

Remarriage? Never and Go Away! Chapter 26

Chapter 26 Going to the Bathroom After a Small Sip?

Jordy, George, and Carlos Green were brothers from another mother.

George was mercurial and short-tempered sometimes

Carlos came from a wealthy and powerful family and was mild-mannered and nice-looking yet cold-hearted.

They treated each other like family.

“I found the necklace my mom used to wear.”

Jordy looked up at George and said nothing.

Carlos exclaimed, “Oh, finally.”

George scowled, “But now it’s on a hateful woman! I lost to her! Damn it!”

“Get to the point,” said Jordy in a deep voice.

Jordy and Carlos both knew how important that necklace was to George.

George gritted his teeth and told the whole story.

Carlos scoffed, “So it’s important to her too? Something that belonged to her mother?”

George snarled through his gritted teeth, “Bullshit! She was lying! But I tricked her into competing with me. I deserved it. Otherwise, how could I have let her get a helper? Who would have thought she’d get such a good one?”

“Even an international racing driver is no match for her!”

Jordy was surprised that George spoke highly of a woman.

George suddenly looked at Jordy. “She’s as good as you! How could I win the game?”

Carlos chuckled, “That’s funny.”

Jordy looked indifferent and said nothing. He got up and walked out.

George raised an eyebrow, looked after Jordy, and said, "Are you going to the bathroom after a little drink? Is there something wrong with you? Why don't you ask Carlos to give you a check-up? What if it will cost you your future happiness?"

Jordy gave him a cold look, opened the door, and left.

Before he reached the corner, an urgent voice suddenly rang out.

"Gloria, what are you thinking? Since you're divorced, why don't you give him a chance?"

Jordy stopped in his tracks.

Just around the corner, Gloria's voice rang out again. "I'm a divorced woman. He's kind of out of my league."

Jordy recognized the voice and changed color. It was Gloria!

She's going through a divorce, but she's ready to get another man! Damn it!

Nydia continued anxiously, "What are you talking about, honey? He's been into you for five years. If you hadn't married the wrong man, you'd have been very happy now!"

Jordy's mouth tightened into a thin line. Happy? She's too vain to gain happiness no matter who she decides to marry.

"Nydia..." Gloria said resignedly.

"Why do you avoid him? You can't stay outside all the time. We're holding this party to celebrate your divorce. It's all about you. Let's hurry back."

"Nydia, I..."

"There, there!"

Nydia took Gloria's hand and pulled her back into the box.

Jordy didn't come out of the corner until the door was closed. He looked coldly at the door to the box and clenched his fists.

Gloria!

Gloria!

Before you can get a divorce, you're still Mrs. Collins. If some nasty words get out, I'm gonna kill you!

At this thought, Jordy went straight to her box! He wanted to see who was stupid enough to have a crush on Gloria!

Remarriage? Never and Go Away! Chapter 27

Chapter 27 Can't You Just Get the Paperwork Moving?

There came a loud bang!

Gloria entered the box and still felt embarrassed. Suddenly all the people there heard some noises and looked towards the door.

A tall, handsome man in a tailored suit barged in. He exuded immense superiority and a pervading dignity.

He cast his freezing aura over the place, and his sharp eyes swept all the people there.

Gloria frowned. What is he doing here?

Jordy was shocked to see a large bouquet of roses sitting beside Gloria.

He sneered, "It seems that you can't wait to see your lover."

Bryson's warm eyes turned cold. Before he could speak, Gloria snapped, "Jordy, watch your mouth!"

Jordy stared at her gloomily. "Gloria, you and I are in the process of getting a divorce. You should not be here with your lover. Have you ever considered how it may make me feel?"

Anger choked Gloria's words. Nydia glared at Jordy and shouted, "Jordy, what the hell are you doing here? You gave Gloria the cold shoulder when she gave up everything to be a stay-at-home wife. You've already signed the divorce papers. Are you going back on it? Do you think this is funny?"

Nydia was outspoken. She didn't care if Jordy was powerful or not.

She could not watch him bully Gloria!

Jordy behaved more oppressively!

All the people there couldn't help holding their breaths.

Bryson rose to his feet, stood in front of Gloria, and said coldly, "Mr. Collins, you're a well-known decisive leader. Just let her go, or people may call you a laughingstock."

“A laughingstock?” Jordy’s sharp eyes fell on Bryson’s face as he scoffed, “What’s wrong with you, young man? Are you proud of getting between us?”

Bryson’s face dropped. “Mr. Collins, don’t be so mean! Gloria is finally free from the horrible marriage. Stop pestering her! Otherwise, things will get worse and greatly affect the Collins Group.”

“If I were that weak, my company would go out of business long ago,” Jordy said with heavy irony.

Gloria took Bryson by the arm. “Bryson.”

Gloria took Bryson by the arm. “Bryson.”

Powerful as the Lloyd family was, it might find it hard to compete with the Collins family. Even if they were on a par with each other, Gloria didn’t want Bryson to risk anything for her.

Bryson turned his head and saw Gloria shake her head at him and come out from behind him.

Jordy watched this and his face darkened. He clutched Gloria’s arm and pulled her out.

Jordy! Enough!”

Nydia’s angry voice came from behind Gloria. Gloria turned her head and shook her head at them. “Just a moment. I want some personal space to handle this. I’ll be right back.”

With that, she went straight out after Jordy.

Later, they stopped at a corner. Gloria failed to wrench herself free and frowned, “I’m not leaving. Let go of What is it? Say it.”

She wondered why she couldn’t avoid him!

In the past, she did everything she could for attention, but he always refused to see her. Now she tried everything to avoid him but failed. She hated this evil twist of fate.

Jordy threw her hand away and grew black as a thunder cloud. “Gloria, I’ve told you more than once that you’re still my wife before our marriage ends! If you dare to fool around with men again, you’ll be sorry!”

Gloria looked up at him impatiently. 'Can't you just get the paperwork moving?'

Remarriage? Never and Go Away! Chapter 28

Chapter 28 It's All Over Twitter!

Jordy was boiling with anger.

Gloria continued angrily. "I've been waiting for you to call me. Let's go to the court together. If you skipped a meal with her, we might get divorced now. And you don't have to worry about your company's reputation and interests every day."

"You..."

Jordy gnashed his back teeth. "Gloria, you think I don't want a divorce? Grandma has been crying and begging me not to divorce you!"

Gloria froze for a moment.

She remembered that Karen had called her before, saying that she wanted to find her a better man.

"The Collins Group and the Brown Group are competing for a project. When it's over, I'll divorce you. Gloria, lay low just for a month!"

Any bad news would be held against Jordy. His reputation as a good husband could not be ruined.

Gloria scoffed, "I don't see what this has to do with me. It's not my company. Can I get half of $10 billion?"

Jordy's eyes flashed sarcastically. "You are a vain woman!"

Gloria sneered, "If you don't agree with me, think of how impatient you were when I begged you to see me."

Jordy frowned and stared at her cold face.

The next moment, he flew into a rage!

"Mr. Collins, I don't want to see you. I just hope you can stop pestering me."

"I pester you? Gloria, you cheeky woman!" Jordy shouted with a nasty smile, but the smile didn't touch his cold eyes.

Gloria didn't bother to talk to him anymore but turned and strode towards the box.

Jordy looked after her coldly. "Gloria, don't cause trouble, or I'll take down the Lloyd Group!"

Gloria paused and then returned to the box.

Jordy was left alone in the empty corridor.

His fists clenched and his thin lips tightened into a line. His eyes were burning as if the next moment the box would be burnt to the ground,

Gloria was now sitting back on the couch.

Bryson looked at Gloria with eyes full of pity. "Gloria, did he do anything to you?"

If Gloria hadn't insisted, Bryson might have gone up there.

Gloria shook her head and smiled, "What could he do to me? The country is ruled by law."

Nydia gritted her teeth. "I've never seen Jordy like this before! What an ass!"

Jennifer grabbed Gloria's hand. "Honey, divorcing him is the right thing to do! You should find a man like Bryson!"

Jennifer's voice was a little dry when the last few words came out of her mouth.

Bryson sighed, his deep eyes flashing, "Gloria, I shouldn't have brought you roses today. You're getting divorced and may not get over him yet. But I can wait. I'll always be there for you."

You can count on me.

He didn't let those words pass his lips.

Gloria batted her eyelids and felt touched by his kindness to her. Since she got married, she had been estranged from her male friends. She felt ashamed enough to know that Bryson was still waiting for her to leave Jordy. She opened her mouth as if to respond to him, but Bryson chimed in.

"Gloria, you don't have to worry about how I feel. I'm quite content to know there's still a chance."

"Hey, you two are not alone together. We're still here," Nydia teased, and Jennifer echoed and blinked away despondence in her eyes.

Gloria shook her head. "I'm not thinking about this. We're friends, but don't try to persuade me anymore."

Jennifer blinked and nodded, "Alright, let's drink then! Keep the party popping, guys!"

Nydia played upbeat music as if what followed was just a celebration.

Two hours later, the party came to an end.

Bryson offered Gloria a ride home, but she rejected.

Unbeknownst to all of them, Gloria became one of the top trending hashtags on Twitter!

Remarriage? Never and Go Away! Chapter 29

Chapter 29 Do Not Fall Into His Trap!

Karen was still wondering who was good enough for Gloria. She picked up her phone to do some online research,

Unexpectedly, a piece of news popped up.

"Mrs. Collins is in the passenger seat of the car of Mr. Brown, president of the Brown Group."

Karen's eyes widened!

Jonathan?

He was a playboy. Karen rarely watched the news, but she knew he had many women around him! He was not good enough for Gloria!

Is it literally a clickbait?

With that in mind, she clicked the headline.

In the picture, Gloria was getting out of Jonathan's car! Their faces could be seen clearly.

How did this happen?

Karen called Gloria immediately!

"Sorry, please hold the line. The subscriber you dialed is busy now..."

Karen hung up the phone. Her face clouded over with worry.

Gloria, meanwhile, was on the phone with Nydia.

Gloria frowned slightly when she heard Nydia's excited voice. "Why are you shouting late at night? You sang a lot at the club just now."

"Aaaaaaargh! You're with somebody else, right? This is happening too fast. Bryson must be sad!"

Gloria frowned slightly, "What are you talking about?"

"Honey, stop playing dumb. It's all over Twitter. It's inundated with hashtags, 'Mrs. Collins is in Jonathan's car?' You're a trending topic!"

Gloria was puzzled.

She remembered what happened that day. Why is it trending today? Is Jonathan behind the back?

Gloria was stunned when Karen's call came in again. She already knew the reason and said, "Jordy's grandmother is on the line. I'll call you later."

Nydia knew Karen was kind to Gloria and said in a dull voice, "Okay, tell me more about the news later!"

"Come on, go to bed!"

Gloria answered the phone. Things went just as she had expected.

"Gloria, I know you're upset and might want to find some guy to relieve the pain, but Jonathan isn't a good choice."

"Grandma."

Before Gloria could continue, Karen chimed in anxiously, "I am saying this not because the Collins family is going against the Brown family. I truly hope you have a happy life, but Jonathan won't make that happen. He's a playboy!"

Gloria felt warm. No matter what happened, Karen still cared for her.

“He goes after you because of your pretty face and beautiful body. You must not fall into his trap! I’m finding you a good man. You’re not seeing him again, okay?”

Gloria felt moved and tried not to laugh.

“Don’t worry, Grandma. It’s not what you think. Jonathan and I have some business to talk about. That’s why we’re in touch.”

“Really...?” Karen asked suspiciously. Gloria interrupted her before she could continue.

“Yes, Grandma. I’ve put my love life aside.” Gloria sounded dejected. Even if she didn’t say it right out, Karen knew her grandson hurt her feelings.

After a pause, Gloria spoke, “Grandma, you don’t have to worry about me...”

Remarriage? Never and Go Away! Chapter 30

Chapter 30 What Are You Doing in My House?

All right.

Actually, Karen didn’t mean it. She would not stop until she found Gloria the best man in the world!

They talked for a while and then hung up.

Gloria clicked on Twitter

Although she was not a star, she often found herself a trending topic on Twitter.

Norma, her fake online identity, and Jordy were also the most discussed topics.

Gloria and Jordy attended parties and events, which did much good to the company. This was also to make sure that they were a loving couple in the public’s eye. She loved him and was willing to cooperate with him. Only on those occasions did she feel that she married a good man...

But now things changed.

Rumors about Gloria and Jonathan were circulating, which might have a detrimental effect on the Collins Group

After all, everyone knew that Jordy and Jonathan were bitter enemies that would never be reconciled.

“Oh, my gosh. Big news! How can Mrs. Collins and Mr. Brown be together? Is there something going on between them?”

“No way! Mr. Collins and Mrs. Collins are a sweet couple. They’re always together. Mr. Collins is so gentle! This must be Mr. Brown’s way of dealing with Mr. Collins. After all, the two have been at odds for a long time.”

Gloria raised an eyebrow when she read this comment. The picture appeared sharp and clear and was posted blatantly. She never thought that it was captured by the paparazzi.

Jonathan must have done this on purpose.

But Gloria didn’t care.

However, others might do.

Two hours later

Gloria was almost asleep when her cell phone buzzed.

She opened her drowsy eyes and scowled at the screen. It was a call from Jordy. She knew why he made this call. She was in no mood to answer it and hung up.

Jordy sat in the car, his face as gloomy as a thunderstorm.

He called her again, but no one answered.

Finally, Gloria turned her phone off!

Bam!

Jordy hit the steering wheel hard. Gloria, how dare you!

He warned her today not to see Bryson anymore, but unexpectedly, she went to Jonathan.

The next moment, Jordy got out of the car and headed straight for her door!

Gloria felt better after she turned off the phone. She closed her eyes and quieted her mind.

For the three years, she had been waiting for Jordy to come every night. She was so lucky that she didn’t get sick.

Now... she let the past go and had a peaceful night's sleep every day. She felt pretty good physically.

The doorbell rang. Gloria opened her eyes. Who is it?

There came a loud Bang!

Someone kept knocking on the door and ringing the doorbell.

Gloria walked up to the door, checked the video doorbell, and saw a handsome, cold face.

Gloria's face changed. She was wondering if it was a criminal, but now it turned out to be a Jordy, that bastard!

Bam!

Bam!

Bam!

"Gloria, I know you're in there. Open the door, or I'll let the whole neighborhood know I'm here!"

Jordy kept thumping the door.

"Are you out of your mind? What are you doing here at this late hour?" Gloria took a deep breath and continued, "I'm not opening the door. Just go."

She was answered with a loud bang!

It was too noisy. Her neighbor opened the door to see what was happening.

"Who is it? Can't you be quiet at this hour?"