Chapter 95 Cathy Was the Woman in Room 103?

Two nurses whispered amongst themselves in the hospital corridor.

"The hospital director is still in a bad mood. He complained that Dr. Bailey allowed someone to access the mental asylum's medical record without his permission..."

"You have no idea. There is a pitiful woman... She had gone mad after her child died. She went

"Why is Dr. Bailey suddenly so concerned about the medical record from the mental asylum?"

"She was caught in the rain and fell sick from grief. Now, she is lying unconscious in our hospital... I pity her..."

The nurses' words caused Karen to pause in her steps.

She thought for a moment, and her lips curved into a cold smirk.

Could Adrian's new wife be the pitiful woman the nurses are talking about?

She approached them and asked, "Who is this woman that you are talking about?"

Seeing Karen, the nurses exchanged glances and did not dare to speak.

Karen frowned and took out a bundle of cash from her bag. "Speak."

Karen narrowed her eyes coldly and took another bundle of cash from her bag. "Can you give me more details?"

There was a moment of silence before one of the nurses stepped up and said, "I'll tell you. It's the as evidence.

"I'm busy."

Number 302 was Cathy's room.

Karen threw the money to the floor and turned around, heading to the staircase at the end of the corridor.

After making sure that no one was behind her, she took out her phone and dialed a number.

"I want to investigate a woman named Cathy Shaw. She gave birth before, and I want solid

Words alone are useless. Therefore, what I hear from the nurses about Cathy's past cannot be used

The woman on the phone said in an emotionless tone, "What for?"

I need to obtain concrete proof to convince Apollo.

Once I obtain sufficient evidence, I won't have to do anything else. Apollo will kick Cathy out of the house.

Although Apollo is a kind man, he is still a conservative elderly.

"Lisabeth, can you help me to investigate a woman?"

"Lisabeth, I rarely ever ask for your help. Can't you help me this time?"

Karen smiled and said, "Lisabeth, how can you say that? I understand you are busy."

The woman on the phone sounded impatient. "Can't you investigate it on your own?"

Her words made Lisabeth fall silent for a long while.

"Thank you so much, Lisabeth."

me to investigate?"

"Yes."

"It's fake?"

"It is fake."

"Is it C-A-T-H-Y-S-H-A-W?"

Then, Lisabeth said, "I'll check it for you."

"Karen, I'm not your maid."

Karen smiled at the phone. "I knew you would help me with such a minor matter."

"After all, you helped me to resolve that problem five years ago."

"What happened five years ago was due to your carelessness."

Karen chuckled coldly. "I'm not blaming you. I am only reminiscing about the past with you. Why are you so sensitive?"

Lisabeth did not want to waste time chatting with her. "What is the name of the woman you want Lisabeth's mood dropped instantly upon hearing Karen mentioning the matter from five years ago.

"I told you not to run around. You exposed that you were not pregnant by yourself. Therefore, you

"Cathy Shaw."

Lisabeth was silent for a long while.

"The document about her child's death is fake. If you take this to attack her, you are bringing trouble to yourself."

Then, she lowered her voice and said, "Forget it."

Karen's frown deepened. "How can it be fake..."

Lisabeth sounded a little impatient. "Do you remember that I falsified a medical record of a woman's stillbirth for you five years ago?"

"Once Adrian finds out everything, do you think you can still survive?"

Karen raised her eyebrows, and her voice turned cold. "What do you mean?"

Karen gripped her phone and stood stunned on her spot.

How is this possible...

"Lisabeth, are you sure... It's her?"

"I am certain. I oversaw everything back then!"

"There is nothing much you can do."

Adrian.

Are there such coincidences in this world?

Cathy is that woman?

"That woman was Cathy Shaw."

Karen began to panic.

"What should I do..."

memories, do you think you would still be with the Bolton family?"

"This matter requires a long-term plan. You can't act rashly. If you trigger her memory and cause her to remember everything, you are doomed!"

After that, Lisabeth hung up immediately.

Karen felt her mind bursting with anxiety.

How is this possible...

Before today, she never considered the matter concerning Cathy.

On the other hand, Karen had lived with the Bolton family for ten years and had enjoyed the status of Adrian's fiancée all those years. She assumed that Cathy was just a temporary fling for

To Karen, Cathy was just a lowly stunt double. Therefore, she didn't think Cathy would cause any Karen stood stunned on her spot and felt all her energy drained from her body.

Lisabeth remained silent for a moment before continuing, "It is either she dies or you. There is no

If Cathy regained her memories, Adrian would realize that the woman from five years ago was still alive...

That woman is a time bomb. Who knows when she would bring up what happened five years ago?

However, she did not expect Cathy to be that woman from five years ago...

If Adrian finds out that I caused the fire and gave her daughter to...

No, I can't let Cathy continue to remain by Adrian's side.

Before Karen could calm down, she heard a man's mocking tone.

She gathered her wits and turned towards the voice.

Karen broke out in a cold sweat.

"Oh, isn't that Ms. Davies?"

Yoel stood at the top of the staircase and looked at her with his arms crossed. "You look to be in a bad mood. Why? Did someone dump you?"

Karen rolled her eyes and put her phone back. She wanted to walk past him and leave.

However, she did not expect her legs to give way from the shock of hearing Lisabeth's words.

She had just taken a step when she began to fall towards Yoel's arms...

Yoel immediately stepped aside.

"Tsk, tsk. Look at how clumsy you are."

"Bam!" Karen fell face down onto the floor.

Yoel smiled mockingly. "Luckily I moved away fast enough. Otherwise, you would've crushed me."
