

Chapter 1366 Best Friends Forever

Ariadna unexpectedly found herself in front of Loraine's house, unaware of how she had arrived. She stood there, her mind adrift, staring blankly into space.

Just then, Loraine stepped outside, cradling Ariadna's child.

Noticing Ariadna's pale face, Loraine asked with concern, "Are you okay?"

Ariadna blinked, returning to the present moment, her emotions swirling.

After a brief hesitation, she asked, "How has it been getting back to your singing career?"

Loraine smiled faintly, her eyes bright. She replied earnestly, "It's been wonderful. I feel so much more assured. Your support helped me find my way again."

Seeing Loraine's renewed confidence, Ariadna felt a bittersweet mixture of joy for her friend and sadness at their approaching farewell.

Searching for words, she fibbed, "Mr. K just informed me that a design academy abroad has accepted my inspired me to do the same. But it means we'll be apart for quite a while."

Loraine froze for a second, the memory of sending another close friend away resurfacing in her mind, bringing a wave of nostalgia.

She responded instinctively, "Even if we're apart, you are still my best friend. I'll be here waiting for you to come back."

Ariadna, touched by her words, felt a deep surge of affection as Loraine wrapped her in a warm embrace.

Overcome with emotion, Ariadna murmured, "Best friends forever."

They held each other tightly as if trying to capture the warmth of that moment for eternity.

Meanwhile, after Ariadna left, Mr. K sat silently at his desk, his eyes contemplative.

After a while, he picked up the phone and dialed.

A voice on the other line said, "Boss, although we're still in touch with Keely and have some intel on Marco's plans regarding Eplistan, Keely's messages are odd. She may not be acting freely."

Mr. K sighed and responded, "I understand Marco's a difficult opponent. But his deep affection for Loraine should keep him preoccupied with her, especially with her memory loss."

After a brief pause, he added, "Withdraw our people. Marco isn't someone easy to deal with. It's better not to get too entangled with his crew."

The subordinate inquired, "What about Ariadna? She's Marco's cousin, after all."

Mr. K fell into a thoughtful silence, recalling Ariadna's innocent face.

That image stirred something within him. After a pause, he finally said, "Leave Ariadna alone. I have my own plans for her."

A few days later, the eagerly awaited music show finally aired.

However, Loraine barely appeared on screen, and her segment was aired late, as though deliberately sidelined.

At first, the internet buzzed with admiration for Miranda, with people showering her with praise and reminiscing about the memories she invoked.

The enthusiasm online made it seem like Miranda was the sole focus of everyone's attention.

The show's director sat in his office, relishing the flood of positive comments. He smugly remarked, "Who cares if Loraine sings well? Miranda's the one who gets people talking. This is exactly the kind of buzz we needed for the show."

He grinned with satisfaction as though he had made a brilliant decision.

