```
Chapter 47 She Is Watching You
```

"Yes."

Cathy nodded and took more food for herself. "What's wrong?"

"We are going the same way."

"I'll send both of you there tomorrow."

Adrian easily took the food on her plate with his fork and put it in his mouth. "This shall be your fare."

Cathy was rendered speechless.

"My goodness! Are you saying that I can ride in the same car with Mr. Bolton to Tee City?"

After dinner, Cathy informed Quinn of Adrian's offer to send them. Quinn instantly went crazy with excitement on WhatsApp. "Initially, I thought to dress casually. Now, I have to bring out the most expensive clothes in my closet!"

Cathy sat on the bay window seat and snuck a glance at Adrian who sat afar.

He was reading a book in bed.

The table lamp shone on his face, making the contours of his face even more attractive.

She pursed her lips and carefully sent her reply. "You don't have to go to such extent..."

"This is not being excessive!"

Quinn sent a picture of her rolling her eyes. "Cathy, I'm your best friend."

Cathy felt down the moment she heard about Xavier and Willow.

"Otherwise, he would think that you only know shameless people like Willow and Xavier!"

"Since it will be my first time meeting Mr. Bolton, I need to leave a good impression!"

After chatting with Quinn for a while longer, she shut her phone and went to bed.

Adrian put down his book and turned off the bedroom lights.

"I do feel a little unhappy."

Cathy stared at the ceiling and said, "Willow is pregnant."

Cathy closed her eyes. "Willow came to me this afternoon."

He left a bedside lamp on, making the bedroom dim.

"You seem unhappy."

"So?"

Adrian asked indifferently.

Cathy lost a child five years ago.

A child would always be innocent.

extra kindness."

It was a severe one.

still remember how it felt.

"Mommy, why didn't you protect me."

In the end, she finally caught the girl.

"Mommy."

"Mommy, I miss you. Why didn't you come for me..."

Therefore, she understood the pain of losing a child.

"Protecting a child is a parent's responsibility. Not yours."

than a month away from the estimated pregnancy due date.

In the end, she lost her baby and more than a month of her memories.

She dreamt of a little girl who looked just like her, crying before her.

She got into a car accident on the way to the airport.

Protecting a child is a parent's responsibility.

"I don't want to harm a pregnant woman."

"I think you're right. I made them think that I'm weak, so they assumed that they could bully and acted unscrupulously."

"I want to become strong and make them pay for all that they have done..."

She gave a long sigh and continued, "But Willow is pregnant."

She also knew how cruel it was to deny a child the chance of coming into this world.

"Why does it matter that she is pregnant?"

Since she had experienced such hurt, she could not bring herself to harm another innocent life.

Adrian said in an emotionless tone. "If they don't care about their child... You don't have to show

His words made Cathy fall silent for a long time.

After a while, she closed her eyes and gripped the blanket.

I... I am unworthy to be called a mother.

Five years ago, she insisted on sending Xavier to the airport despite knowing that she was less

The doctors spent a whole day in the surgery room to save her life.

That night, Cathy had a dream.

She felt despair and helplessness when she found out that she lost her child. Even now, she could

"Mommy, I want to live with you..."

Cathy felt pain in her heart as she watched the little girl weep.

She ran as fast as she could to reach the little girl, but the girl kept moving further away from her.

No matter how hard she ran or extended her hand, she could never reach her.

She pulled the girl into her embrace. "I was wrong. I failed to protect you..."

Suddenly, Cathy heard the voices of two children behind her.

She turned around quickly with the girl still in her arms.

It was Arius and Abner. They were both crying pitifully.

tears from Arius' face. "Don't cry. I want you and Abner too."

Her dream disappeared, and she was covered in sweat.

"Mommy."

The two boys looked at her as they wept. "Do you not want us anymore?"

Cathy was stunned for a moment. She hugged her daughter and reached for them, trying to wipe

"I want the both of you!"

Cathy sat up on the bed.

However, she could not fall asleep.

The door was slightly open.

Adrian was in a meeting again.

through the night to match his time.

Suddenly...

His voice was quite loud.

"I want..."

She gripped her shirt collar and gasped for breath. It took a while before she could calm down from her nightmare.

In the end, she sighed and lay back down on the bed.

She looked at the time and saw that it was slightly past six o'clock.

Voices speaking in a foreign language sounded from the computer.

She walked out of the bedroom and passed by the study.

Therefore, she tossed and turned on the bed for a while before deciding to get up.

Adrian was focusing on a computer screen in the study.

Cathy pursed her lips and remembered Adrian mentioning that it was more efficient for him to stay up alone for an international meeting than asking the dozen overseas executives to work

Cathy stood at the door and watched Adrian working seriously. She couldn't stop her heart from fluttering as she listened to him speaking fluent French.

"Why are you eavesdropping at daddy's study?"

Adrian heard Abner and stopped speaking French.

Abner appeared before Cathy with bleary eyes. "Mommy, good morning."

Cathy pursed her lips and glanced into the study.

She accidentally met Adrian's sharp gaze.

Abner smiled mischievously as he watched Cathy running away.

did not care and climbed up to his desk to sit there.

Cathy panicked and ran down the stairs.

He sat on the edge of the table. His pajamas clad legs dangling from the side. "Mommy watched you secretly at the door for a long time just now."

His gaze felt dangerous. It seemed as if he could read her mind.

"I don't think she understands French, so it is not to spy on the company's secret."

Adrian looked at him indifferently and shut down the computer. "What was she doing then?"

He yawned and pushed the door to the study. Adrian was still in the midst of a meeting, but Abner

"She was looking at you."

Abner rolled his eyes. "Daddy, have more confidence in yourself. Mommy was looking at you."

Adrian seemed a little happier than before. "Why would she be looking at me?"

Abner frowned and considered the question. "She might be wondering when you are going to bring her to Tee City."

His answer rendered Adrian speechless.