

Go After 204

Chapter 204

Belle had her arms around her chest, her soft hair draped over her shoulders, her face pale but unable to hide her unique beauty. She was staring at him with sharp eyes.

To be precise, she was squinting towards him and Lexie, who was wrapping her arms around Calvin's waist and clinging to him, her big eyes full of innocence and aggression.

Belle clenched her fists, and the light in her eyes grew colder and colder.

"Calvin, there are still three minutes left until twelve, listen, if you don't come up and move your stuff, I'm going to throw it all down." She held her head slightly high and looked coldly and disdainfully at Lexie and Calvin, saying without mercy.

Calvin was furious.

How dare she throw down his things?!

Lexie was surprised, her face full of aggression and fear, but her heart was bursting with joy.

If Belle had looked so pitiful, Calvin might have pestered her and made her happy, but now she was shrewish look, so Lexie thought Calvin would soon be annoyed.

Sure enough, Calvin turned pale and pointed his finger at Belle, saying hatefully, "If you dare to ask someone to throw my things down, I will not spare you."

Lexie was secretly happy, raised her face and saw Belle's eyes looking towards her, and they fell on her hand around Calvin's waist for a second. With a woman's intuition, she instantly understood what was going on, so she tightened her arms even more, went straight into Calvin's arms, shouting fearfully, "Calvin, she's so mean and violent, I'm scared."

Calvin was awakened by Lexie's movement, and when he looked down, his face turned pale. Lexie was already in his arms, and as he was about to push her away, he heard Belle say, "Throw it down."

In a flash, all those expensive suits in Yanis' hands flew towards the first floor lobby, scattering all over the floor.

"Quick, keep throwing." Belle ordered towards the two women at the back of the line.

A woman took a step closer holding something in her arms and flung them downwards with force.

At that very moment, Calvin's bags and shirts flew off and spilled all over the living room floor.

"Continue." After this nanny in front left, the nanny behind followed, and it was all Calvin's shoes, socks and so on, especially Calvin's beloved brand-name sneakers throwing down.

With a 'clatter', it all fell to the first floor, even his toothpaste and toothbrush were thrown down.

Calvin only felt a boom in his head, his eyes were filled with his clothes floating down the entire living room, his eyes went black and he almost passed out from anger.

“What is going on?” Paige walked in from outside with Jennifer, as she had just entered the doorway, she saw a black object flying right in front of her and screamed out in shock.

Luckily, the object fell straight onto the floor without hitting their heads.

It was a black leather shoe.

Paige was frozen, confused.

Jennifer screamed out. She saw the wretched state of the living room and realised that something bad had happened. Her daughter was sitting on the sofa pitifully, and she wondered if her daughter had a bad time.

She rushed towards Lexie, shouting, “Are you hurt?”

When she got closer, she found that her daughter was shivering in fear, hugging Calvin, her face was full of fear, but her eyes showed a bit of joy.

She had guessed the general situation!

With Calvin to protect her daughter, she certainly can't be hurt.

Since her daughter was protected, Jennifer, as a mother, would not be so foolish as to hug her and show her concern.

At that moment, she stood up and looked towards the living room.

Belle was standing upstairs with a couple of nannies looking at them coldly, while two men were standing at the stairway leering at them.

The corners of her mouth curled up and she would like to see Paige's reaction.

This woman had stirred up such a big mess, she believed that Paige would do something about it.

“What's going on?” Paige said sternly, taking a few steps closer and looking at the messy living room, her face instantly scarlet with anger.

Her son's stuff was all over the floor. Who has the guts to throw away her son's things? She is the parent, but someone has done such a ridiculous act without even asking her.

“Auntie, I threw it.” Belle's voice came down from the second floor, and Paige looked up in shock, only to see Belle was standing upstairs, full of awe.

It was clear in her mind, and the anger went straight to her head.

She promised Jennifer that she would accompany her to buy baby products for Lexie's child. When Belle raised that question in the morning, she didn't have time to think about it, let alone think that she would really do it, even throwing out her son and throwing away all his son's things like that.

If she hates Lexie, it is understandable, but now she is so indifferent and heartless to Calvin. Paige is angrier, not to mention that this behavior is aggressive, making the whole family unrest.

She looked at his son, who was sitting unhappily, and Lexie was clinging to him.

Her son has a lot of women to love him, and Belle is so reckless and not even put her in her eyes after she got the heritage from Sophia.

She was the head of the family, should Belle have to give her nod of approval for everything in this Fragrance Garden?

If she lets this kind of behaviour go unchecked, she will have no say in the family!

“Auntie, I’ve already told you this morning and told all the people, but some people just don’t cooperate, so don’t blame me for not being polite.” Belle gave her explanation.

“Mom, this woman is so unbelievable, she drove us all down, and what’s even more hateful is that she drove Calvin down too, just because Grandma is good to her.” Lexie did not want to let go of this opportunity to bring down Belle, loudly complaining towards Paige.

“You, you ...” Paige pointed at the two men standing at the entrance of the stairs, and the two women, as well as the wreckage all over the floor, she shouted angrily, “Belle, this is too much, even if they don’t move out, do you have to throw their things out? You’re a shrew in doing this! You live in the Harvey family, and you still dare to act so recklessly. If I don’t do something, the reputation of the Fragrance Garden will be ruined.”

There are rules and regulations in the Harvey Mansion, and there are also rules in the Fragrance Garden.

Paige cursed, and was about to get the butler here.

Calvin was awakened by Paige’s scolding.

When he raised his eyes and saw Jennifer’s overbearing face, a chill came over him, and his mind cleared completely.

This mother and daughter have no good intentions towards Belle, and they will not rest until they take the opportunity to stir up the Fragrance Garden and drive Belle away.

“Auntie, I am merely defending my legitimate rights. You are the head of the family, but I am not a member of your Harvey family, I think you should know this better than I do.” Belle took a few steps along the railing and said calmly, pointing to the two male bodyguards and speaking clearly, “Given that my living space is too complicated and dangerous, there are not only thieves, perverts, but also a group of people who want to hurt me at any time and want me to die, I have no choice but to hire these two bodyguards to protect myself. I hope you will understand that, from now on, they will be watching over me all day long, and if the situation requires, I will invite a few more.”

“What are you talking about? This is not the market place, there are plenty of security guards in the Harvey Mansion to protect you, do you still need to hire two men to guard the house? In this house, there are many women, but you have to hire male bodyguards to work here, it is out of place, I have to stop this.” Paige was furious, pointing at Belle and scolding her angrily, “Everyone’s family is harmonious, but you’re making the family hell.”

After saying that, she shouted towards the maid, “Kiara, go and ask Lennox to call for some security guards, first kick these two men out of Fragrance Garden.”

The maid who was watching the action left when she heard this.

“Come back.” Calvin spoke in a stern voice, and Kiara, who was about to leave, stopped in her tracks and looked at Paige.

“Calvin, look at the woman you love, she had made the house into a mess. Your clothes are all over the place. Does she have you in her eyes? I have to teach her a lesson, or we can’t have a peaceful life here.” Paige came closer to Calvin and said in a sorrow.

“That’s right, Mum, Calvin, this woman is so disrespectful, she doesn’t have you and Calvin in her eyes.” Lexie said beside her, fanning the flames.
