

Gluey Love 1481

Chapter 1481

Paula also squatted down to help pick it up. Suddenly, she saw that it was the information about yesterday's car accident. She was shocked for a moment. Was Eden looking into yesterday's car accident?

Dean immediately grabbed the document in her hand and said, "Be careful. How did you walk?"

Paula lowered her head and frowned. "I was thinking about something with my head down. Why didn't you avoid me when you saw me earlier?"

"Are you saying that it's my fault?" Dean looked at her with an angry face. He was also looking at the documents with his head down earlier.

Paula squinted her long and narrow eyes as she looked at the document in his hand. She was a little flustered, "It's neither of our faults. It's not a narrow place here, why did we just bump into each other?"

Dean was speechless. He was just used to walking this way.

"Forget it. Mrs. Alwynn is still waiting for me?" Dean knew that she had read the contents of the information.

"Dean....."

Dean interrupted her and said, "I'm busy now. Tell me later if you have anything to say."

Paula was a little worried.

She narrowed her eyes as suspicion and panic appeared in her eyes.

What was Eden looking for?

She thought for a while and walked after Dean.

She turned around the doorknob and found that the door was locked.

She stamped her feet anxiously. She really wanted to know what Eden was up for.

If the Clement family found out that she had something to do with the incident, the Clement family would not let her off.

"Mrs. Alwynn, this is the information that we found. The other party insisted that no one asked them to do anything, and they were just drunk driving. However, I checked the CCTV downstairs. After you left, Paula also stopped a taxi and followed you out.

She got off the car at the River City Restaurant and bought lunch. After that, she made several calls.

Then she just kept sitting under the tree and playing with her phone.

She didn't walk to you until she saw you and your family coming out. Then the car accident happened."

"So, has she been waiting for it?" Eden's clear eyes were filled with anger. As she expected, Paula was indeed involved in it.

"Yes, I think so. She didn't do anything there, and she can easily see the entrance of the restaurant from where she was."

Eden asked again, "Have you found out if there is any money coming in the perpetrator's account?"

"No." Dean was also perplexed. This matter was obviously related to Paula, but he couldn't find any evidence.

Victor sneered and said, "Eden, since she dared to do this, she definitely would not let you find out."

"Do you think so?" Eden did not believe that anyone could do such a thing so perfectly.

"Dean, thank you very much. You don't have to investigate this matter anymore. Alwynn Group is in danger now, so you just need to manage the company well."

As for Paula's matter, she would ask Aro to follow up.

"But I can't feel at ease before I find everything out," said Dean. He had tried everything, but the other party just wouldn't tell him anything.

Eden smiled and said, "Don't worry. We will find it out one day. You won't work for nothing."

Dean said angrily, "Mrs. Alwynn, if she dares to do this, she will definitely betray Alwynn Group one day." He was a little worried about this.

Eden nodded, "Paula's biggest dream in her life is to marry into a wealthy family. Therefore, as long as someone is willing to give her money, she will be tempted. But it doesn't matter. After she leaves, we will still have someone else like her.

I know her quite well, so I think I can get her under control.

As for betraying Alwynn Group..." Eden stopped. She was afraid that the betrayal had already begun.

Paula was showing off to her today for no reason.

She warned Dean, "By the way, you should pay attention to who Paula has been contacting recently. I think this person definitely is not a simple person."

"Yes, Madam." Dean nodded.

He also suspected that it was Paula, but he just couldn't find any evidence.

The man refused to admit anything, and there was no extra money coming into his bank account.

"Madam, you and she were classmates. Who do you think would do such a thing for her?" Dean still didn't want to give up.

Eden narrowed her big eyes. A faint smile appeared on her face. "You can check it up if you want to know. Maybe the result will surprise you. Everything related to the accident will go through legal procedure. We are not accepting anything privately."

"Yes, Madam." Only then did Dean leave the office.

Eden lowered her head and sent a photo of Paula to Aro, asking him to keep an eye on her.

Victor felt a little jealous when he saw her message, "Do you really trust Aro?"

Eden looked up at his jealous face and said, "You must admit that they are much more reliable than your bodyguards. None of the bodyguards helped when something really happened."

Victor nodded. "Yes, you are right. No matter what, your safety is the most important thing."

Especially at this important time.

"Victor." Lucian hurried in at this time.

Victor knew that he had something urgent.

"What's going on?"

Lucian said in a deep voice, "Something happened. On the construction site, after Adonis's accident, there is no one in charge for the time being. They have been slacking for over a month, and someone is making trouble.

The contractor led the workers to make trouble together and asked us to pay the rest of the money to them. I don't know where the supplier got the news that the project can't be carried out anymore, so they want us to pay all the money in three days. The bank also urged us to pay all the loan back."

It seemed that everything happened all of a sudden after today's incident.

Someone must be behind all of these.

But Victor gave a casual smile. "Interesting. Is there someone who can't even stand it before Barrett comes back?"

"What's the contractor's name?" he asked again.

"Cyril Winston," said Lucian. "We only started working with him this year. The contractor Adonis worked with before sprained his waist and stayed in the hospital, so we only hired Cyril this year."

Victor nodded and said, "Ask Brian to check Cyril's information immediately. Remember to check the relationship between him and our opponent."

Lucian nodded, "I called Brian before I came in, but now he has to deal with the thing at the construction site now. Someone is trying to commit suicide."

Victor said mercilessly, "Call the firefighters now. Let's see what they are playing at."

Lucian understood what Victor meant, so he turned around and left without saying anything.

Eden knew that this kind of thing would usually happen at the construction sites when the boss ran away without paying them.

But Victor was still sitting here, so why were they doing this?

Chapter 1482

Eden looked at Victor and saw that he was not worried at all. "Aren't you going to have a look? If someone really dies, it would be really complicated."

Victor looked at her angelic face and smiled gently.

"Silly, it is very obvious that someone asked them to do it. If I go now, I'd fall into their trap. Let them do what they want first so that I can teach them a good lesson later. Don't worry, I will handle this matter well. You just need to live your happy life."

Eden knew that he was always good at dealing with these things, so she didn't say anything anymore.

"I'll work for two more hours, and then I'll go to take care of my brother. I'll go home at nine o'clock in the evening. After you get off work, go back early to spend some time with the children and your mom. Dad is going home very late recently."

"Sure." Victor nodded with a smile, but he actually didn't want her to leave him even for one minute.

Eden continued to work.

Victor got up and went to Lucian's office.

The spacious office was very bright and clean.

Lucian was sitting in front of the computer, typing something quickly on the keyboard. His dark eyes looked very serious.

"Lucian." Victor sat on a chair not far away from him casually.

Lucian said calmly without even looking up, "There's nothing I can do about it now. Haven't you got everything sorted with your father?"

"No, I don't want to see him," said Victor.

"Things are getting more and more serious. Although the other party did not show up, their people in River City have already started taking action."

Victor smiled, "Who do you think it is?"

"It wouldn't make any difference even though we knew it. If they dared to do this at the construction site today, they would be able to threaten you with your family one day."

Victor did not deny this at all.

"Have you found out Cyril's background yet?" he asked again.

Someone who could do such a thing would definitely have a history.

Lucian was about to say that he hadn't gotten anything yet, he suddenly saw Brian's message came through.

He quickly read it and then sneered. "It seemed that Kenny really gave Brian a lot of pressure. He is doing things more and more efficiently now."

Victor smiled proudly. "Of course. Kenny is my son."

Lucian wanted to roll his eyes at him every time when he tried to show off.

"He found Cyril's information. He is 40 years old, and he has been a contractor for more than 10 years. Over the past 10 years, he has earned a lot of money."

Victor said, "Find out all his past. I will be there 3 days later. If they want to make trouble by making use of Adonis's accident, and I'll make them suffer."

Lucian nodded lightly and said, "Three days is enough to find out a lot of inside stories. You don't have to worry about it there. Brian will keep an eye on him. He's angrier than anyone else with such a thing happening."

Victor smiled proudly and said, "I wouldn't be happy if I really had to worry about it myself. Tell the manager there that I will leave everything to him now."

Lucian finally turned to look at him and said, "I've already told him. I wouldn't be a good manager then if I had to wait for you to give me the order. However, please can you move your legs and leave my office now? I need to be highly focused on my work now."

Looking at his serious face, Victor could only leave now.

When he reached the door, he thought of something very important.

"Lucian, Gwyneth has sent someone to hurt Eden today. Pay close attention to her. I would not let her out no matter what."

"Really?" Lucian was surprised. He gently rubbed his chin and sneered, "How come she is so bold?"

"She will regret it!" Victor said and walked out casually.

Lucian looked out of the window, deep in thought. He was looking in the direction of the Love Sea.

Was that woman really there?

He thought to himself, "Amelia, I can give you time, but I won't give you time forever.

You'd better show up soon, otherwise, it will be very serious."

After sitting quietly for a while, Lucian withdrew his thought and went back to work.

Only by working non-stop can he stop thinking about these things.

When Eden got to the hospital, she deliberately stood at the door for a while to make sure that Adrienne was not there.

She did not recognize Adrienne's car, so she had to wait until dinner time so that she could leave for a while.

With Adrienne's connections, she could easily find out where her brother was.

However, when she went to the ward, she saw someone brought a lot of fruits. Who would bring so many fruits on such a cold winter day?

"Brother." Eden glanced at her eldest brother who was eating an apple.

"Hi, Eden. Thank you for bringing all the fruits. The grapes are really good!

I'm so glad that you still remember what fruit I like. I'm so lucky to have a sister like you." Delmont said while eating, with a happy smile on his face.

Eden stopped at the door. She indeed wanted to bring some apples, but she felt it was too cold to have apples in winter.

She never liked to have fruit in winter, so she never even remembered to buy any.

Therefore, these fruits must be brought by Adrienne.

She smiled quietly in her heart.

She wondered if her brother would still eat it if he knew that it was sent by Adrienne.

But she was rather to be used by them and not telling him the truth.

It seemed that Adrienne still didn't want to leave her brother even though he was crippled.

Or maybe she was just sympathy for him.

She needed time to figure it out.

"You are not recovered yet, so stop eating too many cold things."

Delmont glanced at her. "Didn't you pick all these fruits? You're the one who brought them here, so why don't you want me to eat them?"

I feel so bored in the ward alone. I have nothing to do except for eating and watching TV. It's so boring here."

Eden didn't know what to say. She really wished that she didn't say anything.

"Why don't you think about how to find a girlfriend? Didn't you tell me that you have a girlfriend that you like? Think about where she is and what she is doing. If you miss her again, I think you won't be able to get married until you are forty."

"Hey! Don't say that to your brother!" Delmont took a big bite of the apple, looking aggrieved.

Eden said, "My brother is the most handsome l man in the world, but he is also the most stupid man in the world.

Do you know how stupid you are when it comes to relationships? Sometimes you know that you did something wrong, but you would never admit it. Why do you have to be so serious all the time? Just admit it and explain it."

She tried to give him a hint because she believed that there must be some misunderstandings between them.

However, she also knew how honest her brother was, so how could there be any misunderstandings?

Chapter 1483

Delmont felt that his sister's words made sense.

He was always so careful when he was Alyssa because he didn't want to make any mistakes. Even though Adrienne made some mistakes, he would just admit that it was his fault. He had no principles at all in front of her.

However, Adrienne seemed to have lost interest in him because of this.

He never hid anything from her, no matter it was good or bad.

Delmont seemed to feel that there was indeed some problem in it, and the apple in his hand at this moment didn't seem to be delicious anymore.

Now that he thought about it, he felt there were still too many things that he needed to learn about relationships.

"Eden, why don't you teach me how to be in a relationship?"

Eden smiled awkwardly and said, "I'm not much better than you."

Delmont was speechless.

"Why none of us is good at this? Could it be in our family gene?"

"But my second brother is doing very well. Has he gone back?"

"Yes, he left long ago. He didn't talk at all when he was here. It was so awkward, so I asked him to go back. Mom and Dad came and stayed for a while. Grandma was home alone, so they were worried. They left early because they knew that you were coming soon."

"Alright. There are too many things we need to learn from love. Why don't we find a special way that suits you?" Eden knew that his brother didn't want to give up on Adrienne.

Otherwise, he would not have hidden his love so deeply and waited for so long.

"Frist, you should tell me what did you do when you were with her. I've been in love with Victor, so I know girls' thoughts and feelings when they are in love." Eden tried her best to sound him out.

Delmont smiled and said, "I feel like we were like friends when we were together, but I was always a little cautious. I'm afraid of doing something wrong.

If she was sick, I would ask her to drink some hot water.

If she was tired, I would say goodnight to her.

If she said it was cold today, I would say that you should wear more clothes.

If she said she had been very tired recently, I would tell her that she needed more rest.

When she told me that she doesn't want to have a baby after getting married,

I told her that giving birth to a child is a woman's duty. It's not right if she doesn't want to have a baby.

When I was in college, there were many girls who liked me, but every time when I told her that, she would go mad.

Once I went out drinking with my friends. My friends were drunk, and so was his girlfriend. So I carried his girlfriend on my back, but I always end up bumping into Adrienne.

On Valentine's Day, I always buy her something she likes and take her out to have dinner."

"Stop. Why do you have to carry your friend's girlfriend? If my boyfriend did such a thing, I wouldn't be happy either."

Eden couldn't help but interrupt him.

It sounded like nothing was wrong with their relationship, but they were just like normal friends.

Her brother was a very sincere man, especially when it came to relationships.

"I can't leave my friend's girlfriend at a bar when she is drunk, can I?"

Eden was speechless. "So you can't leave your friend's girlfriend behind, but you can leave your girlfriend behind? Have you ever thought about your girlfriend's feelings when you did it?"

Delmont looked confused. "She's a very kind girl, so I thought she would understand me."

Eden really didn't know what to say anymore.

She couldn't understand it. It was fine if it was once or twice, but if it happens very often, then she felt that there must be something wrong with it.

A woman who was in love would be very sensitive.

Then, she said earnestly, "You need to have your own principles. The reason why lovers argue with each other is not that they don't love each other enough. On the contrary, if a little thing would make lovers argue, it means that they love each other a lot. Because they care about each other too much, so they would get hurt even if it is something really small. You should think about what you have done wrong."

Delmont's face darkened. He totally lost his appetite and left the apple on the bedside table.

He lowered her head, frowned, and said in a low voice, "Eden, I have been thinking about it for six years, but I still haven't figured it out."

It seemed that it was really his fault.

Eden looked at her brother again, and it seemed that he was still very sad and confused.

She walked over and sat on the stool beside the bed. She pulled her brother's slightly cold hand and said, "Don't worry. Since you still love each other, you still will find each other again."

"Can you tell me what happened when you were separated? You can only be back together if the problem is solved."

Delmont looked at his sister, a trace of struggle flashing through his eyes, but quickly turned into a glimmer of hope.

No one other than himself knew about this.

And he was sure that Adrienne didn't even know about it.

"Eden, I think I need a bit of time. Give me some time, and I will tell you everything." Delmont said in a deep voice, making Eden worried that he would get hurt again.

However, at this time, Anton walked in.

And he held the report sheet in his hand.

He smiled and nodded when he saw Eden. "Mrs. Alwynn, you're here."

Eden nodded as well. "Dr. West, are you going to have a check-up on my brother?"

Neal shook his head and glanced at Eden. "Actually the report has come out already. Mr. Clement, have you had liver transplant surgery?"

"What?" Eden looked at her big brother in great shock. How could she not know about this at all?

"When did you have a liver transplant?" Who did he transplant his liver to?

"Don't worry, Eden. It's okay. I have recovered very well after my surgery."

But Eden was still worried. "Dr. West, is my brother alright?"

Neal said, "At present, there is no big problem, but such a car accident can't happen again. Otherwise, the consequences are unimaginable. You recovered very well this time, and you just need some more rest.

We will do a full check-up for you tomorrow, so don't eat anything tomorrow morning."

After saying that, Neal turned around and left the ward.

Eden's face instantly changed.

"You didn't tell mom and dad, did you?" If they knew this, he would not be so calm when he had a car accident.

Delmont smiled. "I didn't want to tell you and make you worry. Now that you know, please don't tell it to mom and dad. They still don't know."

Eden's tears were about to burst out. She said angrily, "You were alone at that time. Didn't you think about mom and dad?"

Chapter 1484

"Who is it that made you willing to transplant your liver to?"

A figure appeared in Eden's mind. Was it really Adrienne?

The person her brother cared for the most in the world would be Adrienne.

Delmont lowered his head and didn't say anything, looking flustered.

He felt as if it was a shame for him to say it. But if it was Adrienne, why would it be a shame?

Eden suddenly felt that Adrienne was also a person who had a complicated background.

Seeing that he was not ready to talk about it, Eden didn't insist.

"Alright. You should have some rest now. I'll buy you some dinner."

"Okay," Delmont answered. He still did not look up at his sister, instead, he was lost in thought.

At the same time, Victor, who was about to get off work, received a phone call from the school teacher.

Henrick had a fight with someone at school, but Kenneth said that it was him, not his brother.

The teacher knew that one of them was lying, so she called their parents.

Victor and Dean rushed to the school immediately after he got the phone call.

The teacher was very polite and told them the whole thing.

There was another middle-aged man sitting in the office as well, who looked like a new rich.

Seeing Victor came in, he squeezed out a weird smile.

There were three children standing against the wall. Henrick and Kenneth were in them. When they saw their father, they both lowered their heads and said nothing.

Victor glanced at his sons and said nothing either.

He already guessed what happened after he got the phone call.

"Mr. Alwynn, long time no see. It's such a coincidence that my child and your children are in the same class. How can we not even notice it? It's such a small world."

Charlie Meaker smiled again. His fat face made Victor feel disgusted.

Victor sneered, "Yes, what a coincidence."

Then he sat on the chair that Dean just moved here.

He glanced at Troy, Charlie's son, realizing that he got beaten up quite badly. His face was covered with bruises and blood, and his eyes were filled with anger.

Just like his father, he was also quite a fat kid.

He was a little bit pleased that his son did not suffer a loss while fighting with such a big kid.

If it was him, he would have beaten Troy even harder.

"Kenny, did you hit him?" Victor asked casually.

Kenneth nodded. "Yes, dad. It has nothing to do with Ricky."

"You're lying. It's your brother who hit me. I'm not stupid. Even though you are twins, I still can tell who hit me." Troy pointed at Kenneth with an unconvinced face.

Kenneth sneered. "Really? I had a cut on my face, and it was from you. If it was Ricky, why he didn't get hurt at all? Can you really tell who did it?"

They were all wearing the school uniform, so it was indeed quite hard to tell the difference between them.

Victor would not be surprised if Troy mixed them up.

However, it was actually Ricky who did it.

But Troy wasn't innocent either.

He wanted Ricky's reputation to be ruined.

"You would never care about Alma. Only Henrick would care. So the one who beat me must be him, not you. You just came to help your brother, and I scratched your face by accident." Troy said firmly.

As his angry gaze swept across Kenneth's calm face, making himself even more fuming.

It was such a shame that he got beaten up by them today.

His father had told him that as long as the Alwynn family was defeated, they would be the most powerful family in River City.

Therefore, everyone in his family had been trying very hard to destroy them.

"You've always been a bully at school, and Alma is just one of them who was bullied by you. You have been pouring dirty water on her and splashing ink on her back. And you even broke her pen so that she couldn't even write.

You destroyed her test paper and tore her textbook, and you also put dirt in her food. I can stand what you are doing, so that's why I beat you."

Kenneth said calmly. He hated bullies.

Hearing this, Troy's face instantly flushed red.

The teacher seemed very helpless standing next to them. All the students who came to this school were either from rich or powerful families, so she didn't dare to offend any of them.

Alma was not from a rich family. She got into this school just because her mother was a good friend of another rich woman.

When everyone found it out at school, Alma was often bullied by others.

Troy was one of them.

"Mr. Meaker, this is the fifth time that you have been called to the school. Please cooperate with teachers. No one should bully other children at school. They are here to study.

All the parents love their children, so please cooperate with us."

The teacher spoke sincerely and looked at Charlie helplessly.

She had already said it many times.

Charlie nodded and smiled, but he did not take the teacher's words seriously at all. "Don't worry. I will definitely teach this brat a good lesson when we get back.

But today's incident was caused by Mr. Alwynn's son. It has nothing to do with my son. Let's settle this matter first.

My son never lies. He said it was Henrick who beat him, so it must be him."

After that, he cast Victor a defiant gaze.

He wanted Victor's whole family down.

Victor sat there silently, didn't even look at Charlie, but no one could ignore his domineering aura in the room.

Before the teacher could speak, Kenneth said coldly, "Shame on you. There is CCTV in the school. How could it be caused by us?

What happened today was very simple. During lunchtime, Troy poured a bowl of hot soup on Alma. I stood by and saw it. I just couldn't let such a thing happen and not say anything, so I hit you."

"What my son does at school has nothing to do with you," Charlie sneered. "Don't you know that money is everything here? If she doesn't have money, why do her parents have to put her here?" He looked at Kenneth with disdain.

Kenneth looked at Charlie with his dark eyes and laughed out loud. "Are you saying that you are rich? So are you the king in this school?"

Chapter 1485

"Mr. Meaker, let me remind you that this school was built by my grandfather. Every year, the equipment was donated by my father. Therefore, this school actually belongs to our Alwynn family. How dare you say that here?"

Kenneth was still a little boy, but he already got all the domineering aura from his father. He looked at Charlie in disdain when he said it.

Charlie didn't expect that he would say this.

So his face instantly turned red.

Indeed, in River City, no one was even a match to the Alwynn family.

But it was still too embarrassing for him to be told off like this by a boy.

Victor looked at his son, feeling very pleased. This was the correct way to treat a bully.

Dean also looked at Kenneth and felt that he looked exactly the same as Victor. Even his style of doing things was the same.

Victor finally looked at Charlie indifferently and said, "Mr. Meaker, this is not the first time that your son asked for trouble. I didn't want to interfere because I thought it was their issue so they should sort it out themselves. Since you called me here today, then let's talk about it between us. I think you know very well what your son has done."

Charlie was surely not powerful enough to bully Victor's son.

"Hehe... Mr. Alwynn, I only came here because the teacher called me too. How would I want to disturb you for such a small matter?" Charlie said with a flattering smile.

He could still live a good life without Alwynn Group now anyway, so he didn't really need to care about Victor too much.

Moreover, he would willing to do anything as long as he needed to.

Although Charlie was smiling, his fat face still showed the firmness that he had never shown before.

The teacher shook her head immediately and said, "Mr. Meaker, you should know better than anyone the reason I asked you to come here. It's also our duty as a teacher to let you know what your child is like in school.

What Troy has done recently has seriously violated the school's rules. If he goes on like this, the school will have to expel him."

"Who the hell dares to expel my son?" Charlie suddenly slammed the table and stood up, glaring at the teacher.

Victor frowned and sneered, "I do."

Troy was stunned and looked at his father. "Dad, I don't want to be expelled. You said, as long as we destroy Henrick's reputation as well as their company, everything will belong to our family. It was Henrick who hit me earlier."

Hearing this, Charlie really wished that he never had this stupid son.

How could he say such a thing out in front of everyone?

Especially when Victor was here.

He literally told all his vicious plans to Victor.

It was indeed his plan, but he hadn't even started it.

Now his son had already told everything to Victor.

The teacher was speechless as well when she heard this.

Dean felt he had never seen such stupid people in his life.

On the other side, Victor only curled his lips and put a cold smile on his face.

Henrick couldn't help but laugh, and then he looked at Troy as if he was a big joke.

In the eyes of the two brothers, this kind of ignorant and incompetent person was indeed a joke.

"Troy, it turns out that you just want to ruin my reputation. But are you actually being serious? Do you really think you can do this?

Why are you always so stupid?"

"You..." Troy lost his words, but the arrogance in his eyes did not go away at all.

Charlie looked at Victor with embarrassment. There was not much expression on Victor's cold face, which was exactly the same as the person Charlie remembered.

He had always been like this as if he owned the whole world.

He smiled flatteringly and said in a softer tone, "Mr. Alwynn, you also said that it is normal for children to argue with each other. It is indeed my son's fault today.

He will apologize to your son now. Please don't blame him. He is only a kid. Let's forget it. Don't take his words to heart. He didn't mean it at all."

At this moment, he put away his arrogance and looked at Victor very humbly.

Victor narrowed his eyes and said, "Did your son just say that he wants to ruin my son's reputation?"

Victor asked as if he didn't hear what Charlie just said.

Charlie totally lost his words. He really wished that he could slap his son in the face right now.

"No, no, no, Mr. Alwynn, it's a misunderstanding, a misunderstanding."

"Mr. Meaker, your son indeed comes from a well-educated family where he learned everything from his father. If you want to ruin my son, you can try whatever you want.

Maybe you should understand that people sometimes don't want to fight with you not because they don't have the ability. Please don't push it too far." The last sentence was full of threats.

Then Victor added, "I only show my respect to people who deserve it."

Hearing this, Charlie knew that he was in trouble.

No matter how arrogant he was, he still didn't dare to offend Victor.

Victor could make his whole Family go bankrupt tonight as long as Victor wanted.

He was really scared at the moment because he knew what Victor was like.

So he quickly walked to his son.

Then he slapped his son hard in his face.

However, his heart ached so much as he loved his son more than anything else.

"Dad, you hit me. I'll tell mom. She won't let you go." Troy was sullen. His father had never hit him.

His father had always been spoiling him no matter what he did.

Everyone fell silent when they heard his words.

Dean couldn't help but smile. Charlie's wife was known for being tough and mean.

She and Mrs. King were the same.

However, ever since Mrs. King stopped making trouble, her cosmetics business went much better.

"B*stard, shut up! You should apologize to them."

He was furious and his face was full of disappointment.

His son really embarrassed him in front of everyone this time.

He would have kicked his wife out a long time ago if it weren't for his son. He would love to bring his young and beautiful mistress home.

"No, I won't." Troy looked at Kenneth and Henrick with an aggrieved face.

"You two b*astards made me hit by my dad. I will not let you go." He roared at the two brothers.

Kenneth looked at him and smiled calmly. "Alright, Troy. Let's see. I suggest you not give the big talk all the time. You really don't know what is waiting for you."

Chapter 1486

"There is a saying that if you are a bright person, then you would not see the dark side of the world. Snakes never knew that they are poisonous, just like people don't know it when they make mistakes."

Henrick's words made his teacher surprise.

She knew Victor's family well.

Although the Alwynn family was the richest and most powerful family in River City, their whole family always kept a low profile.

The three children were very humble and kind to everyone at school, and all of them had really good grades. All the teachers really liked them.

"Mr. Alwynn, I am the teacher of your three children. All of them are working very hard, and they never broke any rules at school.

But recently they got involved in this because Alma was bullied by Troy. We are going to give Troy one last chance. Bullying is something that we would never tolerate in this school."

Victor glanced at his two sons proudly. "Alright, as you already said, I would like to give him one last chance. There won't be the next time and he will be expelled straight away if he does it again. If his family doesn't agree, I will talk to them. My son said one thing right, this school is indeed mine."

Troy was stunned and looked at his father, unwilling to give up.

Charlie was also shocked. It seemed that he really offended the wrong person today.

"Hurry up and apologize to them!" He warned his son again.

The teacher's words made him feel ashamed.

Victor's three children all had really good grades, but his child was the last one in the class. Such a difference made him ashamed.

Under the pressure of his father, Troy knew that he could not get away with it today.

"Henrick, Kenneth, I'm sorry. I shouldn't have done it today." He lowered his head and said in an extremely depressed tone, but his attitude was not bad.

Kenneth sneered, "If you dare to bully Alma again, I will make sure you get out of here."

"Ok, I won't bully Alma anymore." He had only one chance, and he didn't want to lose it. He would still have chances to deal with them as long as he stayed in this school.

Henrick let out a sigh. "That's it then. Nothing follows its rules anymore nowadays."

Then he turned around and said goodbye to his teacher, walked out by himself.

Victor knew that he was not happy.

Dean smiled. "What do you mean by that?"

Henrick turned around and looked at him with a smile. "Uncle Huffam, I just meant what I said."

It sounded too hard for Dean to understand.

"However, sometimes, people couldn't be nice all the time, because there will always be someone who thinks of your forbearance as weak and incompetent. Why should you help others by making yourself suffer? And they don't even appreciate it anyway."

After he finished, she glanced at her father and left with disappointment.

Victor did not say anything. He knew exactly what he meant.

However, it was not the time yet.

He got up from the chair and cast Charlie a sharp gaze.

Then he turned to the teacher, "If this happens again, tell the principal to expel him straight away. If Mr. Meaker is not happy, you can come to Alwynn Group to look for me directly."

The teacher nodded.

Then Victor walked over, took Kenneth's hand, and walked out.

Dean followed closely behind.

He looked back at Charlie. He knew Charlie just didn't want to make things too bad, otherwise, it would only do harm to himself. But his greedy and dirty thoughts would never change.

However, Dean also knew that Victor would not let him get away with it so easily. He was afraid that Charlie would not have another chance to do his business anymore.

Troy and Charlie were still standing in the office, saying nothing. It was the most embarrassing night of their lives.

He was clearly not strong enough to challenge Victor yet.

But he believed that he would have a chance in the future.

It was not that his son couldn't go to other schools, but no other schools would be the same as this one.

This was the best private school in River City, and the facilities were the best in the city.

In particular, the teachers there were really good.

All the students who graduated from here would be so proud of their school.

Back in the car, Henrick sat in the back seat with his legs crossed.

Meanwhile, Gia was sitting on the other side, ignoring him.

Kenneth opened the door and threw Henrick's schoolbag to him. "Don't you want your schoolbag?"

Henrick put on a fake smile. "Of course I do. As long as I have you here, my school bag can't be lost."

"Give over." Kenneth sat down next to him.

Victor and Dean also got in the car. Dean started the car and was ready to drive them home.

"Dad, Troy is evil. He is so shameless and cunning. If you keep him here, it will only be bad for us in the future."

Victor turned back and looked at him. "Ricky, you know his purpose clearly, so why do you still want to do it?"

You don't have to pay attention to him. He's a useless person after all. He's not up to the level of the three of you at all. Even though he's cunning, despicable, and scheming, he could only do these kinds of small tricks. I don't believe that you can't deal with him, just like what happened today."

"Dad, I'm sorry, I lied today. I guessed that Troy would end up doing this." Kenneth lowered his head and admitted his mistake.

Victor looked at him and said, "Kenny, I believe you know what you are doing."

Henrick glanced at his father and said, "Dad, no man is content."

Victor smiled and said, "Ricky, everything will come to an end. You will have to tolerate it for today."

"If I didn't, I would have already kicked him out." Henrick was still fuming. "Troy is just a rascal. He thought he could do everything he wants just because his family has a bit of money."

"Can you just shut up?" Giada glared at him. "If you're not happy, go down and fight with him. Don't be so wordy afterward."

Just because of Alma, you would rather give up your future?"

"Giada, are you just going to watch her be bullied like that?" Henrick looked at his sister, feeling even more fuming.

Giada laughed coldly. "I think she asked for it. She already knew that Troy didn't like her, but she still goes very close to him, especially when you are around. She is planning something. I really don't like her."

Alice is so much better than her. She's straightforward and doesn't have any hidden thoughts. I would definitely be friends with Alice rather than Alma."

Giada was young, but she was very good at judging people.

Chapter 1487

Alma and Alice were definitely not the same kinds of people.

"Forget it. There is no point to talk to you about it. You have a prejudice against Alma and never liked her. But even so, you have no right to stop me from being friends with anyone I like."

He knew Giada and him didn't really get along, so he believed that she just didn't like anyone around him.

"Birds of a feather!" Giada rolled her eyes and said.

Henrick wanted to say something back, but Kenneth kicked him slightly, indicating that he should stop.

So Henrick could only glare at his sister angrily but say nothing.

He was also worried that they would end up fighting in the car, and he would not want his mother to worry about them anymore.

Victor looked at the three of them in the rearview mirror. Seeing that they finally stopped arguing, he felt much more pleased.

Even Victor couldn't do anything when the three of them started arguing.

"Ricky, remember, you can't let your mom know what happened tonight. If this happens again, leave it to me." Victor warned them.

Hearing this, Henrick was pleased. "Dad, I don't want to let mom know that I had trouble at school either. No matter whose fault it was, mom wouldn't let me go."

Victor didn't know if he spoiled them too much.

But he couldn't do anything about it.

He sighed slightly in his heart. It was certainly not easy to be a good father as well as a husband.

He felt he had been too kind to the three children so that they never treated him seriously.

It was getting darker and darker outside. Eden sat in the car and looked out of the window at the foggy sky. The dimmed streetlights lit up the small and quiet road, making her feel extremely depressed.

Ever since Dr. West left, her brother hadn't smiled at all.

Even when she said some jokes, he just put on a fake smile.

She took out her phone and called Buddy.

"Eden, are you back home now?"

Buddy's gentle voice came from the other side of the phone. Eden smiled and said, "I'm still on my way. Buddy, I want to ask you something. Has Delmont gone anywhere during the past few years?"

Buddy would be the person who knew Delmont the best.

"Why? What happened?"

"No, nothing happened. I just want to know more about him."

"He hasn't been living a good life for the past few years, and I don't think you would want to know about it."

"Please, just tell me about it. I want to know what happened maybe around five years ago." Eden smiled and tried to make her question sounded natural.

"I think he went somewhere about seven or eight years ago. I don't remember the exact time. He suddenly went home one day and said that he wanted to go out for a year.

We didn't think much about it, and dad also thought it wasn't a bad idea for him. After that, he has gone for a year. But he called us every two or three days to let us know that he was safe. Nothing really happened during that time.

When he came back a year later, he got his doctorate degree. Nothing extraordinary has happened, but we were all very happy for him."

"Wow, it sounded like he did a really good job."

Buddy smiled and said, "Every child of our family has a good performance in school. Although Delmont didn't like to study very much, he always had good grades."

"Do you know if he had any girlfriends before?"

"He had a friend when he was in college, but I don't know who she is. I remember they broke up because they didn't get along. He didn't like to talk about it, so I never asked him what happened.

Why are you suddenly interested in his girlfriend?"

Eden made something up quickly, "Because he hasn't had a girlfriend for a long time, and I'm a bit worried that his previous relationships affected him."

"It has been many years, so I don't think he would still be bothered. I think he just hasn't met the right person yet."

"Ok, I see. Anyway, I'm almost home. I will talk to you another time."

"Ok! Take care."

After hanging up the phone, Eden sighed deeply. It seemed that Delmont had been facing everything on his own for all these years.

She tightened her coat. It was really cold today.

Delmont was going to do a full-body checkup the next day. She just hoped that everything would be fine.

If anything happened to Delmont, she would not let Paula get away with it.

That driver and Paula must know each other.

On the weekend, Eden and Gia went to visit Delmont.

When she went out with her daughter at dinner time, there was still food that her brother liked was delivered to the ward.

Eden did not really pay attention to it. On Sunday morning, she saw Adrienne came again in a wheelchair.

She did not go over to say hi.

She just wanted to know how much they loved with each other.

Monday morning, Eden bumped into Paula as soon as she got to her office. Everything on Paula's body was from designer brands.

The bag she carried was a limited edition of L. Q. It was white with some small diamonds, looking fashionable and exotic.

Eden was very familiar with all the international designer brands.

"Good morning, Director Bleu." Paula greeted her with a smile.

It seemed that she was in a good mood.

She pushed her bag on her shoulder, and then raised her wrist, wanting to show Eden her watch which was a limited edition of G.C.

However, Eden didn't notice the watch at all because she didn't sleep well the night before.

And she didn't notice anything else that Paula tried to show off either.

"Good morning!" She greeted Paula casually.

Victor did not come to the company. He was on a business trip with Dean. It was the end of the year now, everyone was really busy.

Eden was about to walk into the company, but a group of reporters suddenly appeared and surrounded her.

Eden frowned and glanced at the reporter who was carrying all the different cameras, said nothing.

"Director Bleu, I heard that someone wanted a customized design from you, but you refused this person before you even meet him. Now you are getting more and more popular, do you think that ordinary people are not qualified to get a customized design from you anymore?"

The reporter's questions were very sharp and well-prepared.

Eden was surprised that they already heard of what happened the night before and even started making a fuss.

However, she was already very used to this now, so this kind of thing could not defeat her at all. After all, the other party had only one purpose—destroying her.

She looked at the reporter and smiled as if she had just heard a joke.

"I always put my customers first, so how can I refuse any customer? It's not that I don't accept customized design anymore, but my elder brother was injured and is staying in the hospital, so I don't have time for it now. Since I can't guarantee that I can make it perfect, I would certainly not dissatisfy my customer.

Everyone knows that a perfect design requires dedicated effort. I have to be responsible for every piece of my work. The design is my soul. I treat every piece of my work very seriously."

Her words made the report has nothing to say anymore.

Another reporter still didn't want to give up, "Director Bleu, but you didn't even meet him, nor did you give him a reasonable explanation."

Eden still smiled gracefully. "At that time, my husband and I had something important to do, so my assistant received them. As for how my assistant dealt with it, I haven't had time to ask her yet."

Chapter 1488

As Eden spoke, she cast a glance at Paula, who was taking pleasure in her misfortune from aside.

When she met Eden's eyes, her heart skipped a beat. She didn't expect that Eden would blame everything on her.

Eden quickly got rid of the group of reporters, and all of them left embarrassedly.

Paula was stunned. These were all the reporters arranged by Carolyn.

How could Eden get rid of them so easily?

At this time, she saw Eden started walking towards her.

However, Eden just took a look at her without saying anything, and then walked directly to the company.

Eden's gaze sent a chill on Paula's spine.

Then she followed Eden back to the office in a panic.

Eden put down her bag and poured herself a glass of hot water.

She stood by the French window with hot water in her hand and looked at the beautiful scenery of snow in the distance. She was in a very bad mood.

She had always known how scary a person's heart could be. An insatiable desire would really destroy a person.

As long as there was such a person around her, she could never find peace in her heart.

She felt if one person was never satisfied, then the reality would be always cruel to this person.

At this time, the doorbell rang.

"Come in." She quickly put away her emotion.

Seth walked in with a smile. "Mrs. Alwynn, Aro bought breakfast and I brought it for you. Also, this is the progress of the cooperation with Monroe Group. Everything has gone smoothly, but you'd better take a look."

Eden smiled and nodded, "I thought you didn't know Aro and Anthony."

Seth smiled with her slightly blushed face. "We grew up together. Anthony is my boyfriend."

"Really?" Eden was a little surprised. She also felt a little embarrassed that she had tried to set Seth up with someone else.

Seth's boyfriend was Anthony, but she tried to introduce her brother to her.

"Yes." Seth pushed her glasses up, still smiling with her blushed face.

"I'm so happy for you! Anthony is now my driver, so you will have more chances to meet each other after work. I can drive back myself anyway, so you two should spend more time together."

"No, Mrs. Alwynn. We are fine. I'm getting back to my work now." Seth laughed and turned around to leave.

Eden couldn't help but laugh. She was indeed very happy for them. They were both really nice people.

She felt everyone could find their own happiness one day, as long as they were nice and kind.

Life was probably just how she wanted.

Hearing this good news, she suddenly felt cheered up.

She took the water back to her desk and took a bite of sandwich.

At this time, her phone rang. She saw that it was from Victor, so she answered the phone with a smile.

"Darling, have you arrived?"

Hearing this, Victor also smiled and said, "Honey, you sound like you are in a good mood. But are you too happy to remember that I have just arrived at the airport?"

"Oh, really? Have a safe journey then."

"Thank you. I'll be back before nine o'clock. I need to board the plane now. I love you."

"Alright, darling. I love you too. Take care." Eden smiled and hung up the phone.

As soon as she put down her phone, she saw Paula walking in with some documents in her hands.

Paula heard what Eden had just said, and she felt a surge of jealousy in her heart. Victor seemed to be unable to leave Eden for a moment.

Eden looked at her and said with a faint smile, "Don't you know to knock on the door before you come in? Do you think this is your home?"

Paula placed the documents on the desk and said with a smile, "Do I need to knock on the door when you are here? Besides, your husband is not here."

"I actually wanted to ask you. Did you say anything about what happened to Miss Meaker and Miss Kuhn?"

Paula's heart missed a beat. It seemed that Eden really knew her very well.

"It wasn't me." She looked at Eden, a mocking smile appeared on her face.

There was heating in the office, so Eden was only wearing a white sweater and a pair of tight black pants. Her perfect body figure made Paulas so jealous. She didn't look like she was a mother of three children at all.

Eden crossed her arms in front of her chest and leaned back against the chair, looking at Paula with a faint smile.

"Do you think I don't know you? Maybe you should leave your position now as you can't even handle this matter well. You made mistakes every day, and you really are not a good assistant. I think you should resign from your job.

Moreover, you have found your prince charming now anyway. Look at all the limited editions on your body. I'm afraid Alwynn Group is not good enough for you anymore. You don't really care about this small money anyway, so it would be better for you to relax at home rather than doing something you don't like."

"I..." Paula choked on her words.

"What... what does this have to do with my job?"

As soon as she finished her words, Eden slammed the table hard.

"Does it have nothing to do with your job?"

What were you doing when I was surrounded by reporters this morning? Were you gloating next to me? Also, all this work should have been done on Friday. You didn't finish it until today.

I have told you as soon as you entered the company that you should take this job seriously."

"You are picking holes in me now. I haven't experienced such a thing before, so I didn't know what to do for a while. Besides, it's true that you didn't meet the two customers. How can you blame it on me?"

Paula tried to argue. She could not be dismissed. It was too shameful for her.

Eden sneered. "As my assistant, can't you even deal with such a small thing? Do you know how hard Amelia used to work? You are not even half as good as her."

Amelia would never let such a thing bother her.

"I... I just passed my probation, and there are still many things that I'm learning. I... I will work hard. Eden, we used to be classmates. You can't fire me."

"Why can't I? I already told you on your first day that we will not tolerate any trash who doesn't work hard." Eden said harshly.

"Are you calling me trash now?" Paula looked at her angrily.

"Eden, don't forget that you were also a good-for-nothing before you met Victor. You were also bullied by everyone else!"

Paula looked at her coldly.

At that time, Eden was not even as good as her.

Eden laughed. "Are you finally giving up on faking everything in front of me now?"

Paula was stunned and her face was filled with awkwardness. She totally forgot what she was doing.

"You can hand in the resignation letter yourself. I have already shown you the respect." Eden's face was cold. She did not want to give such a person any more chance.

It was just like what Ricky said, why would she hurt herself just because she wanted to help others?

Chapter 1489

However, Paula would not just leave like this.

"I won't go. Eden, I'm sorry. I won't do this again," she apologized.

It was not a big deal to apologize as a shameless person like her.

Eden already knew she would be like this.

"I'm more tired if you stayed, so you'd better leave."

"No, no, no, Eden, Director Bleu, Mrs. Alwynn. I know I made a mistake. I promise it will never happen again. Please don't kick me out." Paula's tone became much softer.

She regretted it so much that she said such stupid words earlier.

Did she forget who Eden was now?

She was Victor Alwynn's wife.

Why the hell did she bring that up earlier?

She was such a reckless person who always ended up doing stupid things.

Eden smiled faintly and said, "Okay, you can stay if you really want to. If you sort out what happened earlier, then we can talk about if you can stay later."

"What?" Paula didn't know what to say. She didn't want to get involved in this at all.

"Eden, you know that I can't handle this. I really can't handle that two ladies."

How could she dare to offend them?

But Eden didn't care at all. She was the one who had caused the trouble, so she should be the one to deal with it.

"Why didn't you think about it when you talk sh*t about me to them?"

"I've already said that I didn't say anything bad about you to them." Paula still refused to admit it.

No one would tell Eden the truth anyway.

"Since you do not have the ability to deal with it, you should leave," Eden said seriously.

Then she lowered her head and continued to have her breakfast. Although she had some at home, she still could eat some more.

She was a kind person, but she had her principles and bottom line.

In Paula's eyes, she was just being a coward rather than being kind.

Her kindness almost made her lose her brother forever.

"I..." Paula gritted her teeth.

"Do you have any evidence to prove that I said something bad about you?" It was obvious that Eden was trying to make things difficult for her.

How could she handle it anyway?

"You should go now."

"Eden, are you really going to kick me out?" Paula started getting anxious.

If she really left, it would be too shameful for her.

"I'll give you three days. If you haven't solved this problem in three days, you will have to leave. If Amelia was here, she would be able to handle everything in two minutes."

"What? Two minutes?! Are you joking? How is this possible?" Paula didn't believe that anyone could solve this matter in two minutes.

Eden looked at her and smiled disdainfully. "Paula, there is always someone better than you. If you can't do it, it doesn't mean that no one else can do it."

"But no one could solve it in two minutes. You are just making things difficult for me." Paula's face darkened.

She believe no one couldn't get rid of all these things and traces in two minutes.

"No, I'm not making things difficult for you. Amelia can solve the problem in two minutes. I gave you three days because it's your first time to encounter this kind of thing. Go out now."

Eden did not want to talk nonsense with her anymore. She would leave this place sooner or later, but not now.

If she drive Paula away, the other party would still arrange for others to come in and keep an eye on her every move.

Paula was not good at hiding her emotions.

So it was very easy to read her mind sometimes.

"Alright. I will make sure I get everything sorted in three days no matter what."

Eden smiled and said, "Let's see then."

"But like I said earlier, I didn't say anything bad about you." Paula still wanted to argue.

Eden smiled again and said, "You know exactly if you did it or not. If you want evidence, I can also show it to you."

Paula bit her lip and looked at her. How could she have any evidence?

However, she knew Eden very well, so she'd better be careful. She was already really worried that day when Mr. Ronen suddenly appeared outside the door.

"Alright. I will get everything sorted in three days." After that, she turned around and left.

Eden slowly leaned back into her seat and looked at Paula's back with her cold gaze.

She had already asked Dean to do something last weekend.

She would not let Paula get away with it so easily on her big brother's thing.

At lunchtime, when Eden was having her lunch, the phone rang. Eden picked up the phone quickly.

"Hello, Mrs. Alwynn. There is a girl in the Children's Wear Department who was brought here by Henrick."

Eden suddenly remembered that Henrick said Alma was coming for a model audition.

"Has she passed the audition? We will have to be honest, and you don't need to worry about Ricky."

It was not that she was being too strict, she just didn't want her children to think that they could use power to get what they wanted instead of hard work.

"Ricky actually said the same thing. But this little girl is really good, I think we should keep her."

"If you think she is good, we can sign the contract with her."

"Yes, Madam."

After hanging up the phone, Eden did not call her son.

She knew her son always had his own decisions, so she was not worried.

When Paula returned to her office, she called Dahlia immediately.

"Dahlia, Eden asked me to solve today's issue, otherwise, she would fire me. I only did it because of you, so if I left, you would have no one to help you from the inside anymore." She tried to threaten Dahlia.

"Can't you even solve such a small matter yourself?"

Also, you should at least show Eden that you are innocent. She is very easy to deal with. As long as you are responsible for your work, she will not make things difficult for you."

Dahlia couldn't believe how stupid Paula was. If it was not because she was in need of help, she would never use her.

She had thought that Dulcie and the daughter of the mayor could teach Eden a lesson.

However, in the end, they fell out with each other because of Eden.

Paula couldn't believe what Dahlia said. It certainly was easier said than done.

"Dahlia, this is a difficult matter for me. Why don't you talk to Miss Meaker and Miss Kuhn and get them to delete the news? Then Eden would not make a fuss about it anymore."

"Ok, I will help you this time."

After finishing her words, Dahlia hung up the phone straight away.

Paula looked at the phone and smiled. "Dahlia, you have to listen to me in the end anyway."

Who does Dahlia think she was? She was just someone who could only use despicable means anyway.

Chapter 1490

After the matter was settled, Paula immediately started working again. If she was thrown out, she would really be ashamed.

She couldn't stay in River City anymore if it really happened.

However, as for Eden, she did not care about it at all.

She was well aware of Paula's working ability.

She was just waiting for news from Aro.

Eden ate her lunch slowly and was thinking about something else in her mind.

At this moment, the doorbell rang.

"Come in."

After saying it, she lifted her head and looked over to the door.

Then she saw her son and a very pretty little girl walking in.

"Mom, why didn't you wait for me for lunch?" Ricky looked unhappy.

In order to take Alma to the audition, he left school as soon as they finished the class, without even having time for lunch.

Eden looked at the two of them and smiled, "Haven't you eaten anything yet?"

"No, I came here as soon as I finished my class. I had no time to eat. Mom, can you buy us lunch."

Then he walked over with Alma and introduced, "Mom, this is my classmate Alma. She has passed the audition."

Eden looked at Alma carefully. She wore a pink dress and her hair was tied into a ponytail. She had big eyes and a pair of charming dimples on her delicate face. When she smiled, her teeth were white and her chin was slightly raised. She looked very quiet and beautiful, but there was something missing in her.

"Hello, nice to meet you!" She greeted Eden politely.

"Nice to meet you, Alma. Congratulations for passing the audition."

"Thank you!" Alma smiled and then looked at Henrick. She wouldn't have such a chance if it weren't for Henrick.

It was not easy for her, so she would not waste it at all.

Eden picked up her phone and ordered some food quickly. Then she poured a glass of water for each of them and sat opposite them.

"Have some water first. Lunch will be delivered here soon."

"Mom, I want to be the brand ambassador with Alma for the next season. What do you think?"
Henrick looked at the quiet and beautiful Alma beside him and especially wanted to do it with her.

Eden glanced at her son and said with a smile, "I thought you told your dad that you want him to find another person to do it next season because you are too busy?"

Henrick frowned slightly, indicating to his mother that she should do him a favor in front of his classmate.

He smiled awkwardly and said, "Mom, this is our own business, so I certainly will do it myself."

"Really?" Eden glanced at her son meaningfully.

"Yes, mom. Is there any problem?" Henrick looked at her mother with a fake smile and threw the question back to her.

He hoped his mother would understand it.

He didn't want to be humiliated in front of the girl he liked.

"No problem at all. As long as you're happy." Eden smiled, knowing exactly what he was thinking.

Her daughter was right about it. Her son absolutely had a crush on this little girl.

She felt the children nowadays were more and more complicated.

Alma looked at the spacious and bright office, then looked at Eden's beautiful clothes, her heart was filled with envy. One day, she would live a good life like this.

Henrick was the one who could give her such a chance.

"You are so beautiful." Alma couldn't help praising Eden.

"Thank you, Alma! You are such a sweet girl." Eden smiled from ear to ear. This must be the compliment that every woman liked.

"Mom, since dad is not home, let's go out for a nice meal tonight." Henrick suggested with a smile.

When he was about to cross his legs happily, Eden cast him a sharp gaze. Henrick immediately put down her leg slowly with an awkward smile.

Eden looked at her son in confusion.

"Why do we have to have a nice meal when your dad is not home?"

Henrick put on a cheeky smile and said mysteriously, "Because if dad was here, he would only pay attention to you. He would never care about us at all."

"Mom, let's go together tonight." Henrick tried to convince his mother again.

"But I have to go see your uncle." Eden did not want to say no, but she indeed needed to take care of her brother.

"Right, I almost forgot my uncle." Henrick looked at her mother with disappointment.

Then he said again, "It's really a pity. I was going to treat you tonight."

It was not easy for her son to treat her once, so Eden was in two minds.

"Why don't we go to see your uncle after dinner?" She looked at her son with her eyes lit up suddenly.

Looking at her mother's look, Henrick felt a little speechless. Why couldn't she act a little mature in front of his friend?

She looked as if she had won a lottery.

"Where are we going then?" Eden smiled and asked, "I will call Abby as well. However, she is about to give birth. She cannot go too far."

Henrick looked helpless. "Uncle Anson is keeping an eye on Abby now, so he won't let her come with us. She is the most precious thing for Uncle Anson right now."

"Really?" Eden knew that Anson had spoiled Abby a lot, but she was too busy recently to pay attention to it.

Kenneth still smiled helplessly. "Mom, don't you know it? Dad has spoilt you enough, but Uncle Anson spoils Abby even more.

For example, when Abby wants to drink some water, uncle Anson always has a look of heartbroken on his face.

And he would say, 'don't come to get water for yourself. Just tell me what you want. I'll get it and buy it for you.'

'Abby, sorting out documents is too much, and you should ask your assistant to do more work. You paid him a lot, so he should do all these things for you.'

What's more, when Abby went to the bathroom, he would guard outside the bathroom in case she would have an accident.

Anyway, he really worries about everything that Abby does.

Mom, do you understand now?" Henrick copied exactly what Anson said and did to his mother.

"It's already too much for me to look at dad spoiling you every day, but uncle Anson really made it worse."

Eden was speechless.

It sounded like Anson was indeed much worse than Victor.

She was also surprised that Abby could put up with it.

"Your dad does that because he loves me. Why are you not happy about it?" Eden spoke for her husband.
