Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 1476-Jordy's words were incomparably clear.

Gloria heard it very clearly, and the next second, she looked toward him.

She didn't say a word, feeling confused.

She had made everything clear. Why did Jordy still stay here and say such words?

This was really killing her!

"Jordy."

Gloria had a black face and called his name in a low voice.

Jordy was earnest. "Gloria, I'm not joking."

Gloria was pissed off.

"Don't you know about the situation now? Jor..."

Gloria didn't want to argue with him any longer.

But before she could finish her words, she heard the sound of footsteps coming from far to near.

She looked up, seeing Joss and Quinto.

"I'll go first, take care of yourself." Gloria lowered her voice and reminded Jordy. Then she turned around immediately.

She could only remind him of this.

And, she could not stay with him for a long time later.

After she left, Joss started to talk about her.

He smiled ironically.

"Ernest, when did you get so close to this woman?"

Joss had held a grudge against Gloria since the last gambling game.

He had just returned here, too.

As soon as he arrived, he heard that the boss has made a big change in the club, and even tried to get rid of Violet.

When the news came through, he was surprised.

He didn't even expect that Gloria could actually make the boss make such a big change for her.

And ever since the gambling game last time, Jordy had been hating Joss and Quinto, especially Quinto.

"You... Now in the club, who else dares to disrespect her?"

Jordy was not so patient with Joss.

But when he reprimanded Joss, he thought of his current status again.

He was wearing the face of Ernest, and he was not sure about the relationship between Ernest and Joss. His plan had not yet started, so he could not let Joss find his disguise for the time being.

"You're right. Having been in the club for so many years, no one wants to leave."

Joss said with a wicked smile.

Jordy did not say anything more.

He also did not want to continue to waste time with Joss here.

He said lightly, "I have to go and do what the boss told me to do."

After saying that, Jordy turned around and headed out.

Jordy's words made Joss frown, and he turned his head, looked at Quinto next to him, and asked, "Quinto, did you notice that Ernest is more polite to us than before?"

Ernest was the principal of the club. Over these years, he never bowed to anyone, and never politely said to anyone.

On the contrary, they were respectful to Ernest.

So, Ernest's change of tone, in turn, let Joss feel strange.

Quinto was dull, and he said slowly, "Really? Is Ernest changed?"

He didn't notice anything strange.

Joss was instantly exasperated by him.

He glared at Quinto.

"You are so dull! Why did I choose you as my subordinate? You really piss me off!"

Furious, he was so angry that he viciously kicked Quinto twice, cursing as he did so.

Quinto dared not to resist and could only accept these.

When Joss had finished venting, he dared to ask in a whisper.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 1477-"Boss, then should I find someone to secretly follow him recently?"

At that, Joss gave Quinto another fierce kick.

'Are you mad? Find someone to follow Ernest? Don't you want to live anymore?"

Quinto did not answer, afraid that he would annoy Joss again.

Seeing him like this, Joss became angrier.

But he couldn't bear to hit Quinto again.

Quinto was picked by himself. He's already so stupid, and he would be even dumber if he's beaten and scolded more.

"Fk off!"

Joss angrily scolded, and Quinto dared not to say anything.

He could only follow what Joss said, bowed his head, and walked away.

Joss sighed. If he could have a helper like Harold, he would be much better than now.

Jordy had returned to Ernest's room.

The room was cleaned up, and he chose a few pieces of clothing.

It was the 9:00 a.m. flight tomorrow.

Harvie had arranged for a lot of people to go with him, but for the trip to Croatia, he was still very curious.

But he didn't find anything unusual in Ernest's phone.

Until...

The boss sent him a message.

Boss, "This time you must investigate everything carefully. Do not risk your life. I do not want to see Gloria fall into danger because of my people!"

This was Harvie's only request to Ernest.

Departure was imminent, and Jordy had been calm, but Gloria is very worried for Jordy.

Jordy knew that, so he was serious about this task.

He also intended to go there.

Departure was imminent. Jordy stayed calm, but Gloria was very worried for him.

But she could not run to him to say anything. If she called him, she could only call Ernest.

However, Harvie was still with her, so she could only push back her tension and pressure.

Harvie knew what she was thinking. "Gloria, what's wrong with you? Why are you so nervous?"

Gloria was a little surprised and raised her eyes to look at him. "Do I look nervous?"

She was just a little worried that Jordy would be found out.

However, her uneasiness was seen through by Harvie.

Harvie laughed, "If I didn't notice it, maybe I wouldn't say anything. But- Gloria, you seem to be hiding something from me."

Harvie noticed the sight of Gloria and noticed her staring at Ernest from time to time.

Harvie knew why she did that, so he asked before Gloria said anything, "Are you worried about Ernest? Or did you ask him to do something extra for you?"

Gloria felt there was a bomb exploded in her head.

She was surprised that Harvie was so perceptive.

But then again, how could he be the owner of Crockfords Club if he didn't even notice that?

She had to go along with his words and continue to talk.

She even smiled to cover her anxiety.

"I am indeed worried, but you have arranged everything. How can I ask him to do other things?"

Harvie smiled, "You can ask my men to do whatever you want. Because of you, Violet could stay here. If you think she is excellent, you can keep her."

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 1478-These words were heard clearly by Violet who was following behind them.

She was originally carrying her things with joy, but she suddenly changed her expression.

Her whole body started to become stiff from her hands to her feet

However, she couldn't say anything, nor could she do anything.

She could only look at Gloria and ask for her help.

How about Gloria?

Because of Harvie's words, she subconsciously glanced at Violet.

She knew Violet's heart, and she was not short of subordinates.

She wouldn't force Violet to do what she was unwilling to do.

She just shook her head and refused, "Uncle, I have many subordinates, and I also have something to tell Ernest. I'll be right back."

After saying that, Gloria took a step toward Jordy.

She was afraid that if she didn't go over, Jordy would set off on an errand. Although he was smart and perspicacious, he was disguising Ernest now! At the same time, she also wanted to leave space for her uncle and Violet.

Violet looked at Harvie in front of her, hesitated for a while, and finally gathered all her courage.

She made a clear statement. "Boss, I am willing to do anything for Miss White under your arrangement... Please let me stay by your side."

If she agreed and went to work for Gloria, the chances of her meeting with Harvie in the future would be very slim.

She could not improve their relationship under such circumstances.

Harvie put his hand behind his back and said with a serious look, "Since you choose to stay, then you should know that I do not like people who disobey my orders."

His voice was cold.

Violet knew what he hated and what he liked.

However, she had even thought of the worst possible outcome, how could she possibly stay away from Harvie since she could stay here?

Violet retorted, "I know you don't like people disobeying your orders, and I didn't mean to disobey you. I just want to keep my old position. Boss, after you knew my heart, you can refuse me, but please don't reject me so much. Don't drive me away from your side, OK?"

There were only a few trusted followers around him, and he didn't even have a woman around to take care of him at such an age.

Now that Gloria was here, he had more to worry about.

Harvie said, "What makes you think that? I never want to drive you or Ernest away unless you do something wrong which crosses my bottom line."

Harvie had made it clear.

Hearing that, Violet was too scared to raise her head.

"Gloria doesn't want you, and I can't force you through. But after this experience, I hope you won't do that outrageous and stupid thing again!"

"Yes."

Under Harvie's warning, Violet could only nod in agreement.

She did not dare to meet Harvie's eyes.

She just didn't expect that everything she did was outrageously stupid in the eyes of her boss.

She was sad, but she could not show it and ask anything.

Anyway, as long as the boss doesn't insist on kicking her out as he did before.

Even if it was impossible for them to be together, she would be satisfied as long as she could stay with him.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 1479-As for Gloria, she had already walked up to Jordy.

She deliberately lowered her voice and said, "Jordy, hurry up and get the real Ernest out while you can still escape unscathed!"

"Are you worried about me?" Hearing Gloria's words, Jordy suddenly narrowed his eyes.

His eyes fell on Gloria and she was observing her.

Gloria immediately rolled her eyes. "Not really. I just think you're risking your life. If you offend the club owner, you..."

"You might as well simply say that I have offended your uncle." Jordy interrupted Gloria directly.

Gloria was speechless.

She didn't expect Jordy to come up with such a sentence.

She disliked him even more.

"You are the one who made this kind of thing that offended others, and I am not targeting you deliberately!"

"I didn't think so." Jordy immediately refuted her words.

Gloria looked at his expression and also understood his attitude.

She didn't bother to care about him anymore. "If you are so insistent, then it's up to you. Anyway, you won't be a match for my uncle."

Gloria said and turned around to leave.

Harvie and Violet were not far away from there, so Jordy couldn't reach out to pull Gloria.

He just used his body to block Gloria.

He was moved that Gloria worried about him, and he admired the club owner.

However, it did not mean that he was afraid of him.

He said clearly, "Gloria, let me explain it this way. Even if I expose my identity in front of him, I am not afraid. You may ask why I have to wear that face of Ernest, right?"

Jordy asked himself rhetorically, but that was what Gloria wanted to ask.

Since he had already said it, she had nothing more to say.

However, Jordy did not stop talking.

He continued, "Don't treat me as a weak man, and I can easily solve all these things. You have helped me, so I will help you with all my heart and soul on your thing."

Jordy said these words with a firm look and a clear attitude.

Gloria looked at him and did not answer.

He had always been very powerful, and she had never underestimated him, but she didn't want him to put his life at risk.

If this were before, she would have been very moved by his words.

But now...

She didn't feel anything.

Everything was too late.

Probably as Jordy said, he did all this just because she had helped him.

The reason he did all this now was that he didn't want to owe her.

However, Gloria did not understand as Jordy thought.

'We don't owe each other anything.'

Jordy didn't think so.

He pursed his lips. "You have helped me get Misty Lucid Ganoderma, and you've helped me detoxify many times. Do you think we can call it even?"

She saved his life.

Gloria laughed, "What? Do you still want to be entangled with me all the time?"

Jordy was silent because of her words.

When he was about to say something, Gloria said, "Even if you do, I don't. Jordy, I don't need your help, so don't make things complex."

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 1480-Gloria was aware that Jordy was a man with a vision, but the issue at hand was that his plan was not suitable for the current situation.

Jordy frowned at her, questioning, "How do you know I'll make it worse? Do you truly think you know me, Gloria?"

Gloria was momentarily stunned.

She felt as though Jordy was quarrelling over petty matters with her, but before she could respond, Harvie approached them.

The depth of Harvie's eyes caused Gloria's heart to skip a beat.

Did he find something wrong?

This thought made her heartbeat quicken inexplicably.

Harvie called out to her once more, "Gloria, is everything okay?"

Gloria took a deep breath to calm herself, before answering shortly, "No."

And before turning to leave, she added, "Since you don't take advice, I won't say anything more. I hope you get what you want."

Gloria walked away without looking back at Jordy or uttering another word.

Jordy watched her retreating figure, feeling upset and with a heavy heart, although he couldn't explain why.

Gloria soon walked to Harvie's side.

Upon seeing her approach, Violet handed her a beautifully wrapped bag with a kind smile, saying, "Miss White, this is what you need for tonight's party."

Gloria examined the bag and immediately understood that it contained a dress for her to wear when thought of the party tonight that Harvie had mentioned.

She nodded, took the bag and headed to her room to change.

After she left, Harvie turned to Violet and instructed, "Inform Ernest and have him bring some people to follow us to the party tonight."

"Yes, sir!"

Violet replied and immediately set out to find Ernest, who was actually Jordy.

As Gloria were attending the party, Jordy was now pretending to be Ernest, so he also needed to attend the party.

Just as Jordy was briefing his men, he received a call from one of them in the basement.

The phone rang loudly, and the man made several calls in succession.

Jordy went into the washroom to answer the phone, turning on the tap for safety.

"Mr. Collins, something has happened! Ernest attempted suicide!"

The voice on the other end was urgent.

Jordy knew that Ernest wasn't genuinely trying to take his own life, but was merely trying to express his position.

Nevertheless, Jordy asked, "How is he now?"

"We caught him in time and prevented it. He's unable to eat or speak for the time being. Mr. Collins, his message is clear. If he doesn't see you today, he'll keep finding ways to kill himself."

The undercover henchman planted by Jordy conveyed Ernest's message truthfully.

Jordy said faintly, his eyes cold and deep. "I see."

Ernest was using this as leverage to force Jordy to appear, and if he was willing to go this far, he might take even more extreme measures next time.

Jordy looked at the time, tightened his mouth, and after a moment of silence, said slowly, "Tell him I'll be there later."

For the time being, he had to attend the party first.

The man nodded, but still urged Jordy, "Mr. Collins, you'd better hurry! Ernest is difficult to handle!"

"I know," Jordy replied with a cold expression and hung up the phone.

He walked out of the washroom just as Gloria had changed into her dress.

The little red short dress accentuated her fair skin and complemented her figure perfectly.
