

Gluey Love 2251

Chapter 2251

She stood on the second floor, and he stood in the yard. Her eyesight was very good, so the moment he smiled at the setting sun, it instantly touched her heartstrings. His smile was very confident, which dispelled the haze in her heart.

Watching his back disappear around the corner, she still stood on the balcony with an infatuated expression on her face.

The setting sun lengthened his shadow, making his figure look much more lonely.

She felt as if she was standing in a fog, unable to see her heart clearly. Her heart, which she had managed to settle down with great difficulty, was completely disturbed by Henrick's arrival.

She did not dare to take that step once more, afraid that she would be hurt all over again.

After thinking about it for a long time, Alice laughed at herself and turned back. She would think about future matters as and when they occurred. It was meaningless to think about the thousands of possibilities.

After Henrick went back, Josue told him about what had happened to Alma.

Henrick listened calmly, without any emotions on his face.

After Josue finished speaking, he said, "I asked her to get out of the entertainment industry and to never show up in front of me again."

"There's nothing to film with me anymore. Of course, she'll try to clutch at her last life-saving straw, Jaime."

"As long as Alma doesn't provoke me or Allie, we can live in peace. If she dares to do something again, I will never let her go."

Alma was a patient and ambitious woman. He didn't notice it before, but he now knew her true colors. It was only then did he realize how terrible this woman was.

Josue said, "Mr. Henrick, I've been sending people to keep an eye on Mr. Jefferson. Should we make a move?"

Henrick frowned and looked at him. "Forget it. If he's willing to be a sucker, why should we stop him? Don't let that woman appear in front of me in the future. If she dares to enter the entertainment industry, then get rid of her for me."

Josue was a little anxious. "Mr. Henrick, the filming that you did before..."

"Don't worry." Henrick interrupted him with a sneer, "With Alma's intelligence, she won't miss this opportunity so easily. She won't talk nonsense, and she'll think about things carefully before making a move."

"Thus, the show can be broadcasted smoothly."

Josue smiled. "That's fine. Otherwise, how can I explain it to Madam Joye?"

Henrick smiled. Thinking of his godmother's distressed look, he would definitely say that he was the one who had lost.

At nine o'clock in the evening, Juliet and Marlon came back. Hearing that his daughter liked to eat fruits, Henrick took some fruits bought by the housekeeper to Alice's house again.

This time, Aubri was also at home.

She was no longer surprised when she saw Henrick coming over.

"Nice to meet you, Mrs. Klein!" Henrick greeted her with a smile.

Aubri smiled faintly and said, "Sit down."

"Thank you!" Henrick put the fruits on the seat, but he didn't see the children.

Aubri saw through his thoughts and said, "Alice asked them to take a bath. They will come down soon. Would you like tea or coffee?"

Henrick came to his senses. After answering that he wanted some tea, he kept looking upstairs, and he could occasionally hear his son's voice.

It was not until Madam Litt gave him a cup of tea that he came to his senses.

Aubri looked at his actions and did not move. She picked up the tea from the table and took a sip. Then, she said, "I heard from Alice that you're living next door, and you came to Lemmon City. What are you going to do here?"

Henrick smiled. He was full of plans to plot against her daughter.

However, he didn't dare to say it out loud.

He suddenly stood up and faced Aubri with a serious expression.

Aubri remembered that he had been beaten the night before and asked worriedly, "You... Were you alright last night?"

"Thank you for your concern, Mrs. Klein. I'm fine."

He bowed deeply to Aubri and sincerely apologized, "Mrs. Klein, I'm sorry! I did something wrong before, and I will never do anything wrong to Allie in the future. Please allow me to pursue your daughter, Alice, because I like her. I like her very much."

"After Allie left, I finally understood how I felt clearly. Please give me a chance, Mrs. Klein."

Aubri was speechless. Why... did he want her to give him a chance?

Didn't he want Alice to give him a chance?

The only hope of parents was to see their children be happy.

Aubri suddenly felt that this guy was very cute.

After Eden found out the truth of the matter, she told Aubri that Henrick was not bad in nature; he was just playful. When he realized his mistakes, he would try his best to correct them.

Aubri was quite surprised to hear that he had come all the way to Lemmon City.

"Henrick, you shouldn't have said that to me. You should have asked Alice to give you a chance. As parents, can we persuade our children?"

Hearing this, Henrick couldn't help but be overjoyed. Mrs. Klein had agreed.

If she agreed to the first step of the plan, would she stop him in the future?

She would only assist him!

Hahaha...

Henrick was overjoyed in his heart.

"Yes, Mrs. Klein. I will definitely ask Allie to give me another chance. I will make up for my mistakes in these years for the rest of my life." Henrick's voice was full of uncontrollable excitement.

Aubri smiled and asked him to sit down and drink his tea.

She asked Henrick about his life when he was abroad, and the atmosphere was much better for a while.

Half an hour later, Alice came down with her son and daughter. She saw Henrick again, and he was chatting happily away with her mother.

Alice was speechless. When had her mother ever been so kind?

She stared at Henrick for a few seconds, but he suddenly turned to look at her.

She looked away in a panic, lowered her eyes, and pursed her lips. No one could tell whether she was happy or angry.

"Dad, you're here?" Juliet ran over with a smile. She was very happy to see her father.

Marlon was still a little awkward, so he didn't greet his father. Instead, he walked to his grandmother's side and sat down, staring at Henrick.

"Juliet." Henrick picked her up and sat her on his knees.

Looking at his daughter's sweet smile, there seemed to be something surging in the depths of his heart. He was so happy that all the pores in his body were screaming for joy.

"Juliet, don't you like to eat these fruits? I've brought you some."

"Wow! Then I'll ask Madam Litt to make me some ice cream with the fruits tomorrow morning. It's delicious and I like it very much."

"When Madam Litt is done, I'll send some to you, Dad."

Alice was speechless. This was the ungrateful little person she had raised for several years.

However, she had to admit that Henrick's arrival had had a great impact on the children.

When the two children played together, they had more topics to talk about.

She slowly sat down on the sofa where Bert often sat.

Aubri smiled and said, "I'm tired. You young people can talk."

Alice glanced at her mother, but Aubri didn't even spare her a glance. She went straight upstairs to rest.

Alice was speechless. She always felt that her mother did it on purpose, but she had no evidence.

Chapter 2252

"Dad, you can chat with Mom. I'll go study with Malon." Juliet looked at her brother with a smile.

The twins shared a tacit understanding and went upstairs.

Alice was lost for words. Had she been abandoned?

Her mother was like this, and so were the children?

In the large living room, only Henrick and Alice were left.

Alice was very nervous. In contrast, as a man, Henrick was much more shameless.

With the help of his son and daughter, he felt that everything would go smoothly.

Alice was wondering what kind of excuse she could come up with to drive him away. She hadn't thought of a reason yet, so he spoke up.

"Alice, I know you still hate me." Henrick's voice was bitter and filled with self-blame, but more than that, he was filled with regret.

Alice looked at him fiercely and said in a harsh tone, "You know I hate you, yet you still come to me. Hurry up and leave."

After saying that, she also found a reason.

She was afraid that she would be hurt all over again.

She was afraid that she would fall into the abyss again and could not crawl out. That kind of feeling was too painful.

Henrick pursed his lips and looked at her deeply with his dark eyes. He really wanted to say to her, "Alice, retribution came. After you left, I found that I liked you."

Seeing that she couldn't get used to the food in River City, and seeing her suffer from gastritis, he couldn't fall asleep all night.

After she left, he was restless everyday and could not sleep nor eat well. He thought that he was sick, but Martin told him that he had fallen in love with Alice.

However, he couldn't say those words now.

Alice didn't feel safe enough.

He had to wait for the right time to confess his love.

He was an actor, so he couldn't go too far. If he did, Alice would think that he was acting and wouldn't believe him.

Because she cared about him, she got together with him. Because she cared about him, she became cautious.

Henrick looked at her with a bright and moving smile. In Alice's eyes, such a smile could always arouse her heartstrings.

"Allie, I just came to Lemmon City. Can you accompany me to have a look around tomorrow?" Although his uncle also lived in Lemmon City, he preferred Alice to take him around, which could strengthen the relationship between them.

However, Alice sneered and responded, "Mr. Henrick, since you've come to Lemmon City, do you need me to show you around? As far as I know, your uncle has developed very well in Lemmon City, and he can do whatever he wants in Halton District."

Henrick was stunned. She knew that too.

"But I want you to take me there," Henrick spoke very seriously, and his dark eyes were like the night sky, which held a deep and fatal attraction for her.

Alice suddenly looked away, fearing that she would fall in love with him. She refused directly, "But I don't want to take you there."

Henrick was speechless. This was bad. What should he do if she wasn't convinced?

Alice's phone vibrated. She saw that it was a call from Brenden.

She glanced at Henrick and answered the phone in front of him.

"Hello! Brenden." Her tone was also very gentle.

Henrick's heart skipped a beat and his gaze darkened as well. How could she speak so gently to another man?

"Oh, okay. I'll send you a message about the party tomorrow night."

"Well, thank you for your hard work."

"Okay, see you tomorrow night. Goodbye!"

Alice hung up the phone and looked at Henrick. "Why aren't you leaving yet?" Her voice was not polite at all.

Henrick rubbed his nose and didn't dare to look straight at her. He felt that he wasn't thick-skinned or capable enough.

If men weren't bad, women wouldn't love them!

He had to be thick-skinned. "I... want to chat with you."

Alice sneered and stared at him. "Do you think we can chat?"

Henrick replied, "Yes, yes, yes. We have the children to talk about. Allie, didn't you say that I could communicate with the children?"

"Alice, I missed the time when the children were growing up, so I'm very sad. You also know what happened to me and my mother and when I was a child. My children had the same experience as me. Do you know how I feel about the children's existence? My heart feels like it's been cut by a knife."

"But from now on, I won't miss their growth."

Henrick's tone was frank, but it was more solemn and filled with pain.

Alice knew everything about Henrick and his childhood days. She knew that in order to ensure that his mother didn't work too hard, he had worked hard in acting.

He was a man who was naturally suitable for working in that industry. What was his acting like? That was why she had fallen deeply into his trap.

"Alice, can you show me the photos of the children when they were little?" He wanted to know what his son and daughter looked like when they were younger.

Although a family like the Clarke family would not let the children suffer, without the care of their father, the children would more or less feel sad and lost.

Moreover, Alice protected them very well and let them live happy lives.

Alice did not reject his request. She knew very well how much the children needed their father.

Apart from being a scumbag to her, Henrick had a good character.

"Go to the next room. There are videos there." Alice got up and went forward.

Henrick followed her quickly, his eyes full of anticipation.

Night times in June were very hot, and even the air was filled with waves of heat.

Looking at the tall and elegant Alice in front of him, Henrick's heart skipped a beat.

He gently raised the corner of his mouth. His heart beating for his beloved was like this. He felt very warm and very happy!

It was the first time that he had come to Alice's place. It was a completely different style of decoration from the one next door.

The villa where her mother lived was decorated in a kind of antique style. As for Alice, her house was very fashionable. The light yellow color of the villa made the house look very warm.

The white European furniture had a unique style and was full of warmth and elegance.

When they reached the living room, Alice poured a cup of tea for Henrick and said, "Wait here for a while. I'll go get the flash drive."

"Thank you, Allie." Henrick sat down with a smile and looked at her.

Alice didn't say anything. She turned around and went upstairs to get the flash drive and album.

Every time the children had their birthday, she would record a video and take them to take photos to commemorate the event.

The growth of children could not be repeated, so she was very careful to experience all these things with them.

Henrick looked at the things in the living room. There was a yoga mat not far away with his daughter's hair accessories on it.

There were a few bags of different-flavored potato chips on the low cabinet next to the sofa.

Victor had said that when he first met Marlon, the child had a nosebleed because he ate too many potato chips.

In the video sent to Henrick by Eden, he also saw Marlon eating potato chips while watching TV, looking very cute.

Who did he inherit that from? Oh, Henrick remembered. Eden; she liked potato chips. She liked them when she was younger, and even now, she still liked them very much.

Victor would often buy snacks for Eden to make her happy.

Looking at all this now, he seemed to understand what his father had said. Love was not a casual word, but a beginning of a new chapter of life. Even a small matter could move the person he loved.

Chapter 2253

After Henrick figured it out, he suddenly realized how naive he was when he grew up happily.

He was so naive. If he didn't think about it, pay attention, or observe the situation, how could he see these details?

All of a sudden, he remembered something. Everything was clear about knowledge and human nature!

He looked up and saw Alice coming down with a lot of albums, looking a little tired. He got up and ran over. "Alice, let me carry them for you."

Alice didn't stand on ceremony with him and gave him all the albums. Because they were too heavy, she only carried a few of them.

Henrick carried the albums to the coffee table in the living room. Looking at Alice, he said in a low and gentle voice, "Alice, let's watch the videos first."

"Okay!" Alice went to plug the flash drive into the smart TV. After some music, the video of the twins' one-month party was played first. The twins slept soundly in their cribs. Then, Juliet opened her eyes and looked around. Her big eyes were very dark and clear, and she had a head full of hair. She looked very cute as she looked at everything around her.

Then, a video of the children's first birthday party appeared, with Alice singing a birthday blessing song for them. She was very happy as she sang.

The two children were being held by their nanny. They stumbled and could not walk on their own. When they heard their mother's happy voice, they giggled. Their happy laughter could melt his heart.

From the age of one to six, Alice had recorded their growth.

As he watched the videos, Henrick's tears began to flow down his cheeks uncontrollably. He had missed out on the children's birthdays, and they didn't have a father while they were growing up.

Alice looked at him with tears in his eyes and was stunned.

"Allie, our son and daughter were so cute when they were children. Can you make a copy of these videos for me? I want to watch them often." He laughed as he sobbed.

He didn't want to shed tears in front of Alice, which was very embarrassing. However, when he saw his daughter and son staggering as they learned to walk, he couldn't help crying.

Alice nodded silently and went to make copies of the videos for him.

Henrick flipped through the albums on the coffee table. There were artistic studio photoshoots and candid photos. Every photo recorded the children's growth and each was dated.

There was a doting smile on Henrick's face. He had just cried, so his eyes were red. Some of his eyelashes were stuck together, shining with tears under the light.

After Alice finished copying the videos, she looked up and saw him. He was the kind of person who was very handsome no matter what he looked like. The people of the Alwynn family were all outstanding.

However, when she saw his tears, she felt inexplicably distressed.

Her heart ached so much!

It had nothing to do with her even if he was dead. Why was she so distressed when he shed tears?

It could be seen that he really loved the children, and it had something to do with his childhood experience.

Alice looked at him with burning eyes.

After flipping through the photos, Henrick looked up and saw that Alice was also looking at him. Their eyes met. He suddenly looked away, and a suspicious blush appeared on his handsome face.

Alice's heart suddenly beat faster, and she could even hear the sound of her heart beating.

"Here you go." She handed a USB stick to Henrick.

Henrick reached out to take it. Their fingertips suddenly touched and both of them felt a tingling sensation that reached their hearts, making them nervous and happy.

Alice suddenly withdrew her hand and lowered her head, not daring to look at Henrick.

"You go back first tonight." After saying that, she went upstairs, her emotions in turmoil.

Henrick looked up at her back and smiled. Suddenly, he stopped her. "Allie."

Alice stopped and looked back at him.

His burning eyes became distressed. "Alliee, you've worked hard these years. You won't have to work so hard anymore as long as I'm here."

Alice's mind was in complete chaos. Without saying anything, she turned around and ran upstairs in a hurry.

Henrick pursed his lips in distress. If he didn't come, he really wouldn't know how hard it was to take care of a child alone. It would take a lot of time just to get the two children bathed.

Allie, the first step in the plan is to make you blush and your heart beat race every time you face me.

When he saw Alice's figure completely disappear from his sight, he relaxed. His heart was still beating wildly, like a wild horse that was about to jump out.

Henrick didn't hate this kind of feeling. He couldn't help but smile happily. He had never known the feeling of falling in love. At this moment, he seemed to know that this was what it felt like. It was so beautiful that the whole world seemed to be a little brighter.

With a faint smile on his face, he tidied up the albums on the coffee table. He saw a piece of paper and a pen on the side, so he took them over and wrote something on it.

"Allie, I'm sorry for disturbing you tonight. Thank you. Good night! Sweet dreams!"

"See you tomorrow!"

He put the piece of paper in the album and looked at his vigorous handwriting with a smile. Then, he took a bag of plain potato chips and ate them while walking.

The potato chips were crispy and delicious. He liked them when he was young, but he didn't eat them when he grew up in order to maintain his physique.

Alice was still standing on the balcony on the second floor, watching Henrick leave. Earlier, he had said to her, "Alice, you've worked hard these years. You won't have to work so hard anymore as long as I'm here."

Her breathing and her heart were in complete chaos. She had worked hard for so many years, but no one had ever said to her, "Alice, you've worked hard for so many years."

Henrick's words were like sweet spring water in the mountains, nourishing her body and mind, and warming her heart that had fallen into the abyss.

Watching Henrick leave, she couldn't help but burst into tears.

Having a child out of wedlock required courage. In the past seven years, she had never met with her friends. In addition to work, she only had phone calls and messages with her friends. Very few people knew that she had two children.

Even Brenden, who liked her, did not know.

Even her two assistants did not know.

Even Gia, her best friend, didn't know.

Her friends who lived abroad also did not know that she had had children.

On one hand, it was to avoid the Alwynn family, and on the other hand, she did not want others to say that her children had no father. All these years, she had always protected the children very well.

Now that Henrick had appeared, she was more relieved. The walls that she had built were slowly falling away.

Alice slowly went downstairs to pack up the album. When she walked to the coffee table, she looked down and saw the note on the album.

There was a bitterness in her heart. Why was he so serious about her now? Why did he want to disturb her heart?

Chapter 2254

She didn't dare to take that step again. She was afraid that she would be burned to ashes in the end.

Alice calmed down and went to pick up the children next door for their bedtime.

That night, Alice had a dream, which was filled with the scene of Henrick apologizing to her. He also said that she had worked hard, and she would no longer have to work hard in the future. When the man said this, his face was full of guilt, and his eyes were so gentle that she couldn't help drowning in them.

Later, her dream became even more ridiculous. She dreamed that Henrick was standing in an auditorium, dressed in a groom's tuxedo, while she was wearing a white wedding dress. She was the bride. They stood side by side in front of the priest.

The priest asked, "Mr. Alwynn, are you willing to marry Miss Alice Klein?"

Henrick looked at her affectionately, lowered his head, and kissed her forehead. He whispered in her ear, "I'm willing. I'm willing to marry Miss Alice Klein. No matter what happens in this life, I'll never leave her."

When she heard these words in her dream, she smiled and felt happy. She was also breathtakingly beautiful.

When she was about to say yes, she suddenly woke up from her dream.

Alice suddenly opened her bleary eyes. It was early in June, and in her bedroom, the sun had already come in, forming mottled spots of light through the thin, light yellow gauze curtain.

Alice felt a little regretful. It seemed that there was no fate between them. She didn't even have the chance to tell him what she wanted during their wedding in her dream.

Despite this, the feeling in the dream was so wonderful!

Even in her dreams, she could clearly feel that kind of happiness.

Alice closed her eyes and squinted for a while, recalling the beauty in her dream, unwilling to get up.

After another half an hour in her dream, Alice got up slowly.

There was nothing to do in the company. Her family was engaged in business involving shopping malls, so she was not so busy with her work.

However, she couldn't just lie there all the time.

Didn't she have to take care of her children?

After washing up, she went next door.

She saw that her daughter, who got up earlier than her, was running to Henrick's villa with various bags in her hand.

Alice was speechless. "What an ungrateful girl." She was their mother who had suffered while raising them.

Alice was so angry that she laughed, but at the same time, she was also very happy. Her two children would share anything delicious with them.

Alice stood there and went next door after seeing her daughter enter the villa. She turned around with a faint smile.

Henrick didn't sleep much the previous night, mainly because he saw the children's photos and videos when they were younger. He was filled with excitement and self-blame. His mind was full of the children's cute appearance, which led to him not having a good sleep all night. He could only think of the three of them.

He remembered that his daughter was going to bring him breakfast early that morning, so he got up early, thinking that he would go back to sleep at noon.

He had nothing to do now, so the only thing he could focus on was pursuing his wife.

Speaking of which, he had never been so relaxed in the past 20 years.

As soon as he went downstairs, he saw his daughter in the yard. When he opened the door with a smile, he saw the little girl looking at him with a bright smile in the morning light.

"Good morning, Dad!" Juliet's sweet voice made people forget all their worries.

Alice was a good-tempered person. Although she came from a wealthy family, she was gentle and considerate. Her children were the same, as considerate and kind as her.

"Good morning, baby!" Henrick bent down and held his daughter in his arms.

That day, he was wearing a blue and white striped silk shirt and casual khaki pants. He looked much more mature and steady.

"Wow! Dad, why are you so handsome everyday?" Juliet was very happy. Her father was handsome, and her mother was beautiful. They were a perfect match, just like couples she saw on TV.

Henrick was overjoyed by his daughter's praise.

"Juliet, you are also very beautiful everyday." Henrick carried her inside and took the things from her hand. Before he opened the bag, he smelled the scent of pickles.

He didn't hate it, but he didn't eat much of it.

"Thank you for your breakfast!"

Henrick wanted to show off in front of his parents.

When Josue came out of his room, he saw this warm scene.

Josue was lost for words. It was early in the morning, yet Henrick was already showing off.

He accepted that Henrick had two children. It was not until then that he reluctantly accepted it.

However, the scene was too sweet so early in the morning.

"Good morning, Miss Juliet!" He greeted her with a smile.

Juliet stared at him with her beautiful big eyes. "Good morning, Mr. Chavez! However, Mr. Chavez, can you change the way you address me? Isn't it better to just call me Juliet?"

Josue smiled and greeted her again, "Good morning, Juliet!"

"Good morning, Mr. Chavez. Would you like to eat some pickles?"

Josue immediately tensed up. "I... don't want to eat it." He didn't eat pickles.

"Juliet, Mr. Henrick, I'm going to exercise." Josue left with a wary expression, as if he was afraid of being forced to eat it.

It wasn't that he didn't eat pickles, but he felt that they made his farts smell terrible.

Thus, he wouldn't eat it even if he was beaten to death.

Juliet watched as Josue ran off with a pitiful expression on her face. "Alas! Mr. Chavez actually doesn't want to eat something so delicious."

Henrick said, "Juliet, I'll eat it!"

"Hehe... I'll eat with you, Dad. I didn't eat anything when I came here this morning, as I wanted to have breakfast with you."

The little girl chatted happily.

It was a wonderful day for Henrick.

He played with his daughter and son until noon, and then they went home to take a nap and do their homework.

He glanced at the time. It was already past one o'clock, and Alice's party would be held at five o'clock.

He would also go back to sleep. At that time, he would follow Alice to meet her friends.

He did not forget that Brenden was among the group of people who was invited to the party that night.

When they were in River City, Alice and Brenden made amendments to the scripts in Alice's apartment. Now that Henrick thought about it, he was very jealous.

Thinking of this, he remembered it again. At that time, he was very upset. Maybe he fell in love with Alice back then, but he didn't realize it.

At about five o'clock, Alice dressed up and drove to the downtown area.

Henrick and Josue were already not far away. Seeing that Alice had left, Henrick clicked on the locator for her phone and asked Josue to follow her.

He had secretly installed a locator in Alice's car, not for anything else, but for a chance encounter.

Josue also knew that Henrick still had a long way to go before pursuing his wife, so he did not dare to be careless. As such, he followed Alice's car carefully.

The restaurant that Alice chose was in Halton District, which was developed by Delmont and Zoe a few years ago. Right then, it had been built into the second downtown area. The business circle was good and there were a large number of people who came here everyday. This place had also become a trending hotspot.

Moreover, this was also a place where one could find all sorts of delicacies.

Chapter 2255

Alice drove the car directly to the underground parking lot of the mall. The parking lot was on the second basement level, and she went to a place she was familiar with to park. It was relatively close to the elevator, so it was convenient for her to go in and out. Nowadays, it was tiring to park a car.

However, she had never once noticed Henrick, who was following behind her.

After getting out of the car, she took the elevator directly to the food floor on the fifth floor, which was divided into two parts, with a high-end restaurant.

They were all famous traditional dishes in Lemmon City, and Alice liked the dishes here the most.

The mall itself was very beautiful, and it was in the shape of a semicircle, with all kinds of comprehensive facilities. There were a lot of people around.

Among the people coming and going, Henrick and Josue followed Alice all the way. Josue asked softly, "Mr. Henrick, will Alice be angry if we follow her like this?"

Henrick asked, "Won't Alice be angry if we don't follow her?"

Josue was lost for words. "It seems like she'll be angry no matter what."

Henrick said, "So, what would I do at home if I wasn't here? If Allie is drunk, I can send her back."

Josue glanced at him and asked in surprise, "Mr. Henrick, why do I feel like you're looking forward to seeing her get drunk?"

Henrick smiled sinisterly. Josue, you're right.

He was a little despicable and wanted to see what a drunk Alice looked like.

When Alice arrived at the private room, Brenden, Kylie, Lane, and several employees of the company had already arrived.

Alice was the last one to arrive.

As soon as she entered, everyone was busy greeting her. Moreover, the seat next to Brenden was deliberately reserved for Alice.

Brenden stood up and helped Alice pull out her chair.

"Alice, you're here." Brenden was dressed formally. He wore a dark suit, his hair was freshly cut, and his facial features looked more masculine and handsome. He looked elegant and refined.

"I'm sorry I'm late!" Alice smiled at everyone. On the way, she thought a lot.

She couldn't let Brenden go on like this. She couldn't give him any emotional response.

Everyone shook their heads with a smile. She was not late because the dishes had not been served yet.

"Alice, have you been in a better mood since you came back?" Brenden asked with a smile, his eyes full of concern.

At that time, she suddenly wanted to come back. When she went to him to discuss this matter, she was in a very bad mood and looked very pale.

He didn't know what had happened to her. He was very worried about her, but she didn't want to tell him, even if he asked her.

He knew Alice's character very well.

Alice smiled and nodded. She looked at everyone and said, "Thanks for your hard work these days. My work was affected because of my personal affairs, but now, I have adjusted my mentality. Such a thing will never happen again."

After the matter of the children was solved, nothing would happen to her. The only thing she couldn't let go of was the children. She had been very worried that the Alwynn family would snatch the children from her, but now, she didn't have to worry anymore.

As long as Henrick didn't take the children away from her, her mind was at peace.

Without those messy thoughts, she could focus and work hard.

Kylie smiled and said, "Alice, the studio has recently received an adapted novel. I was about to ask you when we will start working."

Alice knew about this drama. She looked at Kylie and said, "Kylie, you are also very capable, but has this drama been signed yet? If it hasn't, please cancel it. I have to go back to the company to help, so I won't accept it for the time being."

"Ah..."

Everyone was shocked!

Brenden's eyes flashed and he looked at her without saying anything.

Lane came to her senses and looked at her with a disappointed expression. He asked, "Alice, are we going to lose our jobs?"

Alice smiled and looked at the dejected Lane. What was this little girl thinking?

She didn't want to continue because she didn't want Brenden to continue to follow her. She knew his feelings for her, but she could only have one person in her heart. There was no way for her to fall in love with another person, and she didn't want to hurt Brenden.

"Lane, don't worry. You won't lose your job. We'll change platforms and shoot shorter videos and online dramas. Our Klein Group has the ability and resources to do so."

"There is one more thing I haven't told you. I have two children, so I can't go with the crew anymore. My children are going to primary school, so I must stay in Lemmon City."

"Ah..."

Everyone was speechless.

The crowd was shocked again. They hadn't seen Miss Klein for a month and a half. The moment they saw her, she threw out two shocking pieces of news, which made them scared out of their wits.

Brenden was the most surprised.

He looked at Alice in disbelief. They had been friends for many years, but he never knew that she had children.

Everyone was shocked, except for Alice, who was quietly waiting for everyone to accept the fact.

There was no sound for several minutes in the private room. It was not until the waiter pushed the door open and brought in the dishes that everyone came to their senses.

That was especially the case for Kylie, who had been trying to play matchmaker for Alice for so long, but there's no hope!

Ahhh!

They could have been a perfect match! Why didn't they know that Alice had two children?

"Alice." Brenden's eyes darkened. His elegant temperament changed and his expression filled with pain because of the news he suddenly heard. He was trembling as if he had fallen into an abyss, without any light.

"You're not saying that on purpose just to reject me, right?" Brenden's voice was also very low, filled with discomfort.

He had loved Alice for many years, but she didn't like him. Despite this, he thought that as long as he stayed by her side, one day, she would belong to him.

She was neither arrogant nor impatient, gentle and kind, beautiful and capable. The most important thing was that he liked her personality very much, so he had followed her for so many years.

He had stayed by her side all these years to protect her. He had dressed so formally that night because he wanted to confess his love to her after dinner.

He had planned everything well, but she had said something that made him completely lose his courage.

Alice had two children, and she had someone she liked. No wonder he had not been able to win her heart for so many years.

Alice looked at him apologetically and said, "Brenden, I'm sorry. It's true. I have been hiding this matter because I had children out of wedlock and I wanted to protect them. However, now that the children have grown up and I can't hide it for a lifetime, I found a time to tell you."

"It's not because I want to refuse you, Brenden, but because I'm devoted to the children now. As such, I won't think about anything else."

Alice's tone was strong and serious. Brenden knew her well, and he knew that she was not deliberately hiding it. She just didn't want to hurt him.

He smiled bitterly. Before he began to confess his love, he was ruthlessly thrown into the abyss by her words. He was extremely disappointed and lowered his head in pain. He needed time to process this matter.

Chapter 2256

Alice looked at Brenden apologetically. Looking at the table full of delicious food, she regretted telling everyone before the meal.

Brenden was not in the mood to eat.

Kylie looked at Brenden and also felt uncomfortable. They had all been working together for several years, and they had always seen Brenden's affection for Alice.

However, Alice was gentle and easy to get along with, and she always treated everyone with a smile.

However, her smile was also like a hard and transparent barrier, blocking everyone's approach, as if no one could enter her heart.

For a moment, Brenden's mind was blank. He even felt that he was too tired and didn't have a good rest, that he was too afraid that Alice would refuse him, and he had hallucinated.

However, the aroma of the food in front of him, the oppressive atmosphere, and the guilty look in Alice's eyes told him that he was not hallucinating.

However, there was one thing that he needed to ask clearly. "Alice, the children don't have a father. Do you plan to spend the rest of your life like this?"

Brenden wondered if he still had a chance.

He didn't care about the children's existence. He would love them too, and Alice's children would be very cute.

Alice looked at him and did not answer his question.

The children had a father, but she didn't dare to love him anymore.

"Maybe!" She responded with a smile.

Theresa spoke up, "Miss Klein, you can't think like that. You still have a long way to go in life."

"Although you are devoted to your children, there is no conflict between that and having a love life."

Society had such a high rate of divorce, and there would be many divorcees with children.

Children were important, but her own happiness was also important, because people's lives would really fly by quickly.

Alice smiled bitterly and at the same time, she felt a little disappointed. Her heart that had been stirred up again once she saw Henrick, and it began to beat wildly in her chest.

She said, "Let's talk about it later."

Brenden seemed to see a glimmer of hope again, and his mood suddenly became much better.

If you loved someone deeply, even if there was only a glimmer of hope, you would not give up.

For so many years, there had been no other woman like Alice, and he only had eyes for her.

Therefore, he would not give up even if there was a glimmer of hope.

Brenden smiled and looked at Alice with tenderness in his eyes. He said, "Let's eat. I'm starving. I've been waiting for this rich feast tonight."

He suddenly acted as if nothing had happened, as if Alice's words had not hurt him.

They all felt that everything was fine, so the others were not restrained.

Everyone raised their glasses and turned around.

Alice wanted to stop drinking. She didn't have a good capacity for alcohol, and it was very troublesome to ask someone to drive her.

However, seeing that everyone was so merry, she could only bite the bullet and drink with them.

Alice liked the dishes in this restaurant very much, especially the beef and shrimp, as well as the sausages. They were all very delicious.

Everyone ate while chatting, and the atmosphere was surprisingly good.

Kylie and Lane had always been able to make the atmosphere lively. During this period, Alice went to the toilet.

The moment she stepped out of the private room, she seemed to have seen Henrick.

She tried to focus, but she didn't see anyone in front of her; it was as if she had just had an illusion.

She frowned in confusion. She had only drunk two glasses of red wine, but was she so drunk that she saw Henrick?

Alice laughed at herself. She was really crazy. No matter where she was, she would always think of Henrick.

She quickened her pace to the bathroom, but she didn't know that she wasn't drunk. She did see Henrick, but she didn't see him clearly.

After she entered the bathroom, Henrick came out of the corner. Looking at Alice's back in a hurry and her slightly drunk face, he couldn't help but worry that she didn't have a good capacity for alcohol.

He knew he was right to come that night.

He had heard what Alice had just said in the private room.

She was almost out of the shadows of her pain. Only when she came out could she start anew.

Not long after, Alice came out of the bathroom. She seemed to be in a bad mood. She lowered her head and looked lonely.

Henrick was surprised that he could see her loneliness and pain. It turned out that when Alice fell in love with someone, one could see through to her heart with the naked eye.

Henrick's heart ached. Seeing Alice's tired figure approaching, he moved a little and looked away from her.

What made Alice sad was that there were many people around her, but she still felt like she was alone.

After dinner, they went back for karaoke on the seventh floor of the mall.

Alice had already booked it in advance as she wanted everyone to relax. She wanted to take this opportunity to let everyone eat and have fun.

Although there were not many people in her office, everyone worked hard.

They could also be crazy when they let loose.

Kylie and Lane were fighting to sing, while the other staff members played games.

Alice was not very interested because she was a little drunk. Her mind was full of Henrick's bright smiles and his words.

"Alice, why are our son and daughter so cute?" These words were so warm that she couldn't help but think that they were a family.

These images came to her mind, which made her upset.

She just sat quietly in the corner and watched them play.

No one knew where Brenden went. After arriving at the karaoke, he said that he had something to do.

Alice didn't see him coming back.

The lights in the room were hazy. Kylie was presumptuous and heart-wrenching as she sang a love song at the top of her voice. Alice felt really drunk and heartbroken. She wanted to leave as soon as possible, but he was afraid that he would spoil the fun of these little girls.

After all, they had been working very hard during this period of time.

Just as Alice was lost in her imagination, Brenden came back with two paper bags in his hands.

The fruits in the karaoke were not fresh in his eyes. Alice liked to eat watermelon, and the weather was hot, so he bought some iced watermelon juice and brought them back.

After giving each of them a cup, he took the last one to Alice.

Alice looked at the watermelon juice and smiled. She took a sip and said, "I was wondering where you went, but it turns out that you went to buy some watermelon juice."

Brenden looked at her slightly drunk little face. Her eyes were red and blurred. Her frowns and smiles were charming, and she still looked very beautiful.

He pursed his lips, and his eyes darkened.

Alice was already drunk. After arriving at the private room, she and Kylie drank a few glasses of beer. She drank the iced watermelon juice and closed her eyes, content.

She did not notice the possessive look in Brenden's eyes.

Suddenly, the door of the private room was pushed open.

Henrick walked in with Josue.

As soon as he entered the door, he saw Alice and Brenden sitting in the corner.

Chapter 2257

All of a sudden, a handsome and dazzling superstar came in, and everyone was stunned.

Especially Brenden. As a man, he was very sensitive. Almost at the moment when he caught Henrick's eyes that looked at Alice, Brenden was like a beast protecting its food, full of hostility towards the other man.

He gently leaned to one side to block Henrick's view of Alice.

At that moment, Alice was slightly drunk and confused, which was very intoxicating.

When Brenden showed hostility towards him, Henrick had already felt it.

Henrick smiled faintly.

Kylie shouted in surprise, "Mr. Henrick, why are you here?"

Henrick smiled and explained, "I was just passing by. I thought I saw Mr. Knapp, so I followed him in. I didn't expect it to really be you." His voice was calm and composed.

Josue couldn't help but want to laugh.

Mr. Henrick, where are your acting skills? You should at least act surprised.

He noticed that the eyes of Brenden, who was in the corner, were full of hostility.

"Oh! Mr. Henrick, please have a seat." Kylie's face turned red.

Henrick's height and perfect appearance really made people feel ashamed. No matter where he was, no matter how dazzling others were, everyone's attention was focused on him.

"Okay! Thank you!" Henrick said as he moved towards Alice.

Alice was a little drunk, and her mind was full of Henrick.

When she suddenly saw him, she could not tell whether it was reality or her fantasy.

After all, Henrick had always had a great influence on her.

"Hello, Brenden!"

After Henrick finished speaking with a smile, he sat down beside Alice.

Two handsome men sat beside Alice.

There was a strange change in the atmosphere.

Everyone looked in Alice's direction.

Josue had always been clever. In order to distract everyone's attention, he opened a bottle of beer and toasted them one by one.

Henrick looked at Alice and asked softly, "Allie, are you alright?"

Hearing the gentle voice, Alice blinked in disbelief.

When she opened her eyes, the handsome man in front of her was still looking at her with a smile.

His eyes, as dark as ink, were so gentle that they seemed to emit water.

She looked into his eyes and emotions flashed across her heart.

Many nights like this, she desperately hoped that he would suddenly appear in her life.

This was probably the first time when she first thought of him, he appeared in front of her.

That handsome and dazzling face had attracted Alice's soul.

Seeing that she didn't say anything, Henrick chuckled and asked, "Alice, are you alright? Did you drink too much?"

Alice took a sip of the watermelon juice. The cold watermelon juice was in her mouth, and her stomach also felt cold. She was half sober, and there was a sour feeling in her heart.

"Henrick," she called out tentatively, looking a little silly.

"Yes! Allie, I'm here," he replied gently.

Alice blinked her eyes again, feeling even more aggrieved. He was finally here.

After looking forward to it for so long, he finally appeared when she was thinking about him.

His voice was beautiful and had been imprinted in her heart for a long time. She remembered his voice clearly.

Henrick snatched the watermelon juice from her hand and said coldly, "Don't drink this. It's too cold. You're drunk and your stomach will be uncomfortable tomorrow morning."

His gentle concern warmed Alice's whole body.

Perhaps the anticipation of his presence outweighed the pain in her heart, making her forget the night between her and Henrick.

There was a faint and fond smile on her face. "Henrick, are you worried about me?"

She giggled and did not guard against him at all.

It was the first time that Henrick had seen Alice with her guard down, and she let him approach her without reservation.

"Yes!" Henrick glanced at Josue.

Josue understood her meaning and brought the hot tea he bought to Henrick.

Henrick brought the hot tea to Alice's lips. "Alice, drink some milk tea to warm your stomach first."

"Haha..." When Alice heard the gentle voice again, her little face began to burn with shyness, becoming redder, and her eyes became more charming.

"You... Feed me," Alice ordered him with a silly smile.

"Okay!" Henrick moved gently and put the straw into her mouth.

She took a deep sip. The hot milk tea entered her stomach, and her whole body felt warm.

"It's delicious." Alice took another sip.

Her nose twitched slightly, and she had an inexplicable urge to cry.

"Henrick, did you buy me milk tea?"

"Well, it's your favorite flavor!"

Hearing this, the faint pain in Alice's heart turned into a strong joy.

"Thank you, Henrick. Hehe... I'm so happy!" Alice took the milk tea from his hand with a smile and kept drinking it.

Hearing this, a smile appeared on Henrick's face, and his eyes were filled with tenderness.

They almost forgot about everyone else; it was as if they were a bubble, isolating themselves from everyone around them.

Brenden, who was sitting next to them, was the most affected. From the moment Henrick sat down, he felt that he was just like an outsider.

When he was in River City, he noticed that there was something strange with the way Alice looked at Henrick.

However, he didn't dare to ask because he was afraid of hearing the answer he had expected. He was afraid that the man in Alice's heart was Henrick.

He didn't forget that Henrick had changed the meals for the crew to lighter dishes for a period of time, and that was after Alice had suffered from gastritis.

All these signs made him have no choice but to doubt Henrick's motives.

"Mr. Henrick, why are you here?" Brenden's tone was unfriendly. He looked at Henrick with wary eyes, as if he was here to snatch his beloved.

To him, Henrick was now just a person who wanted to compete with him for the woman he loved.

Henrick smiled and shamelessly stated, "I came to visit Allie. The Alwynn family has always had a good relationship with the Clarke family, and I'm now living next door to her."

Alice spoke up, "Brenden, he really lives next door to me." Her voice was soft and mumbled because she drank wine, which made people's hearts feel numb.

Brenden was speechless.

Henrick smiled and helped her up. He didn't want other men to see such a beautiful Alice.

"You guys go ahead and continue playing. Alice is drunk. I'll send her back first. If you want something to eat, just order it. I'll take care of it." After saying that, Henrick brought Alice out.

Josue immediately looked at everyone and said, "Everyone, I'll stay and sing a song with you."

It was just so that he could keep an eye on Brenden.

Sure enough, Brenden, who came to his senses, quickly stood up to follow Henrick.

Josue smiled and blocked his way. "Well, Brenden, Mr. Henrick and Alice are childhood sweethearts. It's not good for you to chase after them at this time."

Brenden was stunned. He was shocked by Josue's words 'childhood sweethearts' and successfully stopped.

"Ah, Mr. Henrick and Miss Klein are childhood sweethearts?" Kylie was also shocked.

Chapter 2258

Josue smiled and said, "Yes, they first met each other when they were six or seven years old. It's just that Mr. Henrick went abroad later, so there was a gap between them for a period of time."

Everyone was speechless. They had never heard of such explosive news.

The one who was most shocked was Brenden. He laughed at himself, and his heart began to ache.

He thought that he was the man who knew Alice best, but right then, he realized that he really didn't know her at all.

What kind of friends did Alice have and what kind of man did she like?

He didn't know about these things. He only knew her general preferences. She liked to wear white clothes, and occasionally liked fashionable and domineering suits.

Most of the time, she still looked like a feminine woman which was particularly attractive.

.....

In the elevator, Alice felt the familiar scent around her. She smiled slightly and her heartbeat quickened.

"Henrick, I finally waited for you and you came. Hehe..." Her voice was very gentle, charming, and happy.

However, Henrick tightened his grip on her. He lowered his head and stared at the drunk girl in his arms. She smiled like a flower, happy and excited, and even his breathing became cautious.

What she said just now made his heart ache. She seemed to have waited for him for a long time.

Alice was probably really drunk, in addition to being drunk on his scent. She had been fascinated by his scent for a long time. As soon as she smelled it, she became intoxicated.

For so many years, Alice had been waiting for Henrick to understand her thoughts and feelings, and hoped that he would suddenly appear and tell her, "Alice, I also like you very much!"

That was the scene that she had always dreamed of. That night, her dreams had come true. Just as she was thinking about him, he really appeared, and she was in his arms now.

She was so happy!

Alice rubbed herself against his chest. His unique scent was something that she could clearly remember even in her dreams.

"Henrick." She stared at him with a silly smile. It was so nice to see her beloved man when she looked up!

How blissful!

Henrick's gaze never left her face. When he heard her call out to him happily, he replied in a hoarse voice, "Alice, I'm here."

She kept rubbing against his chest and that ignited the fire in his body, burning his heart, and setting flames ablaze throughout his body. He looked at her with a deep gaze.

Holding her in his arms, he felt that his heart, which had been silent for more than 20 years, had suddenly come back to life.

His heart was beating for her. He had never calmed down since he realized that he liked her.

"Henrick, you've finally come to find me. It's so nice. Do you know how long I've been waiting for you?" Alice's face was full of grievances. "I've waited for you for many years. When my heart stopped beating, you still didn't come."

"Henrick, did you know? I bought you gifts for every birthday, but I've never given them to you."

"I kept all those gifts in a warehouse, and I visit them on your birthday every year."

"Henrick..." Alice cried as she spoke. She was very sad, and her tears fell like pearls from a broken string.

She sobbed in a low voice, like an abandoned kitten on the side of the road. She cried so hard that his heart ached.

Henrick's heart was in complete chaos and it was completely engulfed in emotions. It turned out that she had waited so long for him.

He didn't know how it felt to wait for a person, but if someone really waited for the person they loved for more than ten years, he would be moved by the constant love, even if he heard about it.

Moreover, the person in the story, the man whom she was waiting for, was him. He only felt very happy, lucky, and blessed. It was not too late.

He was glad that she still had feelings for him in her heart.

"Henrick, do you know what it feels like to wait for you to reply to my message everyday? I send you a message and I hope you can respond to me, but you only reply to my message once every two or three days."

"Even so, I still feel very happy and excited, because you responded to and acknowledged my efforts."

When she was young, she was full of enthusiasm and ignored many details.

He hadn't replied to her message for a few days, so she should have realized that he didn't want her to send him a message.

Alice might have been holding everything in for too long. That night, she found a way to vent her feelings, as if she was venting all the pain in her heart at once.

"But Henrick, you don't know what it feels to wait for your response. That anxiety, that expectant mood; every two minutes, you pick up your phone to check, afraid that you'll miss the message..."

"Then, I understood. You didn't like my entanglement, and you didn't like me. I thought I should give up, and I did. However, why do I still miss you so much? It's you who fills my mind constantly."

"Henrick, even if you say that you hate me and don't want me to pester you everyday, even if you say that you will never like me in this life, I still want to live with you..."

Alice kept talking about the pain of waiting in the past. Henrick listened very carefully. He had waited for her for more than a month and he felt that it was like a year, but it was nothing compared with her waiting for more than ten years.

However, the feeling of waiting was really uncomfortable.

Henrick deeply understood what it meant to feel heartache.

Alice's every word was like a knife in his heart. It was not until she got in the car that she stopped.

She was tired and leaned against the seat with tears in her eyes. Looking at the dazzling and handsome man in the driver's seat, she didn't know whether it was a reality or a dream.

She smiled, and her tears shone with a faint luster under the light.

It should be a dream. She had never been held in that person's arms, and he looked at her with such a gentle gaze.

He had always hated her existence and her constant pestering of him.

Henrick looked at Alice, who was staring at him quietly, and his eyes also turned red unconsciously.

The car fell into a long silence, and the two looked at each other quietly.

At such a close distance, Henrick realized that Alice was very beautiful. Her big eyes, which had been filled with tears, were as bright as the clear sky after snowfall.

Her skin was very fair, and there was a mole at the end of her eye. If one didn't look carefully, they wouldn't be able to see it clearly.

Alice also looked at Henrick unblinkingly, afraid that he would disappear in the blink of an eye.

This night, she would become in a lot of pain again.

"Alice." After a long while, Henrick called her gently.

Alice was stunned for a moment, but she still looked at him quietly. She didn't speak or respond.

Henrick stretched out his hand, and his long fingers gently brushed away the tears on her face.

Chapter 2259

Alice could feel the warmth of his soft fingers and his gentle movements.

He was as careful as if he was holding a treasure.

Her whole body became tense. This dream was so beautiful and real.

It was as if he was crying. Henrick was crying. Why was he crying? Was it because of her?

Henrick calmed down and said with a smile, "Allie, can I wait for you in the future? When you want to see me in the future, I will stand behind you. As long as you turn around, you'll be able to see me. As long as you look up, you'll be able to see me. I will always be by your side. Don't be in so much pain, okay?"

"Is that okay?" He choked with sobs. He had never felt sorry for anyone before.

He had never felt so heartbroken.

He stretched out his hands and gently held her little face, capturing her tears that kept gushing out.

They just stared at each other quietly.

At the same time, he also understood one thing. Love had consumed all her patience, and what was left was disappointment, fatigue, and indifference.

Alice was in such a state towards him.

No one in the world could live without anyone. Time could consume all enthusiasm.

The two looked at each other for a long time. Alice felt the heat and strength of his hand. Such a real feeling made her sober up a lot.

"He... Henrick," she cried out.

"Alice, I'm here." Henrick closed his eyes and let his tears flow. He smiled again and said in a gentle voice, "Allie, I love you!"

Looking at her red lips, which became red and moist because of her crying, he couldn't help but lower his head and kiss her.

Her lips were very cold, and he was very hot. When they collided, they were mixed with each other's tears, salty and bitter.

After a long time, he suddenly felt that the person in his arms was motionless. He gently looked away and saw a scene that made him neither able to laugh nor cry. Alice had fallen asleep while kissing him.

Henrick suddenly laughed and wiped away the tears on his face. She would forget everything that he had said and done that night.

Feeling helpless and distressed, he started the car and took Alice home.

When he arrived at the door of Alice's house, he parked the car steadily, unfastened his seat belt, got out of the car, and went to the passenger seat.

He opened the car door, helped Alice unfasten her seat belt, and carefully lifted her out.

Marlon, who was standing on the second floor, saw this scene and immediately trotted downstairs to speak to Henrick.

When Henrick saw his son, he greeted him with a smile. "Thank you, Marlon!"

He held Alice in his arms, as if he wasn't struggling at all.

Indeed, it wasn't difficult. Alice was very thin, and he didn't feel much in his arms after years of training.

He just felt that her body was very soft, and from time to time, it emitted the fragrance that he had always missed.

Marlon looked at his mother worriedly. "How did my mother get drunk?"

"She went to a party tonight and had a few drinks."

"No." Marlon looked at his father, who only appeared after several years.

Looking at his son's deep gaze, Henrick felt like his heart was empty.

Sure enough, in the next moment, Marlon said, "When my mother's in a bad mood, she drinks. Did you make my mother angry?"

Henrick looked at his son and said nothing. Alice was in so much pain because of him.

Marlon looked very unhappy.

He turned around and said, "Send my mom to her room."

Henrick followed behind him silently. Although Marlon was quite naughty, he knew everything. He was very sensible and loved his mother very much.

Just like how Marlon used to watch his mother stay up late to complete the drawings and staying up late to take care of them. He felt very distressed, and thought that his father did not care about them.

Henrick seemed to be able to feel the pain in his son's heart, but he felt that the pain was eating into his skin inch by inch, and his heart was also wrapped in a dense stinging pain.

Alice's room was on the second floor. It was very big and there was a wall separating the bedroom and the study. The decorations filled the room with warmth.

Henrick carefully placed her on the big soft bed and covered her with the pink quilt, which set off her little red face.

His lips curled into a smile. She was very charming.

He took off her shoes and went to the bathroom to get some hot water. He gently wiped Alice's face and hands.

After that, he pulled the thin quilt over her and tucked her in.

Marlon saw that his father was very gentle towards Alice during the whole process, and his gloomy face was much better.

When Henrick went back to get some water, Marlon said shyly, "Thank you, Dad!"

The servants had all gone to sleep. He was too embarrassed to ask them to get up and take care of his mother.

It was the first time that Henrick had heard his son call him father. He was so excited that his eyes turned red.

"Marlon, I'll do a good job in the future. I won't make your mother sad. If you have me in the future, and I have you, our family will be very happy," Henrick promised solemnly.

Marlon's eyes were also red. He nodded and said, "Dad, I believe in you. You will make us and Mom happy."

Marlon spoke with a happy smile. If he didn't say it, it didn't mean that he didn't need a father. It was just that his mother had told them since childhood that they didn't have a father.

In his heart, his father's tenderness towards his mother that night had already scored him 60 points.

It was just a passing grade.

Henrick took care of his son and then went back to sleep.

Juliet was with her grandmother next door. He only thought that his daughter would be very filial in the future.

The night was very quiet. Henrick looked up at the starry night sky, and the last remnants of darkness in the corner of his heart was also lit up.

He would always remember what Alice had said and he wanted to spend the rest of his life with her.

There were so many beautiful and moving words in the world, but these ordinary words were the most beautiful words in his heart.

He felt that there would be a day in the future!

The morning light was faint, illuminating every corner of the world. When Alice woke up, she saw the sun shining in, somewhat dazzling her. She closed her eyes. She had a splitting headache from her hangover.

She opened her eyes again and saw the familiar room. She was stunned for a moment. How did she come back?

As she thought about it, the expression on her face gradually became blurred. She seemed to have had a dream all night, which was filled with Henrick, who was crying and who had been gentle.

It seemed that he also said, "Allie, I love you!" That was something she had never dared to dream of before, but she heard that man say he loved her in her dream.

"Haha..." Alice really woke up with a smile this time.

She seemed to remember that she had cried in his arms for a long time and seemed to have talked a lot with him.

She was crying, but his gaze was extremely gentle. She seemed to be drowning in his tenderness and his soft, magnetic voice.

After saying "Allie, I love you", Henrick lowered his head and kissed her lips. How could she not remember what happened next?

Chapter 2260

"Haha..." Alice happily rolled on the bed with the quilt in her arms. She was so happy that she forgot herself and did not notice that she was not far from the edge of the bed. When she rolled, she accidentally fell off the bed, and it was only then did she realize that she was stupid when she was happy.

The carpet below the bed was soft and did not hurt her.

"Ah..." She rolled on the ground in annoyance and patted her forehead hard. When she was about to get up, she heard the door being pushed open.

The person who opened the door and came in was Henrick.

Henrick was afraid that Alice would feel uncomfortable the next day after she got drunk, so he made her some hangover soup and brought some pastries that she liked early in the morning.

He couldn't help but send it to her in person.

He was used to being casual, so he forgot to knock on the door. When he pushed the door open and came in, he was very confused and surprised. He was as casual with Alice as he used to be with his own family.

However, when he pushed the door open, he saw Alice lying on the ground with the quilt in her arms.

He couldn't help but doubt her drinking capacity. Didn't she even know that she had fallen off the bed in the middle of the night?

Their eyes met and surprise appeared on their faces.

Henrick was lost for words.

Alice was also speechless. How did she get back last night?

She was stunned on the spot, and her mind was busy thinking about the night before.

She was still stuck in those intermittent dreams of Henrick that she had.

Henrick looked at her with a shy expression on his face, which made her blush. She was stunned and looked at him in a daze.

He couldn't help laughing. Thinking of his recklessness earlier, he was annoyed at it and at his rudeness. Then, he reached out and knocked on the door.

He looked at her and asked gently, "Alice, can I come in?"

Alice was speechless. Why didn't he knock on the door just now? She didn't expect him to see her in such a pathetic state.

Alice blushed and ignored Henrick.

He looked at her in silence and took it as if she had agreed.

He walked in with the soup and some food.

Alice put the quilt on the bed and looked down, only to see that she was still wearing the clothes that she had worn when she went out the night before.

She frowned and was confused again.

So, how did she come back yesterday?

Henrick put the soup and breakfast on the table beside her. She looked at Alice, who was looking down at her, and said with a smile, "Alice, this is some hangover soup for you, as well as your favorite pastries."

When Alice heard the words "Hangover Soup", her headache seemed to be reduced a lot.

She suddenly looked up at Henrick, who was smiling at her. His smile was very gentle, which she had never seen before.

His smile was like the sunshine, warming her dark and painful heart.

Alice blinked slightly and looked at the smile on his handsome face in a daze.

Henrick called out to her, "Alice, hurry up and come over for breakfast. It won't taste good when it gets cold."

Only then did Alice come back to her senses. She looked at the soup in confusion that night, as if there was something going on in her mind.

So, how did she come back last night?

"How did you know I drank?" Alice asked.

Henrick's eyes flashed. As soon as he entered the door and saw her calm eyes, he knew that she had completely forgotten about what had happened the night before.

Although he was very disappointed, he was also very happy to know that she had always loved him.

Alice glared at him. With her messy hair, she walked up to Henrick and looked up at him. "Henrick, let me ask you. How did you know that I was drunk?"

Looking at her questioning eyes, Henrick avoided her gaze. "I live next door to you. How could I not know?"

"Hey! Dad, I just gave you a pass last night. I didn't expect that you would let me down this morning."

"As a man, if you dare to do it, you should dare to take the responsibility. You sent my mother back last night. Why don't you dare to admit it?"

Marlon's voice came from the door, which startled both of them.

Henrick was speechless.

Why did my son catch me in the act?

Alice looked at her son and blinked her eyes in confusion. So it was really Henrick who sent her back last night.

Alice was speechless. "So, wasn't I... dreaming last night?" Her voice became softer, but Henrick could still hear her clearly.

Therefore, she attributed what happened the previous night to her dream.

Miss Klein, could you have done it yourself in your dreams?

Without me, could you get home safely?

Henrick didn't nod or speak; he just stood there quietly. Looking at Alice's appearance, he was a little cautious, for fear that she would be angry.

Without her permission, he had hugged and kissed her. He hoped that Alice would remember it, but at the same time, he also didn't want her to remember it.

"Henrick, I'm asking you a question." Alice sounded a little agitated.

If what happened last night was not a dream, then the man in front of her had really said, "Allie, I love you!"

Was he sincere?

Henrick pursed her lips and nodded. "Allie, don't be angry. I just sent you home. Nothing else has happened."

He deliberately left some things out of his explanation, as he felt that telling her the truth would cause more problems.

Alice sneered and said, "Henrick, you really like to take advantage of others."

Henrick lowered his head and did not dare to look at her. He... seemed to have taken advantage of her the night before.

"Alice, listen to my explanation. I really couldn't help it last night..."

"Get out." Alice pushed him to the door.

Henrick kept stepping back, wanting to explain, but he didn't know what to say.

"Get lost. Don't show up in front of me in the future." Alice was agitated and embarrassed.

In the end, Henrick was chased out along with Marlon.

Bang... Alice slammed the door shut.

Henrick was speechless. Why was this woman so angry?

The father and son stood at the door, staring at each other. Looking at his son's sympathetic eyes, Henrick didn't know whether to laugh or cry.

Kid, don't forget that you were also kicked out.

"Alas!" Marlon sighed and looked at him with a look that seemed to say, "Dad, why are you so timid"?

Henrick was speechless.

"Dad, can't you be a little more overbearing? My mom likes overbearing presidents."

Henrick replied, "But I'm not an overbearing president."

Marlon argued, "Then, you can be an overbearing man!"

Henrick asked humbly, "Son, how can I be overbearing?"

With a weird smile, Marlon took out his mobile phone and clicked on the screen to show him.

Kenneth lowered his head to take a look, and his brows twitched slightly.

"Cloud Pavillion Hall."

Henrick was speechless. Wasn't this one of his films from abroad?

"Dad, I've watched your movie. The female lead is a teacher, and the male lead is a boss, whom you played."

"As long as you use this script, you will definitely win my mother's heart."

Marlon said as he rolled his eyes. "There's another way. I'll help you pursue Mom. Dad, you have to promise me one thing."
