Chapter 154 I Promised Her That You Will Be Her Mother
As she read the message, Cathy's frown grew and her inners boiled.

She knew that Karen sent these to elicit a response and to agitate her.

Karen stated the truth and nothing but the truth.

Why bother with what this lady thought?

"Exactly, Arius is only stating a fact!"

He felt that he had been unfairly targeted.

Arius calmly replied, "Me too."

He was deflated and could barely mutter, "I was just joking..."

All right, it was crystal clear that he had a target on his back.

Looking at Abner's childish behavior, Adrian sighed.

He turned towards Cathy, "You had enough rest?"

"Hmm."

finally out!"

Abner, "..."

She kept her phone in her pocket and got up to leave.

She attempted to rebut with a few messages, but after typing multiple times, she proceeded to delete them.

In the end, she realized that she neither had any evidence nor the grounds to retort her.

Adrian was indeed sorry towards the twin's mother and attempted to make up for her multiple times.

So... was she truly a substitute?

Cathy shook her head in disbelief.

"Mommy!"

Someone started knocking on the door again, "Time to eat!"

"Daddy says if you're not there we are all not allowed to eat."

"Please have mercy on your two little babies starving tummies and come down!"

Having made up her mind, she resolutely deleted Karen from her contact list.

The crisp ringing child's voice soothed Cathy's gloomy heart and cheered her up.

apart. As if she would let Karen have it her way.

She had been explicitly attempting to instigate Adrian and her while desiring to see them split

Looking at the little guy's antics, Cathy's anger that was accumulated during her conversation with Karen dissipated right away.

She bowed down and carried Abner, "Well you eat so much usually, I'm pretty sure you wouldn't

"If you come out any later, you will only see your baby boy who has died of starvation out here!"

Adrian was outside of the room, cowering with his hands around his belly, "Mommy, you are "Based on typical homeostasis physiology, it will indeed take a lot more for you to starve to death."

Arius was holding a book with the large word 'Anatomy' inscribed on the cover, "First of all, you

Abner's lips curled as he bitterly looked at Cathy, "Mommy are you truly trying to starve me?"

"You are just saying that I'm fat!" "I'm just being objective here."

you will starve quicker!" Abner, "..."

Ariel, who had a ponytail tied up, quickly chipped in, "Abner, you should try to eat lesser, then

Ariel raised her hand like an enthusiastic student, "Me too!" Abner, "..."

Abner was evidently upset as he got down and ascended onto his personal chair then started focusing on eating, "I'm going to eat more to prevent myself from starving."

Cathy nodded, "Yeah." He chuckled, "You were so tired last night, I was quite sure that you needed a bit more rest."

Abner cleared his throat, "Dad, we, the little kids are still within general vicinity."

Adrian stared at him, "And now you recall that you are still a kid?"

Upon the mention of the video, Cathy was invigorated and elated.

Abner coughed, shared a meaningful look with Arius, then remained silent.

She grinned, "I found the video quite ... interesting." "Since it was interesting for you..."

Adrian's deep glistening eyes focused on her, "Why don't you use a similar manner to express

"How come when you were coming up with the embarrassing video yesterday you did not

After lunch, Cathy got a call from Zach who wanted to meet her at the cast's hotel. "Cathy!"

He congratulated her and then launched into an emotional plea, "I was so touched by your relationship with Adrian that I have decided to make some slight adjustments on the kissing

He was firing at all cylinders at this point, "That's my final decision!"

"On the other hand, I would like to relieve his concerns."

He should not be her springboard to success.

He frowned as he looked at Cathy, "Are you mental?"

Zach was startled and then he turned backwards.

If it was just Cathy's insistence, he could still try convincing her.

Zach's smile melted away.

"This is the chance of a lifetime..."

"All right, you guys make the call!"

Since Adrian had made his stance public, she will submit to his decision.

and reducing the number of scenes did not feel too excessive for her.

After all, Adrian did specifically mentioned that he did not wish for her to have such intimate

"You get to spend time doing what you enjoy most with Adrian, the netizens get their worth of spoilers, and our movie gets to be a hit." "We're killing three birds with one stone, Cathy!"

"I'm not only against adding the number of scenes but am fully supportive of reducing the number." Cathy closed her eyes, "One hand, I would want to reduce my husband's exposure."

He was willing to even make a press conference for her sake, merely going up against her director

"My husband is a businessman, not a movie star, there is no need for him to put up a show for me, Flynn was standing at the entrance with his hands tucked around his chest, "I respect her

But if Flynn was on her side... He was not confident that he could entice both lead actors to do his way.

If both of them were to go on strike, would there still be a movie to be filmed?

However, even though he reluctantly agreed, Zach was still visibly shaken.

Zach was frozen in his tracks; his head oscillated between Cathy and Flynn, and finally, he sighed,

Zach turned and left as he threw down the chilling statement. "Thanks."

"A golden opportunity Cathy, and you just trampled all over it, I will wait and see if you will ever

After Zach had left, Cathy drew a deep breath and thanked Flynn. "No worries."

Flynn took lazy strides and sat beside Cathy, "I'm doing this for myself and not for you." Cathy had question marks all over her head.

Flynn continued, "I had promised Ariel that you will be her mother." "I am not a fan of having to stare at the both of you locking lips."

Cathy, "..."
