Timothy Greene nodded: "I was confused for a while, but Miss Hou was more open than I thought."

Juliana Lewis is hard to say. After all, Timothy Greene is different from Stewart Morris.

Stewart Morris, that's real scum.

Timothy Greene, however, has a person in her heart, and this person is still her, which is embarrassing.

Timothy Greene obviously couldn't tell Juliana Lewis more, for fear that she would think more and hate him. He said, "I didn't go on the day of your wedding banquet."

Juliana Lewis: "A little matchmaking feast doesn't matter."

Timothy Greene said. He looked at the landing wine and had a lot to say, but finally said, "I have something to do. I'll go first. See you when Mrs. Li is free."

Juliana Lewis nodded. "Okay."

Timothy Greene nodded slightly and then turned away.

He wanted very much to look back at Juliana Lewis, but this impulse made him resist.

He can't trouble her because he likes her.

His liking will not bring her joy, but only annoyance.
