaimed, "Sanyul, are you going to use your soulbound curse?"

Sanyul didn't speak; instead, he let out a low growl twice, opened his mouth, and spat out a half-foot-long red scorpion.

This was Sanyul's soulbound curse—the most important voodoo worm for the members of Orleans' voodoo clan which had to be planted in one's body since birth.

This kind of soulbound curse had extremely terrifying power, but when it was used, it would also greatly harm the host at the same time.

When Matthew dealt with Sanchez before, he only used his soulbound curse as the last resort.
