

Ghost Doctor 2007

Chapter 2007: Volcanic Forest

“Alright!”

Gray Wolf sighed softly: “I suppose, with the Ghost Doctor’s strength, there are very few people who can hurt her. Moreover, she is also crafty and whoever is on the receiving end of her schemes will surely suffer.”

As he spoke, he saw Shadow One beside him look at him weirdly. He smiled slightly: “I was only saying it casually.” No matter how crafty the Ghost Doctor was, it was not something that they could talk about. Fortunately their Master wasn’t around or he would surely suffer punishment had their Master heard what he had said.

Over the next few days, Feng Jiu spent her time at Heavenly Pill Tower. She was refining pills and potions before she left so that they wouldn’t be overwhelmed by a shortage of supply while she was away.

A few days later, Feng Jiu returned to the Feng Manor after she had finished handling matters at Heavenly Pill Tower. In the evening, after she had changed her clothes and disguised her face, she walked alone to the West Gate and set off on the road by herself.

Among the four city gates in Hundred Rivers City, upon leaving the West Gate, one would find themselves on the mountain road. There were usually fewer travellers on this road. After she had walked out of the city gate, she took out the Aurora Teleportation Device.

“I should be able to gather the light emitted from the Aurora Teleportation Device. I was able to figure out how to work the device the last two times but the light was too dazzling when it was activated and it would likely attract fatal trouble.”

She whispered to herself softly, deep in thought, as she held the Aurora Teleportation Device. She was not in a hurry to activate the device this time, therefore, before she had activated the device, she thought about it repeatedly, and finally, she turned on the Aurora Teleportation Device and whispered Volcanic Forest in her heart.

Almost as soon as she had whispered the destination in her heart, she was wrapped in light and became transparent, then she disappeared from where she was standing with a swoosh. However, this time, she didn’t flash across the sky and there was no dazzling light.

When Feng Jiu had arrived at her destination, she didn’t drop from the sky like she did the last time either. Instead, she appeared on the ground where she stabilised her body gradually. She looked at the dark surroundings and couldn’t help but smile.

“So this is the correct way to use the Aurora Teleportation Device, it’s so much more convenient.” She flicked her clothes and adjusted them before she moved forward.

This is the Volcanic Forest?

This must be the outermost area of the forest! According to the information gathered, the forest was surrounded by sparse trees and the temperature was high. It was nighttime and through the moonlight, the lush greenery of the trees were visible. With the night breeze, the forest felt cool. This should be the outermost area of the Volcanic Forest.

It was more convenient traveling alone. She walked lightly across the forest, her cyan figure blended in with the greenery in the forest. If one weren't observing closely, it would be difficult to see a human figure moving through the forest.

She walked lightly on her toes until she saw a faint light coming from ahead. She heard a voice speaking and slowed down instinctively. She lifted herself up and stood among the branches looking at the group of people sitting in the forest.

The group of people consisted of men and women, and some of them looked like mercenaries. A few of them appeared to be the head of the mercenaries. The two dozens of people were split into two groups and they sat between two fires talking to each other.

She noticed that although the clothes the head of the mercenaries wore weren't magnificent, they were also not made of materials that ordinary people could afford to wear. Moreover, those few men didn't appear to be that old either. Other than two or three men in their twenties and thirties, there were three girls who were about seventeen or eighteen years old. The faces of the men and women were remarkable.

Chapter 2008: Walk In The Forest

"Eldest Senior Brother, Master asked us to find the Volcanic Flare Stone, but my father said that the Volcanic Flare Stone is very rare and it only appears when the volcano erupts. Although we have hired mercenaries to escort us, I still feel that this trip is dangerous. I'm afraid that we may not leave this place alive." One of the women said in a low voice, a little worriedly.

One of the older men in the group said warmly: "Don't worry, just consider this event as an experience! It's not the first time we have gone out for an experience after all. Don't think too much into it."

Upon hearing this, one of the other woman said: "But we've come to such a dangerous place, why doesn't Master come with us? If there is an accident, then..."

The group of people were silent and speechless for a while. Their Master had ordered them to go down the mountain and go to the Volcanic Forest to search for something called the Volcanic Flare Stone. However, other than giving them a few self-defense items, there were no elders leading their team. It was precisely because of this point that after some discussion, they had decided to hire a team of mercenaries.

The mercenaries laughed after they had heard their conversation: "Don't worry too much, we are in the outermost area of the Volcanic Forest at the moment. Even if we are to meet with danger, it will only be in the innermost area of the forest. However, if you feel that it is too dangerous, you can walk through the innermost area of the forest and come back out. There is no need to wait for the volcano to erupt, as it only does so once every three months.”

“Furthermore, the Volcanic Flare Stone may be found in some areas of the innermost area of the forest. After all, there’s no telling that every time the volcano erupts, all the Volcanic Flare Stones would be picked up. Don’t you think so?”

Upon hearing this, Feng Jiu’s eyes moved slightly and a thought formed in her mind.

Rather than entering the forest by herself and finding her own way, she would be better off joining other groups of people and entering the forest together. That way, even if Han Rong had any defences prepared, he would never have expected her to go in with a team.

Once this thought had formed in her head, she decided that she would integrate into the group of people below. The six men and women looked like they knew martial arts, it shouldn’t be difficult to join them!

Her eyes darted around as her mind spun with thoughts, trying to think of how she would join these people and walk through the forest. What method should she use?

There was a flash in her mind and a smile appeared on her lips. She looked down at those people as an inexplicable smile appeared on her face.

As the sky got brighter, those people extinguished the fire and continued on their journey. Behind them, Feng Jiu followed them at leisure while she waited for the right time.

She had followed them through the forest for two days and entered the innermost area when the right opportunity had finally arrived.

“Oh? Your family clan has come out for an experience? Since we are all going to the volcano, why don’t we travel together?” Several sect disciples had suggested when they saw that the other party consisted of thirty or forty people. Moreover, with elders leading the way, they would be stronger, hence they wanted to travel with them as it would be safer.

Seeing as they were the disciples of Nebula Immortal Immortal Sect, one of the Four Great Sects, the people of the family clan agreed and extended a signal of friendship towards them: “Of course, it is safer to walk in groups anyway.”

After all, they knew their background. If it had been other people, naturally they wouldn’t have invited them to travel together. However, every disciple from the Nebula Immortal Sect came from big family clans, so if they were able to befriend the younger generation, it would benefit them.
