Chapter 891 A Mad Woman

Irene sighed resignedly. "You are right. He may lie to you out of self-interest. You will fall for it if you believe him."

Gloria opened her mouth. "Let it be. I'll take time to investigate it."

She had never seen her mother, so she was obsessive on knowing about her mother. But now she had other things to do. She gotta take care of them at the same time.

Irene nodded. "OK. It's late. You should go back and have a good rest."

Then Gloria said goodbye to Irene, stood up and left.

After she went back home, she stared fixedly at the copies of those old pictures.

The next day.

At this point, Rachel was having a meal with her good friend, Lucia Taylor, in a private room.

Rachel seemed distracted and ate little with a fork in her hand. Seeing that, Lucia asked in confusion, "What happened to you?"

“So, did Gloria do a very terrible thing to Jordy?”

Rachel slowly raised her eyes and looked at Lucia indifferently, “The confidential information of Collins Group has been stolen repeatedly by her. What do you think of it?”

“My goodness!” Lucia exclaimed, “Gloria is really Black Rose!”

How can she be so amazing!

Of course, Lucia only kept her admiration of Gloria to herself given the presence of Rachel.

Lucia’s words made Rachel get assured of her idea of going against Gloria. After thinking for a while, she said quietly, “I think about it again.”

Lucia knew that Rachel actually had made up her mind.

But she did not know how Rachel would go against Gloria.

Right on cue, Rachel’s cellphone rang.

Lucia looked at it and found the caller ID was Angela.

Her eyes flashed. She looked away, got seated, and picked up her knife and fork to go on having food.

They continued to eat the food. Lucia tried to converse with Rachel on a variety of subjects, but Rachel was distracted and replied to Lucia occasionally.

Lucia thought to herself. Rachel will start to deal with Gloria. She is a righteous woman and always behaves justly. But now, for the man she loves, she resorts to any kind of means.

Well.

It's so hilarious and pathetic.

After the two finished eating, they went out for a stroll. When it was about time, they headed to the appointed meeting place.

Two days later.

When it was about time for Gloria's lunch break, her cellphone suddenly rang, and Gloria's eyes flashed when she saw the caller's phone number.

She picked it up.

Chapter 895 Unexpected Guests

Of course, Rachel didn't expect to get the answer from Gloria. She just wanted to start a conversation.

Rachel nodded. The way Gloria looked made her understand Gloria just wanted to distance herself from her and never intended to be friends with her.

Clearly...

If they were to be friends, it might be embarrassing to both of them.

Everyone knew that Rachel liked Jordy, and that Gloria, as Jordy's ex-wife, was still involved with Jordy.

Rachel suppressed the complex emotions within herself, looked at Gloria again, and said, "I ask you here today to chitchat with you, and business affairs are not the subject of our conversation, so you don't have to be so alert."

Gloria raised her eyebrows, "Miss Roberts, I know you are a reasonable person, and I never meant to be alert against you."

Gloria had her back to them so she didn't notice them, while Rachel had her head down and seemed to be lost in thought.

Neither of them noticed the two figures that appeared in the doorway.

Those two, on the contrary, saw Rachel and Gloria sitting opposite each other at a glance.

George was amused. He raised his hand and pointed at them. "Look who's there."

Jordy pressed his lips together. Of course, he had noticed them.

George smiled. "Wanna join them?"

Jordy frowned at George's proposal as if he didn't think it was good to spoil their meal.

Though he thought so, he stood still. It seemed like he wanted George to demand to go to them.

Noticing Jordy's sullen face, George hurriedly spoke, "Why are you here today? I know you hardly contact each other before. Are you here to talk on cooperation?"

Rachel blinked and smiled, "If so, I would have reserved a private room to talk with Miss White. I didn't live here before, so I didn't have a chance to talk with Miss White, though I appreciate her very much."

Rachel was the lady of the Roberts family, which could be mentioned in the same breath with Collins Group. Like Jordy, she was the future heir of the family. She said she appreciated Gloria. It was not that she wanted to curry favor with Gloria, but she just flaunted her superiority over Gloria.

She, however, could do that with a powerful family background. When she was speaking, she smiled and it was hard to tell that she was deprecating Gloria.

Gloria just smiled and didn't mind what Rachel said.

It was because Gloria no longer cared about Jordy's feelings. The only subject of their conversation was business affairs. She didn't care about whether Jordy was involved with other women, let alone Rachel.

George laughed and said casually, "Gloria, you are really impressed!"

Gloria looked up at him, looking puzzled, "Impressed?"

George was wordless.

Jordy's face seemed less sullen at this moment.

He picked up his cutlery and had the food quietly.

Rachel looked at him without a word. She felt it ridiculous. She finally had a chance to eat with Jordy, but that was because she was with Gloria.

But she was not the kind of woman who haggled over trivia.

She had run the company for so many years and focused on the big picture. So, at this time, she would not expose her motives. She just smiled and said, "Mr. Collins."

Only then did Jordy look at Rachel.

He didn't say anything, waiting for her to continue.

paused for a moment and said with a smile, "Mr. Collins, I heard you have been working with Miss White recently. I wonder whether you can go into a partnership with Roberts Group as well. I got two good projects to work on with you."

After moments, Rachel thought of a way. She smiled. "How about you drive my car? I will take Miss White's car. After all, I'm going to Collins Group too."

George was wordless.

What a scheming woman!

This proposal could not only distance Jordy from Gloria, but also make her not overly friendly.

But that was not what Jordy wanted. Her proposal may annoy Jordy.

George glanced at Jordy and noticed his face darkened. Then he grinned.

"Well, I am ashamed to use your car. I should better let the driver pick me up."

Rachel was speechless.

George didn't show any respect to her.

Sooner or later Jordy would stand by her side and show all his tenderness to her.
And no one could take place of her!
With this thought on her mind, Rachel lowered her eyes and got into the car.
Gloria reached her car after a while.
When she walked to the driver's side door, George suddenly ran over and opened the door.
George smiled at Gloria. "Let me drive! I can't accept a free ride without doing anything! Leave it to
