

Guardian 311

Chapter 311 Beacon of Hope

“I have a video on my phone. You can have a look, Commissioner.”

Han took the phone from Ned.

Albeit the po hugging.

poor quality of the preview, it showed a woman and a man

Han glanced at Darcy. He did not play it immediately because he was afraid that the filthy content would be inappropriate. “Commissioner Feyan, just play it. My wife is not a child,” Kaze said.

Han then tapped on the play button.

It was the footage of Ned and Jean in bed, not while having sex, their cuddling and smoking session after they had done the deed.

Their conversation was recorded clearly.

but

Ned gave Jean a card containing a million dollars and wanted her to leave Quintessential Group the next day.

Jean fell for the temptation and took the card. She delicately asked what Ned wanted from her.

Ned said he planned to sabotage Quintessential Group's project and make the company send Darcy over to negotiate with him. Jean was delighted. She even praised Darcy for her beauty and body, which aroused Ned even more.

Darcy was shaking when she heard the conversation caught on camera.

Even though it was a long time ago and Ned got what he deserved, Darcy was still furious.

Jean's expression turned bitter as well and she shuddered uncontrollably.

She was horrified because it was true. The moment she heard the conversation, she knew she was done for.

What she said in the video was true.

She accused Darcy of giving her a million dollars but she actually got the money from Ned, in which she later found out was from the Hanser family.

When she learned about the Hanser family's plan against Quintessential Group, she decided to leave and stay hidden. Alas, the Hanser family found her.

Jean shouted, "Ned Brooks, you piece of shit! You recorded us!? You've been trying to get evidence from me!?"

“No! | am just a pervert who likes to record sex tapes of myself and other women. It’s purely a fetish that | have.”

Ned was a pervert. When Darcy went to meet him, he was watching videos of himself having sex with different women. Jean lost her mind when she heard Ned.

Little did she expect that she would be exposed because of Ned’s unusual fetish, leaving her with no possible way to turn things around.

Due to his professionalism, Han remained suspicious of the footage. as it might have been maliciously edited. He wanted to send it for analysis but when he saw Jean’s reaction, he knew it was unnecessary. Jean helped the Hanser family to falsely testify against Darcy.

“Jean Lander, what else do you have to say for yourself?” he said coldly. Jean collapsed on the floor, her face smeared with horror.

She looked at Darcy and started to beg for mercy. “Darcy, | was wrong. | was forced by the Hanser family! You’ve cleared your name, can you spare me? Please talk to the commissioner and tell him to drop the charges! Please...”

“Jean, you really think I’m Mother Mary? Kaze was right. He gave you a chance already but you wasted it. You had it coming.” Darcy then walked out of the room with no hesitation, showing no compassion for Jean.

Kaze glanced at Jean before he followed his wife out.

“Kaze, you were right. Now | believe there’s justice in this world.”

Darcy regained her energetic and hopeful look now that her name was cleared. She held Kaze's hand and smiled.

Knowing that Jean would pay the price for framing her, Darcy felt. relieved and delighted.

Kaze smiled. "You just need to have hope."

He would always be her beacon of hope in times of darkness.

Chapter 312 Reverse Verdict Even though Jean's case had been solved, Darcy's case with Lilyrose Bank was still ongoing.

Liben Radar and the other executives sued Kaze for intentional harm and the case had been filed. It could not just go away like nothing happened.

Fortunately, Kaze already had a solution to that. Ned was then brought out of the room.

The moment he saw Kaze, he bowed and said, "Mr. Lee, I've confessed everything that I have done. I hope I've met your expectations."

From the day Kaze wreaked havoc at the Housing Department, Johnson had found out about the Hanser family's plan from Ned. Johnson resented the Hanser family for using his nephew as a bullet to hurt others.

He had been waiting for a chance to take revenge on the Hanser family.

He told Ned to hold the evidence and even let the police search for Jean while he visited her house to talk to her parents.

When the Hanser family found out that the police were looking for Jean, they got anxious and decided to get Jean back to make her frame Darcy.

To their surprise, they fell right into Johnson's trap.

The Hanser family got Jean back just to push her into the trap hole.

Johnson had informed Kaze of the matter the moment Darcy was taken away by Han.

As for making Ned turn himself in and help Darcy clear her name, it was also Johnson's idea. Ned was already a cripple, so confessing his wrongdoings would be the last useful thing he could do for his uncle. "I'll let you off this time for the sake of your uncle," Kaze said calmly.

Ned got what he deserved and Kaze did not want to hold him responsible anymore.

"Thank you, Mr. Lee! Thank you!"

Ned was relieved of the burden and his anxiety was finally alleviated after two weeks.

He was brought to the interrogation room for further questioning.

Kaze then said to Han, "Commissioner Feyan, there's one more person who can provide crucial evidence in the case of Liben Radar, who is suing Darcy for intentional harm."

Then, someone came over with an update on the case.

The chief of police, Don, brought someone named Joy Sooth testify. After the case with Ned, Han was no longer surprised.

Joy was brought into the interrogation room.

She was in detention, awaiting her court day.

After witnessing Kaze's powers, she was completely devastated..

When she was told there was a chance to reduce her sentence if sh testified against Liben and the other executives, she was thrilled.

Joy then told Han what happened in the VIP room at Lily Garden

425 BONUS

Hotel the other day.

Her testimonials proved that it was Kaze who made them drunk and beat them up, neither Darcy nor she instigated him to do so. Even if they were to sue, it would be toward Kaze and not Darcy.

Could Han hold Kaze responsible for the matter?

He could never.

Aside from the fact that he was proven to have a mental disability, his identity alone would give him immunity. Besides, Liben and the other executives had obvious malicious intentions toward the wife of the God of War.

It was merciful enough for Kaze not to kill them on the spot.

Han knew both Darcy's cases had been closed.

if Liben and the others wanted to press charges, they would have to sue Kaze in a new case.

“Commissioner, can I take my wife back home now?” Kaze asked.

There were still standard operating procedures to follow and the witnesses had testified. It required more time to complete the case.

However, Kaze wanted to bring Darcy home as soon as possible because her family was worried about her.

“Mr. Lee, you can bring your wife home for now. We will carry on the standard operating procedures but we might have to ask Ms. Quintacoocome back to provide further assistance.”

Han nodded. He knew Kaze could bring Darcy home without going through them and leave them with the hefty investigation work. Kaze had given them enough respect to ask him before leaving.

Chapter 313 Don Braders the Driver

“Mr. Lee, Jean Lander confessed everything. The Hanser family instigated her to frame Ms. Darcy Quint. We will proceed to arrest the relevant members of the Hanser family and provide a follow-up to the case,” Han said before Kaze left with Darcy.

Ned's confession devastated Jean. She spilled the beans right after Kaze and Darcy left. What happened was actually quite simple.

After the Hanser family located her, they used her family against her and tempted her with promising rewards for her to frame Darcy.

The invoice and documents were all forged by Rudy and his family.

The person responsible for the scheme was Bronik Hanser, Vincent's uncle.

“Commissioner, there’s no rush in arresting the man. Wait for my notice.”

Kaze declined the suggestion of arresting Bronik immediately.

What the Hanser family did to Darcy had crossed the line. Arres Bronik alone could not soothe his wrath.

Besides, Bronik was not even a core member of the Hanser famil

Arresting him might give the Hanser family a headache but it would do no harm to them. What Kaze wanted was to wipe out the entire family!

“Very well. | will wait for your notice, Mr. Lee.”

Han sensed the frostiness in Kaze’s tone and could not help but shudder.

Without violating the rules, he would accept orders from Kaze and help him punish the Hanser family. Kaze texted Draco who was waiting outside and told him to investigate the Hanser family.

As a matter of fact, other than Vincent who was always with Deborah, he barely knew anything about the Hanser family.

After that, Kaze brought Darcy out of the place.

“Kaze, you did it this time! | was just taken away an hour ago and you've already gotten Ned Brooks and Joy to help us!”

-Darcy still felt surreal after walking out of the special investigation unit's office.

When she arrived, she was devastated.

When Kaze arrived, both her cases were reserved and she was released immediately. Kaze held her hand tightly and said affectionately, “Let's go Any longer and your mom will cry her lungs out.”

Darcy forgot to ask Kaze how he did it when she heard about She just wanted to go back to her family. Then, a police cruiser stopped in front of them.

It was Don in the driver's seat.

“Mr. Lee, Ms. Quint, I'll give you guys a ride.”

Don came out of the car and offered them a ride.

Darcy did not think too much and simply assumed it was the mayor's

When they arrived at the gates of Horizon Mirror, they heard Rudy and his family's voices from inside the house. “Hector, from today onward, this house and your cars are all ours! You are to move out of the mansion immediately!” Rudy sneered at his wheelchair-bound brother arrogantly.

Samus, Deborah, and their mother, Karen, sat down on the couch eagerly and enjoyed the view from inside the mansion. They had assumed the mansion as their own.

After they mortgaged away their house and cars to return the million dollars, they were forced to move back with Master Quint.

Now that Darcy was taken away and she would probably be locked up for good, Rudy and his family eagerly came to Horizon Mirror to claim the house and cars.

“Uncle Hector, Aunt Agnes, this was originally ours and you guys took it. Now you've got what you deserve!” Deborah sneered at Hector and Agnes.

To her, Horizon Mirror originally belonged to them because the money Kaze used to buy the house was from the lottery that she bought.

“Hahaha! You stupid son-in-law bought a new car for Darcy but she's behind bars now. The car doesn't have an owner anymore. Try to take our house now! Come on!” Samus laughed hysterically.

Chapter 314 Sorry to Disappoint It was a happy day for Rudy and his family as they were finally able to express their grievance. They got back the company, the house, and the cars.

In addition to that, the company got an extra two hundred million in investment and the pre-sale of Passion Fragrance District was about to start.

Their house was upgraded to a mansion and their cars supercars; their lives enhanced, and it was all thanks to Darcy! She worked tirelessly just for them to live a better life!

“Agnes, stop crying. No amount of tears you shed can bring your daughter back! Pack your things and get out!”

Karen was annoyed by Agnes’ silent sobbing.

She was never on good terms with Agnes and they had always argued over the years.

Seeing Agnes’ family decline excited Karen.

“Karen, if you say one more word about my daughter, I’ll rip your mouth off!” Agnes bellowed.

She cried a river when Darcy was arrested, but she could not stand hear others badmouth her daughter.

“Your daughter is a criminal! I can say whatever I want about her! She’s a criminal!” Karen argued with the harshest words as she crossed her arms.

“Darcy isn’t a criminal! She’s framed! She will come back when the investigation is done!” Agnes argued loudly.

She knew Darcy was framed when she heard the news.

Darcy was never a schemeful person.

It was because she knew Darcy was framed, she felt helpless and devastated for not being able to do anything.

Karen grunted and said, "Then we'll talk if she comes back. Now all you have to do is pack your stuff and move out! Your daughter is jailed and your family loses the only source of income. If you insist on staying, I'll tell Rudy to cut you off from the company's dividend!"

Threatening Agnes and her family by cutting off the dividend was a trick Rudy and Karen repeatedly used.

Before Darcy graduated from university, Rudy and Karen always threatened Hector and Agnes with it.

"Cut us off! We don't care! We can work and we'll make it!" Sky stepped up to protect his mother and argued with his aunt. "Uncle Rudy, Aunt Karen, don't cross the line! Kaze will bring Darcy back soon!"

"Huh? Sky, are you out of your mind? You are relying on your stupi brother-in-law? | heard he turned himself in! That was the only thing the useless shit could do!" Karen scoffed.

Samus and Deborah gloated at Sky.

When they heard Kaze went to turn himself in, they laughed. hysterically.

Deborah said, "Sky, give up. If Kaze can bring Darcy back, | will crawl out of this place..." "Then you can start crawling now."

A frosty voice interrupted Deborah before she could finish speaking and it brought the house to a complete silence.

“D-Darcy?! How did you... | thought you were arrested...”

Deborah screamed in shock when she saw Kaze and Darcy coming into the house holding hands.

What happened?

It had only been less than two hours since Darcy was arrested and she came back safely already?

What about prison time?

Rudy, Karen, Samus, and Deborah looked at them as if they were ghosts.

“Darcy?! You're okay!?”

Agnes got so excited that she could barely contain herself. She teared up once again but this time it was tears of joy. Hector did not say a word but he too breathed a sigh of relief.

They were all curious how Darcy made it back safely.

Under everyone's curious gaze, Darcy proudly curled her hand around Kaze's arm and said, "Dad, Mom, it was Kaze who made Brooks turn himself in. He was the one who instigated Jean because he got paid by the Hanser family. My name is now clear. She then looked at Rudy and his family. "Uncle Rudy, Aunt Karen sorry that I've disappointed you."

Chapter 315 Darcy Changed

Even though Jean had confessed that she was set up by the Hanser family to frame Darcy, Darcy knew that her uncle and cousins must have had a hand in it.

Without their involvement, it was impossible for the Hanser family to forge the documents.

Darcy was disappointed in her uncle and cousins.

Since they had never accepted her as family, there was no need for her to show them any compassion.

This time, she did not need Kaze to be the bad guy. She called Bruno, the CEO of Heavensward Group, and said coldly, "Mr. Bandino, there are trespassers on my property. Please send security over to my house and take them away!"

Rudy and his family were shocked.

Infuriated, Karen shouted, "Darcy, how dare you call the guards to throw us out!?"

“Darcy, I am your uncle, she’s your aunt! How can you throw us out?” Rudy bellowed. Darcy said nothing with a cold face in response to her uncle and aunt’s shout.

She did not like raising her voice. She preferred to prove herself with real actions.

Seeing Darcy's persistence, Rudy and Karen realized that their niece had changed. She was no longer the weak and cowardly girl.

Samus said fiercely, “Darcy, you are no longer the CEO of Quintessential Group! My father is the CEO! Do you really think the management will throw us out just because you called them to? Stop dreaming!”

He spoke too soon.

The Heavensward Group did not care who was the CEO of Quintessential Group. They only recognized Darcy as the owner of Horizon Mirror, so the security guards came and threw Rudy and his family out.

The guards politely asked them to leave, but if they refused, they would have to use force. “Darcy, just you wait! This house is ours sooner or later!” Rudy shouted. He then led his wife and children out of the house.

Rudy became the CEO of Quintessential Group and Darcy was removed from her position. He would have a lot of chances to deal with Darcy and her family in the future.

Before Deborah left, she turned around to Darcy and said, "Don't get ahead of yourself, Darcy. Vincent and I are having our engagement ceremony tomorrow at Dynasty Hotel. They spent a million just to buy out the hotel! The ceremony itself cost tens of millions!

"After tomorrow, I will become the daughter-in-law of the Hanser family and I will make you pay ten times, a hundred times, for what you did to us today!"

She glared at Darcy viciously before she strutted away.

Darcy did not answer. She turned to her parents and asked, "Deborah is getting engaged to Vincent? I've never heard anything about that."

Deborah and Vincent had been dating for more than six months.

The Hanser family never announced their relationship and had never contacted the Quint family.

The outside world knew almost nothing about their relationship.

Master Quint once voiced his concerns about the frosty reaction from the Hanser family.

He believed the Hansers looked down on them, a second-tier family, so they never wanted to announce the relationship. Besides, Deborah was lucky enough to date Vincent, who was obviously out of her league.

Now that Vincent suddenly announced his engagement with Deborah and set the ceremony for tomorrow, it baffled Darcy.

Agnes said, "They made the decision after you were taken. Your grandfather even agreed to let the Hanser family take over the pre-sale of Passion Fragrance District.

"Darcy, if Deborah becomes Vincent's wife, Rudy will only become stronger and more arrogant. We may face even more difficult times in the future."

Chapter 316 Lesson Not Learned

The threat Deborah left behind lingered in Agnes' mind.

Rudy's family turned cocky once in power. They would certainly throw weight around the family..

the

Darcy did not take her mother's words seriously. Instead, she frowned. "So, the Hansers acquired the Passion Fragrance District project."

Kaze, upon returning from causing a scene at the housing department, told Darcy the Hansers were plotting to steal Quintessential Group.

Fortunately, Kaze got Johnson, the mayor, on his side and foiled the Hansers' plan.

Yet, the Hansers refused to give up and came back with a vengeance. This time, they succeeded. Darcy pulled out her phone to give Logan a call.

“Aren't you under investigation, Darcy? Why are you calling m

Logan did not want to take Darcy's call because she was the la person he wanted to see right now. Still, he could not resist the curiosity and surprise, so he took the

“The case is overturned. Johnson told Ned to testify for me.”

Disheartened and furious by Logan's attitude, Darcy refused to address him as her grandfather. “The Hansers framed me, and Jean acted under their instructions They are up to no good.

“They are after the Passion Fragrance District project. We are inviting trouble by working with them.” Darcy could not stomach the Hansers grabbing Quintessential Group, so she tried to talk some sense into Logan. On the other end of the line, Logan was stunned by the news.

He was distrustful, to begin with, and now he wondered if he should believe Darcy.

In the end, Darcy's indifferent attitude did not sit well with him.

Darcy was his granddaughter, and her disrespect was uncalled for.

“Mind yourself, Darcy. The case with Jean might be overturned, but what about Liben and the others? They are from the top three families. You'll never win them.” Logan added coldly, “Don't worry about Quintessential Group. Don't take it the wrong way. The Hansers are just trying to help us.

“One more thing. Deborah is getting engaged to Vincent tomorrow at the Dynasty Hotel. The invitations have been sent out. The engagement party cost tens of millions. The Hansers are serious about the engagement.

“Stop the instigation. We're golden with the Hansers on our team. Do you think the world revolves around you?” Click.

Logan hung up.

Darcy did not expect Logan to dismiss her advice. Her kindness was mistaken for instigation.

Gritting her teeth, Darcy decided she did not want to care anymore.

Still, she had finally gotten the family business back on track. She was frustrated and anxious to let the group fall into the wrong hands.

“Don't panic, babe. The group belongs to you, and no one can take it away from you. The Hansers will not get away with it.” Kaze consoled her.

Logan's attitude on the phone did not bother him. He saw the Quints for who they really were a long time ago.

The Quints were smug to latch onto the Hansers, but soon, they would have no tears left to cry.

“I must figure out a way to stop the Hansers.”

Darcy made a few calls, but she only grew upset.

She received word that many Quintessential Group senior executives quit, including Andy and Fish who switched jobs from Perfect World Group to work on the Passion Fragrance District project.

“Your uncle and his family took things too far, Ms. Quint. We might be working for the group, but we refuse to be disrespected. We won't return unless you're back in power.”

Chapter 317 No Need to Beg

“Since your case is thrown out, you should run the company again, Ms. Quint. We are waiting for you to set things right so that we can come back to work for you.”

Fish, the sales manager of the Passion Fragrance District project, expressed the thoughts of many resigned senior executives and employees.

Only a handful were fired by Rudy and Samus.

Most of them walked out on their own.

Following Darcy's arrest and Rudy's return to power, they saw no hope in the company.

Even though they would get a better job offer for quitting before getting a job lined up, they resigned without hesitation.

As Rudy and Samus contributed nothing to the company, the employees would be wasting their time expecting a career with Quintessential Group.

Darcy learned from Fish that the Hansers took over the Passion Fragrance District worksite the moment she was taken away into custody.

The project manager and chief engineer were replaced by the Hansers 'people.

The sales team Fish put together had been taken off the project as the Hansers gained control of the project at record time. The Hansers' eagerness worried Darcy.

Given the scheduled project opening at 2:00 PM tomorrow, the Hansers' current haste seemed curious.

Despite having done a lot of growing, Darcy panicked at the turn of events.

Everything happened too quickly. The Hansers did not give her time to sort out the issues.

Darcy could not sit back and do nothing.

She poured her blood, sweat, and tears into the project, and it was time to reap the rewards, but the Hansers swooped in and stole the project from her.

"Why didn't you call me when you were released? Did the police make things hard for you?" Miru rushed over.

When Kaze went to turn himself in, Miru left to find ways to save Darcy.

She then heard that Ned surrendered and testified for D learning of Darcy's release, Miru dropped everything to a friend. "They didn't make things hard for me. Commissioner Feyan doing his job and following protocol!" Her best friend's presence comforted Darcy.

Upon

“That’s true. If those bastards ever lay a hand on you, I will make s they never walk out of Lilyrose alive.

Miru took a good look at Darcy, making sure she was fine.”

She glared at Kaze. “Did you turn yourself in? Why are you back? Liben and two others accused Darcy of instigating you to assault

The case is still pending. Since you're not taking the blame, are you expecting your wife to take the fall?”

Kaze was pretty manly to surrender himself to the police for Darcy's sake.

Now that Kaze was out of jail, Miru lost the last bit of respect for him.

“You said you love Darcy, but what do you do to show it? Why did she even marry you-” Miru quit while she was ahead because Darcy was there too.

Still, her disdain for Kaze was clear on her face.

Darcy stopped her sharp-tongued best friend. “Don’t say that, Miru. Ned confessed and testified for me after Kaze approached the mayor. Joy came to clarify the case involving Liben. If it weren’t for Kaze, I would still be under investigation.”

“Really? How did he manage to sway the mayor, though?” Miru looked at Kaze. “Tell me how you begged the mayor. Why would he sacrifice his nephew to save Darcy?” The family fixated on Kaze, curious about the reason.

Miru was always picking on Kaze. He turned to her and s smile, “I didn’t need to beg or even contact him. In fact, | knew would try to save Darcy the moment she was taken away.”

Chapter 318 Apologize

Kaze knew what was on Johnson's mind.

Johnson put his career and everything on the line for Kaze because Kaze was the God of War.

Johnson believed he could turn his family’s and his fortune around by getting in Kaze’s good graces. Hence, he worked hard to please Kaze.

The moment Darcy was taken into custody, Johnson called Kaze before the latter did so, expressing that he was working to get Darcy out.

However, Miru would never believe that story.

In fact, Agnes and the rest of the family would think Kaze was just tooting his horn. Kaze was not bothered to explain, and a call from Snow happ come in. He went out to take the call.

“What's up?” Kaze asked.

Snow replied, “Mr. Chairman, I have found records of Liben’s and others’ misconduct while they were working for Lilyrose Bank. What do you want to do with the information?”

Ever since Johnson hired Snow as the chairman of Lilyrose Bank, she got straight to digging dirt on Liben and his friends when they would not back down.

These people were foolish enough to set their sights on Darcy. There was no reason for her to hold back either.

“Isn't it obvious? Mail it to the mayor’s office. It’s time they get arrested and go through trial,” Kaze said peevishly.

His beautiful assistant was highly capable, always thinking ahead without being asked to. However, she cared too much about what he thought. She always asked his opinion in every matter.

Snow was intelligent, often getting what was on Kaze’s mind. “Of course, Mr. Chairman.” Kaze put his phone away and walked back.

Miru had badmouthed him while he was gone, and now she was on his case again. “Liben and the other two work for the top three families, Kaze. Do you think Joy’s statement alone will have Darcy's case dropped?”

“What are you suggesting?” Kaze asked.

Miru responded, “I can meet them and promise them a little something to withdraw the case. They could drop it for my sake, but you need to apologize to him since you beat them up.” “So, I’ll have to apologize?”

Kaze narrowed his eyes dangerously. “You want me to ap those who went after my wife? What do you take me for, Mir Back at Lily Garden Hotel, he knew what Liben and others wer

If he did not make it there in the nick of time, those vile men v have done something to Darcy.

The only reason Liben and his friends were not six feet undergrou by now was because Kaze did not want to kill in front of Darcy. Darcy was where he drew the line.

The look on Kaze’s face gave Miru a jump. She got her act togethe and responded, “I know it’s insulting to you, but Liben is the director of Lilyrose Bank, not a nobody.

“His pride and dignity mean more to him than anything else. If your won't apologize, they won’t do anything to you because you're mentally ill, but they can take it out on Darcy.”

That was the painful truth. Agnes was scared. She said, “So that’s decided. Miru, you can set up the meeting, and you’re going to apologize, Kaze.

“It doesn’t matter if the apology is beneath you, Kaze. You can’t protect Darcy. She doesn’t mind your mental illness. She married you and did everything for you. What's wrong with apologizing for her sake?”

Chapter 319 Leo

Darcy believed Agnes went too far, so she said angrily, “We didn’t do anything wrong, Mom. Why should Kaze apologize? Besides, Kaze convinced Joy to testify. The case will close soon enough.”

“Why are you still defending him?”

Agnes snapped back. “The Hansers nearly had you behind bars. It won't be a bed of roses now that you crossed the top three families. Are you going to make us worry about you? It won't kill him to apologize for once.”

Darcy wanted to argue, but Kaze stopped her.

He looked at Miru and said with a smirk, “Set up the meeting, Miru. We'll see who's the one apologizing then.”

Kaze had enough of Miru. It was time to show the woman what he was made of, so she would quit looking down on him. “Not even a thank-you. Geez.”

Miru scoffed. If it were not for Darcy, Kaze's attitude would have pushed Miru to wash her hands over the matter.

She did not take Kaze seriously. The dimwit was just stubborn because of his ego.

“Leo, contact Liben, the director of Lilyrose Bank for me.”

Miru recounted the incident over the phone.

Like Miru, Leo was Adam's godson. He held a relatively high position as Miru at Lefteria Group. His presence held as much sway as Miru.

Soon, Liben and the others agreed to a meeting, only on one of the conditions that Kaze was to apologize.

Hearing that Darcy and Miru were best friends, Liben and his friends stopped getting any ideas about Darcy. Nevertheless, the trio were still at the hospital, so they requested

Kaze to meet them at Lilyrose Prime Hospital.

“Come on then.”

Miru got up and glanced at Kaze before walking away.

“I’ll go with you, Kaze.”

Darcy rose to his feet with tearful eyes. She would rather apologize to Liben than have Kaze do it. Kaze only messed Liben and the others. up to protect her.

“Stay out of it. You aren’t allowed to go. Just let Miru and Kaze handle it.”

Agnes pulled Darcy back. Darcy might make matters worse if she went there and stuck up for Kaze.

“Just wait for me at home, babe. | won’t give in to them.”

Kaze smiled at Darcy before walking off without looking ba

They took Miru’s sports car to Lilyrose Prime Hospital. They the lobby of the inpatient unit.

Aman was there. It was Leo, whom Miru called earlier.

Leo drew close and glanced at Kaze. "So, he's the dimwit son-in of the Quints? You could've told him to catch a cab. Why did you let him sit with you?"

Miru drove a two-seater sports car, so they had to be sitting together just now.

Kaze could tell that Leo saw Miru as his possession.

He did not care who the man was to Miru, but the contempt in Leo's tone pissed Kaze off.

Kaze said indifferently, "Don't worry. My wife is prettier than her. Even if we're alone in a house, nothing will happen between us." Miru glared at Kaze.

Kaze was putting her down.

Leo grimaced and looked dagged at Kaze. "Trust me when I say I'll rip your mouth apart."

Chapter 320 An Apology Is Enough

"I don't trust you when you say it."

Leo might be intimidating to others, but Kaze felt nothing.

"What's with your attitude when you're the one asking for help? Do you think I wouldn't hit you?" Leo grimaced and decided to teach Kaze a lesson.

"Who asked for your help?"

Kaze side-eyed him.

Miru thought she knew better and dragged him along to apologize to Liben. Kaze could not fall out with Miru because she was Darcy's best friend.

However, Kaze did not have to extend the same courtesy to Leo. Leo's raised hand froze mid-air.

All Kaze did was look at him offhandedly, and Leo had ch down his spine. He felt as if a mysterious force was pulli back from launching at Kaze.

ng It was a hair-raising moment for Leo. He had a feeling that he die if he were to pull the punch. "Stop, Leo. Are you trying to kill him?" Miru yelled.

Although she could not stand Kaze, she could not allow Leo to k

Kaze under her watch.

As a professional fighter, Leo packed enough punch to make a fata blow.

With Leo putting down his arm, Miru glared at Kaze. "Leo's right. He came here to help, but you gave him an attitude. For a guy who can't do anything right, you sure know how to throw a temper."

Kaze smiled nonchalantly without a word. There was no reasoning with a presumptuous woman. He had to prove to her with his actions.

The towering pressure over Leo disappeared.

Leo looked at Kaze in horror, noticing there was nothing special about him. He started to wonder if his mind was playing tricks on him.

"Where's Liben's ward, Leo?" Miru asked. "The sixth floor."

Leo glanced at Kaze and added with a smirk, "Liben expected the dimwit to crawl on his knees into the ward to apologize before he can talk about withdrawing the case."

"Crawl on his knees? Liben sure thinks he's all that."

Miru scoffed angrily and said while walking along the corridor, "I him that Kaze will apologize but without crawling on his knees here on behalf of my best friend. | can't allow my friend to be insulted."

"Liben is not budging on that. The guy beat him up badly."

Leo kept up with Miru's pace.

Kaze just annoyed Leo, so he was not going to plead Kaze's case.

Leo cocked his head back and said with a sneer, "Kaze, is it? Liben is willing to take a step back to consider reconciliation because of me, so you better get in there and apologize. Just get it done and over with. "One more thing. | just lent your wife a hand, but | don't need you to thank inte lust apologize for being rude to me earlier. Wilt cupcake here, you don't have to get on your knees."

He acted och anti mighty as if he did Kaze a huge favon

Please address me by my name, Leo

Miru frowned, fret mo repulsed by Leo's term of endearment.

She walked into the lit and told Kaze, "You heard Lec. Liben woon't budge, so you have to crawl your way in.”