

Got Busted 73

Chapter 73: Fainting

Juliana looked at Benson like this and quickly calmed down.

If Benson still had his senses, there was still a chance. He still recognized her, which was different from his previous onset when he had not recognized anyone.

She was going to cure him.

Juliana got out of bed and walked towards him, "Benson..."

Benson yelled at her, "Don't come over here! Don't make a sound! Go away!"

The scent of her body was the scent that would make him hurt her.

It would destroy what was left of his sanity.

Benson took the shard and stabbed his arm hard once again to make himself more conscious.

Seeing this, Juliana stopped approaching Benson. She started to think of another solution. She saw the sedative stuck on the wall and then looked at Benson.

This sedative was not very effective, but if she found the right spot and stuck it in, it would have an effect in three seconds, which was better than the tranquillizer.

and considered the direction, the

"Okay, I'll go. Be slowly backed up, then suddenly looked to the

now, was worried about Grandpa and looked

his head away and threw the syringe

was stuck in a point at the back of his

Juliana, and then fell to the ground

completely relieved to see Benson finally fall

up from downstairs, hurriedly pulled over the quilt,

new bodyguards arrived upstairs and called out, "Mrs.

words were a reminder to Juliana, because old Mr. Leach had instructed not to see what could not the door and were about to take action when

was the only one standing and everyone else was passed out looked up at them, "It's okay now. Move Benson to the

did as they

the closet, got new clothes, went to the bathroom to get the bedside with a pale