

Gu Lingfei 351

Chapter 351 Jasmine looked at Shawn with a stern face and said seriously, "Shawn, don't make me look down on you!"

Shawn was too hurt to speak.

He felt like he could not let it go.

However, he could not do anything to hurt Serenity either.

Jasmine eased her expression because Shawn was her cousin after all. She sighed and said, "Shawn, I've already told you whatever I could. You should calm down first and force yourself to stay away from my store for a while. If you don't see Serenity for some time, your feelings for her will fade."

As she finished speaking, she got up and said, "This coffee is my treat. I'm heading back to the store. You should hurry back to the office because yo 're still a trainee. You should work harder than anyone else because you're not the only successor in your family. If you don't work hard, you'll eventually lose what should belong to you."

With the last bit of advice spoken, Jasmine pulled out her chair, and turned to walk away.

Shawn sat there with a blank mind.

When he realized that he loved Serenity, he was not bold enough to confess to her. He just let the opportunity slip away from him.

When Jasmine returned to the store, Sonny had already woken up.

Serenity was making handicrafts, and Sonny was sitting beside her playing with his toys.

Jasmine looked at her friend quietly.

Serenity was good-looking and was especially beautiful when she was engrossed in doing what she liked.

Jasmine could not blame Shawn for falling in love with Serenity.

"Jasmine, what are you doing looking at me like this? Did you fall in love with me?"

Jasmine laughed. "I'd definitely fall for you if I were a man. Seren, do you know how charming you are?"

"How charming can I be? I didn't even have a boyfriend before getting married."

"That's because you chose not to fall in love with anyone."

Jasmine pulled a chair over and sat in front of the cash register. She asked, "Is your online business doing well now? I noticed that you've been making handicrafts every day whenever you're free."

"Zachary and his cousin recommended my online business to their colleagues. There are a lot of people in their company, so they brought in a lot orders for me. Ms. Stone also helped to promote my online business. Her circle is filled with rich people, and they ordered some of the more exquisite products."

Fortunately, Serenity owned the bookstore so she could still do the handicrafts during the day. Otherwise, she would not be able to juggle two jobs.

"Where are the two kitties?"

Jasmine asked casually when he saw Serenity's dog lying obediently at Sonny's feet, but the two cats were nowhere to be seen.

She added, "Ms. Stone is really supportive. I think the public opinion of Ms. Stone is a bit exaggerated. Maybe they're just jealous of her good background. They magnify her shortcomings. and keep stepping on her."

"That's also possible."

Serenity also thought that Ms. Stone was immensely easy to get along with and felt that Ms. Stone was a righteous person. Ms. Stone was forthright about her feelings.

She lived a carefree life because of her good background.

Serenity truly enjoyed being friends with Ms. Stone.

Ms. Stone once said that she felt a natural bond with Serenity when they first met. Serenity felt the same way now. "The two kittens are sleeping on the bookshelf." Serenity pointed to the place where her two cats were sleeping.

Ring ring ring... Serenity's phone was ringing.

Serenity glanced at the caller ID and saw that it was Zachary. She stopped her work and grabbed her phone to answer Zachary's call.

"Mr. York, what's the matter?" "Are you busy?"

Zachary was unlike his usual quiet self. This time, he spoke quickly, and his tone seemed less indifferent.

"Well, my online business is doing very well, so I'm rushing some orders."

Serenity asked, "Aren't you busy now?" "I'm on a short break, so I thought of calling you."

Chapter 352

Serenity smiled, "I'm flattered, Mr. York. Do you have something to say to me?"

Zachary replied, "I don't have to socialize tonight. I was wondering if you'd be interested in going shopping with me later?"

Zachary fled after giving Serenity that bouquet. After some thought, he suddenly felt that taking the initiative was not so difficult after all.

Thus, he mustered up the courage to ask his wife out that night.

After giving it a thought, Serenity said, "I was thinking of bringing Sonny to pick Liberty up from work later. If you don't mind, we can fetch my sister from work and go shopping after dinner."

"Is Liberty working overtime?"

"She just sent me a message saying that she doesn't have to work overtime on the first day of work, so she can get off work at half past five."

Zachary was silent for a moment before he said, "Okay, I'll pick you up later and we can fetch Liberty from work together. I'll buy you all dinner."

"Sure."

"See you."

"Okay."

Zachary did not hang up immediately. He was waiting for Serenity to say something sweet. However, Zachary did not hear any words of affection from Serenity. Instead she asked, "Mr. York, is there anything else?"

"No, I'll hang up then."

Serenity hummed and disconnected the call.

Putting down the phone, Serenity noticed that her friend was laughing at her. Serenity reached out and poked her friend's forehead. "What are you laughing at?"

"Seren, you and Mr. York have made some progress! I think he's interested in you. You two should grasp this opportunity. I'm still waiting to attend your wedding!"

Serenity and Zachary only registered for a marriage license. They neither had a wedding reception nor publicized their relationship. Only the people closest to them knew that the two were married.

"Let's just go with the flow."

Serenity did not deliberately pursue Zachary, but if Zachary took the initiative, she would not shy away either.

She did not take the initiative because she was afraid that Zachary would not love her back, and she would end up getting hurt.

If Zachary took the initiative, Serenity would not avoid it and they could let their feelings develop naturally. That way, they would both fall in love with each other, which would be the best result.

"Ant Swer!"

Sonny got tired of playing by himself, so he got up to walk to Serenity and sat on Serenity's lap.

"Sonny, you don't want to play by yourself?"

"I miss Mommy."

The little guy stepped on Serenity's lap and stood up, wrapping his arms around Serenity's neck. "Sonny miss Mommy!"

Usually, when Liberty sent Sonny to Serenity, he could still see his mother at noon. Yet today, he had not seen his mother since he parted from her in the morning.

Sonny missed his mother.

Serenity hugged the little guy and said softly, "I'll take you to pick up your mommy later, okay?" "Okay."

Serenity kissed his little face. "Then you should play by yourself for a little while. I'll take you to see Mommy when I'm done."

Sonny looked reluctant. He put his arms around Serenity's neck and did not let go.

Jasmine stood up, stretched out her hand, and coaxed him." Sonny, come here! Aunt Jas will take you out to play." Sonny thought about it for a while. He then let go of Serenity's neck, turned around, stretched out his arms to let Jasmine carry him.

"Seren, hurry up and finish your orders. When Mr. York comes over, you can take Sonny to Liberty's office. I'll man the store tonight."

Jasmine then brought Sonny out to play. When Serenity's dog saw Sonny being carried away by Jasmine, it followed them. "Jasmine, Snowball is following you."

The dog had pure white fur, so Serenity named it Snowball.

Jasmine stopped and waited for Snowball to catch up, then the three of them went out to play.

Chapter 353

Zachary was in a good mood after asking his wife out on a shopping date later that night. His work efficiency improved greatly.

When he responded to a knock on his door, everyone outside could hear that he was in a good mood.

Josh pushed the door open and came in.

He was not alone. Remy followed Josh in.

Remy's bodyguards were waiting at the door of the office. "Boss, Mr. Johnson is here."

Zachary stopped working, got up, and walked around his desk." Mr. Johnson."

The two men shook hands as Zachary motioned for Remy to have a seat on the sofa.

Mr. Chaplin informed Zachary earlier that Remy was here, but Zachary did not expect Remy and Josh to come in together. Maybe those two met outside.

Josh went to pour a glass of water for Remy.

After Remy drank the water, Zachary asked in a deep voice, "Mr. Johnson, is there a problem with our cooperation?"

An important partner like Remy could see Zachary at any time without an appointment. However, Remy was mostly in contact with Josh. So when Remy came to Zachary's office to see him this time, Zachary thought that there was a problem with the cooperation between the two companies. Remy said with a smile, "Mr. York, there's no problem with our cooperation. It's going very well. I came here this time to deliver an invitation to you on behalf of my eldest brother and sister-in law."

Hearing this, Zachary smiled. "Is Mr. Young-Johnson holding a wedding reception? Is everything with the Lafayettes in Meadspring settled?"

"Yes, it's over. My brother and sister-in-law came back from Meadspring to attend President Ormond's wedding. Their wedding date was set a long time ago. My brother's wedding is after his brother-in-law's wedding, so it's time to send out the invitations."

*

Remy took out the invitation that his eldest brother asked him to bring over. Ben Young-Johnson couriered the invitation to his other business partners, but Remy delivered the invitation to Zachary because he happened to be in Wiltspoon. Since Remy was solely responsible for the Wiltspoon branch of his company, he usually stayed in Wiltspoon.

That was why Ben asked Remy to send the invitation to Zachary in person.

"My eldest brother wanted to come over in person, but he was tremendously busy with work. There were many things waiting for him to deal with. Since I happened to be here, he asked me to bring this invitation to you. He also extended his apologies."

Zachary accepted the invitation and said understandingly, "I understand Mr. Young-Johnson's situation, and there's no need for him to apologize. It's all the same for you to bring it over."

He opened the invitation and looked at the date. The wedding was set on the 26th of December, which was right around New Year's Eve.

That was still over a month away.

Ben distributed the invitations so quickly that Zachary could tell he was in a hurry to hold a wedding.

Zachary heard that Ben and his wife also married on impulse. Why had these eligible bachelors been going for impulse marriages?

It might be because they were swarmed with work. They held high positions in society and had a high net worth, so they were afraid that others would target them for their status and money. Thus, they did not dare to simply fall in love and hid their identity to marry on impulse.

If a woman could fall in love with them when they were not rich, she would love them just as well when she found out they were rich. They could also know that the woman did not marry them for money, but for love.

However, Ben and his wife, Jane Murphy, had known each other for more than ten years. Zachary heard that Ben had set his eyes on Jane long ago and slowly tricked Jane into being his wife.

Zachary thought of himself and Serenity. They were the true definition of impulse marriage as they had no feelings for each other when they carried at first sight.

Before they got their marriage license, Zachary was wary about Serenity and even suspected she was in it for the money. However, reality proved that Zachary was overly cautious and overthinking the situation. "I will definitely be at Mr. Young-Johnson's wedding." Zachary promised he would attend Ben and Jane's wedding. Remy said with a smile, "Thank you, Mr. York."

Chapter 354 Zachary said, "I've always looked up to Mr. Young-Johnson and was hoping for a chance to meet him. You've given me this opportunity."

Remy smiled. "My eldest brother has also admired you for a while, Mr. York."

They exchanged pleasantries.

Remy came over to Zachary's office to deliver his brother's wedding invitation. Since it had been delivered, Remy did not stay long because he was busy. He said, "Mr. York, Mr. Bucham, I have something else to attend to, so I'll get going now. If you have time in the evening, we can have dinner together. My treat."

IL

Josh smiled. "I'm fine anytime, but Mr. York might not be free."

Zachary interrupted. "I'll buy you dinner some other day, Mr. Johnson."

Zachary had plans with his wife tonight.

Remy smiled. "Okay, then. I'll wait for your call."

He stood up.

Zachary and Josh both got up and walked Remy out of the office together.

"Mr. York, Mr. Bucham, you don't have to send me off." Remy stopped at the door of the office and asked the two men to stay.

Zachary and Josh stood at the door and watched as Remy left with his bodyguards.

When Remy was no longer in sight, Josh nudged his friend and asked for gossip. "Where are you going tonight? You dumped all your socializing events on me and didn't even want to go to dinner with Mr. Johnson."

"Zachary, I feel like I must've owed you so much in our past life. that I have to slave away for you in this life. I'm like a dog that will be there for you whenever you need me."

Zachary turned around and walked inside.

"You can only realize your true value when you're with me. I've provided you with a stage so you can perform well."

Josh giggled and closed the door.

"Are you going on a date with your wife?"

"Yes. Why, do you want to be a third wheel? Or are you jealous? Would you like me to arrange a blind date for you so you can get married at first sight too?"

Josh quickly said, "I'm quite tactful, so I won't be your third wheel. Although I really want to join, I'll stay away this time for the sake of your happiness."

"Well, I'm not jealous. You don't even look that happy now, and a while ago, you were torturing everyone in the company with your stone face."

Josh sat opposite his friend and said with a smile, "Even if I want to get married, will you be able to arrange a blind date for me? Your grandma had to force you into an impulse marriage. How many unmarried young women do you actually know?"

Zachary rolled his eyes at Josh. "I happen to know an unmarried young woman. Based on my observation, she's quite nice and has a decent family background. Her family is rich. She's righteous, loyal, and most importantly, pretty. She matches you well."

2/3

Josh was curious. "Who?"

"My wife's best friend, Jasmine Sox."

Josh replied, "Oh, her..."

He looked hesitant.

Zachary was puzzled and asked him, "What's with your expression?"

"You don't know because you don't attend parties. Jasmine Sox drank too much at Mrs. Dawson's birthday party last time, and do you know what she did? She just slept on the floor. Everyone there was stunned."

Chapter 355 Josh said, "I heard about it even though I wasn't there. Mrs. Lowe was the one who brought Jasmine to the banquet that time, so she quickly dragged Jasmine away."

Zachary was speechless.

He heard Serenity mention occasionally that Jasmine's family kept urging her to get married. Last time, Serenity even accompanied Jasmine on a blind date at Beans and Cream.

Did Jasmine do that at Mrs. Dawson's birthday party on purpose for the sake of her peace and quiet? That way, her family would not urge her to marry.

"Ms. Sox was a sensation for lying on the floor. Everyone in our circle heard about this girl."

Josh smiled. "The girls in our circle won't just lie on the floor even if they're drunk because etiquette is engraved in their bones. They will still look ele int when drunk."

After a moment of silence, Zachary asked his friend, "Then do you like an elegant drunk or a wild drunk?"

"I haven't thought about this. But if you really want to arrange a blind date for me, go for it. I'll meet Ms. Sox and check out how high her standards are. Remember not to tell her my true identity."

"You're learning from me, huh?" "Yeah, am I not allowed to copy you?"

Zachary smiled. "Be my guest. I'll go home and ask my wife tonight so she can mention it to Ms. Sox. If Ms. Sox is willing, I'll arrange for you two to meet, lest you envy my married life."

Josh was speechless.

He was never envious of Zachary.

After Zachary signed several documents of utmost importance, he got up and said to Josh, "I'm getting off work. Don't call me tonight unless our company is in danger of going bankrupt."

Josh looked at the time. It was only four o'clock in the afternoon.

He followed Zachary out and complained as he walked. "Zachary, did you even see what time it is? It's only four o'clock! That's way too early to leave work. You weren't like this before. You used to want to work until midnight."

"I wasn't married before, but I am now."

Josh was speechless.

Zachary was showing off that he was married again.

"I finally took a step forward, so I can't possibly retreat now, right?"

Josh hurriedly said, "Don't retreat, bro. Advance boldly, advance~"

Mr. Chaplin looked over with astonishment when he heard Mr. Bucham singing.

Josh was thick-skinned and did not feel embarrassed at all.

When Josh and Zachary got into the elevator, Josh asked, "Zachary, I'm now reminding you as your best friend. What have you done when you said you took a step forward?"

"It's not much. I just hesitated to give my wife a bunch of flowers."

"Tsk! I thought you two finally had sex!"

Zachary said, "Josh, can you get your mind out of the gutter?"

"You're husband and wife, so sex is normal. Your grandmother is still waiting for a great-grandchild, and I'm also waiting to be a godfather!"

97

Zachary paused and said, "Nana told me privately that Serenity thinks I'm too cold and serious, like a rock. She said even if she jumped me, she wouldn't be able to eat me for fear that her teeth would chip off." "Pfft! Hahaha! Tell her that she's welcome to jump you anytime. Even if her teeth break, you can just buy her some gold Grillz! That way, she won't be worried anymore." Zachary kicked Josh when he heard that. Josh's office was on the 66th floor. After being kicked by Zachary, Josh reluctantly walked out of the elevator and returned to his office to slave away for Zachary. Zachary did not let his bodyguards follow him and drove off by himself. Just like he did at noon, Zachary went straight to Wiltspoon School. If Grandma May found out, she would be elated because Zachary and Serenity finally looked like a real couple. Zachary was just arrogant and had a bad temper. Perhaps Serenity giving him the cold shoulder made Zachary realize that he did not like that feeling and that he cared more about Serenity by the day.

Since Zachary had given Serenity flowers at noon, he did not buy more. Instead, he went to the mall to buy a large bag of snacks for Serenity and some new toys for Sonny.

Chapter 356 The people who Serenity cared about the most were her sister and nephew.

Pleasing Sonny would earn Zachary some brownie points.

Zachary bought the bag of snacks because Serenity was a foodie.

Serenity might not be so happy if Zachary gave her a bunch of flowers, but she would definitely smile when she saw this big bag of snacks.

Zachary walked into the bookstore with a bag of snacks in his left hand and an airplane model in his right. At that time, Serenity had just finished feeding her nephew a bowl of porridge. "Uncle Zak!"

The little guy was overjoyed to see Zachary.

Serenity saw the toys that her husband bought and said, "Mr. York, why did yr 'ibuy toys for Sonny again? Jasmine already bought him new ones."

Zachary handed the bag of snacks to Serenity and gave the airplane toy to Sonny, then he carried the little guy.

"Sonny's our only nephew. Who else can I spoil if not him? What Ms. Sox bought for Sonny is her business. It doesn't clash with me."

Serenity put the empty bowl on the table, looked through the bag on the floor, and said, "Are these all snacks? You bought so much?"

"Sonny is bored here, so I bought him some snacks."

It was obviously for Serenity, but when he was facing her now, he got tongue-tied. Thus, he used Sonny as an excuse.

"Mr. York, you'll spoil Sonny like this."

Serenity did not think much about it.

"Sonny is very smart and sensible. As long as we teach him well, he'll know what's right and wrong. He won't be spoiled."

Serenity looked at him.

Zachary's ears gradually turned red because of Serenity's stare.

"Mr. York, you seem to talk a little more than usual."

Zachary was speechless.

He thought she would praise him for being handsome.

It turned out that she thought he talked too much.

Was she trying to say that he had a long tongue?

Nana has always said he was inarticulate, but now that he said a few more words, his wife thought he was talkative.

Jasmine came o'f the bathroom and saw Zachary. She greeted Zachary with a smile and said to her friend, "Seren, Liberty is about to get off work. You already fed Sonny, right? You and Mr. York should bring Sonny to pick Liberty up from work. I'll man the store."

Serenity hummed and took the bowl into the kitchen to wash.

A few minutes later, Serenity took some snacks from the bag and gave them to Jasmine. She said, "Mr. York bought too much for Sonny. I'll give you some."

Jasmine did not refuse them.

Serenity carried the bag of snacks and said to Zachary, "Mr. York, let's go."

Zachary saw that Serenity wanted to bring the bag of snacks back to Liberty's house and was a little anxious. He scolded himself, 'Why can't I just tell the truth in the beginning?' Zachary's expression remained calm as he said, "Serenity, you don't need to bring this bag of snacks home. Just put it in the store. Sonny comes here every day, so let him eat them slowly."

Serenity heard this and thought about it before she said, "I'll bring half to my sister's house so that Sonny can eat some at home. I'll keep the other half in the store."

Serenity liked to eat, so she could share the snacks with Sonny. Zachary stopped talking. At least Serenity left half of the snacks in the store, so she could still eat them.

Chapter 357 Serenity said, "Oh, right!"

She suddenly thought of her pets and asked Zachary, "What about Snowball and the rest? Should we bring them along?"

"Snowball?"

Zachary's eyes turned dark as he thought, 'Who is Snowball?'

"It's the puppy you gave me. I named it Snowball."

Zachary's eyes turned gentle instantly.

It turned out to be the puppy.

He thought he had another love rival he was not aware of.

"Seren, if it's inconvenient, Snowball and the kittens can stay in the store. I'll bring them back to my house after work and bring them back here tomorrow. I have pets at home too, so I promise I can take good care of them."

Serenity smiled and said, "Great! I'll leave Snowball and the kittens to you then."

She hugged Jasmine and cooed, "Jas, you're the best girlfriend in the world!"

Jasmine gently pushed her away and said with a smile, "Don't sweat the small stuff with me. We grew up together. Hurry up, don't make Mr. York wait for too long."

Only then did Serenity go with Zachary without worries.

"Serenity, leave your car here. I'll take you to work tomorrow."

Zachary said to Serenity as he opened the car door and put Sonny in the car.

"Sure."

Serenity had no problem with that since Zachary's car was a seven seater MPV. The interior was also spacious and comfortable.

Since Zachary's car was not equipped with a child seat, Serenity was worried about letting her nephew sit in the back by himself. Thus, she carried Sonny and sat in the back.

Although Zachary did not stop Serenity, he was thinking of asking Sam to buy him an infant car seat tomorrow for his car. Next time, Sonny could sit in it and Serenity could sit beside him in the passenger seat.

The couple took Sonny to Lewis & Co.

It was just after office hours when they arrived at Liberty's office. Many staff were lingering at the entrance.

After waiting for several minutes, Liberty came out from the building.

Serenity had already sent a message to tell her sister that she would come to pick her up, so Liberty rushed out right after work.

However, her legs were still a little sore because she ran five laps in the morning.

Liberty had not exercised for a long time and was forced to run five laps at one go. When she was done with her run, she almost slumped to the ground and felt her legs did not belong to her anymore.

"Liberty!"

Serenity got out of the car with her nephew in her arms and watched as Liberty came out of the office building with a smile.

All of the staff of Lewis and Co. were wearing the same professional suit. Those who were not wearing them had just started work today. "Mommy!"

23

Sonny saw Liberty and struggled to free himself, so Serenity put him down, and he immediately ran toward Liberty.

Upon seeing her son, Liberty felt energized again. She took a few strides forward and picked her son up to kiss his little face." Sonny, do you miss Mommy?" "Yes! I miss Mommy very much." Serenity walked over and said, "Sonny didn't see you at noon and said he missed you in the afternoon, so I coaxed him and said I'd bring him to pick you up from work. He only looked happier after he heard that."

Liberty was a little heartbroken to hear that. Her son was only two years old, but he was forced to be separated from his mother during the day, so the little guy was definitely not used to it. However, for their livelihoods and future, Liberty could only persist. Liberty's situation was not bad. At least, they could still meet each other every morning and night. Many of those who came to work in Wiltspoon from other towns left their children in their hometowns with their in-laws. They only got to see their children every few months or even once a year. That kind of longing was truly tormenting.

Chapter 359

Liberty winked at her sister, and Serenity understood the underlying meaning.

She just wanted to say that Zachary was a good man, and that Serenity should treat him well.

Serenity had to admit that although Zachary was sometimes domineering and petty, he was a righteous man when it came to facing difficulties. He was better than a lot of men out there.

More importantly, even though their relationship was not based on love, Zachary had been great to Serenity and was doing his best.

In order to prove to Liberty that she was treating Zachary well, Serenity kept serving Zachary food by putting them on his plate during the dinner. Zachary relished the food and felt loved.

The food Serenity put on his plate was extra

It turned out to be delicious.

Zachary suddenly recalled the time he saw Serenity putting food on Shawn's plate at Grace's Diner. Zachary thought, 'Shawn must've been ecstatic at that time, right? 'Hmph, so what? Serenity serving him once doesn't mean anything! 'Serenity only sees Shawn as her younger brother!

"There's no other meaning to it!"

Serenity had been serving Zachary continuously throughout the meal, but Shawn only enjoyed that treatment once. Shawn would never catch up to Zachary.

4.apter 350

So what if Shawn loved Serenity?

Zachary was now Serenity's husband.

Regardless of their relationship, at least Zachary was Serenity's legal husband.

Shawn should just move aside.

Zachary did not need to be jealous of Shawn. Instead, Shawn should be jealous of him.

Zachary psyched himself and finally let go of what happened last time when Serenity put food on Shawn's plate.

All of them enjoyed the dinner merrily.

After dinner, the young couple sent Liberty and Sonny home before they went shopping.

This was the first time Zachary was going shopping with Serenity after being married for such a long time. Shopping at the supermarket di not count.

The streets at night were bustling with people.

Zachary could humble himself and accompany Serenity to the supermarket, and that went without saying he could do the same now when they were shopping at a mall.

The young couple walked with the crowd and wandered aimlessly.

"Serenity, is there anything you want to buy?" Zachary finally could no longer help himself but ask Serenity when he saw her walking toward the exit without entering any shops.

"I can't think of anything I want to buy."

Zachary was speechless.

"Then, let's buy something to eat?"

Put

"We've only eaten and drunk aplenty, so just take this as a brisk walk to ease our digestion. I can't eat anymore."

Zachary looked at her deeply for a moment and said helplessly, "Let's just do that then."

He was fine with continuing to step on ants as long as he was with Serenity and doing what ordinary couples would do. Seeing other couples walking with either holding each other's hands or hugging each other's waists, Zachary quietly glanced at Serenity's hand.

He tried to hold her hand several times, but he aborted every attempt. Damn it! Zachary was not afraid of anything, but he actually flinched when he wanted to hold Serenity's hand.

Chapter 360

It was most likely because of Zachary's guilty conscience and the signed agreement.

Zachary decided to find a way to steal the copy of the agreement that Serenity was keeping. Oh, not steal, but just take it back. Stealing sounded horrible. How could the heir to York Corporation steal something? After taking back the agreement, he would destroy it.

Zachary, who had no guts to hold his wife's hand, accompanied his wife as they strolled along the streets all night. By the end of it, Zachary acted as a free porter and got into the car with various shopping bags.

At first, Serenity mentioned there was nothing she fancied buying. However, after walking for a bit, she found a galore of things to buy and spent her own money. Zachary wanted pay for her, but she firmly refused, which frustrated Zachary.

At ten o'clock at night, the young couple returned to their small apartment.

"Fortunately, I don't like wearing heels. My feet are so sore after walking for so long."

Serenity slumped on the sofa as soon as she got home.

Zachary laughed and said, "Don't you girls like shopping very much?"

He was a man who never liked to go shopping with others, but he did not complain. "Well, yeah. Jasmine loves shopping. I'm really scared to go shopping with her because she can go from the east to the west of the city."

Speaking of Jasmine, Zachary came over and sat beside Serenity. He said, "Serenity, there's something I want to ask you about."

Serenity turned to look at him and asked cautiously, "What is it?"

This was Zachary's house, so he could do whatever he wanted. If he needed to ask for her opinion, it must be a big deal.

Zachary was silent for a moment before he said, "Is Ms. Sox's family urging her to get married?"

"Yes. Why? Are you thinking of introducing someone to her?"

Serenity was excited and asked, "Is it your colleague? Jasmine's mother and aunt had always wanted her to marry into a wealthy family, but Jasmine doesn't want to. She feels that life in a rich family isn't as good as we imagine it to be. She said that her aunt suffered a lot when she first got married into the Lowe family. It took her aunt a long time before she made a name for herself."

"Your company is the largest in Wiltspoon, and everyone says that those who can work at York Corporation are the best among the elites, so your colleague must be extremely capable. Please tell me more about him. If he's suitable for Jasmine, I can help introduce them."

Serenity was thrilled to be a matchmaker for her friend.

"He's my colleague. He and I are close. He's the same age as me, and he's from a good family. His income is pretty high. He's honest to a fault, and doesn't have any bad habits. Sometimes, he drinks for work events, but he doesn't get drunk.

"He's also exceptionally good-looking, tall, and muscular. He never had time to date because of his busy schedule, and his family is anxious about his marriage too."

Serenity heard this and thought that Zachary's colleague was decent. She asked, "Does he have any shortcomings?"

Zachary was silent for a while before replying softly, "He's just a bit talkative. He has a thing for drama and gossip."

Serenity was speechless.

She thought she could help her friend find the perfect man.

However, the old saying was right, "nothing is perfect". Human beings would always have shortcomings. They suddenly fell into an awkward silence. After a while, Serenity smiled sheepishly and said, "Well, that just means he's eloquent. Having a thing for drama and gossip is something that many people have. Well, I think it's a common flaw. I'll ask Jasmine what she thinks about this tomorrow. If she's willing to meet him, I'll let you know. "Then you can arrange for your colleague to meet Jasmine and see if both of them can get along. Zachary nodded, "Okay." "By the way, is your colleague from Wiltspoon? Jasmine won't move out of Wiltspoon, so if he's from out of town, don't bother."

The Soxes would not agree to Jasmine moving far away. "He's from Wiltspoon. Ms. Sox is your best friend, so I'll definitely introduce the best colleague I can think of to her. My colleague doesn't have any flaws aside from being talkative and having a thing for gossip. He's an eligible bachelor."

Serenity believed that Zachary bore well intentions. He would never introduce bad men to her friend.