

Guardian 321

Chapter 321 Kneel

“Kaze, it’s your fault for breaking Liben’s legs and forcing alcohol down his throat that he’s in the ICU for alcohol poisoning. He nearly died.

“If Lefteria Group hadn't tried to talk things out with Liben and the other two, they would never stop until they ruin your family.” Thinking she knew better, Miru tried to talk sense into Kaze. Miru wanted Kaze to drop the ego act for the greater good. However, her disdain did not sit well with Kaze.

His pride had no value to her.

The lift opened on the sixth floor.

“As I said, we won't know who will be apologizing later.”

Kaze did not even look at Miru.

He gave his response and walked out of the lift without looking back.

“Hmph! Ingrate.”

Miru nearly stormed off.

She was sick and tired of Kaze, who was a loser. What was wrong with apologizing to save his wife?

If it were not for Darcy, Miru could care less whether he died.

Leo stared at Kaze’s back and said coldly, “The guy doesn’t respect you, cupcake. I’ll sort him out and make him apologize to you once. We get out of there.”

“Stay out of my business.”

Miru glared at him. “I told you time and time again to address me by my name. I’m not close with you.” She went after Kaze.

“You know | have always loved you.”

Lep laughed wryly to himself, his gaze dreadfull

A nurse led the trio outside Liben’s ward.

Open up, Liben. Kaze is here to get down on his knees and apologize Lexis/loud voice caught the attention of many patiens on the floor. They looked over curiously.

It was prevery day they got to see people getting down on ther knees to apologize.

Many lived from the drama.

Mira furrowed her brows peevishly.

Even a focol could cell Lep did it on purpose. Leo wanted to Kaze by making him kneel in public. “Creak!”

The door to the ward was opened from the inside.

Leo smiled pretentiously an liben who emerged at the door.

“What took you, Mr. Radan? Aren't you pleased you’re getting an apology?”

Leo then glanced at Kaze with a swi. "Don't just stand there. Mr. Radar is waiting for the apology" Liben turned pale and sweated profusely.

peda adelante in lank-faced Kaze and dropped to his knees.

before before Kaze. His knees hit the ground so loud that alt the pain foram for him.

Kaze's feet.

Leo were sturene stunned. jokers' jaws dropped.

eaded loudly. "Owes Wrovas wrong, Kaze. Please forgive me. | won't Quint anymore. Donte kneel or apologize to me. I'll do it two appeared behind Libend bent and dropped to their knees. med a triangle as they bears before Kaze.

ere the same trio who wanted get with Darcy at Lily Garden n't fix the problem just by saying serving sorry."

id emotionlessly before looking inside the ward."

ked inside the ward.

in uniform stood in the wide ward. com recognize to be Seth, the head of the public prosecutor

lized that the jig was up for Liben. Liten

He

Chapter 322 You'll Be Next

Liben and the other two were taken into custody, screaming in tears.

They had done their share of misconduct while working for Lilyrose Bank which called for jail time.

“Kaze, why were Liben and his friends pleading with you when they were arrested?”

On the way down, Miru asked Kaze to get an answer.

She was still in disbelief although she saw Liben and the others begging Kaze for mercy with her own eyes. “I told Snow to dig into their dirt and arrest them. I call the shots, so of course, they are going to beg me for mercy.”

Kaze told her the truth to show Miru what he was made of.

“I can't believe Snow would listen to you.”

Miru was even more surprised. She knew Snow was the assi the chairman of Perfect World Group.

Johnson elected Snow as the chairman of Lilyrose Bank after the resolution of Quintessential Group's loan crisis. Could Kaze be the elusive chairman of Perfect World Group?

Miru refused to believe that fact.

Leo scowled at Miru's reaction.

He scoffed. "Don't listen to the dummy, Miru. I've met Snow. She was born from privilege, so she would be too proud to take orders from the dummy. He might as well say that he's the chairman of Perfect World Group."

Kaze could afford little patience for Miru. However, he would not stand for Leo's attitude. He turned to Leo and said with a smile, "Didn't you say you want to make me apologize to Miru on my knees?" "That's right. Do you have a problem with that?" Leo looked at Kaze defiantly. "Don't think for a second that just because Liben kneeled at your feet, you can boss me around. You mean squat-" Smack! Kaze slapped the words out of him. He then booted Leo behind the knees. "Argh!" Leo whimpered in pain. Kaze struck quickly, and everything was over before everybody knew 'ib By the time Miru realized what happened, Leo dropped to his k like Liben. "Kaze!" Miru glared at Kaze in shock and rage, not knowing what to say. Awave of emotions washed over her. Leo was a professional fighter, and yet he was defenseless against Kaze.

"| usually make those who can't stop talking about kneeling experience it themselves. Miru, you'll be next if this happens again, and | won't hold back just because you're friends with Darcy anymore."

Kaze left Lilyrose Prime Hospital without looking back.

"You!"

Miru shook in rage, her face pale.

She could hear the resolution in Kaze's voice.

Miru had no doubt Kaze would not let her get away with it because. she was a woman or Darcy's best friend the next time. Liben's and his friends' arrest rocked the community of Lilyrose.

The public believed the Alliance was challenging the top three families.

The trio's charges against Darcy were dropped.

Darcy was pleased with the news because Kaze did not have to apologize to them.

Hector and Agnes were at ease to learn that their daughter was out of the woods.

Meanwhile, Logan and Rudy's side of the family learned of Da dropped charges.

"That's a shame. I can't believe Darcy got lucky. The state police are useless. To think we paid the bride."
Many members of the Quints were disappointed about Darcy's quick release.

Chapter 323 Things Look Promising The Quints were miserable when Darcy took over the company, so they wished Darcy would be kept behind bars forever.

"It doesn't matter whether Darcy comes back. She's dismissed from office. The employees on her side are fired too. She's not a threat to us. Our happy days are back with Rudy's family running the business."

Some saw the positive side of things.

Rudy and Samus were incapable. To stay in power, they gave the rest of the family a little something to stop them from complaining to Logan.

"It doesn't harm us that Darcy is clear of charges. Our properties are going up on sale tomorrow. We don't need bad press to hurt our sales."

“Shouldn't we celebrate since our sales still shot up even though Darcy is removed from power?” A member of the Quints said, and many echoed his sentiment.

Even Logan nodded and beamed.

The Quints could see a bright future ahead of them.

Noticing Logan's reaction, Vincent said aloud, “My family’s sales team has an appraisal on the Passion Fragrance District project, Logan.”

“Oh, how did the appraisal go?”

Since Logan’s focus was on the pre-sales tomorrow afternoon, he asked eagerly. +25B

“Things look promising, and we might break Lilyrose’s real estate record.”

The Quints cheered.

They had no idea about the situation. All they knew was the Hansers’ sales team was poached all the way from Sunrise and was more capable than Fish. The appraisal done by Vincent’s team was more persuasive than the one done by Fish. “That’s good news.”

Overjoyed, Logan was hopeful about the sales.

“The manager of the sales team said if we want to knock this out of the park and penetrate Sunrise’s market, we need to invest more funds. The money we have in real estate isn’t enough.”

Vincent slid the remark in.

Logan was tempted by the prospect of penetrating the state market.

He asked, “How much do you need?”

“The manager of the sales team conservatively estimated two billion dollars.”

Vincent shook his head in regret. “But it’s a huge risk for the group to pour that much money into one project, so I hadn’t jumped on board right away.”

Two billion dollars was just a rough estimate on the low end.

Feeling torn, Logan tugged on his beard.

Rudy said, “Dad, we have over two billion dollars from investors in our corporate account. If I put the money into the project, we will earn a lot more than we put in if things take off.”

After Darcy was relieved of her duties, Logan took full control of the corporate accounts. Otherwise, Rudy would have decided to move the funds to prove himself a long time ago. Logan was still hesitant about it. His mind wandered back to Darcy’s phone call this afternoon.

He turned to Vincent. “Vincent, Darcy said that Jean committed perjury to frame her under your family’s instructions. Is that true?”

Vincent's heart sank. He wanted to deny it, but Logan was a mistrustful man. Vincent's denial might get to Logan's head.

Hence, getting his teeth, Vincent nodded. "That's right, Logan. We told Jean to fake the evidence."

Chapter 324 Carried Away

Logan never thought Vincent would admit to it.

He snarled.

It did not matter to Logan that Darcy was possibly framed.

Logan was more concerned if the Hansers had ulterior motives against the Quints.

Not wanting her fiancé to get in trouble, Deborah jumped in. "You have us to blame, Grandpa. We didn't want Darcy running the business, so we sought help from the Hansers to remove Darcy from the company."

"That's right You saw it, Dad. Darcy didn't care about your opinion when she was CEO. This was the only way to get rid of her." Bracing himself, Rudy stepped forward. He was afraid the anger would drive Logan to change his mind.

Vincent was quick to explain, saying that he was just ti Rudy, his father-in-law, get into power.

He squashed any possibility that the Hansers had any ulterior motives.

Logan scoffed unhappily because he was kept in the dark.

At the same time, he felt relieved.

All was good so long as the Hansers were not up to something.

With the Quints and the Hansers coming together as a family through marriage, it would not do the Quints any good to have a falling out.

Logan waved his arm. "Very well. The two billion dollars in the corporate account can be transferred to the Passion Fragrance District project's books. The sales team has full authorization to utilize the funds."

Rudy's family was overjoyed.

He immediately called the group's finance team to make the wire transfer.

Soon, the two billion dollars in Quintessential Group's corporate account was wired to the Passion Fragrance District project's account.

"We're counting on your family, Vincent. Knock the project out of the park and help us penetrate Sunrise's market. We might even become multibillionaires."

Logan told Vincent in anticipation.

That was his ambition.

Logan dreamt not only of the Quints being the richest in t the entire state.

but

When that were to happen, even the heads of the top three 1 would have to grovel in his presence.

“Don’t worry, Logan. We will succeed.”

Suppressing his glee, Vincent patted his chest and promised.

He then left the Quints’ residence, saying that he had to prepare for the engagement party which was held tomorrow morning.

“You found yourself a good husband, Deborah. He worked late into the night, and yet he still found the time to organize the engagement party. I’m sure he’ll pamper you when you marry into his family.”

“The fate of the family rests in your hands, Deb.”

The members of the Quint family sucked up to Deborah.

Rudy’s family was most delighted. Their foothold in the family was unshakeable.

“Hmph. Darcy would have to think twice before getting smart with me. I’ll make her pay for kicking us out again,” Deborah said arrogantly. She was furious that Darcy threw her out again today.

“That’s right. Teach her a lesson. Not only did she marry an idiot who contributed nothing to the family, but she also challenged us. The others agreed.

Deborah was getting engaged the next morning, and the presale was going on in the afternoon.

The Quints were too excited to sleep that night.

They stayed at the residence, anticipating tomorrow to go so they could attend the engagement ceremony at the Dynasty Ho Due to his age, Logan turned in for the night and lay in bed.

Despite feeling sleepy, Logan tossed and turned.

Half an hour later, an abrupt phone call ruined Logan's chance of sleeping that night.

"It's a wise choice to sell the complex with your family caught in scandal, but even so, you didn't have to sell it below the market price Logan.

"400 million dollars isn't much of a profit."

Chapter 325 A Shell

Jimmy Tulen called Logan.

He was Logan's fishing buddy who worked as a notary public. Logan was stunned. "What did you say, Jim? We have not sold the complex."

"Who are you trying to fool, Logan?"

Jimmy added, "You moved your real estate company's assets to a Sunrise company, and my firm was the witness of the transfer."

Logan shuddered and got out of bed.

He rushed out of the bedroom and called Rudy over. "Rudy, go and check if our real estate company is transferred." Startled, the other family members came and asked what was going on.

Soon, Rudy returned in a fluster, his hands shaking while holding the phone.

"Dad, I asked about it, and all the assets, including the com our real estate company have been sold to Quartet Group i for 100 million dollars."

Shit!

With the bombshell dropped, sleep was the last thing on the Quin mind.

The group had invested over a billion dollars into the Passion Fragrance District project, and it was now sold for 100 million dollars

The amount was lower than a fire sale.

Logan turned flushed in the face.

He extended his arms and held onto Rudy while asking anxiously, "What about the two billion dollars we just wired?" "That's gone too, Dad. Our real estate company is just a shell now."

Rudy stared at Logan vacantly, his head buzzing. He was at a loss for what to do.

“It's the Hansers. The Hansers are behind this!”

Logan stomped his foot and shouted exasperatedly.

“It can't be the Hansers. Vincent and | are getting engaged tomorrow.”

Deborah screamed in aghast, unable to accept it.

Samus said, “Yeah, Grandpa. The Hansers wouldn't sell the company. Maybe the newly hired sales team is the problem.” Logan drew a deep breath before uttering solemnly, “Contact the Hansers right now and get to the bottom of the situation.” Deborah pulled out her phone to contact Vincent.

Like the last few times when the Quints met with trouble, V unreachable.

Rudy's family tried calling other Hanser family members but we unsuccessful.

As if things were not bad enough, the Hanser family went off the g

“Go to the Hansers' residence now. Check out what is going on.”

Shaking with rage, Logan yelled and kicked Rudy's family out.

While Logan already had a hunch, he was only clinging on to the last glimmer of hope.

As expected, Rudy and the others in less than half an hour.

They could not even get past the Hansers security.

Even though Deborah said she was Vincent's fiancée, the security guard did not recognize or ever hear of Vincent's fiancée. The Hansers were among the rich and powerful Scottle family was heavily guarded with security. Rudy and its family would not dare to force their way in.

The Hansers played us. Quintessential Group's assets were with the read less company. The Hansers took our everything.

Logan was himself

He called Ruddy over and slapped him knocking him to the ground.

"Are you in it with the Hansers?"

As expected, Rudy and the others returned dejected in less than half an hour.

They could not even get past the Hansers' neighborhood security.

Even though Deborah said she was Vincent's fiancée, the security guard did not recognize or ever hear of Vincent's fiancée.

The Hansers were among the rich and powerful, so the family residence was heavily guarded with security. Rudy and his family would not dare to force their way in.

"The Hansers played us. Quintessential Group's assets were with the real estate company. The Hansers took our everything." Logan was kicking himself.

He called Rudy over and slapped him, knocking him to the ground.

"Are you in it with the Hansers?"

Chapter 326 What Engagement?

Logan shouted menacingly.

The Quints gave the Hansers full access to operate the Passion. Fragrance District project. Two billion dollars was transferred to the real estate books.

Rudy's family had been the driving force behind those decisions.

Logan glared at his eldest son, tempted to rip him apart with his bare hands.

Rudy knew he was in big trouble.

Getting on his knees, he said tremblingly, "Dad, the Hansers booked the Dynasty Hotel to have the engagement party, and they have sent invitations to many families. They aren't going anywhere.

"We will meet them at the hotel tomorrow and ask for the comp and money back, or we'll expose them. They will be utterly humiliated." At this point, there was nothing much they could do.

Logan went along with the suggestion. "Fine. We will all go to the Dynasty Hotel tomorrow and make the Hansers pay back everything and more."

The Quints spent the rest of the night in turmoil.

The next day soon arrived.

It was lively at the Dynasty Hotel today.

Many prominent figures of Lilyrose were present at the banquet hall on the top floor. Representatives of the top three families were among those on the guest list. The Hansers were the stars today, tending to their fellow guests.

Logan, spearheading the Quints, marched in aggressively to get questions answered. They hesitated at the presence of Lilyrose's heavy hitters.

The event went on as planned, and the invited VIPs were in attendance.

For all they knew, the Hansers could be oblivious to Quintessential Group's present crisis.

"See, Grandpa. We got the wrong idea about the Hansers. If they had something to hide, they wouldn't organize the engagement party."

Deborah, despite staying up all night, was on cloud nine.

Catching sight of Vincent, dressed in a white suit like Prince Charming, Deborah approached him with a smile.

"Why didn't you take my calls last night, Vincent? Were ing to give me a surprise?" Vincent was chatting Vicky up when he was grabbed by the Deborah's coy voice came next. "Huh? Oh? Um... Yeah, sure..."

Vincent gave a vague response and tried to withdraw his arm fr her grasp. However, Deborah clung to him. "You look good today, Vincent.

You're my Prince Charming. That reminds me. What about my gown?

"What gown?"

Vincent did not understand what she was talking about.

Deborah pouted him with a pout. Are you trying to be funny? It's our engagement party today. | should have a gown for the party too."

"Hey, don't be ridiculous, Deborahain."

Vincent pulled his arm away and said angry, "What engagement party? Who is getting engaged to your Morthing is going between us. Don't make up stories."

His loud voice attracted a lot of attention.

That's Deborah Quint. Why is she all over Vincent? An engagement party? is that so? Why haven't we heard about it?" The public chattered and gave Deborah strange looks..

Vincent...

Deborah froze there, staring at the man she no longer knew though her blurry vision.

"You're a bastard, Vincent!"

Samus sommed over. "You said yesterday that you booked Dynasty Hiorell for your engagement to Deborah and invited families. Are you refusing to acknowledge what you said?"

"That's right. Your family put out the invitation and held the ev What do you have to stay for yourselves?" Logan and the others walked over furiously, encircling Vincent.

Vincent panicked a little but quickly got ahold of himself.

He said with a smile, "Who told you that there was an engagement party today?"

Deborah pounded him with a pout to be funny? It's our engagement party today. | should have a gown for the party too."

“Hey, don’t be ridiculous, Deborah.”

Vincent pulled his arm away and said angry. What engagement party? Who is getting engaged to you? going between us. Don’t make up stories.”

His loud voice attracted a lot of attention

That’s Deborah Quint. Why is she all over Vincent Ana engagement berry? that so? Why haven't we heard about it?” Themobilio chattered and gave Deborah strange looks.

Deborah Troozze there staring at the men she no longer knew thorough her blurry

You're a bastard Vincent!”

Samus stormed over. You said yesterday that you booked Dynasty Hotel for you engagement to Deborah and invited amilies. Are you ressing to acknowledge what you said?”

That’s right. Your family putout the invitation and held the eve What do you have to yourselves?” Logan and the others walked oven turiously, encircling Vincent.

Vincent panicked a little but quickly. hold of himself.

He said with a smile, “Who told you baat there was an engagement party today?”

Deborah pounded him with a pout. “Are you trying to be funny? It’s our engagement party today. | should have a gown for the party too.”

“Hey, don’t be ridiculous, Deborah.”

Vincent pulled his arm away and said angrily, "What engagement party? Who is getting engaged to you? Nothing is going between us. Don't make up stories."

His loud voice attracted a lot of attention.

"That's Deborah Quint. Why is she all over Vincent? An engagement party? Is that so? Why haven't we heard about it?" The public chattered and gave Deborah strange looks.

"Vincent..."

Deborah froze there, staring at the man she no longer knew through her blurry vision.

"You're a bastard, Vincent!"

Samus stormed over. "You said yesterday that you booked the Dynasty Hotel for your engagement to Deborah and invited many families. Are you refusing to acknowledge what you said?"

"That's right. Your family put out the invitation and held the event. What do you have to say for yourselves?" Logan and the others walked over furiously, encircling Vincent.

Vincent panicked a little but quickly got ahold of himself.

He said with a smile, "Who told you that there was an engagement party today?"

Chapter 327 Engagement Turned Birthday Party

The Quints' hearts sank when they saw Vincent smirk.

“Here comes the old birthday boy.”

The Quints exchanged looks, wondering the meaning behind

Vincent's words.

Cheers burst out in the hall.

Liam, the head of the Hanser household, appeared with a ruddy glow, surrounded by many. “You are only 70 once, so I wanted to have a party at the Dynasty Hotel. Thank you all for coming...” What?

It was the birthday celebration of Liam, the head of the Hansers.

The Quints were stunned.

Samus grabbed Vincent by the collar and yelled, “You better excuse yourself, Vincent. You were supposed to get engaged to my sis. Why is it a birthday celebration now?”

The commotion caught Liam’s attention.

After learning the situation, he said peevishly, “My grandson can’t possibly get engaged to a member of the Quint family. What engagement are you talking about? That’s ridiculous. Vincent, show them the invitation we sent out.”

The Quints quickly saw the invitation sent to the guests.

Sure enough, the invitation showed that it was a birthday celebration.

The Quints nearly passed out because they had no idea.

The Hansers tricked them.

Blinded by greed, the Quints were lost in joy when Vincent talked about getting engaged to Deborah. They did not bother to check the invitations that were sent out.

“You, scammer, Liam!”

Logan shouted furiously, “You were eyeing my family’s assets right from the start. You stole the Passion Fragrance District Project and two billion dollars from us.”

Holy cow.

An uproar erupted in the hall.

Logan dropped quite a bombshell.

“What are you saying, Logan? You only come from a family with some money. That’s no reason for you to talk to me with such disrespect.”

Liam rose to his feet in rage.

“Don't give me that bullshit. I'll show you that the Hansers will have no place in Lilyrose.”

Logan hissed through clenched teeth. “You had it coming for all those dirty deeds you did, Liam. I’m going to expose you. Are you going to deny that Quartet Group has nothing to do with your family?”

Liam laughed out loud.

“You’re funny, Logan. Don’t try to blame others for losing your family business. You sold the assets because you didn’t know how to run the company. Don’t try to put that on us.”

He pulled a long face. “Quartet Group has nothing to do with the Hansers. Run all the checks if you need to. I’m happy to give up my family assets if you manage to link that business to us.”

Liam then had Logan and the rest thrown out.

In fact, some guests began fact-checking.

On the surface, Quartet Group, a company that came out of nowhere, did not seem to be associated with the Hansers. There was no concrete evidence. It was unlikely for the Quints to expose the Hansers’ scheme or demand back the sold assets.

In other words, the Hansers orchestrated the plan a long time ago. They played the Quints and stole their assets without breaking a sweat.

The Hansers continued to pay at the Dynasty Hotel.

Thrown out, the Quints felt as if their world had come crumbling down.

“We are done for.”

Logan shouted in despair before passing out.

Fortunately, a family member was there to catch him, but he was unconscious.

Chapter 328 Return in Folds

With Logan passed out on the street, the Quints were a mess.

They tried pinching his nose and calling the ambulance to take him to the emergency room.

After a bustle, Logan finally regained consciousness. He seemed lost, though.

Lying in bed, Logan stared at the ceiling without a word.

It was bright outside, but the mood in the ward was gloomy.

Following Logan's fainting spell, the family felt like their world had crumbled.

The Quints were toasted this time.

Rudy's family, especially, took the news the hardest.

Deborah, often conceited, sat there in a daze.

When Darcy's family arrived at the ward, they saw the Quints loo dejected as if drained of life.

“Is Logan alright?”

Agnes wheeled Hector toward Logan, only to be shocked by his condition.

If the ECG monitor had not shown Logan’s heart rate, Agnes would have thought he was a goner. Logan finally showed some signs of life.

Catching Darcy’s family by the corner of his eye, Logan shouted, ”

What are you doing there? Are you here to make fun of me?”

He regretted it.

Logan regretted taking Rudy’s family’s advice and kicking Darcy out of the company.

He kicked himself for believing the Hansers and letting them take over the project to drain the Quint family’s funds. However, Logan was a man of ego. He wanted to sink to the ground at the sight of Darcy’s family. Everything they did or said seemed to be mocking him.

It felt like they were tainting his short-sightedness and stubbornness.

Agnes consoled him, “We heard you were sick, so we came to visit you. Please take care of yourself. Karma will get the Hansers-”

The mention of the Hansers hit Logan’s sore point.

“Get out! | don’t need your fake sympathy. | know you're here to make fun of me.”

If Logan had the energy, he would have jumped out of bed and thre Darcy's family out himself. “Don't act like you care, Agnes. You must be happy that we're in trouble. Get lost!”

“That’s right. We're not dumb. You must know that Quintessential Group was drained with only 100 million dollars left. Get lost. We're not giving you a share of the 100 million dollars.”

The other Quint family members showed them the door.

However, their true intentions became clear the moment they opened their mouths.

The vile comments got to Darcy. With her mother pushed to tears, Darcy argued with them angrily.

Despite her best efforts, Darcy could not outwit them verbally. They tore into Darcy.

Kaze stayed on the sidelines until they started having a go at his wife. He scoffed. “You are cowardly bullies. You didn’t say a thing in front of the Hansers, but you're taking it out on my wife now.”

The comment was a punch in the Quints’ gut.

They could not do anything to the Hansers.

In fact, when the Hansers kicked them out of the hotel, the Quints left with their tails tucked between their legs. Hence, they directed their anger toward Darcy.

“You're a loser, Kaze. Who are you to tell us off?”

“If you think you're so much better than us, why don't you retrieve the complex from the Hansers?”

Driven by rage and embarrassment, the Quints unleashed their wrath on Kaze.

Kaze said with a smirk, “I don't need you to tell me. I will m

Hansers pay whatever they took from Quintessential Group in

Chapter 329 Not Like You Can Keep It

Kaze's words were met with scoffs.

Agnes and Hector, aside from the Quints, had no faith in Kaze.

The Quints were helpless against the Hansers' meticulously crafted plan. It was not as if Kaze, a good-for-nothing, could accomplish anything.

“If you're able to demand the complex back, I'll jump off the building.”

“You're just here to gloat because our family is in trouble. Even at our worst, we won't put up with your arrogance. You're just a dummy who took our family name.”

“The loser’s up to no good. He must be trying to pull the same scam as Vincent to con the last 100 million dollars out of us.” The Quints sneered.

The dimwit was delusional to think he could scam money like Vince

Vincent had the support of the Hansers to pull the elaborate scam on the Quints, but Kaze had nothing. “Scam your money? Why would I be bothered to?”

Faced with jeers, Kaze smirked. “I’m only getting the assets back from the Hansers for my wife’s sake. I don’t care what happens to you.”

He had seen the Quints for who they were a long time ago.

Even though the Hansers stole their assets, they had no guts to seek justice.

Instead, they picked on Darcy, who only had the family’s best interest at heart.

The Quints were stupid and mean.

“Woah, talk about cocky. Who does he think he is? Don’t care what happens to us? He can’t even take care of himself. Don’t try to give us that.”

“Get out now!”

The other members of the Quint family saw red.

Logan raised his arm shakily and hissed through clenched teeth. “ Don’t give me that crap. Get out of my room now!” “Who let the animal out of the zoo? Get out now!”

With Kaze getting on everybody’s nerves again, Agnes nudged him out angrily.

Kaze turned around to leave, but before he had one foot out the door, he said, “Let me make this clear, Logan. Once | get the assets ba they will be in Darcy’s name instead of Quintessential Group. It’s like you can hold onto the assets if | return them to you.”

“| have no problem making Darcy the chairman of Quintessential Group if that happens. Anybody can make empty promises. Why don’t- you get the assets back before we talk?”

Livid, Logan lay back down and heaved heavily.

He was not convinced that Kaze could demand the assets back from the Hansers.

That was all Kaze needed from Logan. He then walked out without looking back. “Ah! How dare he look down on us. Who does he think he is?”

“ want to kill that bastard!”

The yelling and cursing went on in the ward for a while before the calm gradually resumed. "Can you really get the assets back, Kaze?"

Downstairs, Darcy asked.

She could tell Kaze was serious about it.

Kaze nodded. "That's right. Those are your blood, sweat, and tears. How can the Hansers take away your realized dream and your hard work?"

Darcy felt warm and cozy inside. The only person who understood her was probably Kaze.

Only Kaze remembered her dream of restoring the group to its former glory. She wanted to restore her father's reputation and reclaim herself.

"Don't believe his bragging, Darcy." Agnes glared at Kaze. "Even Logan can't do anything to the What can you do? The Hansers are wealthy and powerful. afford to cross them." 'ib "Mom, you don't know what Kaze is capable of. So what if they money and power?" Sky said defiantly.

Chapter 330 | Want My Money Back

"Shut up, Sky!"

Agnes cut Sky off with a glare.

"I'm warning you, Kaze. Stop giving our family problems!"

Kaze was not in the position to refuse with Agnes narrowing her eyes at him. He nodded to get her off his case. "Alright, Agnes. | heard you loud and clear.” Agnes scoffed and got into the car.

Darcy was not so easily fooled. “Just listen to Mom, Kaze. Don’t go to the Hansers. I’ll try to figure something out and get a lawyer’s advice. Maybe the law will be on our side. We can make other plans if we can’t get the assets back.”

She did not carry much hope.

The Hansers were rich and powerful, so they would have a fine attorney who had covered all their bases in legality. Taking them to court would be time-consuming.

It might be a year or so before a verdict was out, and by then, the assets would be gone.

Kaze said, “Do you really want me to stay out of it, babe? The opening day of the Passion Fragrance District project is this afternoon. Don’t you want to stop them?”

Darcy glanced at her watch. The complex was set to go on sale this afternoon. Since it was now noon, they did not have much time left.

“How do you plan on stopping the Hansers?”

Han’s words at the reception came into Darcy’s mind. “Are you going to let Han arrest someone from the Hanser family? Bronik isn’t the key member of the family, so that won’t change anything.”

Acclue led Han to Bronik:

Although there was progress in the case, things had not come to Kaze’s expectations. It was not time to use that on the Hansers yet.

Still, Kaze had other ways.

Kaze said indifferently, "Of course not. I have other ways. Since the Hansers can't wait for the project to go into trading, I'll make sure business is not open for them."

The Hansers' birthday celebration at the Dynasty Hotel was a success.

Although the Quints' abrupt presence interrupted the celebration briefly, the party carried on unaffected. The worst the Quints could do was protest since the evidence was

The guests were not dummies to take their word for it.

The hosts and guests enjoyed a great time at the celebration.

Once all the guests were gone, Liam finally burst out laughing. "We have meticulously planned for six months, and today, we finally got what we wanted. Quintessential Group's assets belong to us now."

The Hanser family chuckled heartily.

Six months ago, the Hansers' secretly established the company, Quartet Group, and made a really bad investment. Not only was Quartet Group drained of funds, but the Hansers went broke too..

Being the facade of wealth and power, the Hansses were nothing but an empty shell, desperately clinging to appearances.

Deborah pursued Vincent at the time.

Vincent had no interest in Deborah as her family was not in the same social class as his.

Upon learning Deborah's feelings for Vincent, Liam overtook her.

Vincent defied the arrogance and pursued Deborah instead.

What happened next was history.

"Haha. We intended to take the complex from Quintessential Group, but the Quims were stupid enough to hand over the billion dollars in investment after Vincent fooled them. That's a surprise."

"You're the."

The Hansses showered Vincent with praises.

Vincent waved his arm, saying that the family owed it to Liam's guidance. However, he could not stop smiling.

Liam silenced everybody with the wave of his arm and said beamingly, "Alright. The opening of the Passion Fragrance District project is hours away. I'm sure the complex will be a huge hit in Lilyrose's real estate thanks to the Quims' efforts.

“I've decided to pour the two billion dollars from the Quints and our

Six months ago, the Hansers' secretly established the company, Quartet Group, and made a really bad investment. Not only was Quartet Group drained of funds, but the Hansers went broke too.

Behind the facade of wealth and power, the Hansers were nothing but an empty shell, desperately clinging to appearances.

Deborah pursued Vincent at the time.

Vincent had no interest in Deborah as her family was not in the same social circle as his.

Upon learning Deborah's feelings for Vincent, Liam plotted to take over Quintessential Group. Vincent dropped the arrogance and pursued Deborah instead.

What happened next was history.

“Haha. We only intended to take the complex from Quintessential Group, but the Quints were stupid enough to hand over the two billion dollars in investment after Vincent fooled them. That's a pleasant surprise.”

“You're the biggest savior, Vincent.” The Hansers showered Vincent with praises. Vincent waved his arm, saying that the family owed it to Liam's guidance. However, he could not stop smiling.

Liam silenced everybody with the wave of his arm and said beamingly, "Alright. The opening of the Passion Fragrance District project is hours away. I'm sure the complex will be a huge hit in Lilyrose's real estate thanks to the Quints' efforts.

"I've decided to pour the two billion dollars from the Quints and our last few hundred million dollars into the project. The launch of the project might put us in the same ranks as the top three families."

The Hansers were gushing with excitement.

Wham!

The door to the event hall burst open.

A few distinguished guests from the earlier birthday celebration. returned.

They were joined by a handful of new but important faces.

The person leading the group was the head of the Vikrom family- Bernard Vikrom.

"Liam, I want my money back!"