

The Godsend Trio – My Terrible yet Heartwarming CEO Husband

Chapter 134

Chapter 134 Stop Looking For Your Child

Found not guilty?

Cathy frowned. “Did you hear the news wrongly?”

How could Ember be found guilty and released?

She did not withdraw her statement that day as a witness. She did not withdraw the lawsuit either. How could she be released for something with solid evidence?

Grant sounded furious. “Ember Shaw’s father seemed to have obtained a certificate of mental illness for Ember. Ember claimed to suffer from intermittent explosive disorder. She was sick when she planned to kidnap my sister!”

“Cathy, isn’t this a lie?”

“How could this be?”

Cathy’s grip on the phone tightened.

No wonder she saw Dorian’s car when she and Uriel came out of the asylum just now.

It turned out that Dorian did not go to the asylum to find evidence of her hospitalization and illness. He had gone to the asylum to prove that Ember was mentally ill!

She closed her eyes and said, “Calm down first. I’ll think of a way.”

“Okay!”

Grant gritted his teeth on the other end of the phone. “Cathy, my sister has become like that. I don’t want the culprit to get off scot-free.”

“But of course, this actually has nothing to do with you. You’re not obliged to help.”

“If there is really no other way... I’ll go and teach Ember a lesson myself. My life isn’t worth much anyway!”

Cathy frowned at his impulsive words. “Penelope would not wish to hear you say this kind of thing.”

Then, she sighed. “You take care of your parents first. Wait for my news.”

After she finished speaking, she immediately hung up without waiting for Grant to respond.

Uriel frowned and asked, “What’s wrong?”

“Doctor Uriel.”

Cathy raised her head and asked him solemnly. “What do you know about intermittent explosive disorder?”

Uriel laughed. “Does your friend suffer from this disease?”

“No.”

She pursed her lips and told Uriel about what Grant told her.

“Doctor Uriel, what should I do?”

“You have asked the right person.”

Uriel took a sip from his coffee and answered. “I have done a lot of research in this area.”

“Give me this patient. If she is sick, I can cure her and put her back in jail.”

“If she isn’t sick... I will let her be sick as she wishes to be.”

A strange smile appeared on Uriel’s face when he said ‘as she wishes to be’.

Cathy felt a chill down her spine.

Although she knew that Dr. Uriel was a good person, his gloomy smile still made Cathy shudder.

Her voice trembled slightly. “Do you want to help me, Doctor Uriel?”

Uriel smiled faintly, “Of course.”

“But.”

The man glanced at Cathy with his long and narrow eyes. “I helped you yesterday because of Yoel.”

“I’m helping you today because I think you’re a good person.”

“But I can’t help you all the time.”

He put his coffee down gracefully. “Cathy Shaw, we are not related.”

“If I tell you that I can only help you with one thing, what would you choose?”

He fixed his bottomless eyes on her face. “You can only choose one between finding the medicine for you at the research institute and rehabilitating your friend.”

“What would you choose?”

Cathy was stunned.

She did not expect Uriel to ask her this question.

She had definitely thought about this before. Uriel was not related to her at all. He wouldn’t always help her. She had also thought of thanking him with some money afterwards.

But he had given her this question now. He wanted her to choose one or the other.

The woman bit her lip.

She wanted to retrieve her past memories, but she did not want it to be as painful as yesterday. If Uriel could go to the research institute and find her the medicine, it would be the best choice for her.

But she was partly responsible for Penelope’s condition right now. Moreover, The Crawfords were emotionally unstable right now. If Ember did not get any sanctions in the end...

The woman thought with her fingers crossed for a long time.

After a while, she raised her head and looked at Uriel seriously. “I choose to help my friend.”

She could always find her memory back as long as she worked hard and suffered a little bit more.

But Ember was different.

If Ember escaped this time, someone else will get injured next time.

Moreover, if Ember would not commit any crimes in the future, who would pay for Penelope?

Uriel lifted his lips lightly and looked into her eyes. “Well then.”

“But.”

The man’s voice was mysterious. “If I succeed in doing this favor for you, you’ll still have to do me a favor.”

Cathy nodded. There was nothing free in this world. “What favor can I do for you?”

“I don’t know.”

He looked at Cathy and smiled. “In short, it won’t be murder or arson. Your family will not be destroyed too.”

“I’ll tell you about it when I think about it.”

“You have my word.”

After the two of them had an agreement, Uriel asked Cathy for some information about Ember Shaw and left.

After Uriel left, she called Grant and comforted the Crawfords. Then, she sat alone in the restaurant in a daze.

After a long time, she picked up the phone and called Chris Jensen.

His phone was still turned off.

She had no choice but to leave him a message.

“A friend told me that I probably didn’t go crazy at all five years ago.”

“He also said that my memory might be tampered with, and was not caused by mental illness.”

“Father, you handled all the procedures for my hospitalization. You should know my symptoms best. Can you tell me what happened?”

“Stop hiding from me. I have remembered everything. My child did not die at all.”

After sending the message, the woman sighed and put away her phone.

But she did not expect that Chris would call shortly after her message went through.

“Cathy.”

The man’s voice on the other end of the phone sounded hoarse and sad. “Why are you suddenly asking about what happened five years ago?”

“Did Adrian tell you?”

Cathy frowned. What did the incident from five years ago have to do with Adrian Bolton?

“Father, what actually happened five years ago?”

Chris was quiet for a long time.

“I was indeed the one who sent you to the asylum in the first place.”

“But I had my reasons.”

“You were injured at that time. I couldn’t send you to the hospital for some personal reasons. I happened to know a friend in the asylum, so I sent you there as suggested by her.”

“They treated you for other diseases in the asylum. They did not abuse you.”

“And, stop looking for your child.”

“That child has the blood of another family. What can you do even if you find the child?”

“Are you going to let the child leave his father and go with you? Will your current husband agree with you if you did so?”

“If you can’t bring the child, then what difference does it make by seeing him?”
