Chapter 881 Guarding the System

The current situation felt so terrible.

She was very upset about being utilized and threatened by others.

But, no matter what, she also wanted to do exactly what that mysterious girl wanted to do. Perhaps, there was no final say over whether I or she was being utilized.

With that idea in mind, she found herself feeling much better.

Five days had passed.

Nothing had happened.

But on the sixth day, the Collins Group was caught up in another turmoil again.

This time, the technology department seemed to be tremendously panicky.

The rumors surrounding the Collins Group were spreading again.

It all thanked to the thin man, who could not actually keep a secret at all. Worse still, the thin man had exaggerated a hundred times than what the fat man originally said. He was very skillful in making up rumors. Soon the story became a dramatic one full of entangling hatred and love.

Everyone grew repugnant and negative about Gloria. They had been talking and gossiping about her as if they were about to drive her out of the Collins Group.

But Gloria made no explanation for these rumors these days.

Seeing that the new program was about to be hacked, Jordy wrote a new program to replace the old one. Therefore, the hacker could do nothing but stop.

The technology department had guessed something from what Jordy had done.

“Is Mr. Collins suspecting Gloria?”

“I think so. Or otherwise, Mr. Collins would have written the program together with Gloria. After all, Gloria is extremely excellent at this.”

Having been with Jordy for a long time, Harold could nearly read Jordy’s mind sometimes.

At that moment, everyone was staring at Gloria. Then the woman who had just spoken continued directly, “Miss White, do you have anything to explain about this?”

Jordy remained silent and still.

Jordy would not have allowed anyone to criticize Gloria back then.

But then, what Jordy did was just looking at Gloria aloofly. He wanted Gloria to explain it herself.

Even though she didn't want to explain it, he would force her to do it.

Gloria looked indifferent and looked at the young woman who retorted her, calmly saying, "You can say whatever you want. But you need to take up the responsibility for saying so."

They all looked at Gloria with dissatisfaction. Does she think she is above us just because she is a lawyer?

How dare she even threaten us with that?

This shameful woman! It seems we've been too kind to her before!

Manager Louisa frowned and stared at her, saying, "Miss White, we only discuss this within our company. You don't have to threaten us with the law, right? We only want you to make an explanation to defend yourself. But if you can't defend yourself..."

Speaking of this, Manager Louisa paused. The listeners were nervous as they heard this. But some of them got inexplicably excited, waiting for what Louisa wanted to say next.

After Gloria finished her words, she didn’t show any intention of speaking up again.

What she wanted to say was clear enough.

Jordy frowned and his face seemed more and more gloomy. He stared at Gloria and finally spoke in front of the others.

“Why do you think I should trust you?”

Manager Louisa was surprised. So were the staff in the meeting room.

But the next moment they suddenly got delighted.

Mr. Collins questioned Gloria in her face, which indicated that Mr. Collins was suspicious of her. Then it would be difficult if Gloria still wanted to stay in the company.

This was a good thing for them.

All the tenderness Jordy had was destroyed by the words of Gloria.

However, Gloria did not know what Jordy was thinking about. She only said to the attendees calmly,
"Are you satisfied with this explanation I gave?"

They were silent all of a sudden.

What a perfect and impeccable explanation!

There was extreme chilliness in Jordy's eyes and everyone in the meeting room was so scared that they nearly trembled.

How come Mr. Collins is so angry? Who is he angry with?

They started wondering whether Mr. Collins was outrageous because of Gloria or because they had targeted at Gloria...

Just as everyone was sitting on tenterhooks, Jordy suddenly said in a hoarse, deep voice, "Continue."

They didn't say anything.

Angela's eyes sparkled. She knew that the mysterious girl wanted her to help.

If I can't be with him, I hope you are his companion for life rather than Gloria, that scheming woman. Do you know she doesn't truly love Jordy? She has motives of her own."

Angela paused deliberately, which aroused Rachel's curiosity.

She stared at Angela, waiting for Angela's further speech.

Angela sighed resignedly. "Gloria has her motives to get close to Jordy. Do you know why I turned myself against her and why I made them get divorced?"

Rachel frowned a little bit and asked with a calm expression, "Why?"

Angela sneered. "When Gloria's father was alive, they chatted in the room and I overheard the conversation between them."

If she could present evidence to prove what she said about Gloria to be true, Rachel would be justified to go against Gloria.

Angela was fine with it. She would offer evidence to Rachel as long as Rachel was willing to go against Gloria.

The next moment, Angela said calmly, "I do have evidence. I will send it to your phone later. If you are going to sit by and do nothing after you see the proof, I'll no longer come to you. If you don't cherish Mr. Collins, whatever I do will be useless."

There was a twinkle in Rachel's eyes. She stared at Angela silently.

Angela had put on the mask and sunglasses and looked like she didn't want to talk too much to Rachel.

Seeing Rachel fixating on her, she said calmly, "Miss Roberts, I have said it all. I don't think you wanna waste your time on me, so I gotta go. We'll be in touch if there is a reason."

After she finished talking, she smiled, nodded at Rachel and left without Rachel's replying.

Rachel stared after Angela, who closed the private room door considerately. Then Rachel just sat still in her chair with mixed emotions.

Gloria didn't know what to say for a moment. She had so many mixed emotions.

Irene sighed. "I was very shocked to find out these photos. You have had no idea about your mom, so I think they will be of some help."

Gloria had never seen the marriage or divorce certificates of her parents.

Over these years, she had been trying to find them, but found no trace of them. Maybe they had been hidden by someone deliberately.

Unexpectedly, Irene found the photos of her parents. Perhaps that guy didn't know the existence of these photos?
