Chapter 38 It's Such a Pity

"Tyrell?"

Abner poured himself a glass of water in the corridor when he noticed a suspicious-looking man. "It's late. Why are you in my house?"

Tyrell was stunned for a moment and quickly made a gesture, telling him to stay quiet. Then, he pointed to the study and said, "Don't make a noise! Your daddy and mommy are in there."

Abner frowned for a moment before understanding.

can't disturb them too."

He pursed his lips and tugged at Tyrell's shirt cuff. "Since I'm not allowed to disturb them, you

Tyrell hesitated for a moment.

"Come, I'll get you a glass of water!"

He stood still and refused to move. "You can go. Don't mind me."

Abner blinked and said, "What is it?"

"I still have something to do."

"It's..."

Tyrell smiled slyly as he took out a recording pen. "Grandpa was always suspicious of Uncle unhurried.

However, before he could finish speaking, a well-formed masculine hand took the recording pen from him.

Adrian's sexual orientation... If I can get a recording, I can ask grandpa for pocket money..."

At the same time, a low and calm male voice sounded. "That's not going to happen."

There was a man dressed in a white shirt standing near the door to the study. He stood elegant and Tyrell was stunned for a moment before looking behind him.

Tyrell's face instantly turned pale.

Then, he gripped the recording pen and said, "Tyrell, you don't need Cathy's help anymore."

"Uncle Adrian, you misunderstood."

"The recording pen... It is to record Cathy's voice when she analyzes the script with me."

"What script?"

A clear female voice appeared behind Adrian.

Adrian's jacket looked big on her petite figure. It was long enough to cover her thighs and conceal her alluring figure.

Cathy was still dressed in an enticing nightgown, but she wore Adrian's gray suit jacket over it.

Tyrell pursed his lips and said, "Cathy, Penelope told me that you understand scripts and can analyze them thoroughly..."

He smiled awkwardly and said, "I always wanted to act in a movie. I want to play the lead actor's role..."

"Is it for this idiot's script?"

"Let me explain."

Then, he quickly took a script from the side and gave it to Cathy. "Therefore, I would like to ask for your favor tonight. Can you help me to study and analyze my role?"

After a while, she turned to Adrian and met his gaze. "Previously, you said you needed to book me for the whole night..."

Adrian nodded.

Cathy was confused when she received the script.

Cathy was rendered speechless.

Adrian glanced at Cathy's flushed cheeks and said, "I will make sure to satisfy you in the future."

Cathy was rendered speechless.

"However..."

"Yes."

I misunderstood him completely...

through the script for you."

She did not dare to meet his gaze but quickly turned towards the direction of the study. "I'll go

Abner opened his eyes wide as he watched Cathy disappearing into the study.

Adrian watched her walking away and smiled.

"Does this mean mommy has to work late tonight?"

"It must be tiring for mommy."

Milk tea?

Tyrell's gaze brightened. "I want one too."

Abner regarded him quietly before saying, "You will get plain water."

Tyrell's script was not too long. Therefore, Cathy finished it in less than two hours.

She sat on the couch and drew a character analysis diagram on a piece of paper.

Abner sighed and said, "I'll ask Arius to prepare some milk tea for mommy."

Occasionally, she would glance up and peek at Adrian.

chiseled jawline.

She finally got out of her daze.

Tyrell pointed to the diagram and asked.

He was working at his desk.

It was different from his usual relaxed self. He seemed even more attractive when he was working seriously.

It was Cathy's first time seeing Adrian serious at work.

Before she knew it, she was staring blankly at him.

Tyrell's tentative voice sounded near her.

"Does the character I'm acting have this kind of connection to the killer?"

"Yes, it is a hidden connection. I had to read the script twice to find it."

From her angle, she could see his long lashes and tall nose. She also noticed his firm mouth and Tyrell sighed and said, "I hate the actress playing the killer. I don't want to share a scene with her."

Cathy looked down at the paper. She continued writing a summary of the character's motives and explained calmly, "Since you want to be an actor, you should immerse yourself in your character.

Another hour passed. Cathy finally completed analyzing the character's motivations and

She stretched tiredly and gave the script back to Tyrell. "I heard about this movie before. Wasn't

"Oh..."

Then, you won't hate her anymore."

Tyrell pursed his lips but did not say a word.

relationships. She also wrote a few pages of character notes.

Xavier supposed to be the male lead? Why did they change to you?"

Tyrell accepted the script and chuckled slyly. "The lead actress is gorgeous."

"I want to pursue her, so I took the male lead role from Xavier."

Cathy did not know what to say.

"All it took was a phone call."

Adrian suddenly stopped writing.

Cathy was stunned for a moment.

With that, she got up and left the study.

privilege."

Can he do that?

"Since the lead actors were set, it must be hard to switch actors, isn't it?"

He looked up and glanced at Cathy with his deep-set eyes. "If you like any movie project, you can let me know too."

Cathy stretched languidly. "It's late. If there is nothing else, I'm going to bed."

Then, she shrugged and said, "I'm just a stunt double, so I don't need that kind of special Tyrell stood still and watched her walking away. Then, he frowned slightly and said, "Uncle Adrian, are you not going to investigate Cathy's past?"

"I can see that she likes acting and is experienced in it."

"What has happened that made her unwilling to be an actress?"

However, he did not want to delve into her past.

No matter who she was in the past or what she experienced, it did not matter to him.

All he wanted was for her to be happy in their marriage. Nothing else mattered.

Adrian looked down at his document and continued writing. "It could be a trauma."

Tyrell pouted and said, "That's a pity."

"No, it's not. As long as she loves acting, she would become famous eventually."

"But she is unwilling to be an actress."

Adrian looked down at his document and continued softly, "Since she is unwilling to be an actress, is she not going to act in any film?"