

Go After 203

Chapter 203

"You two stand guard at the stairway on the second floor, I'll let you know if I need your help." Belle heard the voice and walked out, saying indifferently towards the two men.

"Okay." Dante and Aydin agreed, muttering in their hearts: such a luxurious Harvey Mansion is heavily guarded inside, what is the point having us to come over and guard?

But it's a rich family affair, so they don't have to speculate, and they got highly paid.

"What do you mean getting two men in here? Do you want to cheat on me?" Calvin's face was dark, his eyebrows were twisted.

Belle glanced at him obliquely, walked towards the room, but her voice was loud, "Didn't I say they are here to guard against thieves and perverts?"

"Who's a thief? Who's the pervert? Give me a clear explanation." Calvin was so angry, reaching to take Belle's hand, he asked.

"Let go of me." Belle's eyes fell on Calvin's hand and said in a stern voice, "Are you going to make me use these bodyguards now?"

Calvin was in shock, if they really fought, he would be laughed at. Besides, she did not want to confront her and make her sad, so he couldn't help but let go of his hand.

It was just too obvious what she meant.

He was the only man in the Fragrance Garden, so he must be the one she was referring to in terms of protection from perverts!

How dare she treat him like a pervert?

And it was outrageous that two men were called over to defend him.

The moment he let go of his hand, Belle shook it off, took a few steps back and stood still, sneering and reminding, "Don't blame me for not reminding you, when the time is up, if you don't move out, I'll just throw things away here." After saying that, she curled up the corner of her mouth and said coldly, "I've been out for just a few days, but a lot of things are missing from the bedroom, so there must be thieves, since so, I have to guard against them."

Today, when taking stock of her things, she realised that some of the jewellery Calvin had given her some time ago was missing, especially some expensive diamonds.

Heart of the Ocean was a rare treasure and she was worried that it would be missing.

The outside world rumored that Sophia has such a rare diamond, but no one has ever seen it. She did not covet this jewel, but the fact that Sophia can give it to her means that Sophia has another meaning, and she wants to at least do her duty to protect it, with the intention of returning it to Calvin in the future, but she can't explicitly say it now.

Something in her room had been stolen? Calvin was astonished, who dared to be so bold?

It occurred to him that when he returned that night, he would unexpectedly find Hanna sleeping in her room.

The servants in Harvey Mansion would not do that, and those stole things were fired whenever they were found, so it seems likely that it had something to do with Hanna.

It was not at all surprising that that nasty woman could do such a thing.

But at the moment he doesn't care about that, he just feels full of jealousy, right now that is seriously affecting his right and he wants to defend.

With two men standing on the second floor staircase, watching him all day long, he couldn't feel at ease!

Even if there was only the lift left, the thought of seeing them every day would be unbearable.

This woman really pissed him off!

"Miss Johnson, can we really be driven away by her?" Hanna asked reluctantly, standing in front of Lexie with a face full of defiance.

Lexie watched as two groups of people came in and went upstairs. When she looked up again, she saw two young men standing at the entrance of the stairs on the second floor, standing majestically, and would really throw her down if she was still on the second floor.

It looks like Belle was getting real!

But Sophia had already given her this inheritance, she had complete autonomy and there was no way out if Lexie had to do it!

Now that Calvin's heart was in her, it was even more impossible to count on him.

As for Paige, with Sophia's inheritance letter, there was nothing she could do about it.

"This woman is not simple, in such a few years' time, she actually got Sophia to give her all the most valuable things in Harvey Mansion. She is scheming and her tactics are really great." Lexie muttered.

Hanna said with hatred, "Yes, but Miss Johnson, the Harvey family has a lot of good things, what she got is not a big deal. The Heart of the Ocean diamond ring is priceless, not to mention there is the Harvey Corp, and you are now pregnant with the offspring of the Harvey family. Sophia would not be so stupid as to not even give her grandson property, right? We should have a big picture, these are just some old villas, but Harvey family had a lot villas and houses values millions and billions, so it doesn't matter."

Lexie found it right and nodded. Her father was a deputy Mayor, but he has less than one of thousands of the properties of the Harvey family. The mere thought of this was enough to excite Lexie, not to mention the fact that Calvin was so handsome that any woman would fall in love with him.

"You are right, I really don't have to be afraid of her now, it's hard for me to see this woman. She's got two men standing there, just to deal with me. As long as she's around, I'm not going to have a good time." Lexie said, distressed.

“Miss Johnson, we have to hold back.” Hanna gently reminded in her ear.

“Okay, you take someone up to pack up, we’ll move down first, Calvin is going to be kicked down anyway. As long as I have Calvin with me, I can live in the first floor and I don’t have to see her. Baby, stay with daddy, are you happy?” Lexie was happy that Calvin also got driven down by that bitch.

Hanna can only be moving down, and when she looked up to see that the two young men are standing at the entrance of the stairs, as if they will throw their things down at any time on command.

They led Kiara to move their things downstairs.

The rooms on the first floor are usually unoccupied, and the ones to the north are stacked with miscellaneous items, while the ones to the south are quite nice, but they are only a few single or double rooms with polished marble tiles, unlike the second floor, which is covered with imported cashmere carpets.

Moving from the warm second floor to this simple, cold first floor, not only was Hanna screaming in agony, but Lexie was even more resentful, but she held back!

After all, Calvin was moving here too!

As long as he can move over, Lexie is fine with it.

After all, without Belle in the way, Calvin is closer to her.

After looking at these rooms on the first floor and carefully analysing them, she directed the servants to pack up the large bedroom in the middle, put the things in it and let Belle take the small room next to it so that she can give Hanna orders at any time.

Paige’s large bedroom is located on the right side of the first floor alone, against the southern garden, which is warmly and luxuriously furnished, but left side is far from it. She left after breakfast.

After a long time of work here, Kiara and other servants had almost finished packing up the house. Lexie did not want to live there, but just lounged on the big sofa in the living room thinking about how to deal with the dilemma.

Suddenly, she saw Calvin come down in a rage.

He came towards the sofa, his face sullen.

Just now he was kicked out by Belle, all the things belonging to him and himself were thrown out, the corridor was full of his clothes. No one in Harvey Mansion dared to treat him like that, except this woman.

In the five rooms upstairs, after Lexie’s things had been removed, only his remained. He didn’t want to move out, so his things were all left in the corridor by her. He was angry, and if it wasn’t for the fact that they had been so in love, he would have thrown her down.

This woman was really domineering.

“Calvin.” Lexie looked at Calvin’s face full of anger and exasperated look, her heart was secretly happy that it must be Belle had pissed him off.

Bitch, if even Calvin hates you, so what if you have the right to inherit the Harvey family house?!

It's easy for so many people to clean up such a woman.

The time she had to win Calvin's heart.

"Calvin, why get angry with that kind of woman? It's not worth it to damage your health. It's just that grandma gave her the right to inherit, go talk to grandma and ask her to find a way to take it back."

Lexie said softly, leaning towards his side, stretching out her hands to smooth his back, very gentle and considerate.

Calvin loosened the knot of his tie with his hand and took a few big sips from the glass of water on the table before he felt more comfortable.

He was pissed off by Belle that his mind was not very clear and his mood unsettled.

Even when Lexie wrapped her arms around him and talked to him, he did not notice her.

"Mrs. Harvey, do you really want to throw this down?" Upstairs Yanis' voice was timid.

Calvin lifted his head as he listened.

Yanis was standing by the rail with piles of his clothes in hand. The two young nannies from the housekeeping company were also each holding a pile of things and lining up behind them, while the two male security guards were standing arrogantly, expressionlessly.

And what made his anger even more was that Belle was standing by the railing, looking down at him from above, smiling coldly.

Calvin instantly had a bad feeling.