

Chapter 1368 Social Media Storm

One of Miranda's fans was the first to voice his anger online, launching a heated attack on Vincent in a long post.

"Miranda has been in the industry for years, so it's only natural that her voice has changed over time. As she gets older, her voice can't sound as sweet as it used to. This time, she performed one of her classic songs to make her fans happy. But Vincent had the audacity to make fun of Miranda for acting like she's young. Who does he think he is? He's an actor, not a singer. What makes him think he can judge her?"

This post quickly sparked outrage among Miranda's fans, who united to defend their idol.

"Exactly! Do you think being a singer is a walk in the park? Does anyone have the right to criticize a professional singer? Since when did actors become the judges of singing competitions?"

"How absurd! Someone needs to look into why an actor was allowed to judge a music show. Seriously."

"Duh, is Vincent jealous of Miranda? That's just silly."

"Come on. I don't think his acting is all that impressive. Maybe he bought his Best Actor title."

In response to the harsh comments, Vincent's fans stood their ground and quickly fired back.

"Come on! Vincent was already winning awards when Miranda was still unknown."

"Miranda's performance was awful, and you can't face the truth, can you? Vincent wasn't lying, you know."

"His criticism was actually constructive feedback to aid Miranda's progress. Some people can't take feedback because they know they aren't good. For crying out loud! Just accept the truth!"

Fans from both sides were going at it.

Miranda's supporters, fueled by their idol, even began to target Loraine.

"Isn't Lorrie just copying Alice from the Shepherd? And what's with this 'removing the mask to embrace a new life' nonsense? Is she trying to climb over Alice to get ahead?"

"People who aren't so good-looking often seek attention. Poor Alice, having to put up with this."

"Plastic surgery diva, just leave the entertainment industry!"

These comments spread quickly, and soon, the topic "Loraine Stepping on the Shepherd Band" was trending.

This caught the attention of the Shepherd's fans, who were outraged and started attacking Loraine.

"Lorrie is the real problem here. She's just trying to ride on Alice's fame. It's pathetic!"

"She has talent but lacks integrity! How terrible!"

"People like her should just go away. She lacks respect for other singers!"

The online backlash against Loraine was intense, making her the focus of widespread criticism.

Rita was furious when she saw the news, but she understood that Loraine, who had lost her memory and undergone reconstructive surgery from her injuries, probably didn't even realize she was Alice from the Shepherd.

All Rita could do was have the public relations team release a statement claiming that Loraine had no such intentions.

The public relations team quickly issued a statement, highlighting that Loraine's performance was driven solely by her passion for music and her desire to challenge herself, with no intention of overshadowing anyone.

However, the statement did little to calm the anger, and the online attacks kept coming.

Rita decided to investigate who was spreading these malicious rumors.

She sensed there had to be someone behind the scenes pulling the strings, as things had escalated far too quickly and harshly.

Watching how busy Rita was, Loraine felt a wave of guilt.

She realized she had put Rita in a tough spot and wanted to make things right.

So, she went online to look for any clues about the Shepherd.

She hoped to reach out to them, believing that even though she couldn't remember much, her voice had stayed the same. Maybe the band members would recognize her and help confirm her identity.

While searching, Loraine came across Alice's face and instinctively felt it might be her.

An inexplicable sense of familiarity arose in her heart upon encountering that face.

While searching, she came across a photo of herself and Marco.

Both of them were smiling brightly, their eyes full of love.
