Just as the two brothers were contemplating, Ember's message arrived again.

"Why aren't you unlocking my computer yet? Is the money not enough?"

"I can give you another ten thousand if you unlock my computer immediately. I'm in a hurry now!"

Arius frowned when he read Cathy's message. He called Cathy.

"Mommy, are you off from work already?"

"Yes, I'm off from work already."

The woman's voice was very gentle.

In the past, whenever Abner heard Cathy speak to him in a concerned tone, he would feel warmth. But today, he felt a little distressed from listening to her.

Why did Abner suddenly say that?

The man frowned lightly and asked, "What did that little bastard say again?"

"We made you stay by Daddy's side, so we will be responsible for you till the end."

"He has a bee in his bonnet again."

Cathy pursed her lips and repeated Abner's words.

"That is because..."

Cathy's face flushed. She quickly shook her head. "I'm not!"

He stared at her face with his bottomless eyes. "Are you worried that I might dislike you and give

Adrian raised his head and pulled Cathy into his arms. "Why is he suddenly telling you this?"

He was sure that Abner had said this because she was worried that he would give her up.

Every year, they would go and pay homage to their mother on the anniversary of her death. After Cathy married into the family, Arius was the one who suggested to Abner to call her Mommy instead of mother. Because they have their own mother.

Indeed, when he had first arranged for Cathy to marry Adrian, he spoke a lot of nonsense in front of the Bolton family...

He coughed lightly when he thought of this. He turned his face away and said, "Of course. Cathy is just like my own daughter in my heart..."

Just as the man finished speaking, a thin figure walked out from behind Adrian.
