

Miss Mystery Got Busted Chapter 29:

Applying Medicine

"It's true..." Juliana just opened her mouth when she saw Benson's slightly red eyes, which meant his mania was about to attack again.

Juliana hurriedly said, "It was Jermaine who took the glass jug to hit me but I kicked him. The jug fell to the ground and the glass bounced up and hurt my leg. It was not serious and it didn't hurt."

After saying that, she raised her hand to cover Benson's eyes, not letting him to look at it. She coaxed him in a soft voice: "Okay, don't get angry. You're scary."

After all, once Benson's mania attacked, he would kill anyone he saw.

She didn't want to be grabbed by the neck again.

Benson's eyes were covered and he couldn't see anything, so he became more sensitive to the slightest smell of blood.

However, the faint medicinal scent of her delicate hands winding around his nose and her soft voice soothed his violence.

Benson knew he was terrifying when his disease attacked, too. He calmed himself down, "Okay."

At this moment, Philip found a parking spot, pulled over, and then took out the medical kit from the trunk, "Young lady, please bandage your leg up."

There were Benson's medication in the medical kit that was always in the car, and there were also ethanol for disinfection and hemostatic.

When Benson went crazy, he would not only hurt others, but also hurt himself in many cases, so these drugs were often used and were refilled once a week.

Benson said gently, "I'll dress your wound."

Juliana looked at the medical kit helplessly, "There's no need to bandage this little injury, really."

This little injury was no different than a mosquito bite to her.

But Benson was persistent. He insisted on dressing her wound.

Philip opened the car door with the medicine box in his hand and stood by the side. He smiled as he said, "Young master cares for you. He doesn't even care about his own injuries."

Philip parked next to the green belt and left just the right spot for Benson to squat down. Juliana looked at Benson and said, "Benson, it's a tiny injury, really..."

Benson did not speak. He simply knelt on one knee, then forcefully grabbed Juliana's leg and placed it on his knee.

Juliana wanted to withdraw her foot, but Benson held it down firmly and spoke coldly, "If you move again, I'll break your leg."

Juliana: ...

What a domineering and bossy man!

Juliana sat in the car and looked down at Benson who was kneeling on one knee in front of her.

He was seriously and carefully dressing her wound, fearing that he would hurt her if he used a little more strength as if she was as fragile as a porcelain doll that would break if touched.

The scene of him getting down on one knee touched Juliana and reminded her of the time when Stewart proposed.

It was a nationwide broadcast of the proposal, in which Stewart got down on one knee in front of her with flowers in one hand and a diamond ring in the other and asked her to marry him.

Juliana looked at the ugly bowknot on her calf and then at Benson, then nodded, "Okay."

She had lost her parents at fifteen and her brother had gone missing overboard. She had been all alone when the elders of the Sanchez family coveted Sanchez Group and she had to tough it out on her own.

It had been Stewart, Wendy, and Timothy who were there for her, telling her that she was not alone and she got them.

But now, two of them had betrayed and killed her and Timothy had been kept in the dark and befriended them.

So, she could only rely on herself in the end.

Benson noticed the momentary change of Juliana's emotions, which was somewhat negative. He furrowed his brow and said nothing.

Philip felt the atmosphere had changed and asked carefully, "Young master, is it time to go to the company, or..."

Benson: "Go home first."

Juliana said, "Go to Moonshine Club, please."

Benson lowered his eyes with a sullen face and looked at her with displeasure, "Mrs. Leach, do you remember that you're my wife?"

The Moonshine Club was the largest nightclub in F City, where there were hostesses and, naturally, toy boys.

There were young girls who sold their bodies, as well as high-class entertainers who only put on a show.

Of course, the target guests of Moonshine Club were only aimed at power and money.

Benson also went to Moonshine Club for business.

Now he refused to let Juliana go there because all the toy boys she used to keep were from Moonshine Club!

If Benson allowed Juliana to go to Moonshine Club, he would be cuckolding himself.

Juliana looked at him and said seriously, "I'm looking for someone who can examine your medicine, and by the way, I'll get rid of those guys."

Benson stared at Juliana for a long while and did not see perfunctoriness or lies in her eyes. He finally nodded, "You can go when your injury is healed."

He believed her when she said she was going to get a medicine check. Juliana wanted to say that if he hadn't found her wound so soon, it would have been healed by now.

However, she couldn't be insatiable since Benson had given in: "Okay."

He hurriedly drove and turned around to go back to the Leach family when he was relieved to see that the atmosphere had eased again.

The car pulled up steadily in the courtyard as they arrived at Leach's house without a word.

Juliana got out of the car and Benson forcefully picked her up.

Juliana was helpless, "I can walk."

Benson didn't say anything and carried her upstairs, leaving the old Mr. Leach in the living room stunned.

Benson carried her into the room and put her on the bed, "Rest well because you're hurt. Don't go anywhere and don't put your wound in water."

It was better to be obedient to a domineering and authoritarian man, so Juliana nodded obediently, "Ok."

Benson was relieved and turned to leave. When he reached the door, he stopped and called out to her without turning around, "Juliana."

Juliana looked up at him. He did not turn around and she could only see his slender back and the back of his head. She asked, "What's wrong?"
