

Remarriage Never And Go Away Chapter 716-720

Chapter 716 How Can She Have Custody of My Son?

“I didn’t do it! Don’t you lie!”

Brandon’s face turned horribly pale. He could only make such a weak rebuttal as he felt an overwhelming irritation.

George looked extremely annoyed.

The judge asked people to play the recording and the video.

As soon as the recording and the video came out...

Everyone was stunned.

They could tell from the recording that Brandon was speaking nasty words.

And the video showed sex scenes.

They were speechless and found Brandon’s behavior completely unacceptable.

Even Brandon’s family and friends felt very embarrassed.

They all wanted to leave now!

Kristina felt abashed when she saw the evidence.

Now everyone knew she was cheated on by her husband.

She became the laughingstock of the world.

But she didn’t mind. She was willing to endure this for the sake of her son.

Things happened long ago. If she had known it back then, she would have found it unacceptable. But now...

She already got easy on that stuff. Now she felt nothing but disgust for Brandon.

George’s face was puce withi rage when he saw the evidence,

He looked at Brandon and said frostily, “If you don’t tell the truth, you’ll lose so badly.”

Brandon became flustered. He never thought his secret would be exposed one day!

He kept his secret safely hidden!

Even Kristina had a hard time finding evidence years ago, but now, she found it out!

How could this happen?

He had no idea about it!

“What do we do...?” Brandon freaked out completely.

George sneered, “What can you do? Nope. You’ll lose.”

Brandon became more perturbed.

No! I have to gain custody of my son. I can’t lose.

But George neither looked at him nor talked to him.

Gloria looked at the judge and spoke up.

“The evidence I give is the truth, and my client and I are willing to wait for the results if you get it examined.”

Gloria sounded casual and confident. Now everyone thought Brandon was going to lose.

George remained silent as if he had given up on the lawsuit, but actually, his anger grew stronger inside. He had expected to confront Gloria in court, but unexpectedly, his client caused him so much trouble.

There was no need to argue and fight this losing battle. George didn’t want to help Branson, a disloyal husband, fight for custody of his son. He thought this was good for the child.

“George, please help me!”

Brandon’s voice sounded anxious. Only George could hear him.

George sneered, “You’ve done all the stupid stuff. How can I help?”

Dream on! George thought, but he didn’t say that loud.

For an instant the whole court was silent. Even the judge was silent for a moment.

Then the judge piped up in a deep voice, “The evidence needs to be examined.”

Gloria nodded in agreement. “Before that, your honor, may I ask, is all the evidence is true, will my client have custody of the child?”

“Yes,” the judge answered without hesitation.

Brandon could hardly believe his ears!

How can a woman have custody of my son?

Chapter 717 Racked With Guilt

George was powerless to defend his client. All the evidence needed to be examined, which meant the jury would not reach a verdict today.

The situation was not under his control. Anger was etched on his face.

Before George left the courtroom, he said to Brandon frostily, "I'll no longer take your case."

Brandon changed color and stammered, "George, please. I know what I did was wrong. You must help, please!"

But George walked away without looking back.

George took two steps forward and saw Gloria talking with her friends. Nydia saw George and snorted loudly.

"You won a lot of cases, but you lost this time. Don't you feel like a loser, George?"

Every time Nydia saw George, she couldn't help being sarcastic with him.

It was because he always took things from her.

George felt worse. He glanced at Nydia coldly, but as he tried to talk back, he suddenly recalled what Carlos had said to him.

For a moment George became irritated. He looked away from Nydia and strode away.

Nydia didn't know what he was thinking. She stared after him and sneered, "Gloria, thanks to you, I'm so happy to see him flee after he lose the case."

George and Nydia were always arguing, and he always shut her up like a clam.

Gloria only responded with a snile.

Kristina smiled at Gloria and said, "Gloria, thank you so much. I will never forget your kindness. I owe you big."

Gloria chuckled and shook her head. "It's the least I could do, Kristina. No big deal. Your ex-husband is a tough nut to crack. Be careful."

Kristina nodded. "I will. Don't worry."

After exchanging a few words, Kristina said goodbye to them.

Kristina's ex-husband did not leave. He stared gloomily after Gloria and Kristina.

Soon, Gloria, Nydia, and Jennifer got in the car.

Nydia was in the driver's seat, and Gloria and Jennifer were in the back seat.

Jennifer chuckled as an image of Gloria defending her client with a quick tongue flashed through her mind.

"Before I knew you were a lawyer, I thought you were very reasonable. Now I feel very much the same. If Bryson was there, he would be fascinated by you. After all, even I thought you were awesome in court." Jennifer admired Gloria from the bottom of her heart, and there was no hint of insincerity in her voice.

Nydia, who was driving, talked about Bryson and then asked curiously, "Gloria, did Bryson call you after what happened last time?"

Nydia referred to the accident where a bunch of thugs tried to sexually harass Gloria.

Jennifer subconsciously looked at Gloria. Jennifer hadn't contacted Bryson since she told him how she really felt about him.

Jennifer wanted to call Bryson, but she had no courage to do so. To keep her at a distance, Bryson didn't contact her either.

Gloria's eyes flickered and she finally spoke softly, "Yes, he called me and said he was sorry. He was in a meeting that day, and he didn't know what happened to me. I could tell he was racked with guilt."

Chapter 718 Too Embarrassed to Say That

Nydia and Jennifer were both surprised.

"Did you downplay the danger of it? I just feel something wrong," said Nydia, glancing at Gloria in the rearview mirror.

Jennifer looked at Gloria silently.

Gloria hesitated for a moment before she spoke softly.

"He cared about me as much as he had done before, but I could feel that he was getting more discreet. And his voice was kind of laden with mixed emotions. After making sure I was OK, he said he would leave me alone and then hung up."

Nydia was surprised. "Really? Did he really say that?"

Gloria nodded. "Yeah."

Nydia made a left turn and then said, "Oh no, why do I feel like he's a different person? I can't believe that came out of his mouth. He loves to be with you every day, doesn't he? He has been in love with you for so long after all."

"I was a bit surprised, but since he said so, I could only play along. I didn't want to give him hope." Gloria didn't sound very curious but calm.

Jennifer took a breath and said with mixed feelings, "I'm the reason he's like this. I don't know if it's right or wrong."

Nydia sensed something wrong. She spotted a parking space on the side of the road, drove over immediately, and then parked the car.

Gloria turned back to Jennifer. Instead of pressing her, Gloria was waiting for her to speak.

Since Jennifer started it, she would keep going.

After parking the car, Nydia immediately turned to look at Jennifer. "Tell us what happened. Is it something we don't know? That sounds weird. Say it. I already parked the car."

Jennifer let out a sigh of frustration and told them what had happened that day.

Gloria and Nydia were both shocked, but then they felt happy for her.

Nydia nodded in agreement, "It's good for you to tell Bryson what's in your heart. It's not fair for you to keep it in for so many years. Now he finally knows how hard you have been going through these years."

Gloria also nodded. Looking at Jennifer's nervous face, Gloria took her hand and said softly, "You've got a chance now after you told him you liked him. To be honest, I want you two to get together, not because I can get rid of him in this way, but because I'm touched by your love for him. You are a good girl."

Jennifer took a deep breath and said helplessly, "I was in a daze afterward. I never imagined I would tell him how I really felt about him in this way. After that, I felt relaxed, but then I was sad. My emotions went on a roller coaster. Do you understand my feelings?"

"I do," Gloria responded immediately.

Things between Gloria and Jordy were pretty complicated too.

It could be said that Jennifer was going through the things that Gloria went through.

Jennifer sighed again with mixed feelings. After a moment's hesitation, she whispered.

"I wanted to tell you this, but I had no courage."

Nydia looked back at Jennifer. "Hey, you always say whatever you like, but why did you feel too embarrassed to tell us that? We're friends. You can tell us anything."

Chapter 719 Open His Damn Eyes

Jennifer sighed again and looked more torn.

Gloria chuckled, "Everyone would be embarrassed about this kind of thing. Nydia, you'll know when you meet your soulmate one."

"Yikes, relationships are troublesome. Regarding the situation of you three, I think I'd better stay out of it. Isn't it nice to enjoy freedom? Why do I have to bundle with someone for life? As I see it, the ficklest thing in this world is love."

Gloria laughed, "Don't be so pessimistic. There are people growing old together. We just haven't met the right person yet. Luck is absent here."

Her eyes fell back on Jennifer.

"Jennifer, have a little bit of patience and follow your heart. Life is about experiences."

Jennifer's face was pale. A bitter laugh was her only response,

Gloria looked up ahead. "Although I regret meeting Jordy, I don't regret my devotion and my decision."

Nydia cocked her eyebrows. "You mean you don't regret your devotion but regret loving the wrong person, right?"

"Something like that," she smiled.

Jennifer's eyes flickered. Gloria grabbed her hand and encouraged her again, "Do whatever you want. Don't think too much."

Jennifer took a breath and nodded in the end. "I'll try."

She was touched but remained rational. She didn't think she should continue pestering Bryson. That would push him farther away, and their friendship would be jeopardized.

Compared with losing him, she would rather maintain their friendship so that she could see him all the time.

Such a stance was humble, but she indulged in it.

When it was about time, Nydia started the engine.

As if by a tacit understanding, none of them mentioned the subject again. Instead, they chatted and laughed about other things.

Nydia rode Gloria to the neighborhood and said, "I'll borrow your car and have someone get it back to you."

Gloria nodded with a smile. "Sure, I'll see you around."

Jennifer and Nydia had other things to attend to. Earlier, they had been taken there by the driver.

After Gloria got off and closed the car door, Nydia prepared to drive off but cooed at the sight of a familiar figure.

Jennifer followed her to look over and saw a big man in a royal blue suit stride toward Gloria.

From where she stood, Gloria spotted the man.

Nydia giggled, "Gloria is never short of admirers. I don't know when she can get rid of Jonathan."

Jennifer narrowed her eyes. "I can see that he is sincere. Actually, it's not such a bad idea if she opens up to that man."

To that, Nydia just shrugged. Jonathan came to Gloria's side and said something to her with a smile. Nydia then commented, "It's hard to tell and depends on her decision. As I see it, Jonathan and Jordy are on par. If I were her, I might choose Jonathan. I'd let Jordy open his damn eyes and see what a perfect woman he has lost."

Chapter 720 I Just Want to See You

"Look, Jonathan has got something in his hand. I wonder what good stuff he brings this time. He tries every means to please Gloria. Ugh... Why isn't there any man dotting on me?"

Jennifer laughed and urged her, "Alright, let's go."

Her mind was a mess, and she didn't have the energy to worry about Gloria's issue.

"Okay." Nydia had another look at the two and then drove off.

Gloria looked back and saw Jennifer waving at her. Then the car sped away.

She turned back to the man. Before she could say anything, Jonathan asked, "Won't you invite me to your house since I'm already here?"

Gloria frowned. "Jo..."

“Come on, I’m a bit hungry. We can eat together.”

With that, he entered the yard.

Gloria was lost for words.

No matter where she moved, they would find her.

And this kind of uninvited visit was nothing fancy.

At such a point, she couldn’t drive him away and had to open the door.

With a smile on his face, he watched her bring over a pair of slippers and then changed his shoes.

“Thank you.”

Gloria just pursed her lips.

He placed the packages on the table and unpacked them.

“Have some?”

She gave no response. Jonathan went to the bathroom to wash his hands. He felt quite at home, and her brows furrowed.

He came out and smiled at her. “You don’t like to have me here?”

“You like to come uninvited recently,” she pointed it out.

Jonathan forced a smile and said, “I know that you don’t like it, but this is the only way to see you. Maybe you can come and see me.”

She didn’t want to talk.

In the end, she went to wash her hands in the bathroom, came out, and sat down with the man.

They were facing each other across the table.

Jonathan handed her a lunch box.

The content was exquisite and substantial.

It was cooked by the chef hired by his family.

During the meal, Gloria remained silent.

Unlike her, Jonathan brought up topics to lighten the air. By and by, her brows were unknitted.

He was a people person who was good at enlivening the atmosphere and making everyone like him.

Gloria looked up at him. Her vigilance built up.

.

This man could make people let down their guard. She was afraid of giving way to his approach.

It was not that he could win her heart.

She had suffered enough from the relationship with Jordy and had no interest in starting a new one,

After the meal, she laid her eyes on him and asked, "Anything else you came for?"

"Yeah, I need your help with a contract."

"Acontract?" She gazed at him without pursuing the issue.

They went to the living room and sat down on the sofa. Jonathan handed her the file and said, "This is the one. The legal team has reviewed it, but I still don't feel safe. This is very important."

Gloria frowned and took the contract. Instead of reading it at one, she eyed the man and said, "You trust me so much."