Chapter 291

Chapter 291 Angela Gives Gloria A Hard Time

If it was before, Sara might not have thought of this, but given what happened at Karen's birthday party, she knew that Angela and Gloria's relationship must not be good. Although Angela seemed to be nice to Gloria, she was ostracizing Gloria.

And Gloria was not favored by her family now. Since Angela wanted to promote Sara, Sara had to complete the task Angela gave her. Then, she curled her lips and put on a malicious smile.

She had a few cases that would give Gloria a hard time and let her back down. By now, she had gone back to her office and was ready to come up with the proposals.

Sheila waved her hand at Gloria and said, "Miss White, over here."

Gloria looked over at the voice and found a sweet-looking girl smiling and greeting her. She looked at the girl, who was pointing to an empty seat next to her. Then, Gloria stepped toward her.

Sheila stared at Gloria with an admiring look in her eyes. She pleaded, "Usually, I'm the one who arranges the seats for new employees. Miss White, could you please sit here?"

Sheila had beautiful, bright dark eyes. Gloria took an instant liking to the girl. Then she smiled as she nodded and said, "Sure."

There were many employees looking in their direction. And some of them were even looking at Gloria.

Although Gloria was divorced, it didn't affect her beauty and her hot body. She looked even more attractive in a business suit.

Although Sheila admired Gloria and wanted to have a few words with her idol, she had to start a brief introduction with Gloria according to the company's procedure.

"Miss White, I guess you understand the process of our department. We are mainly responsible for talking to other business partners about cooperation. When we talk about a project, a professional will go out to a dinner party with someone from our department. The professionals are responsible for talking about the important details of the project, and we are responsible for getting to the point and then finding ways to persuade the partner to agree to work with our company."

"Everyone has a hundred points when they first join the company. And the company will assess everyone's performance every month. As a newcomer, you should at least successfully handle five projects in the first month, complete eight projects in the second month, and complete ten projects in the third month. Later, you will have to complete more than 10 projects every month.

If you complete one project less, you will be deducted ten points. If you lose all your points, you will have to resign.”

Gloria nodded, “Okay.”

Seeing that she should have understood the system in advance, Sheila smiled and said, “Well...Miss White, you should familiarize yourself with the process today. I will give you a few recordings to listen to, so you can get to know the negotiation process. Then, I will also arrange for you to follow the experienced staff of our department to learn on the spot.”

Gloria still nodded her head and realized that this was indeed the normal process. She was not in a hurry to finish the task now either. Then she and Sheila added each other’s work WhatsApp accounts. When she saw a few recording files, she clicked on one of them and started listening

When Gloria had just listened a few minutes, Sara, the assistant manager, walked towards Gloria with a file in her hand.

Many people watched as Sara walked toward Gloria.

Gloria slowly looked up and saw that Sara had walked up to her and tapped her on the shoulder. “Miss White, because you are different from other employees and have to go through certain tests. Today, Miss White told me that you are going to manage the White Group and be a member of the executives, so...”

Chapter 292 This Is an Order

Sara smiled and said, “Miss White wants me to help you gain experience and make sure you don’t have to worry about anything in the future. So I may have to give you some difficult tasks later on. I don’t know if you’d be willing to accept it.”

If it weren’t for Gloria, they would have called Angela Miss White, but since Gloria worked here, they would have called Angela Manager to distinguish between them. Sheila was a little surprised. “But Miss White just came to work here today. I just sent her some recordings.”

Sara glanced at Sheila. If Sara were to be promoted as the manager, she guessed that Sheila would be the assistant manager. Sara just looked at Gloria with a smile and said, “Miss White, you are different from other ordinary employees. Besides, Miss White has high expectations from you, so you should think about taking on a difficult task. And you will still follow the company’s rules and regulations to complete the following tasks.”

Sara looked humble, but she was making things difficult for Gloria. Sara made it impossible for Gloria to refuse her offer by saying things that flattered Gloria.

Gloria didn’t mind taking on difficult tasks and would work hard to accomplish them.

At this point, all the employees in the office looked at Gloria and wondered if she would accept her offer.

Some were already worried about her.

“You’re going to give Miss White a harder assignment and still follow the company’s rules and regulations.” Sheila reiterated. She looked a little nervous and looked at Gloria with a worried look in her eyes.

That sounded scary!

Sara smiled and nodded. “That’s right. Miss White, you still have to complete five tasks in the first month and eight tasks in the second month. After that, you will have to complete ten tasks each month, but each task will be more difficult.”

m

Therefore, there were no regular employees in this company, but the benefits and paycheck attracted many people willing to work here through competition.

Everyone looked at Gloria, and there was a clear look of concern in their eyes.

Given Sara’s words, it was clear that Gloria’s next task was going to be very difficult.

However, Gloria had never worked in this industry before and had been a housewife for several years. If she accepted Sara’s offer, wouldn’t Gloria be kicked out soon after she joined the company? And the other employees guessed she wouldn’t last two months here.

Under everyone’s gaze, Gloria nodded lightly and said, “I’ll take it.”

Sheila’s eyes widened as she said, “Miss White, you...”

However, she shut up after saying just one word. She guessed this was probably Gloria’s intention.

Sara suddenly smiled and said, “Well, Miss White, I will assign all of your tasks in the future. This is your next first task. You check out the documents first. Then you choose a time to negotiate with the business partner.”

Looking at the documents handed over by Sara, Gloria looked calm and took them over.

Then Sara smiled at Sheila and said, “Sheila, please talk to Miss White about the details. You will lead Miss White through the basic information, but you will not help her in any other way. Do you understand? I don’t think Miss White will let you help her either.”

Sara’s words sounded easygoing and friendly, but it seemed that Sara was giving Gloria an order.

Sheila could only obey the order and nodded her head. “Okay...”

Then, Sara nodded in satisfaction and said, “Then let’s get back to work.”

After saying that, Sara went out. And the manager and assistant manager had their own offices.

Sheila looked at Gloria with some concern and said, “Miss White, why didn’t you say anything just now? The task that the assistant manager is going to assign to you will surely be difficult to accomplish.”

Chapter 293

Chapter 293 Could You Introduce the Process to Me?

Gloria just laughed and said, “Miss Walsh, you’re right. Angela is doing this for my own good. I'll give it a try."

Everyone looked stunned. Although Gloria's words sounded casual, her words sounded very meaningful.

Angela had given Gloria difficult tasks in order to make her more capable. However, if the task were too difficult to complete, how could Gloria, as a newcomer, finish it? And she also had to follow the regulations to complete the following tasks. If her scores were all deducted, she would be kicked out of the company.

How could she return to the White Group in the future?

Therefore, she would be even less likely to manage the White Group, because she would not be qualified Isn't Angele doing this to keep Gloria away from the White Group and prevent her from getting any dividends?

For a moment, the look on the faces of the other employees seemed to become a bit more complicated

However, some people believed in Angela from the beginning to the end, while some felt that it had nothing to do with them.

Sheila was very simple-minded and did not think that much at all. Then she sighed helplessly and said, "Why don't you open the documents and see what your assignment is? I'll tell you what to do with it."

"Thanks," Gloria said and then opened the documents.

When she saw the two most dazzling words, Gloria froze.

"Isn't Mr. Collins personally in charge of this project?" Sheila froze. She couldn't help but say.

A girl across from Gloria looked surprised and said, "Oh my God! Miss White, you're divorced from Mr. Collins. How can you manage to deal with him?"

Gloria frowned slightly and then looked at Sheila. "Jordy is in charge of the project himself?"

Everyone else called Jordy Mr. Collins, but Gloria naturally called him by his first name. Some of the female employees couldn't help but feel a little envious. Even though Gloria and Jordy were divorced, the two of them did share some memories, so she could call him by his name.

However, what people were more concerned about was that there was a feud between the two. And Gloria even made Jordy lose tens of billions of dollars last time. Therefore, how could Jordy agree to work with her?

Sheila hurriedly nodded and said, "Yes."

Looking at Gloria with a slight frown, Sheila said again, "Miss Walsh and Miss Johnson both have some projects in their hands, but these are projects that we basically are not able to complete, so they are in charge of these projects. I didn't think Miss Walsh would assign you such a difficult project in the first place..."

The others couldn't help but say, "Don't you have to complete five projects a month?"

How about you just give up on this one? Then, you can go to ask Miss Walsh to assign another project for you? After all, even if she were to assign you a difficult task, it shouldn't involve your personal affairs."

Someone couldn't help but retort, "Don't you think your words sound contradictory? Business is business. And I've heard that Mr. Collins has never been one to implicate his personal life with business."

"If Miss White can complete this task, she'll prove herself!" The girl said with a sneer. Her name was Jolene Barrow, a fan of Jordy's. Jolene had wanted to work for Collins Group, but the recruiting criteria were too strict, so she wasn't hired. When she suddenly saw Jordy's ex-wife, she couldn't help herself and wanted to target Gloria. "Well..." Sheila was in a dilemma. She looked like she had concerns for Gloria. And Gloria looked at her with a smile. "Could you introduce the process to me?"

Chapter 294

Chapter 294 It's Time to Go See Jordy

Sheila could only nod. "Okay."

She then picked up the document and said to Gloria, "First, you need to understand the project and find out who made this proposal. Then go talk to him privately and negotiate with the client. Here."

Sheila pointed to a name and a contact number on the document.

"Sean Gray wrote this proposal. You can talk to him. As for how to go about getting Mr. Collins to sign the contract...well, it's not something I can help you with."

Sheila's colleagues negotiated with Jordy before, but their efforts were in vain.

That led her to know that Mr. Collins was taking personal charge of this project.

Sheila went into details about it, and Gloria nodded. "Thank you, Sheila."

"No biggie, it's the least I can do. You have to follow it up and talk to Mr. Collins. It's actually hard work." Sheila shook her head helplessly and had an intuition that Gloria would fail.

Gloria asked softly, "Is there any time limit for each project?"

"Nope, but you have to cut five deals this month."

"Did Mr. Collins read this proposal?"

"Yes, but he didn't approve it. Sean revised it, but Mr. Collins didn't have the patience to read it."

The crowd cast a sympathetic glance at Gloria.

It was a very difficult project, and Jordy rejected the proposal. Now Gloria was assigned to it.

She was in a tough spot.

Jordy was taking personal charge of this project, which made it clear how much he cared about it.

Anyway, it was a tough job for Gloria. The crowd seemed to have all kinds of complicated feelings towards her.

Gloria nodded. "Can I make some changes to the proposal?"
"You have to talk to Sean first. By the way, you can't change the cost or profit. You know, keep the cost down and boost the profit at no cost to our company's reputation."
Sheila looked at Gloria sympathetically.
"Got it," Gloria responded briefly and buckled down to the proposal.
As Sheila introduced the project, Gloria skimmed through the proposal and found some problems with it. No wonder Jordy rejected it.
Next, Gloria needed to talk with someone in charge.
She dialed Sean's number.
Sean was quick to answer, "Hello, who is that speaking?"
"Hello, I'm from the Foreign Ministry of the White Group, responsible for the wedding project you designed. I'd like to talk to you about this. Do you have any time available?"
Sean fell silent and paused for a moment before he spoke as if to confirm something.
"Mr. Collins rejected my proposal, and he won't want a new version of it. You still want a talk?"
Gloria began to ponder over his words.
Sara is doing everything she can to help Angela keep me out of the White Group, isn't he?
How can I get to work with this rejected proposal?
Gloria spoke calmly, "I want to make some changes to your proposal. Do you think it's okay?"
"Have it your own way." With that, Sean hung up, thinking that she was kidding him.
Gloria put down the phone, took out a flash drive from the folder, opened Sean's file, and began to revise it on the computer.
She was quite productive. She perfected every key part in half of a day. Next, she was going to talk to Jordy.

Remarriage Never And Go Away

Chapter 295

Chapter 295 It's Like Robbing Banks

Gloria felt as if it were one of life's little ironies. She used to call Jordy a lot, asking him when he was coming home for dinner.

Coincidentally, she was now calling him to ask if he was available for dinner.

She hesitated for a moment and called Jordy's assistant.

Harold was a little surprised to get a call from Gloria.

Jordy and Gloria divorced, but Harold did not delete her number because he thought they did not make a break clean.

Harold answered the phone immediately.

"Miss White?"

Gloria spoke softly, "Harold, this is Gloria White from the Foreign Ministry of the White Group. I've revised the wedding plan that Mr. Collins rejected. Does Mr. Collins have any time available? I'd like to invite him to dinner."

Harold was a little surprised. Mr. Collins is available tonight.

But he didn't dare to tell her. He could only speak softly, "Mr. Collins is in a meeting. I'll let him know about it after the meeting."

"Okay."

With that, they ended the conversation.

Gloria turned to Sheila and said, "Can I ask Ms. Walsh for a few more projects?"

Sheila thought Gloria found it hard to finish the one at hand and spoke with some sympathy, "Yeah, but I guess she will surely give you another tougher than this one..."

Gloria smiled weakly, "I know, but I can't keep trying if Jordy rejects my proposal this time."

Sheila thought Gloria had a point and nodded. She then sorted through the files and said, "I'm going to her office. Let me try, but I'm not sure I can get you some easy ones."

Gloria nodded gratefully. "Thanks."

Half an hour later.

Sheila returned with four folders in her hand.

She looked at Gloria and said with some embarrassment, "Miss White, according to Ms. Walsh, you have to complete these five projects, including the one you're working on before asking for more."

Gloria did not grumble but took the folders. "Thank you."

Sheila ventured with mixed feelings, "Ms. Walsh really wants to train you. Miss White, you can check the files now."

"You can call me Gloria," Gloria spoke softly as she opened one of the folders.

"Sure!" Sheila was a little surprised, but the next moment she spoke with concern, "I don't know if you keep working here. Gloria, I like you so much. I am your biggest fan!"

Sheila's words made Gloria laugh in spite of herself. She then began to read the second proposal.

It was a collaborative project with the Brown Group. It was even more difficult than the one she was working on

Even if she was sort of a friend of Jonathan's, this project seemed unlikely to succeed.

This project needed an investment of hundreds of billions of dollars from the Brown Group in the early stage, which was quite risky. If it succeeded, it would be a win-win situation. But if it failed, Jonathan would lose his shirt in this deal.

Hundreds of billions of dollars. It's a lot of money.

Gloria chuckled mockingly. It's like robbing banks.

The White Group wanted a huge cash injection from the Brown group and a piece of the pie at no cost.

Gloria closed her eyes and then open them to read the next proposal.

This was another collaborative project with a good company. The White Group was trying the same trick to get a cash injection.

Gloria frowned and turned her eyes to look at Sheila. "Do you know about these two projects?"

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 296

Remarriage Never And Go Away

Chapter 296

Chapter 296 The Answer Is No

Sheila looked doubtful. "Nope..."

Gloria smiled sarcastically, "That's right."

Sheila's face changed slightly. "How strange! These projects seem unlikely to succeed, Gosh, Gloria..."

Sheila left her sentence hanging.

Their colleagues around all looked at them.

Gloria read the last two project proposals which also aimed to profit the White Group itself by attracting investment. Her eyes gleamed with great contempt.

These proposals were all shot down, though they did no harm to the White Group. It was clear that the White Group was taking advantage of its potential partners.

These proposals were not restarted until Gloria joined the company. Angela was trying to use them to embarrass her and scare her off.

Angela is plotting against me!

If Gloria complained bitterly about these difficult projects, Angela would deliberately mislead everyone into believing that she was incapable.

And no one would say anything against Angela, who seemingly expected Gloria to do a good job.

Gloria's eyes were ablaze with disdain. No matter how difficult it was, she would grit her teeth and go through it. If these five projects succeeded, people would admire her ability.

She glanced at Sheila and asked, "Sheila, do we have a chat group for work?"

"Oh, yes! I just forgot it. I'll add you to it."

Gloria nodded and soon joined the group.

Sheila spoke softly

Before Gloria got a reply from Jordy, she read these four proposals and contacted their designers, all of whom found her call a bit weird and granted her permission to make some revisions.

The first proposal she was going to revise was the one related to the Brown Group.

The Collins Group.

After the meeting, Jordy walked out of the conference room. Harold came to him and said, "Mr.

Collins, Miss White just called me."

Jordy frowned slightly as if he were getting impatient, refusing to say a word.

Harold could only continue, "She now works at the Foreign Ministry of the White Group.

She called to invite you to dinner and have a talk about the wedding project you rejected."

Jordy stared blankly at Harold and asked, "The Foreign Ministry? Angela is head of auditing, isn't she?”

Harold reacted instantly and explained, “I mean Miss Gloria White.”

Jordy’s eyes flashed with disdain. “The wedding project?”

Harold touched the tip of his nose. “Yes.”

Jordy snorted, “No time for that. Not at all.”

Harold guessed it right. There was a 50% chance that Jordy would reject Gloria’s invitation. Harold responded, “Got it.”

Right after that, he took out his phone and called Gloria, with Jordy right beside him.

Soon, a female voice rang out, and Jordy’s attention was drawn to it.

“Sorry, Miss White, Mr. Collins has been following up on a few projects recently and has no time for yours,” Harold said apologetically.

Gloria paused for a split second before speaking, “Please tell Mr. Collins that I believe he’ll never let the personal color the professional. He rejected this proposal before. Now I’ve made some improvements. I’m sure he’ll like it. It’s a win-win opportunity.”

Chapter 297

Chapter 297 Gloria’s Coming Out!

A dismissive snort reached her ears. She paused and then realized that Jordy was right beside Harold.

Harold glanced at Jordy. Seeing that he had no intention of speaking, Harold spoke hurriedly to Gloria, “Okay, I’ll let him know.”

Harold hung up the phone, hesitated for a moment, and then looked at Jordy. “Mr. Collins, are you sure you don’t want to work with Miss White?”

Jordy snapped with heavy sarcasm, “The project isn’t working. Gloria is now in charge of it. She made me lose so much money. Why should I work with her?”

Harold said nothing. Jordy continued in a cold voice, “Go find out why she returns to the White Group.”

“Yes, sir.”

Gloria’s phone buzzed just after Harold hung up on her.

She glanced at the number that was flashed up on the screen and then answered the phone.

Without waiting for her to speak, Jonathan said gently, “You’re now working at the White Group?”

“Yeah.”

“I’ll pick you up from work then.” Jonathan’s voice was tender and husky.

Gloria chuckled, “You’re not afraid that I’ll get you into trouble, Mr. Brown?”

Jonathan raised an eyebrow. “Well, I’d like that.”

Gloria smiled and checked her watch. “I want to talk about a project. You’re gonna pay a lot of money for it.” Jonathan chuckled and said softly, “It’s the first time I’ve heard someone talk business like this.” Business interests brought businessmen together. Gloria sounded serious. It was not a joke. Jonathan wanted to spoil her. “Making you happy is worth every penny.” That amused Gloria. “I have made changes to the proposal. If you have time for dinner tonight, my treat.” “There’s no reason to let girls pay the bill. I’ll go pick you up now.” “No need, let’s get a reservation first. I’ll just go there by myself.” “Wait for me.” They hung up the phone. Sheila looked at Gloria and asked with some surprise, “Gloria, was it Mr. Brown..?” Gloria smiled, “Yes.” Sheila and Gloria worked at the Foreign Ministry, responsible for phone calls. They didn’t need to leave their desks to answer the phone. Sheila’s eyes flashed. Jonathan seems to be on very good terms with Gloria recently, but... will he inject hundreds of billions of dollars into the company for that? Will Mr. Brown do so? Sheila could not help but sigh inwardly and spoke to Gloria, “Gloria, you can do it.” Gloria only responded with a smile. Soon, it was time to leave work. Jonathan arrived outside the company. His sapphire suit matched the Lamborghini in the same color. He leaned against the car, hands in his trouser pockets. He was gorgeous and noble-looking like a prince, far above all ordinary people. His elegance and nobility were unique, attracting the eyes of the people around him... Jonathan was looking in the direction of the gate. His eyes never turned to them. He was waiting for someone, The chat group was deluged with messages! Planning Department Bertha said, “Mr. Brown never showed up at our company like this before. Everyone knows who he’s waiting for!” Planning Department-Lauren screamed, “Aaaaaaargh! I’m so jealous of Gloria! She’s a lucky woman!” Foreign Ministry-Jacqueline said, “I’m right at the door staring at them!” Foreign Ministry-Jacqueline went on, “Gloria is coming out!”

Chapter 298 A Beautiful Woman Kept Him Company

Gloria reached the gate and saw a flashy Lamborghini and a handsome man in a blue suit not far away. She frowned slightly.

Jonathan kept watching the entrance. He smiled at the sight of Gloria.

Gloria disliked him showing up around here, though she knew his character and the purpose of his visit. She walked slowly over to him.

After all, they needed to work together to get what they wanted.

Jonathan smiled and opened the passenger door for Gloria. And under all eager, curious gaze, Gloria got in his car. Some girls in the distance could not help screaming excitedly.

"I envy Gloria very much. She grew up basking in almost everyone's attention and married such a wonderful man. Old Mrs. Collins likes her and even treats her like her own granddaughter. Now Gloria is divorced. She doesn't fall off a cliff, but instead, she's doing a bang-up job. And Jonathan is making a play for her. She's a lucky woman. I envy her."

"Who doesn't?"

After getting into the driver's seat, Jonathan started the engine, turned to look at Gloria, and softly said, "What would you like for dinner?"

Gloria said in a relaxed voice, "Anything is good."

She was here to talk business, not for food.

Jonathan guessed the answer. Without asking any further, he took her to a new restaurant.

Gloria was a little surprised upon arrival.

"You..."

She uttered a word and then looked at Jonathan.

Jonathan smiled, "Girls all like this place, so I brought you here."

The restaurant was usually packed to capacity with many customers, but now it was empty.

"You have this entire place?" Gloria frowned slightly.

Jonathan smiled, "There was always someone bothering us, but now there are only two of us."

Gloria began to grumble inwardly.

There was always someone bothering us?

You deliberately took me to those places.

You're doing this because you're sure I won't remarry Jordy, right?

"You go in first. I'll go park the car."

Gloria nodded and got out of the car.

Not long afterwards, Jonathan returned to join her. The waiter served them all the dishes.

Jonathan's mouth curved into a smile. "Do you like it here?"

"Yup." Gloria felt at ease.

They carried on with their meal without mentioning a bit about the project.

They usually talked about business after meals.

Jonathan looked at Gloria's calm little face across the table. She was here to talk business and stayed as collected as she could. He appreciated her more.

Gloria belonged to the white family. Claude and Angela would absolutely not stand by and watch her take back the company. Even if Jonathan did not have anyone pry into Gloria's working life, he could guess what her assigned task was. "You like the food here?" asked Jonathan gently, passing a glass of juice to her. Gloria took it and nodded, "Yeah, it's not bad. What about you?" Most men did not like the food girls loved to eat. Food that was not very sweet seemed more acceptable. Jonathan smiled, "It's good, especially with such a beautiful woman by my side." His deep eyes shone with affection.

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 299

Remarriage Never And Go Away

Chapter 299

Chapter 299 A Source of Complacency

Such frivolous words out of his mouth didn't make him any the less gentlemanly. Jonathan never offended Gloria, and she felt at ease spending time with him. Gloria raised her eyebrows but said nothing. They continued their meal. Jonathan was a voluble person, and Gloria never felt bored. He had a sense of proportion and made a careful choice of topics. She felt comfortable around him. Gloria had to admit that he was much better than Jordy in this regard. Finally, they finished their food and put down their forks and knives. Gloria looked at Jonathan and suggested bluntly, "Why don't we discuss business?" Jonathan smiled, "Okay, you know I can't resist your charms." Gloria's mouth twitched as she handed him the proposal. "To be honest, this project needs your huge investment in it. I believe that after reading the proposal, you might be willing to invest."

Jonathan raised his eyebrows. "You sound confident." Surely, it would not be as easy as Gloria said. Perhaps this project needed more money than he had imagined. Gloria smiled faintly. Jonathan took the proposal and began to read it. He didn't begin with the first word because an immense amount of money caught his eye. "Four hundred billion dollars," Jonathan blurted in amazement with a suggestion of a smile. Gloria said, "Go ahead." She looked confident as though she already had everything in control. Jonathan started to look forward to working with her. Jonathan stared at Gloria but couldn't tell anything from her face. He was in no hurry to finish his reading, so he asked again. "Are you sure this proposal will work?" "I wasn't sure, but now I am. I've made some changes."

Without saying a word, Jonathan continued to read the proposal, his eyes narrowed. There were three pages in total.

He began to read it as if he had gotten back to his normal way of working.

The more he read, the more he was impressed by her idea. He looked more serious and focused as if to find fault with it and appreciate Gloria's talent.

He didn't look up until he finished reading it.

Jonathan frowned slightly and let his eyes rest on Gloria. "How much did you revise?"

Gloria's eyes flashed as she looked Jonathan in the eye. "Do I have to tell you before our discussion?"

Jonathan smiled, "Yes, if I decide to work with you, I'll follow up on this project personally. Likewise, I need the person in charge of this project to do the same."

Gloria looked calm and spoke softly, "I revised most of it."

Jonathan's eyes were brighter with amazement.

"Gloria, I know you want to take back the White Group. Why don't you leave it to me? I can help."

Gloria's mouth twitched. "Are you trying to poach me and take full charge of this project, Mr. Brown?"

Jonathan sighed, "With my help, you'll get the White Group back sooner or later. Why don't you work for me? I'll let you have the position you want."

"Mr. Brown, you know me. I won't do that."

There was a note of irony in her voice.

Jonathan sighed, "I knew it."

He looked at her. "You think you're back to the White Group and able to take everything back as planned? It'll take longer in this way. And your enemy will only gloat over your loss of resources."

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 300

Remarriage Never And Go Away

Chapter 300

Chapter 300 A Game Changer

"I'll help you take back the White Group, fair and square."

The White Group was powerful, but in the eyes of Jonathan and Jordy, to take it down was a pushover. It would be a totally one-sided battle.

Jonathan wasn't just saying it. He was confident in his ability to help Gloria. He might even do a better job than her.

But that wasn't what Gloria wanted.

She wanted to work her way through without his help. She owed him a million favors already.

How could she return all the favors?

What if it occurred to Jordy's father and grandmother that she was that close to Jonathan?

Gloria sighed, "Mr. Brown, I know you mean well, but I don't want to bother you with my problems. I owe you a million favors already."

Jonathan smiled, "You don't have to return the favors."

Gloria smiled, "Why don't you read the proposal first, Mr. Brown?"

Jonathan narrowed his eyes. "An investment of a few hundred billion dollars. The White Group is greedy for profit."

Gloria sighed, "If I didn't join the company, there would be no such an unfair deal."

Jonathan couldn't help chuckling and was in no hurry to respond.

Gloria continued with a smile, "If you'd like to cooperate with us, I'll follow up on this project. I can guarantee that you'll get a profit as it's written into the proposal. You pay, and we'll do our job."

Jonathan stared at Gloria's delicate, calm face. She looked as if she didn't care whether he agreed or not.

But she was out to dine with him.

Jonathan could tell that she was reckless. She was in talks on a partnership with him, but she didn't care whether the talks would break down. She seemed really bolder.

Jonathan's lips arched with a trace of a smile. "I need time to think about it."

Gloria nodded understandingly, "Okay, it's such a large investment after all. If you agree immediately, I'll think there is something wrong with you. If you think this proposal is feasible, I'll follow up on the specific projects after we sign the contract."

Jonathan laughed, "I'm afraid I can't get a better end of the deal.

"Especially when I'm facing a lawyer like you, Gloria."

Gloria raised her eyebrows. "When I hit a dead-end, you gave me the opportunity to fight and make a comeback. I'll always remember all your kindness to me. I'll stick to my principles and never put you in a tough spot."

Jonathan sighed heavily.

Gloria created clear boundaries, as if neither of them could take advantage of each other.

Gloria was a woman with a brain and reasonable ability. Even if Jonathan asked his subordinates to handle this fully funded project with her revised proposal, it would not work at all.

Jonathan halted his thoughts and looked at Gloria with a smile. "Wanna see a movie?"

She stared at him.

She didn't respond directly but spoke softly, "Mr. Brown, why did you reach out to me a couple of times?"

"You think I joked about my feelings for you on Twitter?" Jonathan squinted at her menacingly.

Gloria's eyelashes fluttered. She didn't say anything, but her eyes showed him how she was feeling.
