Chapter 43: Calm Down

Juliana sensed his hardness at once and her face burning up.

She hit his chest with her elbow, "Benson, calm down, or I'll leave you alone."

Benson's voice was hoarse, "I'm calm, but it's excited and I can't control it."

Juliana was embarrassed and annoyed, "You..."

Benson moved his body back a bit and pulled the covers between them to insulate themselves from awkwardness.

When he was done, he said coaxingly in her ear, "Don't be mad, okay?"

His hot breath in her ear made her limp and numb. The husky voice with restraint was like a small hook to Juliana's heart.

She closed her eyes and said, "Sleep now."

After a night without sleep, Benson was really sleepy and did not want to mess with her. Smelling the scent of her body, he soon fell asleep.

Juliana knew she was a pillow to make him sleep well, so she didn't leave.

Juliana took her phone to send a text message.
