

Gluey Love Between Us

Chapter 46

Victor smiled and pursed his lips. He lowered his eyes and watched her stir the porridge in the bowl. He cleared his voice and said, "Miss Bleu does not have questions, but I have. May I ask where Miss Bleu's hometown is?"

Eden gave him a strange look, hesitated for a moment, and asked, "Why does Mr. Alwynn want to know this?"

Jasper used his connections to erase her address and surname so that the Gienger family would not be able to find her.

Victor and the Gienger family knew each other.

Victor looked at her casually. He stared at her facial expressions closely with his deep and stunning eyes.

His gaze which seemed to be able to see through everything, made Eden want to escape.

She glanced out of the window, avoiding Victor's gaze.

But even so, she could still distinctly sense that Victor's eyes were still fixed on her face. Her face turned hot.

"Is it inconvenient to tell?" Victor did not intend to let her go when she did not answer.

He could feel that she was nervous, anxious, and fidgety after he asked the question.

It was indeed a very common question for ordinary people. However, it was a very difficult question for Eden.

At least for now, she did not want the Gienger family to find out her identity.

Eden moved her eyes away. She then boldly looked straight into his eyes. She smiled faintly and said calmly, "There's nothing awkward to tell. I grew up in River City."

Victor felt relieved after hearing her answer.

Anson hurried back in the middle of the night. He had already started investigating the affairs of the Gienger family today.

She was also investigating the woman from seven years ago. The truth would be revealed.

Victor's body leaned forward slightly.

Eden could smell a pleasant smell on him, which was faintly shrouded between them. She could feel a trace of nervousness suddenly.

Victor did not smoke, and did not like to drink. Generally, he would study hard when he was free.

He was not like other rich young masters who visited night clubs every night.

He would take the company staff to dinner occasionally. After dinner, he would only go to KTV.

In the eyes of the women in River City, Victor was definitely the perfect prince charming for unmarried women.

"So you're from River City?" Victor wished to further test the water, but he had to stop.

He was afraid that she would get scared and hid herself. That way, he would not be able to find her.

His tone suddenly became softer and he smiled at her and said, "Hurry up and eat! The food is getting cold."

Eden nodded slightly. She was very confused about Victor's words, but there was no way to trace them back.

She lowered her head and ate one spoonful after another. She ate fast.

Every second was tormenting her when she was with Victor. To her, it felt like centuries even though they had only been together for half an hour.

At the same time, someone changed the channel of the TV on the wall and there was a replay clip of the first part of Henrick's piano competition.

The voice from the TV gained Eden's attention. Looking at her son's handsome face, she could not help but smile happily. Her son Ricky was awesome!

Kenny liked to read and play computer games, whereas Gia liked to draw. Her three children were all exceptional.

Victor saw her dazzling smile and followed her gaze to the TV on the wall.

However, the scene had already changed and it was just the sound of the owner's witty remarks.

He looked away gracefully and noticed that she had already finished her bowl of porridge. He had also eaten more than half of his porridge. He smiled gently with satisfaction and his entire body was at ease.

Chapter 47

He suddenly opened his mouth and said in a calm tone, "Miss Bleu, what are your plans for the weekend?"

He would like to participate if he could. His mood was lifted by just looking at her.

At the same time, it was also very tormenting for him. He was waiting urgently for Anson's news.

Anson's working efficiency was getting lower and lower during this period.

It was not even ten o'clock at the moment. Anson had disembarked from the plane not long ago. Victor was too anxious.

Anson, who was hectic at the moment, would definitely curse Victor in his heart if he knew what Victor was thinking.

Eden thought for a moment and answered, "I would like to look for a house that is suitable for my family to stay in River City."

"Is it because I suddenly transferred you back to the head office?" Victor suddenly felt a little guilty. His deep gaze swiftly swept past her face that contained a simple smile.

She knew what she was doing when she was at work. She was not easily defeated, not to mention being graceful and calm at the same time.

She looked extremely pure in her casual outfit when she was having a break!

She had been living in Gate City all the while. It was certainly difficult for her to be transferred back suddenly.

Eden smiled and said, "I guess that's part of the reason. I grew up in River City, therefore I feel more at ease when I am back at my hometown."

The Gienger family was here. She wanted to not only take revenge, but also to find out her identity. She was taken away by the Gienger family, and her parents were probably still looking for her.

"I..." Victor was about to speak when Eden's phone suddenly rang.

Eden looked apologetically at Victor before getting up to answer the phone.

The call was from Jasper. She smiled and asked, "Hey! Jasper, have you had breakfast?"

Jasper's lazy voice came from the other end. "No, I'm waiting for Eden to join and eat together with us!"

Eden raised her lips slightly and said with a smile, "When I heard your voice, I knew that you haven't got up yet. I have already had breakfast at Time Square. Do you want to come out or do you want me to bring you breakfast? After second thoughts, your breakfast would have turned cold and would not taste as good if I were to send it to your company."

Jasper was on cloud nine when he heard the sentence "I'll bring you breakfast".

However, Eden's last sentence made him grit his teeth.

"You are such a heartless girl. All you care about is your own stomach. You don't care about me. Is that right?" Jasper's sounded pitiful.

Eden had known Jasper for many years, so she knew that he would never be angry with her.

Her tone became serious suddenly, "Jasper, if you're tired, you take the day off. You can accompany me tomorrow."

She knew that Jasper was very busy with work.

"No way, I feel uneasy for you to go by yourself. I have told you that you have a very innocent face. My heart would ache if you were tricked by others. Wait for me at Time Square. I will be there in a minute.

I'll hang up now."

Without waiting for Eden's reply, Jasper hung up the phone.

Eden could not help but shake her head.

She walked towards the table and looked at Victor who was dressed in white sportswear. He looked elegant and reserved with his long legs crossed. His gaze was fixed outside the window.

She smiled at Victor politely and said, "Mr. Alwynn, I'll go first. See you on Monday!"

"Okay!" Victor nodded indifferently, displeasure written all over his handsome face.

After Eden left, Victor's mouth curved into an evil smile. He had an indescribable emotion in his eyes.

Eden, if it was really you, you would only have me, Victor as the only man in your eyes from now on.

His longing for Eden had already turned into a deep-rooted obsession overtime.

Chapter 48

Victor had been sitting in the porridge shop for a long time, but he didn't leave!

The sunlight shone through the glass door and illuminated his handsome face. His expressionless face made him look very lonely.

He raised his eyebrows slightly. It was hard to tell what he was thinking at the moment.

He had something to do when he was at work.

He was lonely during the weekend. There was nothing else but loneliness to accompany him.

After sitting in the shop for more than an hour, Victor stood up and strode away.

He clenched the phone in his hand and waited anxiously for the news from Anson.

He had been looking for Eden for many years. When there was a woman who looked like Eden, he just couldn't help but do a thorough investigation.

The Alwynn family was powerful enough to influence the politics of the River City in country A

The Alwynn family had a solid background, with almost all the best requirements in the business field. It was difficult not to get rich.

Three years ago, Victor left the Alwynn Group to start his own business. In just three years, he had become the most powerful figure among all the families.

It shocked the whole business world.

Victor's achievement was beyond his stepmother's expectations.

In the past, she had been suppressing Victor all the time, but now Victor was no longer under her control. It was even possible for him to take over grandfather Lu's company at any time. She could not sit still anymore. She tried to sabotage Victor several times, but Victor was still alive and living well.

There were two buildings in Alwynn Group. The two buildings were not far away from each other.

Philip's building in the Alwynn Group was named Jotham Alwynn Group.

That was a strong request by Rebecca when she gave birth to Vincent after she married into the Alwynn family.

Rebecca and Victor did not have any rest although it was a weekend.

In order to make her son as outstanding as Victor, Rebecca needed to supervise him to learn all kinds of business experience.

The president's office of Jotham Alwynn Group was bright, transparent, and majestic.

The decorating style showed the company's high-end image and generous atmosphere, as well as the delicate office space for the president to enjoy his privacy.

Vincent was monitoring the stock market by the computer.

Rebecca came in from outside.

She was wearing a red dress. She looked noble and elegant. Her extravagant outfit made her look very classy.

She lifted her head and looked at her son. The pair of scheming eyes soften when she looked at her son, "Vin, come here."

"Mom, you're back." Vincent got up quickly and came over?

He smiled and asked, "How's it going? Mom, have you made all the arrangements?"

Rebecca smiled creepily, and a trace of slyness flashed across her graceful and luxurious face. "It's all arranged. A few days later, there will be a banquet at the MS Hotel. Victor and Haven would be there. Since Haven is determined to marry Victor, we will help her fulfill her wish."

"Everything that you arranged would always go well. It's a pity that the woman went into the wrong room seven years ago. Otherwise Victor would not have the achievements that he had today." Victor said with a sulky face. Victor's actions made him breathless.

Even a clothing company could be run very well by him. Several industries under his name gradually outperformed the Jotham Alwynn Group under his management.

"Hehe!" Rebecca sneered and looked out of the window coldly.

"At least Haven is someone we can control. It's better for us to find someone we can control rather than other women to marry into our family." A hint of malice flashed through Rebecca's eyes.

These properties would soon become the property of all three of them.

Victor had to disappear from this world.

Chapter 49

Vincent smile maliciously and a trace of ferociousness flashed through his eyes. "Mom, your idea is excellent! So we just go ahead and follow the plan then?"

His eyes were sombre. He had fought with Victor for many years, but he had never won.

This time, he would definitely defeat Victor.

Rebecca raised her eyebrows in delight and her gaze was uncanny. "I heard that he recently promoted a new design director and treated her well. I met Haven on the way back to the company. Haven said that she saw them having breakfast together this morning.

Victor is not close to women. Since he shows interest in women now, we need to be on our guard against him."

Hearing this, a deep thought flashed through Vincent's lonely and narrow eyes.

He narrowed his eyes and sneered, "Mom, Haven does not know her place. She still told you the news even though she knows that we are on bad terms with Victor."

Rebecca smiled indifferently with her scheming eyes half-closed. "Vin, you are wrong. It's not that Haven does not know her place. In fact, she is very smart. She knows that we have always wanted her to marry Victor. She told us the news because she wants to make us hate the design director too."

Vincent suddenly smiled wickedly, disdain flashed through his narrow eyes. "She is good at wishful thinking. I would definitely marry her if she was not the Alwynn family's adopted daughter. After all, the Clement Family is a well-known aristocratic family in River City."

Victor was extremely aloof. Ordinary people could feel the chills even when they were a meter away from him, not to mention when they talk to him.

However, Haven devoted herself to Victor.

She took no notice of Vincent. Vincent became a little angry at the thought of this.

He suddenly burst into laughter. He was very happy when he thought of the angry and helpless face that Victor would make a few days later.

Hearing this, Rebecca stared at her son coldly and mocked him in a sharp tone, "Vincent, it doesn't matter if you speak nonsense in front of me. You better keep your mouth shut when you are with outsiders."

"No matter how useless Haven is, she is still the adopted daughter of the Clement family. She is still the eldest daughter of the Clement family in River City. The Clement family would not disregard you if you marry her. Unfortunately, Haven and the Clement family turned their noses up at you from the start."

"Mom! Do you need to say that to hurt your son?" Vincent looked unhappy. The phrase "turned their noses up at you from the start" fuelled his anger.

"What's wrong with him?"

He was handsome and rich. Haven the ugly woman did not have the right to despise him.

Rebecca looked at her angry son and smiled casually. Her every move showed a sense of nobleness. "Vin, I am able to tell you the truth because I am your mother. Other people will try to flatter you because you are the future president of the Jotham Alwynn Group. I am the only one who is able to tell the truth and make you realize that. It's getting late, let's pack and go home!"

Rebecca got up and walked out with her luxurious handbag.

Vincent was ready to go home. He got up sulkily and turned off the computer.

The skyscrapers in the city emitted colorful neon lights at night.

The moon and stars were glimmering in the dark sky.

The lights emitted by the rows of streetlights shone through the trees at the side of the street, leaving shadows on the ground.

Eden and Jasper ate the kebabs in their hands and slowly walked back.

Eden complained, "Jasper, you're distressed when you couldn't afford a house. Even though you are able to afford one now, you are still distressed. We've been out for the whole day, but you still can't even find a suitable one."

Chapter 50

Jasper gave her a side glance. The smile on his face was gentle and his eyes were tender. There was a hint of quirkiness in his eyes.

"Eden, buying a house is a big deal. We have to choose carefully. I have asked my friend to help. They will call you immediately if they find a suitable house. You don't have to worry. You will find a suitable one." Jasper patted his chest and said.

Eden pursed her lips and looked at Jasper gratefully. "Thank you! Jasper, you've accompanied me to look for a house the whole day. You must be tired, right?"

"Hehe..." Jasper smiled helplessly. She was always grateful to him.

"What are you laughing at?" Eden suddenly stared at him. Did she say something funny?

It's been a long time since Jasper smiled like this.

She had seen Jasper in the company. He was a coldblooded president like Victor.

Within a few years, his company had become a business leader in Gate City. He was proven to be resourceful and decisive.

However, Jasper in front of her was like a big brother who would protect her at all times.

Jasper looked at the oil stain at the side of her mouth. He reached out his hand and gently wiped it off. "Look at you. You look like Gia when you eat. So dirty!"

Eden pointed to the grilled meat in the yellow paper bag in her hand and said, "It's all because of them."

Jasper looked at her with a smile. Look at his Eden, she was cute even when she was giving excuses.

Eden suddenly looked at him with her head tilted to one side. She got angry suddenly and roared, "Wait a minute, Jasper, are you disgusted by me?"

Jasper was shocked by her roar. He looked around quickly. The passers-by could not help but turn around and look at them.

To the passers-by, they seemed like a quarreling couple.

"Ouch! My dear lady, can't you lower your voice? People would think that I am bullying you."

"You were bullying me in the first place." She looked up at Jasper. There was a hint of sadness in her clear eyes.

Jasper, "..."

When did he bully her?

Why couldn't he remember?

He stopped suddenly. The beaming light shone on his face, making his handsome face even more dazzling.

He clarified quickly, "Eden, I really didn't bully you. When did you become so petty?"

"Just now!" Eden replied confidently.

"Humph!" Jasper snorted suddenly and walked straight ahead, leaving an angry Eden behind.

Eden's beautiful eyes widened instantly. Things weren't supposed to be like this.

She hurried to catch up with Jasper and asked, "Jasper, why are you angry? Did I say something wrong?"

"Just now!" Jasper retorted using Eden's previous tone.

"Ah!" Eden looked at him as if he was a jerk.

"Jasper, you are really petty. You want to take revenge for such a trivial matter?" Her clear eyeballs move back and forth rapidly. A hint of pity flashed through her eyes.

Many passers-by couldn't help but turn back to look at the beautiful couple on the street.

"Pfft!" Jasper couldn't help laughing when he looked at her clear, innocent eyes.

Sometimes he couldn't help bullying her. However, he could not bear to bully her when he saw see her innocent beautiful eyes.

"You're still laughing?" Eden looked at him angrily. She was an extremely competent person at work.

When she was with Jasper and the children, she became her true self. She was gentle and adorable. She could also act coquettishly and laughing heartlessly occasionally.

She liked this kind of life without any pretense.

"Okay, okay, I won't laugh, hurry up and eat! It won't taste as good if it's cold. Let's have a deal. I'll pick you up tomorrow morning. We'll have breakfast together. We'll continue searching once we've finished breakfast together." Jasper said.
