

Got Busted 37

Chapter 37: Destiny

Wendy appeared on the big screen immediately, sitting on the hospital bed with a pale face, weak and delicate, which made people heartbroken.

Wendy faced the camera and smiled weakly, "Hello, everyone, I'm MW, the jewelry designer."

Benson felt the anger of Juliana in his arms as her hands gripped his tightly as if she wanted to break them off.

He even heard her rapid breathing, which was a desperate attempt to suppress her anger and hatred.

Wendy said, "I have not planned to disclose my identity as a jewelry designer, but my best friend Miranda has passed away and she had donated her heart to me so that I could survive."

"And the MW design was a joint effort between her and me. I don't want Miranda to be forgotten by the world, so now I leave the identity of MW as a designer to Miranda. I hope everyone remembers that from now on the identity of MW designer belongs to Miranda only. I won't design jewelry anymore."

"And I donate the 'Destiny' diamond ring in Miranda's name. May her soul rest in peace! I wish that we can still be friends in the next life. Thank you all."

The bidders' eyes reddened when they saw Wendy nod her head in thanks.

"Oh, MW is so kind! She left such an important identity to Miranda. They were not sisters, but they were better than sisters."

"If I were Miranda, I would have no regrets in life for having such a friend, and I would have died in the right path."
