Chapter 87 I'm Not So Free

Cathy stared at Adrian blankly. She was somewhat surprised. "Good... Goodnight."

"I'm going to work."

The man took a deep breath, smiled at her, closed the door, and turned to leave.

Cathy stared at the closed door blankly for quite some time before she regained her senses.

Her face felt hot, but she felt so sweet inside. She giggled out loudly.

After a while, she pulled the quilt over her head.

She had a good night's sleep.

She saw Adrian lying beside her, sleeping soundly.

The next morning, Cathy got up early.

She did not know when he slept. She tiptoed out of the room quietly so as not to disturb his sleep. When she went downstairs to make breakfast, she saw Evan asleep on the sofa in the living room.

The sky was yet to light up, and the maids have not arrived to work. Cathy frowned. She hesitated for a moment, and finally tiptoed quietly over. She picked up a blanket and covered Evan. Evan was Adrian's personal assistant. He had to stay with Adrian as long as Adrian was at work.

Judging from Evan's appearance, they must have worked till very late last night. So, Evan didn't go home at all.

Evan opened his eyes in alert. He must have heard some noise around him.

A tinge of relief flashed across the man's face when he saw that it was Cathy.

"Mrs. Bolton."

Evan yawned. "You're up early."

He glanced at the clock. It was only half past six in the morning.

"Past three."

Evan sat up and went to the bathroom to wash his face.

"What time did you finish work yesterday?"

Cathy felt a little pity towards him. "Have you... and Adrian always worked till so late?"

Evan was flattered. "I can't..."

"Thank you."

Evan smiled lightly. "We are used to it."

"Aren't you going to sleep?"

"Yes."

But such irregular working and resting hours are unhealthy.

Cathy pursed her lips. She opened her mouth to say something, but did not speak in the end.

She put one of the small plates in front of Evan and said, "These are for you."

The woman put on her apron and started hustling in the kitchen,

"No, Mr. Bolton has a meeting at around eight o'clock later. I have to stay awake to wake him up

Half an hour later, a scrumptious breakfast was served.

"It's nothing." Cathy looked at his face solemnly and said. "I can see that you are loyal to Adrian."

"Without your care, he would have collapsed long ago for having such an irregular schedule."

She had an early morning scene to shoot today. She had to arrive before the sun rises.

After speaking, she went to the entrance, put on her shoes, picked up her coat, and left.

"Help me tell Adrian that he shouldn't stay up so late in the future anymore. It's not healthy."

Evan quickly turned around.

Evan nodded. "I sure will."

"Uncle Evan."

sister."

... Is this Abner?

She took off her apron. "It's time for me to go to work."

Evan sat on the chair and watched her leave. He was at a loss.

A boy in a pajamas with yellow printed stars stood behind him.

"Uncle Evan." Suddenly, he heard a child's voice ringing clearly in his ears.

Evan was always unable to distinguish between Abner and Arius.

But, this child was grinning at him innocently. This must be young master Abner.

Young master Arius was always introverted and calm. He never smiled like this.

Evan coughed lightly and raised his hand to greet Abner. "Young Master Abner."

"Mmm." The little boy smiled and looked at Evan. "You have to tell daddy what mommy said just now."

Evan froze for a while, then nodded quickly. "Understood!" "Good luck then!"

"If you put it in a way that daddy likes, he will be happier to hear it."

At eight o'clock, Evan woke Adrian up for the meeting.

The meeting went on for about half an hour.

"She left you a message before she went out..."

A little kid's face was seen at the stair railing.

So, he took a deep breath and said, "Mrs. Bolton said that she hoped you would pay more attention to your health in the future for you and your future daughter's sake. She will only be willing to give birth to a daughter if you take care of your body."

He gave Evan a thumbs up, then turned around and went back to his room.

"Abner, you're not the only one who can pretend to be me."

When he said this, he couldn't help but glance upstairs from the corner of his eye.

Just as he was about to continue, he suddenly remembered Abner's advice.

After a whole day of shooting, Cathy felt tired but satisfied. She stood at the gate of the studio to wait for the bus after work.

Almost the entire entertainment section was occupied by Flynn Jasper. And the reason was all because of scandals with some female star.

Cathy was a little amused. She thought of the female fans who surrounded and blocked her way yesterday.

At this moment, a black Maserati stopped in front of Cathy.

Cathy quickly opened the door and hopped in.

The car window was lowered, revealing Adrian's handsome face. "Get in."

Cathy paused, then put her phone away. "I'm reading the gossip about Flynn."

She suddenly thought of something as she spoke. "You said yesterday... That you were going to mess with Flynn."

"You didn't do this... did you?" "It wasn't me."

Adrian looked out of the car window calmly. "I don't have so much time to do such things."

Of course, this was done by Abner and Arius.

She coughed lightly and changed the subject. "Why did you come to pick me up in person today?"

"Dorian Shaw contacted me today." Adrian turned his face towards Cathy. "He wanted me to go over for a visit, and especially told me not to bring you along." "But apart from you, I don't have anything else to talk to him about. So, I thought I'd better bring you."

The man's answer made Cathy a little embarrassed.
