```
Chapter 21 This Is My Newly Wedded Wife, Cathy Shaw
```

After exiting the café, they saw a black Maserati stopped outside.

Arius released Cathy's hand and immediately hopped onto the passenger seat.

Feeling exasperated, Cathy had no choice but to open the back door.

son got swindled. As his parent, I should go to the police station in person."

left the laptop in his hands.

Even though they had been married for a while now, her heart couldn't help but skip a beat at the Sitting on the luxurious leather seat was the cold, silent image of a familiar man. His gaze never sight of him.

"Why are you here..."

Cathy pursed her lips as she took a seat. "So you know."

Without missing a beat, his long fingers danced across the keyboard as he continued staring. "Our

He paused and turned to her. His deep, dark eyes fixed on her. "How else did the both of them get their hands on a ten-carat diamond ring if it weren't for me?"

Cathy was dumbfounded.

would not even give two five-year-olds that amount of money.

Makes sense...

"So you were aware of this?"

Adrian placed the laptop away. He leaned back against the comfortable leather of the seats.

A ten carat diamond ring wasn't easy to get your hands on. The Bolton family was rich but they "Winter found out that your sister had a hand with what happened yesterday." His eyes twinkled.

Cathy's hands clenched tightly.

"But she was smart. She cleaned up after herself, leaving no trace. Even the number she used to contact Dick was under Chris."

She guessed as much.

His voice was deep and comforting, "We haven't been married for long. And because of the lack of evidence, they made trouble for your father. First of all, it isn't appropriate and secondly, it affects you."

else."

Cathy, "..."

Cathy's heart felt warm.

She had always thought of Adrian as cold and aloof.

She never thought that he would be so thoughtful.

Ember had something to do with what happened yesterday after all!

Not only did he thoroughly investigate the incident yesterday, but he also took into consideration how it would affect her if he targeted the Shaw family.

"The person who thought of the idea to avenge you was Abner. I figured out the logistics. Daddy's

Arius sitting in front, piped up, "And besides, you shouldn't be thanking him."

She pursed her lips and looked into his unfathomable eyes. "Thank you..."

"Mummy, he's your husband. You don't need to say thank you."

Adrian arched an eyebrow, "Would you have succeeded without my support?"

"Of course."

Arius' childlike voice had a sense of maturity and confidence that did not fit him. "If I had asked grandpa that I wanted to buy mummy a ring on your behalf, he would have agreed to it."

only part in this was supplying the ring and hundred thousand dollars cash. He didn't do anything

Cathy watched the exchange with her mouth agape.

Did Arius really manage to silent Adrian?

Adrian narrowed his eyes slightly and stayed quiet.

She stole a glance at him from the corner of her eye.

The car started.

Cathy's phone began to vibrate non-stop.

It was a notification from her newsfeed.

Previously, when she was together with Xavier, she was always fearful of people making smear

"The Ten Carat Ring Was Stolen? Multi-Million Heiress Did It."

The Internet was filled with news regarding Ember cheating a child.

Cathy tapped on the image and read through it...

The more she read, the angrier she got!

waste on her."

she was reading.

station.

"I'll stay in the car."

had accumulated some bad habits.

campaigns about her. This was where the habit of checking the news daily came from.

The air in the car was tense. Cathy pulled out her phone and started scrolling through it.

"Shocking! Shaw Family Heiress Swindling Underage Children Into Stealing Their Parents'

He was leaning back against the seat with his eyes closed, feigning sleep.

Who knew if he was actually tired or because he had lost to Arius.

Her news feed was filled with headlines regarding Ember's incident!

Property!"

"Discussion, Grooming Minors To Steal. What Should The Punishment Be?"

People had uploaded a video of the incident in the café.

Someone had even released the conversation between Ember and Abner.

Ember fully deserved to be convicted for this!

The messages revealed how she kept asking Abner for money.

She even said in one of her messages, "Your mother is so old, a ten carat diamond ring would be a

"How about giving me the ring as a gift? You're so rich. I'm sure your parents wouldn't mind."

Chris once told her that Ember was raised in the slums with a group of women gangsters and so

She might be back with the Shaw family but she was still the same disgusting woman as before!

Besides Abner hiding his age, everything else was prompted by Ember.

Cathy's hands whitened against her phone. She could feel the blood rushing to her brain.

Even though she knew that it was a trap set by Arius and Abner, she still could not accept what Cathy felt a sense of satisfaction seeing netizens scolding Ember.

"Abner and I are identical. It'll only cause problems for you."

Afraid of keeping him waiting, Cathy quickly got out and followed him.

"My daughter is naïve and innocent. She wouldn't do such a thing!"

Soon, they reached the police station.

Not long after they got out of the car, Cathy saw Dorian's car not too far away.

It seemed like Ember's incident has caused quite the ruckus. Even Dorian came to the police Arius remained seated in the passenger seat. He took out his small laptop and puts on his earpiece.

"Okay."

Adrian, who has been feigning sleep the entire time, finally opened his eyes. With one smooth motion, he pushed open the door and got out.

They found Marion sobbing loudly in the station, "It must be that child! He's the problem!"

"Evidence says otherwise!"

The police officer coldly replied, "Your daughter still won't return the ring!"

"I won't!"

"My daughter wouldn't do such a thing!"

"Officer, please check again. This is impossible!"

a child. He still gave it to me! Why should I return a gift when it was given to me."

"This isn't a gift! It's grooming! Swindling!"

Her heart stopped when she first saw that photo. It was why she rushed into the relationship with

And now that she has seen him in person, she realized that he was... way better looking in person.

The two police officers greeted him respectfully. They then turned to look at Marion and Ember.

It was only when Marion pinched her that she returned to her senses. "Mr. Bolton, are you

Marion and Ember looked up. They immediately saw the cold, arrogant man who was Ember looked down and gripped the ring tightly in her hands. "Even though it was given to me by Marion wiped away her tears as she continued to cry. She turned to Ember, "Ember, dear. Just..."

Isn't he the man in the photo that the child sent her?

He strode towards them on his long legs.

The deep voice of a man sounded.

distinguishable in the crowd.

Ember's eyes widened.

Isn't this...

that child.

He exudes aloofness and a sense of luxury. Her heart shuddered...

"What a handsome man."

The officers turned to leave.

Marion murmurs.

"Mr. Bolton."

"This is Mr. Bolton. He is Abner Bolton's father."

"If you don't want this to get any bigger, I'd suggest you talk to him nicely."

Ember stared silently at Adrian.

married?" She stuttered.

Ember regretted it the moment the words left her mouth.

my newly wedded wife, Cathy Shaw."

Of course he's married, he has children.

Adrian smiled coldly at her, "I got married not too long ago."

He promptly pulled the petite woman who had been behind him all this while to the front, "This is