Chapter 1241

Ambrose and Matthew looked at each other.

They could tell that Lord Voodoo had led them out on purpose in order to keep them away from Woodside, and then kill them out here.

This place was extremely remote, and people from Woodside wouldn't be able to find them easily.

Ambrose clenched his fists and walked forward slowly.

"Lord Voodoo, do you think you alone can kill me?"

Lord Voodoo laughed out loud.

"I know. Matthew must have given you an antidote that can restrain my venomous creatures. So if it's just me, it's definitely not enough. However, with the addition of these few people, it should be no problem to kill you!"

As he said this, a few people quietly walked out of the woods nearby.

The head of the group was a short, stout man.

Ambrose's complexion changed when he saw this man.

Hunter turned around and fought with Matthew with all his might.

Matthew had to admit that the strength of this top killer in Eastshire was really terrifying.

The killer's movements were unique and unpredictable, but the most important thing was that he was much stronger than Matthew.

Not long after the two fought, Matthew was punched by Hunter.

Matthew tasted a tangy sweetness in his throat and almost spurted out a mouthful of blood.

However, he swallowed the blood abruptly, and simultaneously ran the essential Qi of the Divine Skill in his body, gradually unloading the power of Hunter's punch.

Before the battle, Matthew also ate a mini Analeptic Pill to prevent such a situation.

Facts had proven that Matthew's choice was correct. He received Hunter's punches one after another, but he still managed to hold on.

Not only that, but he also seized the opportunity to severely injure one of Hunter's apprentices.

In the beginning of the battle, Hunter didn't take Matthew seriously at all.

However, it took him and a few apprentices joining forces to besiege Matthew, who even killed one of his apprentices, which made him extremely angry.

At this point, Matthew was also fighting Hunter desperately as he was on borrowed time.

As long as Ambrose could kill Lord Voodoo before the pill wore off, then he still had hope! To his dismay, Lord Voodoo saw into Matthew's situation.

All of a sudden, he said loudly, "Hunter, don't worry! This kid merely ate a pill that increased his energy, and it won't last long. When the pill's efficacy is worn off, he will be nothing more than a waste! Hold on for a while longer. They'll be dead for sure!"

Hunter was overjoyed and simply turned around to run away, no longer confronting Matthew directly.

Matthew chased Hunter for a while but couldn't catch up with him, so he could only deal with all of Hunter's apprentices first.

Though Hunter watched his apprentices being severely injured, he ignored them all.

Right now, he should be focused on delaying time and wait for Matthew's pill's effects to completely wear off.

Matthew could also feel that the energy in his body was gradually recovering.

In other words, the efficacy of this energy pill was almost gone.

Once the energy pill lost effect but both Hunter and Lord Voodoo were still alive, then Matthew and Ambrose would end up dead.

Hunter's cooperation with Lord Voodoo truly forced Ambrose to keep retreating.

The two of them were overjoyed.

If they could kill Ambrose first, then Matthew would surely die too! But as Ambrose stepped back, they didn't notice that Ambrose had secretly taken the energy pill given to him by Matthew.

Ambrose deliberately stepped back as a show of weakness, while he was actually just waiting for an opportunity.

Finally, Ambrose found one.

Immediately, he slammed into Hunter's chest violently, knocking his entire body into the air.

Immediately after, he took a shot with all his strength.

Like a lion pouncing on a rabbit, he quickly charged at Lord Voodoo.

Ambrose's strength had been enhanced by the energy pill.

At this point, Lord Voodoo was not even close to being his opponent.

Lord Voodoo was also shocked to see this happen. He hurriedly turned to dodge, but how could he outrun Ambrose? It didn't take long for him to be caught up by Ambrose, and he received a heavy blow from the man.

After suffering this massive loss, Lord Voodoo was also furious. He whistled and opened his mouth to spit out his Immortal Charm.

Lord Voodoo looked smug.

"What's wrong? Are you giving up because you know that you're doomed? Don't worry.The Frost Charm can't kill a person.It'll only stay in your body, causing your entire body to completely freeze over until you lose consciousness and become brain dead! Of course, you'll still be alive and your consciousness will still exist, so you won't die.But, what's the difference from being brain dead? Hahaha..."

As Lord Voodoo spoke, he whistled as if giving an order to the toad.

The toad then jumped up and hopped in Matthew's direction.

Lord Voodoo hated Matthew to the core, so the first person he wanted to kill was Matthew.

Matthew's eyes were desperate.

At that moment, he didn't have the power to resist.

If the Frost Charm really came over, he couldn't do anything about it.

On the other hand, a smug smile was spread widely across Lord Voodoo's face.However, a person suddenly stood up from a near distance.It was Crystal.

Everyone at the scene was stunned.

No one had expected that Crystal would actually pick up the Frost Charm and run away.

Even Lord Voodoo was dumbfounded.

He had said those words on purpose in an attempt to scare away Crystal, but he didn't think Crystal would actually give up her life for Matthew! As Ambrose looked at Crystal's retreating back, his expression changed sharply.

"Crystal! Crystal!"

There was no answer.

Not long after, everyone heard a sound of something falling to the ground in the distance.

It was clear that Crystal couldn't hold on anymore.

However, Matthew knew that this was the result of the Frost Charm entering her body.

At that moment, Crystal had already been frozen! A heavy silence fell.

Hunter was overjoyed when he saw this scene.

"That's great! Q-Quick, kill them!"

Lord Voodoo didn't speak, and his expression was extremely cold.

"You two b*stards, you actually made me swallow the flesh of the Immortal Charm! I'm not letting you go until I make you suffer to death!"

Lord Voodoo let out a frenzied roar.

Swallowing the flesh of the Immortal Charm could indeed allow him to restore a lot of his strength in a short period of time.

However, by doing this, the Immortal Charm would be heavily injured.

The Immortal Charm was a part of him.

Hence, if the Immortal Charm suffered a heavy blow, it also meant that Lord Voodoo would go through the same fate, and even his life span would be reduced.

Most importantly, such injury to the Immortal Charm was permanent.

In other words, Lord Voodoo was essentially sacrificing his own life span in exchange for recovering his strength.

At this moment, a shouting voice suddenly came from a distance.

"Chief? Chief? Are you here?"

The expressions of all four of the men fell.

Hunter said frantically, "Is that the people of Woodside? They've found us!"

Lord Voodoo's eyes widened, and he looked into the distance.

Then, he gritted his teeth and grabbed Hunter before turning around and making a run for it. He didn't know how much Matthew's strength had recovered, or how long the battle would take.

However, once the people of Woodside surrounded them, they would undoubtedly meet their death! After all, Lord Voodoo had not yet recovered his strength.

Watching Lord Voodoo run away, Matthew finally breathed a sigh of relief. He hurriedly ran into the woods and searched around until he found Crystal lying on the ground.

Ambrose was taken aback. He frowned and looked at Matthew, asking, "What are you trying to say?"

This incident seemed to have hit a nerve for him.

Matthew replied softly, "Perhaps I should change my question. What is your relationship with Shane, The King of Northern Territory?"

Bursting out in fury, Ambrose slapped his palm on the table and roared, "Matthew, you have crossed the line! I allowed you to stay in Woodside for Crystal's sake, but it doesn't mean you can do whatever you want here! You aren't qualified to ask about my affairs, let alone intervene in them! I'm warning you, don't ask anymore questions if you don't want me to do anything to you!"

However, Matthew was not fazed at all and stared straight at him.

"Chief Larson, how did you and Lord Voodoo know each other? Why didn't you kill Lord Voodoo back then? Also, what does Lord Voodoo have to do with Shane's death?"

Every time Matthew asked a question, Ambrose's expression became colder.

In the end, Ambrose rose to his full height and pointed at Matthew, shouting, "Do you have a death wish? I can fulfill it for you!"

Matthew stared at Ambrose intently. He originally thought that he could ask Ambrose for clues about the family feud, but he hadn't expected that Ambrose didn't know a single thing.

Nevertheless, he learned a very important thing from Ambrose.

That was, Ambrose was actually from the Larson Family.

Perhaps the family did something that hurt him back then, which caused him to keep his distance from them.

However, it was clear that Ambrose still harbored affection for his family.

Knowing these facts, Matthew was able to feel a lot more at ease.

At least Ambrose remained loyal to the Larson Family from the beginning until now.

In that case, Matthew could reveal his identity to Ambrose! He cleared his throat and looked around to make sure there was no one around before he said softly, "Uncle Ambrose, do you know who I am?"

Ambrose looked at him in surprise.

"What...What do you mean?"

The sudden affectionate form of address from Matthew caught him off guard, making him unable to grasp the situation.
