

Chapter 1358 Crafting An Original Song

---

Lorraine's confidence surged after the music festival as her song received widespread approval.

She felt reassured about the upcoming music show and chose a song from Shepherd for her debut.

Suddenly, the director informed her that only original songs were permitted, revealing this just three days before her performance.

Lorraine was momentarily stunned by this news but soon came to terms with it.

After all, she was Alice, the renowned lead singer of Shepherd. Wouldn't all of Shepherd's songs be considered her own compositions?

Thus, Lorraine submitted the song she had chosen.

Later that afternoon, the director's assistant contacted her.

The assistant began sarcastically, "Didn't you read the notice? We stated clearly that only original songs are allowed. Why did you submit someone else's song?"

Lorraine attempted to explain, "I am the lead singer of Shepherd, so—" claim I'm the lead singer too. You merely look like Alice because of cosmetic surgery. Do you honestly think you are Alice? It's disgraceful for you to claim someone else's song as your own."

"Please speak with respect!" Loraine retorted, her anger rising.

The assistant's tone became even more disdainful. "The bottom line is, it needs to be an original song!"

He then abruptly ended the call.

Feeling somewhat helpless, Loraine realized she could not remember the other members of Shepherd, leaving her with no way to prove her identity. She saw no option but to attempt writing a new song herself.

Upon learning of these developments, Rita immediately visited her.

Upon seeing Loraine, she expressed her disapproval sternly. "This director is out of line. How could he suddenly change the requirements?"

Loraine sighed deeply. "There's nothing we can do. After all, he's the director."

Rita was visibly upset, exclaiming, "I can't tolerate this. I'll confront the director myself. He wouldn't dare disregard our influence."

Loraine calmly responded, "Let it go. Leveraging our influence isn't fair and will raise doubts about my capabilities. Remember, I was Alice before. I can still write a new song on my own now."

"But—" Rita's concern was evident.

Loraine offered a reassuring smile. "Don't worry. I want my talent to be the reason for my success, not the influence I wield."

Lorraine's resolve left Rita in awe, realizing just how extraordinary Lorraine truly was.

With Lorraine's mind set, Rita had to accept her decision.

Lorraine waved goodbye to Rita and turned her focus to crafting her song.

When Ariadna came back and noticed Lorraine working, she asked, "Why are you writing a song now? Isn't the show about to start?"

Lorraine quickly briefed her on the situation and concluded, "Don't worry, it's just an original piece. It's not a big deal for me."

Ariadna expressed her concern. "But you've lost your memory. What if you're unable to do it?"

She lamented, "That director is targeting you. I've always known the entertainment industry is ruthless. Perhaps we should steer clear of it."

Lorraine responded with a casual smile and reassured Ariadna, "There's no need to worry so much. Don't you trust me? I've already got an idea. I'm sure I can manage."

Ariadna felt reassured by Lorraine's poise and confidence, recognizing the return of Lorraine's former calm demeanor. She embraced Lorraine, saying, "You're right. You can do this. I have faith in you!"

 Limited-time offer: 30 minutes of free reading>>

Claim Now