Chapter 86 Goodnight

Adrian frowned slightly. He raised his hand and pulled Cathy into his arms. He leaned into her ear and breathed, "Cured without medicine?"

Cathy's face turned red. She nodded silently. "Yes."

She did not know why, but she didn't seem to hate Adrian's touch since the beginning.

This man seemed to have some kind of magic...

This had never happened to her before.

Adrian carried her. He lifted her chin with his big hand and gently planted a kiss on her lips.

"Then we are each other's medicine."

His phobia of women was also miraculously cured by her.

Wasn't this fate if two people with the same phobia met and cured each other?

Evan, who was driving, felt a little uncomfortable seeing both of them so lovey-dovey.

He quietly put down the partition between the backseat and the driver's seat. He stared straight ahead as if nothing had happened.

The partition lowered, completely separating the front and rear seats of the car.

Cathy was startled. "This is..."

"Just a single man refusing to watch a couple being lovey-dovey."

Adrian's tone carried a hint of humor.

After speaking, he leaned against Cathy, pressing her against him and the leather seat of the car. He kissed her lips.

Their passion for each other went on and on.

Time flew by quickly as they were having fun.

Cathy's side and opened the door for her.

Although Evan had slowed down the speed of the car, Yoel's hospital was too near to the Boltons family villa. They arrived home in half an hour.

After the car stopped, Adrian got off the car with a displeased expression. He went around to

The blushing woman got out of the car. She headed to the boot to get the food she had bought.

Adrian frowned lightly and called, "Evan."

Evan understood and immediately stopped Cathy. "Mrs. Bolton, let me help you."

As soon as she entered the door, she saw the terrifying picture playing on the computer screen. She got so frightened that she almost fainted!

She hurriedly went in and turned off the computer. "Ember, what's going on?"

Ember buried her face into Marion's arms. She burst into tears. "Why is everything so difficult for Marion's heart ached as she listened to her daughter's cry.

My computer got hacked too when all I wanted to do was just to spread rumors about Cathy

"Does all of these that have made you unhappy recently have something to do with Cathy?"

"Yes!"

Marion squinted and looked ahead grimly. "I don't think it's because she is cursed. I think she is

"Don't be afraid, Ember! You still have daddy and mommy, as well as the whole Shaw family!"

After Marion finished speaking, she lowered her head and looked at Ember. "I will ask your father

She raised her hand and patted Ember's back. "Ember, is everything you said true?"

Ember's tears fell uncontrollably as she cried, "It is all Cathy's fault! She is cursed!"

"If Master Bolton promises to watch Cathy, we will let go of her this time."

"If he is not willing to do that, we will show him evidence that Cathy has given birth before!"

Ember laid in Marion's arms. She burst into tears. Her voice quavered, but there was a cunning

Cathy made a very hearty dinner.

After dinner, she cleaned up the kitchen briefly and went back to the bedroom.

"I will ask your father to find someone to unlock this computer for you now!"

After speaking, she got up immediately and strode away.

Both the kids enjoyed their meal very much.

There was nothing interesting on Weibo.

The woman frowned. She looked up the number marked 'darling' in her address book and sent a mushy text.

The man was listening to the audio report seriously with his eyebrows neatly knitted against each

Adrian frowned and clicked the message to open it.

"Darling, I'm going to rest. Good night!"

He raised his hand and pressed onto the pause button of the audio report.

Adrian stared at his phone for a while. Finally, he took a deep breath and stood up.

When he said those words, his brows immediately smoothened.

Cathy waited for a long time for Quinn's reply but she did not receive any. So, she put down her phone. Just as she was about to sleep, the bedroom door suddenly opened.

The lights in the hallway shone on the man. It made him look seductive and sexy.

After a long while, the man raised his head. He fixed his bottomless gaze on Cathy's face and said, "Goodnight."
