

Chapter 2764 Ultimate Regret

Zeke happily kept the stones and continued to venture forth with the party.

Scar Face cautioned him, “Mr. Williams, we will have to be careful from now on. When we had fifty Heavenly Spirit Stones, we attracted more than a hundred beasts. Now that we have more than a hundred and fifty Heavenly Spirit Stones, we will most likely attract more than three hundred beasts. It's going to be nasty.”

To that, Zeke responded, “Just focus on finding the Heavenly Spirit Stones. Do not miss a single one of them. Leave the rest to me.”

“Understood!”

The group continued forward.

However, everyone was on their guard afterward because they knew there could be an onslaught of beasts coming at them.

Slightly less than an hour later, they could hear a deep rumbling noise coming in their direction.

Everyone knew that the beasts were charging at them.

They started to panic, and chaos broke out.

Zeke shouted, “Calm down and be quiet! Continue to walk forward with me. I will keep all of you safe!”

Zeke's words managed to calm them down. The party steadied themselves before doing as they were told.

Boom! Boom!

The steps were getting closer to them by the second, and they began to panic again.

The rumbling seemed stronger than those beasts they had encountered in the past.

This time, when the beasts charged at them, a tornado appeared. The trees swayed so violently that branches broke off. Dark clouds covered the sky...

The aura was so terrifying that it felt as though death was coming for them. It was a suffocating sensation.

Roar!

Finally, a beast appeared in the crowd's line of sight.

It was a black bear around the size of a car. Its paws were as big as shovels. One swing and it managed to smash a tree nearby.

The bear howled and leaped into the air. It was coming toward the crowd.

“Ah!”

The crowd began to scream.

Zeke yelled, “Calm down and don't panic! I can protect all of you! Stop running around if you want to live. If you run, you will surely die!”

To the people, Zeke was akin to a God. As such, they listened to him.

Even though their lives were at stake, most of them decided to stop running around and maintain their formations.

Only a few ran away from the group.

By then, the black bear was already above the heads of the group and would soon come crashing down on them.

That huge body was about the size of a car, and it would certainly smash any human to bits if it landed on them.

Those people standing under the black bear began to close their eyes in despair. That's it. We're goners.

Commander Williams has yet to make a move. There's no way he can save us in time.

At that moment, they regretted listening to Zeke and staying where they were.

However, everyone was stunned at the very next second.

The black bear stopped twenty centimeters above them as though something was blocking it.

It even let out a grunt.

Thereafter, the black bear bounced off the barrier. After falling to the ground, the bear roared endlessly.

What's going on? Do we have something over our heads?

The crowd was stunned and reached out above their heads tentatively.

True enough, they felt something.

It felt like a piece of cold glass. Obviously, it was stronger than glass. If not, there was no way it could withstand the weight of the black bear.

What trickery is this?

The crowd was very impressed with Zeke's ability.

In truth, Zeke had transformed his energy into a protective shield and protected the entire party.

That was also why he had told them not to run away!

Once the black bear landed on the ground, it became even more furious.

It let out a deafening roar and chased after the few people who had run away from the group.

At that instant, those scattered few regretted their decision.
