

Gluey Love 1741

Chapter 1741

The next day, Eden got up early in the morning. She was too excited to sleep last night, because she was going to make rice dumplings. Moreover, she missed the fragrance of rice dumplings very much.

Victor got up early in the morning to help her and put all the food ingredients on the table. Then he watched Eden make rice dumplings.

The rice dumplings were made of glutinous rice, and he didn't like them.

However, Eden prepared various stuffings, including ham, mushrooms, and salted egg yolks, and he gave a longing look at them.

Eden made rice dumplings with all the stuffings and asked Victor to cook them with a pressure cooker for half an hour. She wanted to taste them first. After all, she could only have rice dumplings at the Dragon Boat Festival every year.

Half an hour later, Victor came out with four cooked rice dumplings.

"Eden, have a taste."

Smelling the fragrance of the bamboo leaves, Eden smiled happily and looked at the rice dumplings on the table.

"Hurry up and peel one for me."

Victor laughed and picked up a rice dumplings. She had made lots of rice dumplings in half an hour.

"Eden, take a bite." Victor fed the rice dumpling to Eden.

Eden lowered her head to take a bite with a smile. It was a rice dumpling with salted egg yolks, and it was so delicious and chewy.

"It's so tasty!" Eden said while chewing.

Victor also took a bite, and his eyes lit up. It was really much better than the rice dumpling he had eaten. Did he have any misunderstandings about the rice dumpling before?

"Eden, it's so yummy! You're amazing!" Victor ate it up and peeled another one.

Eden smiled proudly. Seeing that he was eating happily, she was so glad, "Of course. I made them in person. They're different from those rice dumplings in the supermarket. This glutinous rice is the best. It's soft and delicious."

As Eden said this, she kept making new rice dumplings.

Victor fed her another rice dumpling with red date. It was so sweet that Eden's heart was filled with joy.

"My Eden is the best!" Victor's eyebrows danced.

He wanted to live such a happy life forever.

Eden didn't finish making all the rice dumplings until five o'clock in the afternoon. She divided the dumplings into several portions, asked Victor to carry them to the car and send them to all their relatives and friends.

They went to the Clement family first. After having dinner there, they went to see Anson, Lucian, Jasper and Graciella.

When they returned home, it was already past ten o'clock at night.

"I'm so tired!" Eden sat on the sofa and massaged her aching waist, looking exhausted.

Victor poured a glass of warm water and let her take a few sips first. Then he sat next to her to massage her shoulders.

"Eden, are you very tired?" Victor's heart ached for her. She couldn't stay at home obediently.

"A little bit." Eden lay in his arms and looked up at him, "Tomorrow is the Dragon Boat Festival. I want to go back to work the day after tomorrow."

Victor's face darkened, and he asked her with a smile, "Don't you want to be idle anymore?"

Eden nodded, "I'm afraid that I'll lose my will to fight as times goes by."

"Nonsense." Victor pinched her cheek.

"Ha-ha..." Eden took the initiative to put her arms around his neck, "Victor, I told you that I wanted to go to work and get off work together with you. If you go to the company alone, I'll always think too much."

"As long as you're happy, you can do whatever you want. Remember that you're my wife. No matter what trouble you make, I can solve the problem for you." His domineering words left a glow in Eden's heart.

She took the initiative to kiss Victor's sexy lips.

Victor was stunned and then smiled faintly. He liked her when she took the initiative to kiss her.

Soon, Victor took control of the situation, and Eden responded to him happily.

After a long while, Victor let go of her reluctantly, and his eyes were full of desire and passion.

Eden looked at him with randy eyes. Seeing that he had stopped, she was a little angry and dissatisfied.

Victor rubbed her nose, "Baby, you are very tired. Are you sure you want to do this?" His voice was deep and magnetic, but the expression in the bottom of his eyes showed that he was actually sexually aroused.

Eden blinked her beautiful eyes. She just looked at him and didn't speak. Why would he stop every time she took the initiative to kiss him?

Was she not attractive enough? Or... Eden got up angrily and went upstairs.

After he stopped, she no longer had the mood to continue.

Victor was dumbfounded. What was wrong with her?

"Honey, why do you get mad all of a sudden?" Victor immediately got up and followed her.

Eden ignored him and went straight back to the room. She opened the wardrobe and took her pajamas to take a bath.

Victor followed her, but his nose was almost hit by the slammed door.

Victor touched his nose with depression, not knowing what was going on.

How did he offend her?

He knocked on the door again when he heard the sound of running water, "Eden, do you want to take a bath together with me?"

Hearing this, Eden wanted to go out and kick him away.

She wouldn't have a shower together with him! She was angry, but he still wanted to take a bath with her.

Eden did not speak and sat in the bath comfortably.

Victor had been waiting outside the door. Half an hour later, Eden came out, and her hair was wet.

She didn't even look at Victor and went to dry her hair with a hairdryer.

Victor really didn't understand why she was annoyed.

He walked over, took the hairdryer from her hand and started to dry her hair.

Eden looked at herself in the mirror with annoyance and didn't look at Victor.

Victor felt particularly wronged. He didn't know which of his words had offended her.

"Eden, what's wrong with you? Why do you suddenly lose your temper?"

The sound of the hairdryer did not drown out Victor's voice. Eden heard him clearly, and she despised herself in heart. Was she angry because she failed to have sex with him?

If Victor knew it, he would laugh at her.

"Humph!" Eden snorted and glared at Victor from the mirror fiercely.

Didn't he know her very well in ordinary times? But he stopped kissing her and didn't even know why she was unhappy. It seemed that he didn't know her at all!

Victor was speechless. He really can't afford to offend her!

"Eden, it's okay now." Victor turned off the hairdryer.

Eden stared at herself in the mirror for a moment. Her hair had grown longer. She casually lifted it and said, "I want to cut my hair tomorrow."

Hearing this, Victor disagreed, "Eden, it's not particularly long. Why don't you keep it?" In fact, she looked beautiful with long hair, because her hair was in tip-top condition.

"No." After saying that, Eden got up and went to bed. She took off her shoes, lay down and wrapped herself with the quilt, ignoring Victor completely.

Seeing that she was really angry, Victor recalled what he had said carefully. After a while, he seemed to find the answer. Looking at her exasperated face, he smiled in pleasure.

It turned out that she...

"Eden, wait for me for a while. I'll go to bed right away." Victor went to the bathroom quickly.

Under the quilt, Eden blushed scarlet instantly. He knew why she was mad.

Oh... Could she run away from home?

Chapter 1742

When Eden felt dulled and stupid with sleep, she felt that she was held by a pair of smooth and strong arms. She immediately woke up as if she had got a shock. When she opened her eyes, she saw Victor's wicked smiling eyes.

Eden shivered and kicked Victor.

But her heart beat wildly. His handsome face was so f*cking attractive.

"Just sleep!" Eden was in a bad mood instantly. Looking at Victor's wicked smiling face, she went berserk again.

When she took the initiative to kiss him, he stopped, but he wanted to flirt with her when she was no longer sexually aroused. She wouldn't accept him so kindly!

"Honey, I love you!" Victor's low and mellow voice touched Eden's heartstrings like a gust of gentle wind.

Eden closed her beautiful eyes. His voice sounded too tender and bewitching.

"Honey." Victor looked at her with amusement and continued to tempt her. He was horny, and he wanted to have sex with her immediately, but he had to coax her first.

Victor tried hard to suppress his sexual desire.

"Honey, open your eyes and look at me." He coaxed her in a low voice with some grievances.

Eden suddenly opened her beautiful eyes and glared at him fiercely again. But she couldn't help but hug him tightly.

"Ha-ha..." Victor laughed when he saw how angry but adorable she was.

"Why is my baby so cute?" He really hoped that such a happy life would never be affected.

"Humph, I don't want to have sex with you. You force me." Eden said with annoyance.

"Alright. You don't want, and I force you." He echoed her dotingly in a low voice, and he was extremely tender.

Eden looked at him quietly. He looked very kind when he spoke gently, and his eyes were so bright and charming.

She kissed his lips uncontrollably.

Victor smiled. Her kiss was light, like the soft and warm spring breeze. He was very familiar with such a feeling.

The first half of the night was torrid. Eden fell asleep contentedly in the small hours.

The next day was the Dragon Boat Festival. Eden was not in a hurry to go to the hospital. She had told Candace that she would go to have dinner with her.

Candace was very delighted. When they talked on the phone, she was so excited that she almost burst into tears.

Pregnant people could not suffer violent mood swings. After comforting her for a while, Eden hung up the phone.

Having been living an idle life for a long time, she didn't want to get up in the morning.

It was not until Victor went upstairs to let her have breakfast that she got up lazily and washed up.

After washing up, she looked energetic again. She wore her hair in a beautiful bun, looking neat and immaculate.

The well-cut and pink dress made her look even more youthful.

Victor, who had sat next to the table, looked up at her and got amazed by her beauty. He smiled and said, "Eden, are you tired?"

He asked deliberately.

Eden was about to sit on the chair. Hearing this, she paused.

"Victor, do you ask it on purpose?" She looked at him angrily.

Victor smiled leisurely. Was she shy because she was too passionate last night?

In fact, he liked her when she was so passionate.

"Have your breakfast. It's your favorite lean porridge. After breakfast, we'll go to the supermarket to buy food ingredients and then go to the hospital." Victor pushed the warm porridge to her front.

Eden sat down, bowed her head to eat the porridge and ignored him. After the Dragon Boat Festival, she would no longer live a leisurely life.

However, she was destined to live a busy life. During this period of recuperation, if Victor didn't stay at home with her, she would definitely feel very bored.

After breakfast, they went to the supermarket and bought a lot of food ingredients for dinner.

Out of the supermarket, there were two old ladies selling red eggs and multi-colored thread. Seeing this, Eden thought of her childhood. At that time, she lived in the village. The Gienger family did not treat her well, but the villagers really treated her kindly. On the Dragon Boat Festival, the villagers would go to the mountains to dig purple grass and cook red eggs. Each child would have one or two eggs. The old lady who lived next door would send two eggs to her.

She liked that atmosphere very much. Looking at the two old ladies, she bought all the red eggs. She could tell that these eggs were laid by free-range chicken, and they were very delicious. Since she bought all of them, the two old ladies could go home earlier to celebrate the Dragon Boat Festival.

In the car, Victor was a little surprised when he saw a bag of red eggs.

Just now, she ran over excitedly, and he thought she had discovered something interesting. It turned out that she went to buy eggs.

"Eden, why do you buy so many dyed eggs?"

Hearing this, Eden knew that Victor, who had been living in River City since he was a child, had never gotten red eggs on the Dragon Boat Festival.

"Well, in the countryside, children will get such red eggs on the Dragon Boat Festival. I remember at that time, I knew how to make up an egg net and hang up the red eggs. I would keep the eggs and eat them until the Dragon Boat Festival."

Later, the Gienger family moved to River City, and she had never enjoyed such a warm and happy atmosphere again.

"Oh!" Victor heard of such a thing for the first time.

His eyes darkened and he did not ask any more questions. She did not have many good memories of her childhood.

He glanced sideways at her. Seeing her sad expression, he became very guilty again.

She had recalled something bad when she was a child, hadn't she?

It suddenly became quiet in the car.

"Eden, what do you want to eat tonight?" Victor suddenly asked.

When Eden heard his voice, she was in a trance. Then she realized that she had thought of something sad again. Her long eyelashes trembled slightly as she smiled faintly, trying to forget those bad memories.

"I've bought everything I want to eat. Cook for me tonight." There was a kitchen in Candace's room, and they had bought all the food ingredients. It would be convenient for them to cook.

"Okay, I'll make dinner tonight." Victor's voice was very soft. He wanted to comfort her and let her not care about her past, but even he could not forget his sad childhood, so he did not say anything.

When they arrived at the hospital, Adonis's parents were also there. When they saw Victor and Eden, they looked very grateful.

"Victor, Eden, thank you for coming to accompany Candace." Adonis's mother held Eden's hand and then looked at Candace's big belly with tears in eyes.

So many people were concerned about Adonis, and he would definitely wake up.

Eden looked at her and knew that she was sombre, "Aunt Church, Adonis will definitely wake up. His condition is getting better and better."

Eden looked inside the room, and the sound of the ECG Monitor could be heard from time to time.

Next to her, Candace said excitedly, "Anton said that Adonis is getting better day by day."

"Candace, it will be fine if we can hold on for longer." Eden looked at her. No matter how Eden tried to comfort her, she wouldn't really be happy unless Adonis woke up. Adonis was her hope.

"Yeah, I know. I've been telling myself that as long as I can hold on, Adonis will wake up."

Chapter 1743

"He will. He is so kind, and he will definitely wake up." Eden said with a smile. It was the Dragon Boat Festival, so she didn't want everyone to be sad.

She changed the subject, "Aunt Church, I made some rice dumplings. We can cook them later. Victor will make dinner for us."

"Oh!" Azariah looked at Victor excitedly, "Victor, now you actually know how to cook!"

Victor and Harrison were chatting. Hearing Azariah's words, he tilted his head to look at her, "Aunt Church, I knew how to cook a long time ago."

"Ha-ha..." Azariah laughed happily, "Adonis is quite good at cooking. You are all good boys, but I'm lucky to eat the food cooked by you."

"Aunt, don't say that. He will be proud." Eden echoed.

"It's something to be proud of." Azariah's face was full of pride. They knew better than others that Victor was an arrogant and lofty man.

They had accompanied the children to grow up, so they knew exactly how capable they were.

These boys had a strong sense of responsibility and the desire to advance. Moreover, they were kindhearted. Others might think that they were ruthless, but in their hearts, they were the best.

Every time they mentioned these children to their friends, they were proud of each of them.

But Victor had been pitiful since he was a child. On the Dragon Boat Festival, the Mid-autumn Festival and the Spring Festival, other people were reunited with their family, but he stayed alone outside and did not want to go home.

Victor's phone rang. It was Phillip calling him.

"Hello? Dad."

Phillip's happy voice came from the phone, "Victor, I've received the rice dumplings you sent me. I won't come back on the Dragon Boat Festival. I'll stay in the farm. If you have time, come here and chat with me."

"It's a beautiful place. There are red bayberry trees and a strawberry arch shelter. Bring Eden here. She likes strawberries the most, doesn't she? You can have a rest on the Dragon Boat Festival. After all, the money you can make is endless. Come here tomorrow."

Victor thought about it and replied, "Okay!"

"Alright, I'll wait for you to come here. I'll go catch two fishes early tomorrow morning and cook delicious food for you."

Victor's nose twitched when he heard this.

If Phillip could care about him like this earlier, how could their relationship become so stiff? They seldom met each other every year.

Harrison smiled and asked, "Is that your father?"

Victor nodded expressionlessly.

"His farm is in the countryside, and it takes about one and half an hour to drive there. The environment is beautiful, and his business is good. He hires a famous retired chef and several workers."

"I went there a few days ago. His life there is much happier than that in the downtown area. We go there occasionally and accompany him to play chess and go fishing. Such a life is rather nice."

"Victor, it has been a long time, and you should let go of something sad. Your father has realized his mistake. He really hopes that you can visit him often."

Life was short. They didn't have much time to be at odds with each other, did they?

Victor nodded slightly, "I see, Uncle Church. Eden and I will go to see him tomorrow."

"That's right." Harrison patted him on the shoulder.

If it weren't for the fact that Adonis was in a vegetative state, he would think that Phillip was unforgivable, too.

But everyone chose a different life. They chose their own lives, but they couldn't force others to live a same life as them.

Phillip used to be romantic in love and graceful, and many women admired her. However, his family was ruined by Rebecca, a vicious woman who just had an ordinary family background.

Victor and Eden went to see Adonis. Victor talked to Adonis for a while, telling him that they were here to celebrate the Dragon Boat Festival together with him.

Eden could tell from the ECG Monitor that Adonis's heart beat faster, so Adonis could really know what they were talking about.

In the evening, Victor and Harrison made dinner together.

Lucian and Amelia came here as well.

Eden was chatting with Candace and Azariah. When she saw Lucian and Amelia, she was very surprised.

"Amelia, Lucian, you're here, too." She thought that Lucian came back to this city in advance because he wanted to celebrate the Dragon Boat Festival with Azariah and Harrison.

"Yeah!" Lucian nodded slightly. After greeting Azariah and Harrison with Amelia, he went to see Adonis.

He stayed in the ward alone for half an hour, telling Adonis what had happened during this period of time and how happy he was after he had children.

The dinner was sumptuous. They sat around the table, and the atmosphere was festive and lively. In River City, there was a custom of eating mutton on the Dragon Boat Festival. The mutton was made by Harrison in a traditional way. After being stewed with the special seasoning for a few hours, the mutton didn't have a strong smell anymore, and it was delicious.

"Amelia, Candace, Eden, have a taste of the mutton. On the Dragon Boat Festival every year, Harrison cooks mutton. It's so yummy." Azariah said as she picked up the mutton and put it in their bowls.

Then she asked Victor and Lucian to eat more.

They ate together and chatted happily.

Eden looked at Azariah and Harrison. It had been a long time since she saw them so happy last time. For them, the happiest thing was that Adonis could wake up and Candace and the child in her belly could be safe and sound.

After dinner, Victor and Lucian left to talk about work.

In the office on the top floor, Victor and Lucian sat face to face.

Before Lucian could speak, Victor said, "Tomorrow, I'm going to the countryside to see my father."

Lucian frowned and looked at him, "Are you sure? Simpson Group will be floated on the stock market tomorrow."

Victor smiled and nodded, "I'll tell you with certainty that you and Brian will do things more smoothly after I leave."

Lucian still looked at him with a frown. His tone was rather dissatisfied as he said, "You're such an irresponsible president."

Victor smiled and looked out of the window. The night was very lovely. "Lucian, Barrett is actually very afraid of me. After Stephen was sent to jail, he doesn't dare to aim at me anymore. Even Irving is quiet. They are waiting for Simpson Group to be floated on the stock market successfully. On such an important day, if I suddenly leave, it will be a good thing for them, and they will let down their guard."

Lucian replied, "It doesn't matter whether you leave or not. This has been a part of your plan. Brian has made preparation for it. It's impossible for their company to be floated on the stock market successfully."

"So, it has nothing to do with me. I'll go out with Eden and relax ourselves. Your children are still small, but my children have grown up. When we go on a trip, they won't follow us."

Lucian was speechless. Victor showed off as long as he had a chance.

"Alright, whatever. Anyway, it's not your first time to do this. Besides, I'll take my daughter to work."

Victor was stunned and then spoke for Cecil, "Don't you think it's unfair to Cecil?"

Chapter 1744

"I like Cecilla, and Amelia likes Cecil more, so we'll look after them respectively. After all, they are boy-girl twins." Lucian leaned on the sofa leisurely, looking prouder than Victor.

Victor couldn't help but complain, "What's the point of showing off? I have three children, and I'm proud of all of them."

"Because it's something amazing. It shows that I'm also awesome." Lucian replied confidently.

Victor was speechless. It seemed that Lucian couldn't be more shameless.

"Lucian, if you do this, Cecil will have complaints and prejudice against you when he grows up. He's your own son."

"How dare he!" Lucian said gravely.

"Ha-ha..." Victor looked at him with amusement, "Lucian, who gives you such a sense of superiority? No one knows what the children will be like when they grow up. Look at Ricky and Kenny. Sometimes, what they say and what they do really hurt my heart."

Lucian said, "That's you, not me."

"Is there any difference?" Victor spread his hands, "Then I'll just wait and see, because you will be dealt a new blow every day." He would know it as the children grew up day by day.

"There is a difference. You're always softhearted to your children. But I'm different. I'm serious, and I'll educate Cecil strictly."

Victor was taken aback. He wouldn't believe Lucian's words.

Fine! It seemed that Lucian had become very confident after Amelia came back.

Victor felt that he couldn't talk with him anymore. He had to go back.

If he continued to chat with Lucian, he would definitely piss himself off.

Victor stood up and said, "That's it. Be careful tomorrow. All the bodyguards are on call."

Lucian also stood up. Their charming figures were the most eye-catching presence in the office.

They walked out together. After arriving at Adonis's ward, they said goodbye to each other and went home.

By the time Victor and Eden got home, it was already past ten o'clock at night.

Eden looked at Victor and remembered what he had said in the hospital. She couldn't help but ask, "Victor, are we really going to the countryside to see dad tomorrow? Simpson Group will be floated on the stock market tomorrow. Can you really leave?"

Victor sat beside her with a smile and rubbed her nose, "With Lucian and Brian here, you can rest assured. Dean has been working-hard during this period of time. Although I'm not in the company, he's capable enough to deal with lots of things."

Alwynn Group was developing steadily, and he didn't have to stay in the company every day like before.

"But I'm still a little worried." Eden looked a bit anxious.

Victor gently rubbed her head and held her in his arms, "Eden, what are you worried about? You just need to be happy."

As long as she could forget the bad things in the past, live a good life in the castle he built for her and smile happily.

The so-called understanding was to know what each other's sore point was and protect it kindly.

He would never mention her childhood to her. It was her pain, and his heart ached for it.

Knowing that Victor had made up his mind, Eden called Abigail.

Seeing this, Victor immediately snatched her mobile phone.

Speechlessly, Eden looked at him resentfully.

"Listen to me, Eden. Let's go there with Abigail in the future. Ayman is about to be one hundred days old. She and Anson are going to hold a party for him, and they're very busy."

Victor's words reminded Eden.

When she sent rice dumplings to them, she had heard from Anson that they were going to hold a grand party.

"Oh, then we have to buy a gift for Ayman when we come back."

"Don't worry. He is our godson. I will accompany you to buy a gift." Seeing that Eden had given up, Victor laughed with joy.

Abigail did not get along well with him, and he did not want to bring trouble to himself.

If they went there with Abigail, Eden would pay all her attention to Abigail and Ayman. He didn't like to be ignored.

Victor despised himself and said in heart, "I'm just so diffident."

Simpson Group was about to be floated on the stock market, and there was saturation coverage of the event by the media.

They even invited many big shots to witness the miracle of Simpson Group.

The market value of Simpson Group was the world's fifth highest. It almost occupied the main market.

A lot of people made countless of money by buying the shares of Simpson Group and kept buying it. Some had even invested all their property.

In the Simpson family.

Adrienne watched the news worriedly.

Victor hadn't called her, and she didn't know how his preparation was.

Simpson Group couldn't be floated on the stock market, or many people would lose everything.

Simpson Group made an advertisement shamelessly.

"Have you ever thought about becoming rich overnight? Do you want to know how rich people live? If you have thought about these, join us. Simpson Group will make you rich."

"Ha-ha..." Adrienne sneered. With a glass of red wine in her hand, she sat elegantly on the tatami.

"How dare you say that."

After she muttered to herself, she heard someone knocking on the door.

She knew who it was and got up to open the door.

"Brother." Morgan nodded slightly and walked in.

Morgan glanced at Adrienne and thought of the scene he saw when he returned home. He pursed his lips and said slowly, "Adrienne, when I came back today, I saw that the eldest son of the Clement family sent you back. Are you two in a relationship?"

Adrienne took a sip of red wine gracefully and smiled faintly, "Morgan, don't you want me to be happy? He is a good man, and he treats me very well." Adrienne looked out of the window. If she didn't leave back then, perhaps they would have gotten married.

Morgan looked at Adrienne. He knew that she had been suffering grievances in the Simpson family.

He naturally hoped that she would be happy.

He slowly walked to her and looked at her beautiful face. Adrienne looked very similar to their mother. He could not be happy, but Adrienne must live a happy life.

"Adrienne, I hope you can be the happiest girl in the world, but now..." Their mothers's shares were still in the hands of the Simpson family.

Back then, without the help of their mother, Barrett would have no chance to develop so well.

Anyway, they had to take back what belonged to their mother.

Adrienne put down the wine cup slowly. The air was filled with the mellow smell of red wine.

"Morgan, I won't marry Delmont until I get everything back. Trust me. He's a good man."

"Alright, I believe in your discernment." Morgan smiled with dotting eyes. All these years, they had been acting dumb in the Simpson family, because they were waiting for an opportunity.

"Adrienne, Simpson Group will be floated on the stock market tomorrow." He whispered, "Father's capital chain is massive and unshakeable. We might have to wait a little longer."

Chapter 1745

Adrienne looked at Morgan. He seemed to be worried and sad all the time. These years, he had suffered a lot in the Simpson family.

He didn't dare to make a showy display of his ability and could only live humbly.

As for the next day, she was not sure what the result would be like. Victor had not called her yet.

"Morgan, everything will get better." That day was the Dragon Boat Festival, but there was no festive atmosphere at home. She had known this, so she went out with Delmont.

But she didn't expect to be seen by Morgan. In fact, she was very lonely. It was not good to fight alone. Not long after she came back, she had been used to Delmont's warmth and gentleness.

He warmed her heart again.

Thinking about it, she felt that she was very ridiculous. Back then, she left Delmont just because he behaved cautiously in front of her.

In addition, she regretted it very much. He loved her so deeply that he was so humble in front of her.

Many people would pay for their arrogance and fickleness when they were young, and she was the same.

"Adrienne, be careful. Leilani has been trying to get something on you. If she finds out your relationship with Delmont, she'll absolutely make a fuss."

"In the past, his leg were injured and he sat in a wheelchair. Everyone thought that he was disabled, so they didn't take him seriously. But now he's healthy, so this is an entirely different matter." Morgan was worried that Leilani would know this because Adrienne was too bold. If Leilani knew this, Adrienne would become worthless in Barrett's eyes, and her her efforts would be in vain.

"Morgan, I will be careful. Don't worry."

Since she left Delmont that year, she had been used to thinking carefully before doing everything.

Leilani was not sure about her attitude, so she didn't dare to provoke her.

"Alright. Go to bed early." Morgan turned around and left helplessly.

Adrienne looked at his back and stood there for a long while before turning to sit on the tatami.

She looked down, picked up the phone and sent a message to Victor.

"Mr. Alwynn, as for tomorrow..." She did not finish writing, because she knew that Victor understood what she meant.

She had provided a lot of information for Victor.

She hoped that Victor would succeed the next day.

Barrett hadn't worked on any project, and the new energy resources project was fake. People would know the truth sooner or later.

Victor was dealing with official business in his study at this time. Although he would go out the next day, he had to finish his work first.

Hearing the notification, he glanced at the message and replied to Adrienne.

"Wait for the news!"

Adrienne looked at these words and suddenly wanted to curse him. His reply was always so brief.

"Wait for the news. Ha-ha..." Adrienne smiled. Looking at the night sky outside the window, she was not sleepy at all. She should believe Victor. After all, he never did things without confidence.

With a gentle smile, she walked to the wine cabinet again and poured herself a glass of red wine.

When she turned back, she saw that the phone screen lit up. She picked up the phone and swiped open it. All the depression in her heart was swept away when she saw Delmont's message.

"Adrienne, are you sleeping?"

"No."

"Do you miss me?"

Adrienne was stunned. He actually asked like this. Her face blushed slightly.

"Ha-ha..." She chuckled and replied, "Yep".

Her mood immediately became so good.

"Rat-a-tat..." At this moment, someone knocked heavily on the door.

Adrienne's sharp eyes were filled with harshness and hostility. She stood up and opened the door with great strength.

Leilani and Dahlia stood outside the door in an aggressive manner.

Adrienne's eyes flashed when she saw Dahlia.

"What are you doing?" She asked sternly.

Leilani frowned and said with a cold face, "What's wrong with you? Don't speak so loudly!"

"Get out!" Adrienne's voice was much louder than just now. Her sharp voice echoed in the villa. Leilani was out of her mind again in the middle of the night.

Leilani went berserk in an instant, "You impolite b*tch! I'm your elder. How dare you speak to me so rudely?"

Adrienne looked cold-blooded and fearless.

Dahlia was confused. Adrienne was actually so frightening and aggressive.

"Miss Simpson, why do you have to be so aggressive? Mrs. Simpson and I are here to discuss something with you."

"Shut up! Are you qualified to speak here?" Adrienne looked at her mockingly. Her gaze was still very sharp.

She had known Dahlia's background and found out her identity clearly. She hated such a scheming woman who liked to cast a bone between Victor and Eden.

"Miss Simpson, you..." Dahlia frowned as she looked at Adrienne's arrogant face.

"Humph! A person who has the lowest sense of superiority like you must be very pitiful. You accompany her to come to me in the middle of the night just because you want to get a reward. How poor you are!"

She had never been nice to Leilani.

She and her daughter were acting all the time, and they wanted to drive her out of the Simpson family.

"Miss Simpson, don't be so impudent!" Dahlia glared at Adrienne furiously.

"Impudent?" Adrienne scoffed coldly, "I can do something more impudent than this. Get the hell out of here before I lose my temper!" Adrienne crossed her arms and looked very apathetic. Her voice was very intimidating.

Leilani and Dahlia stood still, not knowing what to do.

Leilani was so angry that she beat her breast and stamped her feet, "Adrienne, how dare you! I'm your elder. How can you speak to me so loudly? People might think that the Simpson family is not strict with the children."

"Ha-ha..." Adrienne sneered, "If the Simpson family is strict with the children, your son and daughter would not have been sent to jail."

After Leilani forced her mother to leave, she had never been polite to Leilani.

"Adrienne, you..."

"Mrs. Simpson, calm down. Don't forget the purpose of us coming here." Leilani was so excited that she wanted to beat Adrienne, but Dahlia stopped her.

Purpose?

Adrienne narrowed her malicious eyes and looked at Dahlia.

Leilani calmed down instantly.

"Your father asked me to tell you that the company will be floated on the stock market tomorrow. You should be present."

Adrienne looked at Leilani coldly. Barrett was using her as a scapegoat.

Since they were unkind, she wouldn't show them any mercy!

Barrett knew that if something bad happened in the future, he needed scapegoat.

"Adrienne, you have to go even if you don't want to. That's because your father has made you the legal person." Leilani said gloatingly.

Adrienne clenched her fists tightly. All the family affection in her heart had been destroyed.

It turned out that Barrett had wanted to use her for a long time. She thought she was smart, but she was still tricked by Barrett.

Chapter 1746

After Leilani and Dahlia left, Adrienne fell to the bed and looked out of the window in a daze. Her heart was aching severely.

She thought she was smart, but Barrett was more scheming than her.

Adrienne thought for a while and looked at the time. It was almost twelve o'clock at night. At this time, Victor might have fallen asleep.

She hesitated for a while. No, she could not be ruined by her father. She must save herself. She wanted to live her own life instead of being controlled by her father.

She had to marry Delmont, and she could not let him wait for her for so many years in vain.

She dialed Victor's phone number.

Victor and Eden had laid down. After having sex with Eden twice, Victor let her rest. At this time, Eden was sleeping soundly. She might not know it even if she was taken away.

However, Victor was so energetic that he couldn't fall asleep and kept watching Eden sleeping.

His phone on the bedside table vibrated. He was a little unhappy, but he knew no one would call him at this time for no reason.

Victor got out of bed cautiously, picked up his phone and went out to answer it.

Seeing that it was Adrienne's number, he went straight to the balcony.

"Hello?"

"Mr. Alwynn, I'm the legal representative of Simpson Group."

Victor frowned and asked in a low and deep voice, "Why didn't you say it earlier?"

Adrienne said, "I knew it just now. They informed me late at night because they didn't want me to have any chance to turn the tide."

Victor frowned. If he didn't cooperate with Adrienne, he would have nothing to worry about. However, if something bad happened to Simpson Group, as the legal representative, Adrienne would be the first to suffer.

If something bad happened to Adrienne, Delmont would definitely come to him. Eden definitely did not want them to be separated.

He couldn't bear to see Eden frown and worry.

Barrett was such a cunning old fox. He didn't expect him to do this.

Victor said, "Wait for me to call you." Then he hung up the phone.

Adrienne was very anxious and worried. She could only sit there quietly and wait for Victor's call, hoping that he would have a perfect solution.

After Victor hung up the phone, he immediately called Lucian.

After the phone rang several times, Lucian picked up the phone.

"What's wrong with you?" Lucian's voice was obviously very angry.

Victor pursed his lips. It was so embarrassing to call a married man in the middle of the night.

Hearing Lucian's voice, he knew what he was doing.

"Well, have I disturbed you?" Victor asked cautiously.

But he felt a little aggrieved.

Lucian glanced at Amelia who was next to him. Her clothes had been half taken off by him. At this time, she was looking at him with seductive eyes. Words couldn't describe how he felt at this time.

"So why do you call me now?" Lucian suppressed his fury.

In order to make him forgive her, Amelia tried her best to seduce him these days. If it weren't for the fact that she hadn't given birth to the children for three months, he would have given in.

Victor cut a long story short and told Lucian that Adrienne was the legal representative.

Hearing this, Lucian wanted to smash his phone.

They had arranged everything. Why did things suddenly become like this?

"Why didn't you say it earlier?" Lucian suppressed his anger.

Victor was stunned. He had said this to Adrienne, too.

"Adrienne called me just now. She has just known about this."

"D*mn it!" Lucian was so mad that he wanted to kill Barrett.

"Wait for me to call you." After that, he hung up with annoyance.

Victor was dumbfounded again.

Victor stood on the balcony and waited for five minutes, but Lucian hadn't called him. He became a bit impatient.

However, in order to go out to play with Eden the next day, he waited patiently.

After Lucian hung up, he covered Amelia with the quilt and tucked her in, "Wait for me to come back."

Then he went to the study.

"Ha-ha..." Amelia smiled smugly. Lucian was about to forgive her.

She must try harder!

Amelia cheered herself up.

Lucian could only call Brian.

However, Brian didn't answer the phone.

Lucian looked at the time and frowned. Was Brian still playing outside at this time?

He called Brian several times in a row, but no one answered.

When he was about to lose patience, Brian answered the phone.

"Where are you?"

Brian was confused, "What are you talking about? Are you walking in your dream in the middle of the night?"

Lucian asked, "I'm asking where you are now."

Brian said, "Are you out of your head? Of course, I am sleeping at home. We have something important to do tomorrow, don't we?"

Lucian said, "It seems that you don't go out to play during this period of time."

Brian replied, "I'll soon have a girlfriend. Of course, I have to behave myself."

Lucian was speechless. What a cautious man!

He told Brian what Victor had said to him. After that, Lucian felt a little irritated.

Victor could totally call Brian directly.

However, Victor called him.

"Oh! Why didn't you say it earlier?" Brian said with annoyance.

"I knew it just now."

Somehow, Lucian felt that his words were somewhat familiar.

"Wait for me to call you." Brian said and then hung up.

Lucian was taken aback again.

Therefore, four people couldn't fall asleep at this night.

Adrienne sat in front of the French window and waited anxiously.

Victor was walking back and forth on the balcony, waiting.

Lucian leaned lazily on the artificial intelligence chair and turned on the massage machine. Just now, he was sexually aroused, so he needed to calm down.

At the same time, Brian went to the study while cursing and turned on his computer.

Half an hour later.

Lucian received a phone call from Brian.

"Act according to the plan."

Lucian did not ask further and immediately called Victor.

"Act according to the plan."

Victor did not ask more. Anyway, he trusted Lucian and Brian very much.

He directly called Adrienne.

Adrienne answered the phone immediately. She heard's Victor bland voice, "Act according to the plan."

Then he hung up the phone.

Adrienne was puzzled. Couldn't he make it clear?

Since Victor let her act according to the plan, she had to be present the next day.

The next morning, when Eden woke up, Victor had packed everything. He was waiting for her to wake up.

He took the casual suit and put it beside her, "Baby, you are awake." His deep and mellow voice was doting.

Then he helped Eden get dressed.

Eden just nodded and didn't say anything.

She allowed Victor to wear the clothes for her. After she washed up, Victor handed her a bowl of millet porridge, "Eden, eat something first. We'll reach the farm in about two hours. I've prepared your favorite snacks in the car. You can eat them when you're hungry."

"Okay!" Eden nodded. When she heard the word " farm", she became so excited instantly and finished the porridge very quickly.

Chapter 1747

"Ha-ha..." Seeing how excited she was, Victor couldn't help but laugh.

Eden knew why he laughed, but she didn't care, "It's good to relax ourselves. Besides, we can pick red bayberries and strawberries. You don't know that I haven't picked fruit personally for a long time."

"There are many farms in Gate City. When I was under pressure at work, I would play on the farm with Abby. Red bayberries and strawberries, just wait for me."

She put down the bowl and said, "Victor, let's go."

Victor's heart melted by her sweet voice. He was in a good mood early in the morning.

Ha-ha...

Victor took Eden to the farm.

In the Simpson family, Barrett was drinking morning tea. The company would be floated on the stock market that day, and he was very calm.

Dressed in a black tunic suit, he looked elegant. Seeing the butler come in, he asked leisurely, "Has Adrienne got ready?"

The butler said, "She has gone to the company. Master, Victor left this city early in the morning. What do you think he is trying to do?"

"Oh?" Barrett was somewhat surprised. Victor actually left here. "Where is he going?"

The butler said, "I don't know the details. He brought his wife with him."

"Humph! I was afraid that he would make trouble today. I didn't expect that he didn't care about my company at all. He's too young and too naive."

Barrett slowly poured himself a cup of tea.

The butler frowned slightly. He felt uneasy, but he did not want to ruin Barrett's good mood.

"Master, it's time for us to set off. Leilani is ready."

"I'm in no hurry. Go and see if my fifth wife has got up."

"What?" The butler understood instantly. Dahlia did not go back last night. Barrett ate a lot last night and got drunk. As a result, after Dahlia came down from Adrienne's room, she...

The butler was a bit awkward. Barrett was much older than Dahlia.

"Master, you can't marry many wives in this city." The butler reminded him.

It was illegal here.

Barrett looked at him and smiled, "I can just keep her at home, right? She has accepted it. As for Irving, go talk to him. Anyway, she's just Irving's nominal fiancée. In addition, give Dahlia two percent of my shares."

The butler was stunned.

"Master, it's the critical moment now, or..."

"There is no need. I have my own plans. Register more companies in the name of Dahlia and transfer our money through her account."

Hearing this, the butler immediately understood everything. That had got a large amount of money and didn't know to make it legal.

"Master, I see." The butler turned around and went upstairs. He saw that Dahlia had gotten up.

He smiled and said, "Mrs. Simpson, just now, Master said that he would transfer two percent of his shares to you, and he will give you a few companies. You can't live here together with him, but he bought another villa for you in this neighbourhood and you can move in at any time."

Upon hearing it, although Dahlia was a bit unwilling, she nodded.

"I see. I will move in tomorrow. The company will be floated on the stock market today. Go and do your own work."

"Okay, Mrs. Simpson." The butler smiled and left. When he turned around, the flattering smile on his face faded away instantly.

Sure enough, Dahlia could bear anything for money.

Barrett was old enough to be her father.

Watching the butler leave, Dahlia was silent.

Thinking of last night, she felt that she was crazy.

After she came out of Adrienne's room, she found that Barrett prepared a barbecue.

When they came down, he asked them to eat together. There were her favorite squid and fishes, so she stayed.

The company would be floated on the stock market that day, so Barrett was very happy. He kept drinking with her and Leilani.

She was very glad as well. She had not been relaxed like that for a long time. What Irving did these days broke her heart. She knew very well that it was impossible for her to marry Irving. Irving did not care about her.

In a fit of anger, she drank a lot. After Leilani left, only she and Barrett were there. Barrett drank too much, so he began to caress her. At first, she resisted, but she soon gave up when she thought of Barrett's identity.

She wanted to marry Irving for fame and wealth. However, she could also get what she wanted if she married Barrett.

As long as she had money, she could defeat Eden and Victor. She had been obsessed by this idea.

What the butler said made her know that her choice was right.

She took out her phone and dialed a number.

"Write a piece of news for me later. I'll send the content to you."

Hearing the reply, she hung up the phone.

Since Irving didn't treat her well, she wouldn't be with him anymore.

Sitting in front of the dressing table, she looked at her charming face. There were already faint lines at the corners of her eyes. She was in her thirties, and she had wasted too much of her youth. She once struggled for her dream. But later she realized that money was the most reliable dependence for a woman.

She got the money that others had always dreamed of overnight.

Take the villa that Barrett bought for her for example. Some people were too poor to buy it after working hard for a lifetime.

She made a light makeup for herself in a daze and went downstairs to meet Barrett.

Simpson Group was floated on the stock market that day. There was saturation coverage of the event by the media.

As the legal representative, Adrienne dressed in a red gown, looking noble and elegant. When she was interviewed by reporters, she spoke with confidence.

When the reporters asked sharp questions, she replied to them decently.

The share prices of Simpson Group showed significant advances. Such a phenomenon was rare, and those who had bought the shares were very excited.

Brian, Lucian and Dean were watching the live broadcast in Lucian's office.

Brian narrowed his eyes and looked at Adrienne's beautiful face, saying with admiration, "Tut-tut, it seems that there's a smart daughter in the Simpson family. She is much smarter and more pleasing to the eye than the other daughters of Barrett."

Lucian glanced at him, "Do you have a crush on her?"

Brian shrank his shoulders and looked at him, "I'm about to have a girlfriend."

Dean said, "Mr. Spielberg, time to take actions."

"Ha-ha..." Brian laughed wickedly and looked at Adrienne, "Beauty, I'm sorry." After he said this, he pressed the return key.

"Alright. I've been preparing for so many days just for pressing the key just now." Brian took a sip of the coffee at ease, looking relaxed.

Lucian said, "Send a message to Victor. I'll go back to accompany my daughter."

Hearing Lucian's words, Brian almost spat out the mouthful of coffee he had just drunk.

Looking at the back of Lucian, he said with displeasure, "What's the point of showing off everyday?"

Lucian turned around and looked at him haughtily, "Do you have a daughter?"

Brian was dealt a blow and almost sat on the ground. They dared to treat him like this just because he was single.

Chapter 1748

Just as Lucian was about to speak, Brian said quickly, "Hurry up and leave. I'm sure that your daughter is missing you."

His words successfully stopped Lucian from speaking.

Lucian nodded seriously, "You're right. My daughter only wants me to hug her. She must be missing me."

Brian was speechless. He felt as if his heart had been stabbed by a sharp sword. He had to get married as soon as possible and have his own daughter. In that way, he could show off in front of these proud b*stards.

"Ha-ha..." Seeing Brian's reaction, Dean couldn't help laughing.

Brian glared at him, "Dean, you'd better not laugh at me. I'll get married soon. At that time, you will be laughed at by us. You should try your best and get married."

"Can't you see it? They have been showing off in front of me since they had children. In fact, I'm quite envious."

Brian's voice became lower and lower as he spoke. They grew up in the same circle. Why should he be inferior to them?

Dean smiled and said, "Mr. Spielberg, do you know why people live so tiredly?"

Brian said earnestly, "Of course. It's for money."

"No, because people like to show off."

Brian was stunned. Perhaps he was much older than Dean, and he couldn't understand why he said so.

Dean smiled, "People pretend to be elegant, serious, humble and affectionate. Some even act dumb. But no one pretends to be vulgar."

Brian was quite surprised.

"Dean, you're the most honest person in the world."

"Of course, Mr. Spielberg, but I'm poor and I'm not so ambitious. I'm going to work in Alwynn Group all the time." Dean smiled and sat opposite Brian.

Brian smiled. Dean was not poor at all. "You really can't find a better job than this. To be honest, you're destined to work here. When I first met Victor, he and his friends were on guard against me as if I was a thief. Now they show me respect and can't work without me."

"Victor, Lucian, Adonis and Anson grew up together. Sean and I met them about two or three years before Victor set up Alwynn Group. At that time, I decided to work for him because he was very capable."

"Yeah, your choice was right, so was mine." Dean did not deny his words.

"Ha-ha..." Brian laughed and patted him on the shoulder, "Do your best, and you'll become very rich."

That was right. Although he was not ambitious, he could become a rich man by working in Alwynn Group. The annual salary was too tempting.

In Simpson Group, Adrienne was socializing with the businessmen. Suddenly, some policemen broke in.

Her expression changed. Victor asked her to do according to the plan, so she had been mentally prepared.

Simpson Group was summoned for a meeting at the critical moment, and the plan to float the company on the stock market was shelved.

Adrienne was taken away.

The people in the Simpson family were caught off guard.

Those reporters, who had been flattering Simpson Group, instantly changed their attitude.

They all questioned the shares of Simpson Group and their projects. Simpson Group, which was expected to have the world's third highest market value, aroused the suspicion of billions of people.

Barrett was furious, but Adrienne smiled.

At the moment she got in the police car, she would rather be locked in prison than see Simpson Group be floated on the stock market.

Once it was floated on the stock market, Simpson Group would be over, and all her mother's efforts would be in vain.

Barrett was indeed very talented in terms of the stock market. He made a fortune by doing so abroad.

In fact, only he himself knew why he came back. Once what he did abroad was found out, he would be imprisoned for a lifetime.

"Ha-ha..." Adrienne laughed. The policeman sitting beside her looked at her with confusion.

He thought that she laughed because she couldn't believe what had happened that day, so he didn't think too much.

"D*mn it! How could this happen?" In the office, Barrett roared with a frenzy of rage.

The butler lowered his head. He had been feeling uneasy since this morning. Even he couldn't understand why this had happened.

Everything had been arranged very properly, but such a thing happened at the most critical moment.

The company had been surrounded by retail investors. Such a situation was really difficult to handle.

Dahlia stood by Barrett's side and couldn't believe what had happened. How could everything turn so sour? If the policemen arrived two minutes later, everything would be settled.

"Who exactly is it?" Like a devil, Barrett stared at the butler in front of him with sharp eyes.

The butler was his right-hand man, so he was the only one who knew everything.

The executives in the company just listened to the butler.

The butler immediately lowered his head respectfully, "Master, I have sent someone to investigate it. We'll know the result soon. Adrienne has been taken away. She will bear all the consequences. Master, please mind your own health."

"I'm in good health. Investigate it for me right now! Investigate Victor! He is the one who doesn't want my company to be floated on the stock market the most. Hurry up!" After roaring furiously, he smashed the purple clay teacup on the ground. The pieces were splashed on Dahlia and pierced her wrist. A few drops of blood dripped onto the ground, looking terrifying.

She frowned, pressed the wound and looked at Barrett with unhappiness.

"Chairman, just calm down. Only by composing your mind can you analyze the whole thing."

"Victor and Eden are not in this city now, are they? It's a good chance for us."

When she went out in the morning, she wanted to remind Barrett. Unfortunately, Barrett had been talking on the phone all the way.

Barrett looked at the butler and said in a deep voice, "Do you understand what Mrs. Simpson means?"

The butler nodded immediately, "Yes, I'll send someone to do it right now."

After the butler left, Dahlia sat aside in a sulky mood.

Barrett looked at her. She was even so beautiful when she was angry.

If he had known that he couldn't control Irving, he would have been with Dahlia earlier.

"Dahlia, don't be angry. I will take revenge for you." Her young body and delicate voice satisfied him a lot.

Dahlia nodded with a smile, "I believe you. I will move to the villa tonight. Ask the butler to transfer the house into my name as soon as possible."

She liked the magnificent villa, because it could give her a sense of accomplishment.

"Okay. If you like it, I will buy you another villa. I will ask the butler to register several companies in the name of you, and you can do whatever you want. I have nothing but money." Rich people could have all kinds of things. So, when Dahlia did not refuse him, he had decided to give her these things.

Dahlia smiled. Her wrist had stopped bleeding, so she said, "I will make a pot of tea for you. You can drink it while waiting for the news."

"Okay!" Barrett nodded.

Dahlia smiled faintly. As long as she was here, Leilani and Marcia wouldn't get Barrett's favour. Although Simpson Group wasn't floated on the stock market successfully, it would not go bankrupt.

Chapter 1749

Victor and Eden had arrived at the farm. Seeing them, Phillip immediately asked the waiter to serve the dishes.

As soon as Eden entered the farm, she felt the pleasant atmosphere of birds singing and flowers blooming. It was very comfortable.

The farm was surrounded by trees and flowers, and it was very big. There were stone tables and benches beside the path, so tourists could rest there.

The path was paved by green slabstones. On both side of it, there were red bayberry trees, oranges threes, apple trees and begonias.

The camphor trees tinged the air with their fragrance, and there were scents of the grass and wild flowers. The air was extremely fresh.

"Dad, the air here is very good." Eden looked at Phillip who was dressed in casual white sportswear. He was no longer aggressive and looked more graceful. He was just like a leisurely retired old man.

"Eden, it took me a long time to find this place. I have bought it. It will belong to your three children in the future."

He left some of his property to Boris. Boris's father was good-for-nothing. Although his stepfather was nice, he was his grandson, so he must give him some property.

People at his age always thought that it was better to own real estates.

"Thank you, dad!" Eden smiled gratefully. Since Phillip retired, he seemed to have become a different person. He had become very kindhearted.

"Don't be so polite to me." Phillip's face suddenly turned serious, "It's all my fault. It is me who makes you in such a difficult situation. Barrett is an a*shole. I didn't expect him to still hate me. After all, it has been a long time."

Victor said in a deep voice, "That's just an excuse. His main purpose is to occupy the market in River City."

Phillip nodded. Victor would deal with everything, and he did not want to be vexed because of this.

Phillip pointed at the sumptuous meal on the table, "Eden, Victor, have a taste of this fish. It's wild and very fresh. What's more, these vegetables are all planted by me. The tomatoes are very tasty. Bring some back when you leave."

Eden smiled and said, "Okay, dad."

There were hot and sour fish, spicy fish and steamed fish. They were all fresh, tender and delicious. Eden ate a lot.

After lunch, Phillip gave Victor a tricycle and asked him to take Eden to pick red bayberries and strawberries.

Victor looked at the tricycle with disgust. As the president of Alwynn Group, was he really going to ride the tricycle?

Seeing that Victor was hesitant, Eden thought that he didn't know how to ride tricycle.

"Victor, if you don't know how to ride it, give me the key. I'll ride it."

Victor looked at her in surprise, "Why do you know how to ride this?"

Eden knew that he was rich, and he did not know about the sufferings of people, especially the ordinary workers.

"When I used to go to work, I rode an electric bike every day. Later, the children grew up, so I bought a tricycle and took them out to play occasionally."

Victor's heart ached for her again.

"I... know how to ride it." Victor sat on it and gestured to Eden to get on.

Eden understood instantly. Was it necessary for this proud man to do this in front of her?

Eden got on it with a few baskets. She wanted to pick more red bayberries and share them with their friends. She could make red bayberry wine as well.

The red bayberry forest was about one kilometre away from here. Victor took her to visit the farm. There were a lot of sheep and cows on the eastern meadowland.

The staff in the farm were very enthusiastic to them.

Many tourists came here to play, and the atmosphere was relaxing and pleasant.

"Victor, what a nice place it is! It's away from city noises, and living here is so comfortable." Eden looked at the beautiful scenery around her with a smile. Many of them were made from the natural scenery, which was very suitable to the surrounding facilities.

Victor smiled and said, "We can come here more often if you like it."

"Okay." Eden really wanted to come here.

Ten minutes later, they arrived at the red bayberry forest. From afar, they could see tourists picking the red bayberries and hear their laughter.

Eden smiled with joy. Looking at the red bayberries on the branches, she could not help but drool.

"Oh!"

Hearing her cry, Victor immediately looked at her with concern.

Eden looked regretful, "I ate too much just now. I should have kept my belly to eat red bayberries."

Victor was stunned. How adorable she was!

"The red bayberry is delicious, but you can't eat too much. It's not good for your health." Victor carried her off the tricycle and picked up the baskets. Each basket could carry at least three kilograms of red bayberries.

He said in a dilemma, "Eden, shall we fill these baskets?"

"Yeah, it's not easy for us to come here once. Of course we should take some more and share them with our friends." Eden said as she walked towards the red bayberry forest.

Victor froze on the spot.

Eden had started to pick red bayberries.

Victor stood behind her. The sunlight penetrated through the woods and shone on his tall and straight figure. He was like the overbearing prince in an cartoon.

He looked down at his phone. Seeing the news about Simpson Group, he sneered. Lucian and Brian really acted according to their plan.

Although Adrienne was taken away, Brian would think of a way to help her.

He put the phone in his trouser pocket and looked up. Eden was eating the red bayberries under the tree not far away.

She picked the ripe ones and ate them one by one without spitting the stones.

Victor frowned and walked over, "Eden, don't eat too fast."

Eden did not look at him. She said while eating, "Go pick red bayberries. I'll pick them when I'm full."

Victor was dumbfounded. It was not easy to pick red bayberries, and his hands became dirty and slimy.

He did not want to do this, but he was afraid that Eden would be angry.

Victor could only pick red bayberries obediently.

Eden walked to him, picked red bayberries while feeding him.

"Victor, the sour and sweet taste is really good."

Victor looked at the smile on her face and smiled dotingly. Seeing that her lips were stained with red bayberry juice, he bowed his head and quickly kissed her. There was a faint scent of red bayberry in her mouth.

Eden glared at him coquettishly.

Time passed by quickly as they roughhoused.

By five o'clock in the afternoon, they have picked five baskets of red bayberries and three baskets of strawberries. They accompanied Phillip to have dinner before returning to River City.

Before they left, Phillip asked Victor to return on another way.

Hearing his words, Victor understood why he arranged like this.

Eden had been excited for a whole day. On the way back, she leaned against the chair sleepily.

Victor knew that although they came here smoothly, there might be danger on their way back.

Something bad had happened to Simpson Group, and he went out of the city. His father suddenly asked him to bring Eden to the farm that day. Barrett wouldn't regard it as a coincidence.

Chapter 1750

Victor glanced at Eden's drowsy face and held the steering wheel more tightly.

No matter what danger they would face next, he would not let Eden take risk together with him.

Victor looked at the expressway ahead. The sky was getting darker and darker.

There were many cars on the expressway. If Barrett wanted to attack him, he would not choose this time. However, Victor did not let down his guard.

He followed the guide map and went down the expressway in advance.

He did not know what Phillip wanted to do, but he wouldn't drive very fast when Eden was on the car.

After getting off the expressway, Victor stayed in the town for a while. Eden woke up. Seeing that Victor was not driving on the expressway, she was confused, "Victor, why are we here?"

Victor reached out to rub her head and said with a smile, "You are tired, so I took you here to rest for a while. Wait for me here. I'll buy you something to eat."

Victor came back quickly. He bought a glass of juice for Eden and a cup of coffee for himself.

Eden took a sip of the juice. She found that Victor's expression was somewhat serious, but she said nothing.

She picked up the phone next to her and had a look. It was past eight o'clock at night, and it would take an hour to get home.

"Victor, do you have something on your mind?"

Victor smiled and shook his head, "No, I just want you to rest for a while before leaving."

Eden did not believe his words, but she did not ask further.

Suddenly, she saw a piece of news.

"Mrs. Alwynn seduced Mr. Matthews, which caused Mr. Matthews to break up with his fiancée."

"F*ck..." Eden could not help but curse.

She didn't want to be the scapegoat!

Which b*stard slandered her like this?

"What's wrong? Eden." If she hadn't been too angry, she wouldn't have cursed like this.

"Look! I'm pissed off! Paulina broke up with Irving, but what does it have to do with me? How can I become a mistress who has ruined their relationship?" Eden puffed out her cheeks angrily. Her aggrieved face made Victor's heart ache.

"Eden, don't be angry. I'll ask Brian to investigate it." His voice was low and deep. These people were bolder and bolder.

Eden suddenly took a deep draught of her juice and said slowly, "It can't be Irving's idea. Only Paulina would do such a shameless thing."

Victor suddenly looked at her and narrowed his eyes unhappily. He was jealous, "Do you trust him so much?"

Feeling that he was jealous, Eden was slightly stunned, "Why are you jealous? It's obvious that he can't do this."

Victor thought of the box of love letters for no reason. Thinking that so many boys used to love her, he was so dejected and uncomfortable.

Eden didn't understand love at that time, so she didn't care about those love letters and threw all of them.

However, Irving collected all the love letters. This matter would be a thorn in his heart forever.

"Eden, may I ask you a question?"

Eden tilted her head to look at him, "Just ask."

"When you were in high school, why didn't you open the love letters when you received them?"

Eden was dumbfounded. He was a bit strange.

"I didn't even have money to eat at that time. Could I be in the mood to date?"

Victor's heart was so painful that he almost couldn't breathe. He mentioned her sore point again.

"Eden, don't think about it anymore. Let's go back." After that, he started the car and left.

Eden looked at him and felt a little confused. She had no longer cared about those things. If she couldn't recover from her experiences, how bitterly would she live?

Victor drove the car to the national highway and suddenly found something wrong. Two black cars were following his car.

His eyes darkened. He had underestimated Barrett. He had arranged people on every road.

"Eden, sit well." He said in a deep voice.

Eden was stunned. She quickly looked back. When she saw two black cars following them, she was taken aback.

"Those people..."

"If my guess is right, they're Barrett's killers." Victor replied to her calmly.

"What a despicable old fox!" Eden was very mad.

Barrett hadn't learned a lesson.

"It seems that he won't give up until he is sent to jail." When she looked down at the news just now, she learned that Simpson Group wasn't floated on the stock market successfully.

She hadn't finished reading the news, so she continued to look down.

When she saw that Adrienne had been taken away, she became nervous immediately.

"Adrienne was taken away by the policemen. Delmont would definitely be very anxious after he knew this." She played all day long and did not have time to look at her phone.

Victor observed the situation behind the car while saying, "Eden, don't worry. She will be fine."

Eden looked at him in confusion, "How do you know that?"

Victor smiled slightly. He had been cooperating with Adrienne, so he naturally knew that. But he couldn't tell Eden about it. If he told her, she would be in danger. When his father called him and asked them to play in the farm, he had other ideas in his heart, but he agreed in the end.

"Eden, just rest assured. She will be all right. Isn't she your future sister-in-law? How can I let her be in trouble? She and Delmont are deep in love now, and they may get married soon."

Eden said thoughtfully, "That's right. I'm in poor health during this period of time, so I don't dare to call Delmont. He still keeps this matter from our family, and I didn't ask about their relationship."

Victor said, "They're in deep love."

"How do you know that?"

Victor was speechless. He shot himself in the foot. Why did he always do this kind of thing?

Before Eden, he was never on guard.

"That's just my guess." Victor said perfunctorily.

"You can even guess this. It seems that you're quite smart." Eden said teasingly.

Victor was stunned. He'd better stop talking.

He had to turn left in the front, so he was not in the mood to joke and looked ahead with serious eyes.

Suddenly, a big truck rushed toward them. The dazzling light made Victor's eyes flash. A trace of viciousness flashed through his eyes.

"Victor, be careful!" Eden looked at the truck nervously.

Victor suddenly spun the wheel sharply. Looking at the two sides of the road, he found the right angle accurately and turned the wheel skillfully. The car immediately drifted out and kept a precise distance from the big truck. They were no longer in danger.

"Ah..." Eden was so scared that she broke out in a cold sweat. She clutched the seat belt tightly with both hands.

"Eden, are you okay?" Victor looked at her uneasily.

"Yeah, just concentrate on driving." Eden wiped the cold sweat on her forehead, "Barrett is the most hateful b*stard!"

Eden couldn't help but curse. Having experienced the life-and-death situation, she couldn't feel more terrible in heart.

Victor didn't want her to be afraid, so he echoed her, "Eden, he is a b*stard. When I go back, I will deal with him. Don't be angry."