Chapter 6 Something a Husband Is Entitled To

Cathy looked at Arius and frowned. How did he get hungry so soon?

Then, she quickly put on a jacket and went downstairs to cook breakfast for Arius.

As she worked in the kitchen, she pulled up her sleeves, revealing the bruises and scratches on her arms.

Arius was seated at the dining table. He frowned when he noticed the injuries on her arm.

Soon, Cathy served two identical plates of breakfast on the dining table. Arius kept staring at Cathy with big and adorable eyes.

His eyes were bright as crystals. He had well-formed facial features and soft cheeks.

He looked so adorable when he looked at her with such a serious expression. Cathy felt her heart melt from his cuteness.

She bent down and said gently, "Arius, what's wrong?"

Arius pointed his finger to her arm. "You're hurt."

He quickly jumped off his chair and went to get the first aid box from the shelf.

"It's okay."

Cathy took the first aid box from him. "I'll do it myself."

Hearing her, Arius finally returned to his seat. He watched her quietly as he ate breakfast.

Cathy opened the first aid box.

If Arius had not mention anything, she wouldn't have noticed the amount of bruises on her body.

She applied ointment to the bruises and quietly cursed the man in her mind.

She quickly applied ointment on her arms before showing them to Arius and said, "I'm done!"

"Your legs too."

Cathy was surprised.

How did he know I have bruises on my legs?

Suddenly, Cathy's phone rang.

"Cathy, now that you are done with your wedding, can you come to the studio?" Quinn sounded worried.

"We have a lot of scenes to shoot today. The studio manager said that an actress wanted to see you..."

Cathy pinched between her eyebrows and answered, "I'll go there immediately."

When Cathy was dating Xavier, she wanted to see him every day without raising suspicion. Therefore, she listened to Xavier's suggestion and became a stunt double.

Among stunt doubles, martial arts stunt doubles earned the most. Therefore, Cathy quickly decided to become a martial arts stunt double.

As she was the only female stunt double in the studio, she received a lot of work.

"I have to go to work now!"

Cathy went to the doorway and searched for her shoes.

"You can't go!'

Arius jumped down from his chair and rushed to the door. He extended his arms to block her way.

"You are injured. Therefore, you have to rest."

His childish voice carried authority and concern.

Cathy's heart softened at his concern. She kneeled down and patted his head lovingly. "I am alright. These injuries don't bother me."

She was a martial arts stunt double. These bruises are nothing to her.

"No!"

Arius gritted his teeth and continued to block Cathy's way. "Five minutes."

"You can only leave after five minutes."

"Sure."

Cathy could afford to wait for five minutes.

Arius breathed a sigh of relief and tapped Abner's contact on his phone to send a message.

Soon, Abner, who was wearing the same style of light yellow pajamas as Arius, went into the study.

"Daddy, I need your help with something!"

• • •

Time passed slowly.

Cathy put on her shoes and smiled at Arius. "We agreed to wait for five minutes. Four minutes have passed."

"Once the time is up, you must not stop me from going to work."

Arius nodded solemnly. "Yes, I won't."

When there were only thirty seconds left, Cathy's phone rang.

"Cathy, you don't have to come to work anymore."

Quinn said excitedly, "The studio is having a holiday today!"

Cathy was stunned for a moment. "A holiday?"

"Yes."

Quinn explained enviously, "I heard it is because an important man didn't want his wife to have to work today. Therefore, he ordered the whole studio to shut down for a day."

"It's amazing how the rich can afford to be impulsive!"

Cathy gripped her phone blankly.

The studio was always busy. From the day she started working there, she had never had a holiday.

Now, it suddenly shut down for an important man's wife.

That's really impulsive.

Cathy had no choice but to put down the phone.

She could almost feel money slipping away from her grasp.

On the other hand, Arius seemed elated.

After a moment, he coughed solemnly and said, "You should eat some breakfast."

"Sure."

Since Cathy could not go to work, she had no choice but to have breakfast as Arius said.

However, Arius did not return to the dining table.

He put his hands in his pocket and walked toward the stairs suavely. "I have to deal with something."

Then, he turned around and went upstairs.

After taking a few steps, he suddenly glanced at the food on the table and said, "You should finish it."

Cathy was amused by his words. "You asked me to make two portions of breakfast, but you only finished one."

Arius paused for a moment.

After thinking for a moment, he answered, "I'll come down to finish it soon."

After that, Arius continued to walk upstairs.

Soon, Abner ran down the stairs, sporting the hair that Arius had ruffled. "I'm here to eat my breakfast!"

He rushed to the dining table and took a seat. Then, he ate the food and said, "It's delicious!"

Cathy was stunned.

Why did he change into another person after a trip upstairs?

• • •

Meanwhile, in a study upstairs.

A dignified and stern man worked at his desk.

Suddenly, Arius opened the door and came in. He climbed up the chair and got onto the desk.

Then, he sat on the desk and pushed his phone to Adrian. "Mr. Bolton."

The man stopped typing on his keyboard and picked up the phone.

The screen showed a woman with bruises and scratches on her arm.

In the next photo, it showed bruises all over her legs.

Arius crossed his arms and said angrily, "I demand an explanation."

Adrian put down the phone, crossed his arms, and leaned back against his chair. Then, he said sternly, "You wanted me to marry her. I don't have to explain to you what I am entitled to do as a husband."

"She is under my protection."

Arius looked like a miniature version of Adrian. He met Adrian's gaze fearlessly. His voice was childish, but unwavering. "You hurt my person. How dare you not explain?"

The father and son sat with the same dominant posture. Both of them continued to glare at each other and refused to back down.

"Sir..."

Suddenly, the butler came in. "The studio's purchasing agreement has been..."

The butler stopped speaking when he saw two pairs of furious eyes glaring in his direction.

Then, a masculine and a childish voice spoke at the same time.

"Get out."

"Get out."

The butler was rendered speechless.

He looked at Adrian and Arius timidly and asked softly, "What is it this time?"

"He hurt someone under my protection."

Arius gritted his teeth and shouted.

The butler was stunned for a moment before realizing what Arius was saying. Is he talking about madam?

"Arius, you misunderstood."

The butler was at his wits end. "It wasn't your father who caused madam's injury."