

Chapter 2755 A Battle Again

Damn this. This is so boring! Sole Wolf was certain that he was going to be bored to death.

Unfortunately, he did not dare to go against the Great Marshal's order.

While he was in the middle of grumbling about his boring days, Scar Face and some others came.

Scar Face respectfully said to him, “Mr. Williams is looking for you and has asked me to come and get you.”

Sole Wolf's eyes lit up, and he immediately tossed aside the iron he was working on. “Really? Haha! I thought Zeke has forgotten about little old me! Right, do you know why Zeke is asking for me?”

Scar Face replied, “He said he has some important task for you.”

“Oho!” Sole Wolf was even more excited upon hearing that. “As long as there's a task for me. I'm finally leaving behind this dull and repetitive work!”

Killer Wolf, Ares, and the others turned anxious at that. They hastily asked Scar Face, “Scar Face, did Zeke say that he's only asking for Sole Wolf?”

Good news awaited them, for Scar Face said, “Mr. Williams has asked for you all.”

“Hooray!”

The generals were as thrilled as children.

They instantly ran toward Zeke's house.

Northern King, Southern King, and some others, who were also working on refining spiritual iron, were confused.

What's wrong with them? Can't they just work in peace here? Aren't we all fighting to earn a living? Must they take on tasks and stay far from their family?

If Sole Wolf could read their minds, he would have responded with, “Ordinary people will never understand the ambition of someone meant for great things.”

In no time, Sole Wolf and the rest rushed into Zeke's house in excitement. “Zeke, you've finally remembered about us! Do tell us what task you have for us! Are we going to fight?”

Sole Wolf was truly a battle-maniac.

Zeke nodded in response.

Promptly, Sole Wolf beamed and rubbed his hands. “Who is it? Who is it we have to beat up, Zeke? Is it Camp South Master or Camp North Master?”

“Not a person. You'll be beating up beasts.”

Beasts?

Sole Wolf asked, “The ones who have been invading our base lately?”

“Yes. If my guess is right, there'll be about fifty beasts attacking tonight. I'll be leaving them to you.”

“Sure thing!” Sole Wolf answered.

Zeke had dealt with the previous two waves of attack from the beasts previously, so none of them had got to do anything. They were upset about the lost opportunity, and they were slightly resentful about it.

Finally, the opportunity was back. How could they not cherish it?

Sole Wolf said to Zeke, “Leave it to us, Zeke. We'll fight those beasts off even if five thousand come instead of fifty! Come on now, boys. We're going to stand guard on the city wall. We'll kill everyone last of them today!”

“Kill them all!” came the thundering voices of the others.

On the way to the wall, Sole Wolf said to Killer Wolf and the rest, “We're now all Ultimate Class warriors, right?”

They nodded in response.

“Don't you think it's overkill for all of us Ultimate Class warriors to fight against merely fifty beasts?”

Killer Wolf agreed with him, “You're right. One Ultimate Class warrior would be more than enough to deal with fifty beasts.”

“So, what about this? I'll deal with them myself, and the rest of you can go back.”

Ares instantly protested, “No way. It felt like years before this opportunity came along. How can we let you take them on by yourself?”

Sole Wolf responded, “I'm the one who's been working with Zeke the longest. I should be the one to take on this responsibility.”

The few of them proceeded to argue, for none wanted to relent.

In the end, they decided to have Sole Wolf guard the main entrance, while the others guarded the remaining three entrances.

Of course, there was another condition to the agreement—the others would have to take turns guarding the main entrance if beasts attacked again.

Something in their minds told them that more and more beasts would be attacking them in the near future.

The guards, who were armed to their teeth, were waiting solemnly above the main entrance.

More guards had been assigned to the wall above the entrance after the previous two rounds of training. Furthermore, their gears had been upgraded.
