

Chapter 2781 A Crazy Battle

The truth was, the pill Camp South Master gave Maulwurf was not exactly a complete pill. At best, it was half.

Putting away the two spirit pills, Ares said, “All right. I'll take these pills. Thanks for leading the way.”

Sunshade hurriedly cried out, “Wait! The antidote. You've got to give me the rest.”

“I snatched the antidote from you, so it's now mine. What are you going to give me in exchange for it?” asked Ares.

A wave of misery washed over Sunshade.

What a shameless rascal! He agreed to give me the antidote if I helped him find the spirit pills. But now... Wait... I don't think he said that. D*mn it! Are Zeke and his men all this vicious and scheming?

Finally, Sunshade had no choice but to give Ares three hundred Heavenly Spirit Stones for the antidote.

Naturally, he would not remain there in a daze after getting the antidote.

After all, the two spirit pills and three hundred Heavenly Spirit Stones were more important than his life. If he stayed there, Camp South Master would definitely skin him alive.

When Ares had left, Sunshade hurriedly left the place after regaining some of his strength.

As he was leaving, he even asked around about the Camp Master's whereabouts, only to receive a jaw-dropping answer.

That man was right. Camp South Master was kicked out of Camp South!

The moment Ares left Camp South, he felt the message Zeke left for him at the city gate.

Ares learned Zeke had left with the others to deal with the primordial beast and that he wanted Ares to take the spirit pills back to their base and keep watch over them.

Thus, Ares rushed to the base.

Shortly after, Camp South Master brought Zeke and his men to the eastern canyon.

The eastern canyon was not too small, but neither was it very big.

There was a narrow line in between the canyon. It gave anyone who walked through it the feeling as if the peaks were about to collapse in if one looked up to the sky.

The deeper they went, the narrower the path became.

The narrowest part was only over ten meters wide.

Camp South Master said, “Why don't we ambush from here? This is the narrowest place. I'm sure the primordial beast will be stuck here once it arrives. Not only will it be stuck, but it'll also be like a fish on a chopping board awaiting slaughter.”

Zeke nodded. “All right. Let's go with your idea.”

They glanced into the distance, thinking the primordial beast might catch up with them there.

After waiting patiently for half an hour, a roar could be heard from afar.

The men leaped up and stared into the distance.

All they could see were parts of the lush forest collapsing, chunk by chunk.

At the same time, a huge black dot was moving swiftly through the forest.

Nothing survived wherever it passed.

With every step it took, the ground shook. Even the canyon where Zeke and the others were hiding shook, and stones fell. It was as if the canyon was going to collapse anytime.

The primordial beast is coming!

Zeke immediately commanded, “Hide yourself! Hide well!”

The others hurriedly looked for ledges on the cliff to hide.

Finally, the primordial beast passed through the forest and arrived at the canyon.

Everyone could not help but inhale sharply when they finally had a clear view of what the primordial beast looked like.

I-It's so freaking big!

That was their first impression of the primordial beast.

The beast was the size of a three-story building. Its glowing red eyes were like two massive pots filled with water, and its mouth was like a bottomless hole that could devour many things.

Moreover, its skin was rough and hard, like armor. Zeke feared his attack might not pierce through the primordial beast's skin.

The moment Minotaur noticed Zeke and the others, it let out a thunderous moo and ran faster toward the canyon.

Its moo affected the consciousness of Zeke and the others. Some of them became so dizzy they almost slipped down the cliffs.

It did not take long for Minotaur to charge into the canyon. Its heavy footsteps shook the cliffs, causing stones to roll down both sides.
